Surgery Only Means to Remove Gall Stones

There has never been any method devised which will dissolve gall stones, it is stated by Dr. Hagar Hethrington, prominent Toronto gastroenterologist, in an article in the "Diseases of Middle Age" section of Health, official magazine of the Health League of Canada.

"People have been misled for years with regard to this fact," Dr. Hethrington writes. "It cannot be stressed enough that the only way to dispose of gall stones is to remove them surgically."

The writer states that a patient with chronic inflammation of the gall bladder, with stones, who has had his gall bladder removed can be fairly sure of having the rest of his life free from indigestion caused by the gall bladder condition. He says, however, that "unfortunately the same good results are not always assured when a diseased gall bladder without stones is removed."

For that reason, he writes, medical management of patients with chronic cholecystitis (inflammation of the bladder) where no stones are present is preferable. The treatment of the disease is not easy. Dr. Hethrington states that there are differences of opinion amongst physicians of experience as to the proper dietary regimes that should be followed, and the places which fats, cathartics and various cholagogues (bile medicines) play in the relief of this condition.

"Since most patients with chronic gall bladder disease are overweight a diet low in carbohydrates and fats will benefit the patient by reducing both the weight and the degree of dyspepsia," he writes. "There the uniformity of treatment ends. Each patient must be considered a particular problem. There is no doubt, however, that properly handled, the gall bladder sufferer can obtain a large measure of relief."

Dr. Hethrington says of the gall bladder—the function of which is to supply bile to the intestine when it is required for digestion—"that it is an organ inoffensive in childhood and youth but produces symptoms of wide variety amongst the middle aged." Its victims are found mostly among women who have had one or more children.

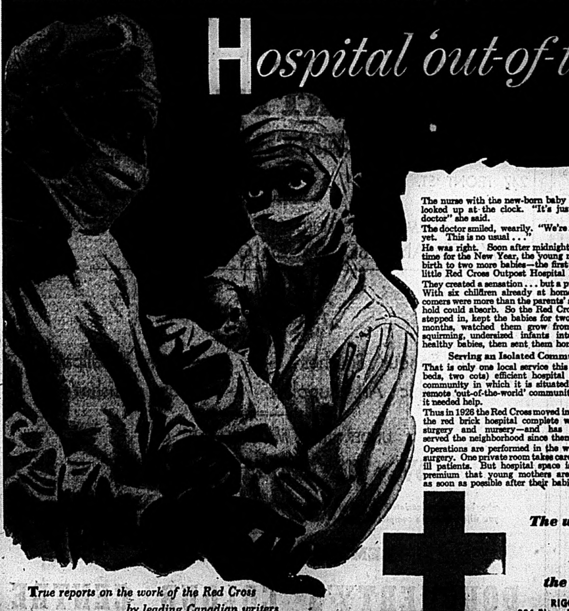
Hospital 'out-of-the-world'



by Kate Aitken

The nurse with the new-born baby in her arms looked up at the clock. "It's just midnight, doctor" she said.

He was right. Soon after midnight and just in time for the New Year, the young matron gave birth to two more babies—the first triplets the little Red Cross Outpost Hospital had seen.

They created a sensation . . . but a problem also. With six children already at home, the newcomers were more than the parents' small household could absorb. So the Red Cross Hospital stepped in, kept the babies for two and a half months, watched them grow from red-faced, squirming, undersized infants into adorable, healthy babies, then sent them home.

Serving an Isolated Community

That is only one local service this small (nine beds, two cots) efficient hospital renders the community in which it is situated. This is a remote 'out-of-the-world' community. Isolated it needed help.

Thus in 1926 the Red Cross moved in, established the red brick hospital complete with a small surgery and nursery—and has consistently served the neighborhood since then.

Operations are performed in the well-equipped surgery. One private room takes care of seriously ill patients. But hospital space is at such a premium that young mothers are discharged as soon as possible after their babies are born.

However, the cornerstone of a new 20-bed hospital has been laid. Red Cross officials look forward to moving into the new quarters late next summer. The increased space will permit better service to be given to the district. It will also allow more aid to neighboring Red Cross Outposts, 45 and 26 miles distant respectively.

In the meantime the busy life of the hospital goes on. The superintendent and a staff of two nurses and one nurse's aid are on the go from morning till night. Their staff consists of a cook, an orderly and a helper. Living above the hospital, the nurses are on call all the time.

"Night Flights"

So, too, is the orderly. It is nothing unusual for him to be wakened at midnight with an urgent summons: "John, go get the doctor fast!" The small town (900) has no night telephone service, so the orderly acts as doctor's messenger as well. And John says: "All the babies seem to prefer night flights."

This hospital is just another in a chain of Red Cross Outpost Hospitals spaced across the country and giving service to its neighborhood. Going into remote districts where civilian hospitals are unknown, these Red Cross hospitals are of untold value to their localities.

Red Cross Services include: Blood Transfusion, Outpost Hospitals, Aid to Sick and Disabled Veterans, Treatment for Crippled Children, Disaster Relief, Nutrition Services, Home Nursing Courses, Swimming and Water Safety, etc.

Wounded, Maimed Veterans Urge Pension Increase

Ottawa, March 17 (CP) — Wounded and maimed veterans of both World Wars appealed yesterday to the Commons' Veterans Committee for pension increases to meet higher living costs.

Government legislation now under committee study would boost from $75 to $87 a month the rate for a totally disabled, single pensioner. The Canadian Legion asked $90, the National Council of Veterans Associations $100. Both organizations urged proportionate increases for widows, wives and dependents.

The National Council's Managing Director, Col. E. A. Baker of Toronto, said a "sense of bitter injustice" might grow from disabled veterans' dissatisfaction over existing rates.

Maj.-Gen. C. B. Price of Montreal, Legion President, said his organization sees little likelihood of living costs being decreased for at least five years.

A special appeal was made by John Counsell of Toronto for paraplegics, persons paralyzed from the hips down. Speaking for the Canadian Paraplegic Association, the wounded Dieppe veteran said "the request for an increase in helplessness allowance is of first importance to the most seriously disabled of war casualties."

The National Council's request for a helplessness allowance of $1,200 a year—$200 less than the Legion asked—was a minimum figure. The present allowance — from $250 to $750—was "completely inadequate."

Police Still Seek Taximan's Slayer At Pembroke

Pembroke, Ont., March 17 (CP) —Townspeople were reported becoming restless today as Ontario Provincial Police still sought the slayer of James Edwards, 26-year-old taxi driver, found dead Sunday in his cab on a lonely road 16 miles east of here. He had been shot through the right temple.

Although police have launched a widespread search and have questioned numerous persons, residents remembered the still unsolved death of another taxi driver in Pembroke.

In January, 1945, 17-year-old Arthur Seelinger was slugged with a 22-inch length of iron pipe on the axe factory road, southeast of Pembroke and died in hospital without being able to disclose the name of his assailant.

Among those questioned yesterday was an unidentified man who, according to police, owed Edwards $1,000. A resident of the district, he was reported detained by police who declined to say whether any charge had been placed against him.

Although word of Edwards' death quickly spread from house to house, it was successfully kept from his young widow for eight hours.

Edwards was found by a fellow cab driver, drawn to the motionless cab when he believed mechanical trouble had stalled his buddy on the lonely road.

Some of the townspeople's complaints centred on the reported slowness of the police. Inspector T. W. Cousans, of Perth, Ont., did not arrive until six hours after the body was discovered and the body itself was not removed until two hours later. Yesterday, Inspector Cousans was joined by Inspector Robert Wannel of the Criminal Investigation Department.

'Swift and Tragic' Result if U.S. Stops Greek Aid

Washington, March 16. (AP)—State Secretary George Marshall told the United States Senate Foreign Relations Committee today that if the United States stops aid to Greece the consequences will be "swift and tragic". He testified for two hours before the committee on the administration's request for $275,000,000 additional military aid for Greece and Turkey.

Marshall said what he had to tell the Senators behind closed doors.

But after the session the committee released a statement he had given it.

In it, Marshall said that "serious as it is, the Greek situation is not without hope."

But he warned:

"The danger remains that the Communist-dominated countries of Europe will increase their pressure on Greece just as they have in other directions in Europe. It is the boast of the totalitarian leaders that democracies are incapable of timely and decisive action.

"Should we fail to continue our efforts, the consequences would be swift and tragic and they would not be confined to Greece."

Open Recruiting For 13,000 Cops In British Isles

London, March 17 (CP) — In an effort to find 13,000 policemen nedded to keep crime under control in Britain in 1948, the Home Office and Scotland Yard will open their biggest recruiting drive in April.

Details of the campaign are being worked out at Scotland Yard. Officials say the pay and housing situation is the chief reason why previous recruiting drives have failed.

Latest figures show that the Metropolitan Police have 14,703 men to cover their vast area — biggest in Britain — comprising 23 divisions. They want nearly 20,000 to patrol 442,800 acres and protect a population of 7,872,599.

Salonika, Greece, March 17 — (AP) — Police said today they have smashed a guerrilla underground recruiting station and quartermaster depot worth nearly $200,000.

They said 47 persons were arrested, including eight women. The organization was equipped with busses, trucks, motordriven caiques (small boats), machine shops, and small shoe factories which operated throughout Northern Greece.

Records disclosed more than 160,000,000 drachmas ($32,000), had been collected recently from communists. Assets listed included 500 gold sovereigns ($2,300) from the sale of silk smuggled in from Albania.

Bruins Claw Rangers by 6-2 Score to Retain Third Place In N.H.L. Playoff Battle

New York, March 17—Boston Bruins tightened their hold on third place in the National Hockey League last night, drubbing New York Rangers 6-2, before 15,111 fans in Madison Square Garden.

Victory gave Bruins a three-point lead over the injury hampered Rangers, who are in fourth place. Each team has two games to play before the schedule closes Sunday.

Rangers need one point to make sure of a playoff berth. Montreal Canadiens have a mathematical chance of ousting them.

Veteran Milt Schmidt led the Boston attack. After a scoreless first period, Schmidt picked up a goal and an assist in the second period when Boston piled up a 4-0 lead. Goals also were tallied by Jimmy Peters, who opened the scoring on Schmidt's pass. Pat Egan and Jimmy Peirson.

Only two penalties were handed out in the hard-fought game — both to Boston in the third period. Pete Babando sandwiched a goal between markers by Don Raleigh and Bryan Hextall of Rangers.

Ken Smith, who had assisted on Peirson's third-period goal in a neatly engineered play which included Paul Ronty, finished off the scoring with less than two minutes to play, Jim Henry, who was caught largely on open shots, made 18 saves compared to 17 by Frank Brimsek of Bruins.

Frank Eddolls suffered torn left leg ligaments in the third period and officials said he would not travel with Rangers to Chicago tomorrow.

Chances are you don't. Just listen to what Tony (Winnipeg Tribune) Allan said in a recent column:

"The average fan would be deeply offended if anyone told him he doesn't know how to watch a hockey game," says Allan who watches his share of hockey games. "However, it's not far from the truth."

"Look around sometime when the rink is about half full," Allan continues. "Most of the crowd will be grouped 'front and centre,' while only a discerning few will be sitting where they get a proper perspective.

Get Rear View

"Lots of people, who have been going to hockey games for years still have the idea that a good seat is one at centre ice, where nothing of importance takes place — but they can't see what happens around the nets, and they watch every scoring play from behind."

In the days of the three-man rushes, there was something to see at centre ice, Allan claimed. But, he said, those days are gone forever. With the present vogue for pressure hockey, the game is played almost entirely inside the bluelines. One team shoots the puck into the corner, then attempts to bottle up its opponents behind the blue line, and vice versa. Any mid-ice skirmishing is purely coincidental.

Experts Get Behind Nets

Accordingly the regulars who turn up for every game no matter what teams are playing, the scouts, and any idle hockey players in the house — you'll find most of them squatting behind the screens at either end. They like to see the plays coming at them, and to get a close-up of those goal-mouth scrambles.

Of course, Allan admits that when you're sitting behind the screen, or in one of the corners, there'll be the odd game in which all the goals are scored at the far end. But, he said, over a season's play you'll get your fair share of action.

What Price All-Stars

Sports' editor Maurice (Winnipeg Free Press) Smith recently came in for some ribbing. On one sports' page the Free Press named five Winnipeg Canadiens' players to its Winnipeg Juvenile all-star hockey team. The sixth player came from the Winnipeg Orioles.

On the opposite page, an account was given of the juvenile playoffs. Winnipeg Blackhawks (with no all-stars) downed the talented Canadiens two games to one to cop the championship — no respect for all-stars?

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

BY GEORGE H. CARVER, Sports Editor.

Trenton RCAF Flyers take off on the playdown trail tonight here against the Markham Millionaires, one of the better Intermediate "A" teams in this part of the district. Markham defeated the Collingwood Shipbuilders in their last playdown round in two straight games, and tonight's tussle should see two well-balanced squads in action. The series is a best-of-three affair.

Flyers came through last Friday night with a sparkling win over the Trenton Hockey Club to win the group title after one of the most "excitingest" "A" series seen here in some time. The air lads' better balance stood them in good stead in that gruelling fifth - game struggle after the Trenton team had defeated them in two straight games to even the series. It was a nip-and-tuck battle all through, with the Flyers finishing with enough left to cop the nod.

But they will meet stern foemen in their initial clash in Memorial Arena tonight with the lads who wear the capitalistic monikers. These "Millionaires" are said to be some punkins in hockey circles up around their neck of the woods, and if the Flyers are "hot" it should be quite a brawl. As is usually the case in playdown rounds, the two teams were given very brief notice of the dates of the series, the word only coming through yesterday morning. Official word, that is.

Stirling's Midget "C" team has the goal in sight . . . Just two or perhaps three games away looms the Ontario championship, and if the Ross Hermiston youngsters get the gonfalon, no worthier champions ever drew on a skate or slashed home a hockey goal.

They meet the crack Port Dalhousie Midgets in Memorial Arena here on Friday night in the first game of the provincial title series. And the test should be a severe one for teams that reach the top slot of any championship series should not be sold short. They have plenty of ability and what it takes to win titles or they would not be where they are.

The sturdy Stirling villagers are justifiably proud of their youthful stars, and it's quite likely Reeve Wells and his cohorts will move the entire village here on Friday to root their youngsters home to victory. They are a smart courageous little team, which has yet to taste defeat in schedule or playdown competition. They can score goals, and they have compiled a record during the current season that is an enviable one to say the least.

Hastings County should be well proud of the achievements of its hockey youngsters this year. The Trenton juveniles, Belleville Merchants Midgets and the Stirling team annexed Eastern Ontario championships with the Merchants Midgets going to the Ontario finals in their grouping, and the Stirling kidlets with a provincial title within their grasp.

And although they just missed an Ontario title, the Belleville Merchants Midgets team and management deserve a flock of hockey orchids. Gathered together before the turn of the year, the youngsters, who never played together before, were welded into a clever hockey whole that brought credit to themselves, their sponsors, and their native city. They won their group, and defeated their city rivals, the Inter - Service Midgets, Trenton, Brockville and Peterborough before going down to defeat at the hands of the Waterloo Sparks in the titular series.

And their efforts would not have been possible if it had not been for the wholehearted support of merchants of this city, and the team executive under President Newton Wilbur. With Coach Cy. Barriage, Manager Bob Strahan, and directors, — Frank "Duke" Smith, Bill Lindsay, the Ragsdales, and others, not forgetting the portly trainer "Tiny" Cormier, who administered to the achts, pains and wants of the kids, doing a grand job in the background, the youngsters held high the hockey banner of this city wherever they went.

According to information received from Gananoque late yesterday, the starry junior 'C' squad of that town will possibly get a bye into the Ontario finals. As matters stand at the present, Thorold and Weston are playing off with Aurora and Midland doing likewise and the Goderich team drawing a bye. If Aurora defeats Midland, the Gans hook up with them, but if Midland wins, Goderich will take that team on, and then the winners of the Thorold - Weston series. The ultimate winners of this series, our Gananoque informant has it, will battle the Gans in the finals.

Canada's Olympic Hockey champions, the R.C.A.F. Flyers will return to Ottawa April 6, it was announced today.

Arriving in New York aboard the Queen Mary April 5, they will travel to Montreal and arrive in the capital at 12:40 p.m. the following day, to be greeted by government, civic and service officials.

Watertown's off-again, on-again park situation has halted completion of the Border Baseball League 1948 schedule. Although all but one or two clubs have notified the league of their views of the initial schedule draft, work cannot proceed until settlement of the Watertown problem.

As soon as operaters of the Athletics can decide where the the club will play its home games, work may be started on a second draft of the schedule. If it is necessary for the A's to move to Cortland or some other city, schedule plans must be completely revised.

Latest move by the Watertown city council and Mayor Henry Hudson is a referendum slated for March 26. City officials plan to ask voters once more if they want to go through with the war memorial stadium on Eastern Boulevard or if they want to establish the memorial at the fairgrounds.

With only one vacancy remaining on the staff, signing of five Border League umpires for the 1948 season was announced today by Ogdensburg's John G. Ward, league president.

Those under contract are Frank E. Parks, Massena, N.Y.; Albert Rogarl, Archbald, Pa.; Abe Solomon, Geneva N.Y.; James Donahue, Belmont, Massachusetts, and John McBride, also of Belmont.

CAHA Life Member Declares Body is "Minor Pro"; Would Dispense With Amateur Cups

Montreal, March 17. (CP)—In a move outstripping the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association's acknowledgment of professionalism within its ranks, a life member of that governing body today recommended retirement of the Allan and Memorial Cups and eradication of "amateur" from the organization's name.

William Northey, former trustee of the Allan Cup, further suggested "two entirely new trophies as championship awards for what is now to become minor professional hockey."

The two present amateur trophies would be handed over to the international hockey hall of fame at Kingston, Ont., "for perpetual enshrinement".

Northey's recommendations were contained in a letter to A. W. Pickard of Regina, president of the CAHA. A copy went to Azarie Choquet, president of the Quebec Amateur Hockey Association, who immediately began preparation of further copies for clubs within his branch.

It was believed here other CAHA branches across Canada would be asked by President Pickard to consider Northey's recommendations.

Northey wrote that his move was prompted by the CAHA's appointment, at its semi-annual meeting in Regina last January, of a committee to consider a form of contract between clubs and players.

Under this system, wrote Northey, "players contract their services to the clubs for a cash consideration, with the clubs having the right to buy, sell or trade these contracts at will."

"The donors of the Allan and Memorial Cups certainly never intended that their cups should ever be competed for by any but amateurs.

"In the case of the Allan Cup, for instance, when I approached Sir Montagu Allan to donate cup emblematic of the senior amateur hockey championship of Canada, I did so because of the fact that the Stanley Cup, which had been donated as an amateur trophy, had become instead a professional trophy. Sir Montagu would never have donated a cup for anything but amateur sport, and I am sure that the late John Ross Robertson would not have either.

"To use the Allan and Memorial Cups as championship awards for competition between clubs of paid players under contract, the association would be lacking in both appreciation and respect for those two gentlemen who by their donations made senior and junior hockey what it is to Canadians."

In putting players under contract, Northey said also the question of federal and provincial amusement taxes applying to profit-making sport organizations would have to be taken into consideration.

In approving a "voluntary contract system," it set a limit of 10 signed players to each club. Contracts would run for a full season after the season in which they were signed. All player deals would be completed by Jan. 1. CAHA contracts would be subject to national hockey league contracts because of the master agreement between the two bodies. Junior players would become free agents on reaching over-age status.

"Although Northey made no recommendations as to a control arrangement for low-classification or small-town clubs operating obviously as amateur, it was believed the major structure under his proposed setup would follow the lines of organized baseball.

Northey is a director of the Canadian Arena Company, home of Montreal Canadiens of the NHL, and a director of the club.

The Allan Cup, emblematic of the senior amateur championship of Canada, was first competed for in 1908 and won by Ottawa Cliffsides. Present holders are Montreal Royals, already eliminated from this season's playoffs. The Allan Cup replaced the Stanley Cup, donated in 1893 by Lord Stanley, then Governor-General of Canada, and the Stanley Cup was transferred to professional competition.

The Memorial Cup first went up for junior competition in 1919, largely through the efforts of the late John Ross Robertson of Toronto, who was president of the Ontario Hockey Association in 1918. The first winners were Toronto University Schools; the 1947 winners were St. Michael's College of Toronto.

72 Year-Old Player Heads Family Team

Bradford, March 17 — A 72-year-old man played on defence as three generations of the Collings family participated in a hockey match against Bradford Merchants here. The Merchants won the game, 8-6, avenging a 5-2 lacing they had taken earlier in the season from the Collings family.

Although 72, Ben Collings stood guard over his son, Norm (Dodger) Collings, former amateur and pro player, who retired to a goal-keeping job. Norm's 12-year-old son, Tommy (Onions) Collings, also took part in the game, completing a family circle of three generations.

Rounding out the family circle were Roy Collings, Bruce, Irwin and Keith, four brothers, and nephews of Ben Collings. To complete the squad, Fred Collings acted as spare.

Flyers Win Another

Stockholm, March 16 — Canada's RCAF Olympic hockey champions shut out the championship Swedish team, Hammarby 3-0 last night. It was the last of the Flyers' five-game series in Sweden. Flyers tallied twice in the middle stanza and once again in the final period.

Aged Recluse Leaves Brother in Canada

Pickering, Yorkshire, England, March 16 (CP)—The brother whose departure for Canada is believed to have in part caused the withdrawal from ordinary life of aged recluse Hilda Kendall lives at Bala, Ont., relatives said today.

Miss Kendall, who lived 30 years in a century-old manor house with only a sheep dog as a companion, was buried here yesterday near the 20-room Sinnington Manor where she had been in seclusion.

Death last week of the 74-year-old Miss Kendall was attributed to heart failure following the death of her dog.

Marmora Takes Bloomfield 7-3 In Protest Game

Marmora, Trent Valley Hockey League champions, defeated the Bloomfield Sky Chiefs, Prince Edward County titlists 7-3 in the first game of their goals-to-count first-round Intermediate "C" series in Madoc Arena last night. The second game is scheduled for the Wellington Arena on Thursday (tomorrow) night.

The Bloomfield management notified game officials that the contest was played under protest, charging that the Marmora team used ineligible players.

The Marmora team grabbed a 3-0 lead in the first period and were never headed. Paced by the fine offensive play of the Leonard brothers, Cousins and K. Trumble, the homesters added another in the second period and three more in the third. Sky Chiefs scored a lone goal in the second and two more in the last session.

A fair crowd witnessed the game, due, it was said, to the short notice given the teams regarding the series.

Training Camp Notes

Sarasota, Fla, March 17—Ted Williams appeared in mid-season slugging form today as he drove in four runs with two doubles and a single to lead Boston Red Sox to a 5-2 victory over Philadelphia Phillies.

Lefty Mickey Harris, making his first start of the training season, opened on the mound for the Bosox and allowed three hits and two runs in the first three innings. Dave Ferriss followed Harris and held the Phillies at bay with only two hits. Rookie Al Toolson, up from Louisville pitched the final three innings for Boston.

Bradenton, Fla., March 16—Second Baseman Eddie Stanky of the Boston Braves, who arrived last night from the Dominican Republic, left today for Tampa where he will undergo a physical check-up by Dr. J. Anderson Williams, a lung specialist.

Stanky, recently recovered from an attack of pneumonia, will have his lungs X-rayed and receive therapy treatment from Dr. Williams.

Manager Billy Southworth, who contracted a fever last night and was unable to greet Stanky upon his arrival from the Brooklyn Dodgers' camp, was ordered to remain in bed for another day.

Tampa, Fla., March 17—Scoring six runs in the third inning, Cincinnati Reds banged out 16 hits to trample Washington Senators today 9-2.

Cincinnati scored all its runs off the slants of veteran Senator hurler Early Wynn. Two rookies, Howie Fox and Kent Peterson, pitched effectively for the Reds.

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 17—St. Louis Cardinals, who were shut out by the New York Yankees in their first two meetings, exploded for 13 hits today and buried the world champions, 4-1.

It was the first setback for the Yankees in eight exhibition tilts.

Veteran Spud Chandler, making his first 1948 start, was charged with the loss. Chandler, who suffered from an arm injury last season, was rapped for six hits.

San Bernadino, Cal., March 17—Bunching their ten hits off Bryan Stephens and Fred Sanford, Chicago White Sox defeated St. Louis Browns 6-3, in an exhibition game today that was witnessed by baseball commissioner A. B. Chandler.

Hollywood, March 17—Home runs by Jack Lohrke and Bob Thomson off Kirby Higbe in the fifth inning today produced four runs for New York Giants, to give them a 5-2 victory over Pittsburgh Pirates in the first game of their spring series.

Bob Chesnes, sensational rookie from San Francisco, made his Pirate debut and held the Giants to one run and two hits in three innings.

Ciudad Trujillo, D. R., March 17—Hugh Casey and Rex Barney were pitching standouts today as Brooklyn Dodgers swamped their Montreal Royals 13-4, for their sixth straight exhibition victory.

Catcher Gil Hodges hit a homer for the Dodgers, and Jackie Robinson made two singles in four trips.

Alaska Highway Open to Tourists But There Are Some Rough Spots

Washington, D.C., March 17—This will be the first Summer in which tourists may go rolling up the Alaska Highway to Fairbanks without red tape, as they please. Addition [illegible] service stations, and camp grounds with sheltered cook stoves and picnic tables have enabled Canada to abandon the permit system that was in force for the route, [illegible] the National Geographic Society.

In accordance with prior agreements the Dominion Government in April, 1946, took control of the Canadian part of the route along with airfields, telephone lines and other war-built facilities.

Since, Royal Canadian [illegible] with civilian aid, have kept the Northwest Highway open the year around. Snowplows push away Winter snows as fast as they fall. Tourists were banned throughout 1946, however, because service stops were few. Even in 1947 there were 100-mile stretches without roadside service of any sort. But tourists, applying well in advance and carrying specified extra gasoline, tools, parts, tires and food rations, could obtain permits to make the trip. In July, 1947, about 600 crossed the Alaskan border.

Grades are gentle. Maximum altitude, near Summit Lake, in the Rockies, is only 4,212 feet [illegible] to 100 degrees.

But pleasure [illegible] are warned not to expect ideal motoring conditions. Corduroy, gravel, and heavy dust stretches, [illegible] far from pleasant, can make [illegible] havoc with tires and motors, and cut down daily mileage averages. Mosquitoes and [illegible] flies are abundant in Summer.

Canadians now call this pioneer route the Northwest Highway. It is known also as the Alcan, the Alaska-Canada, the International Highway, and the Road.

It was constructed in seven months of 1942 to supply airfields along the war-urgent flying route from the United States to Alaska. Some 10,000 United States Army engineers and 6,000 United States and Canadian civilian workers built it at the average rate of eight miles a day.

Starting at the end of the road at the railhead village of Dawson Creek, 450 [illegible] miles [illegible] of Edmonton, Alta., [illegible] crosses the [illegible] River, farmland plains, plunges through long [illegible] forest [illegible] crosses four of Canada's chief mountain ranges, bridges 200 streams in its 1,200 Canadian and 300 Alaskan miles to Fairbanks.

Will Inquire Into Effect Of Butter Hoarding

By JOHN LeBLANC
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, March 17—(CP)—Growing indications were evident today that the Commons' Prices Committee plans to dig into the effect of hoarding in pushing butter prices upward.

Another element due for further investigation, it appeared, was the Montreal Commodity Exchange and its relation to upward price movements.

Committee counsel Fabio Monet suggested that butter speculators could drive up prices in times of shortage and that the possibility of "abuses" existed in the exchange's operations.

J. F. Singleton, Dominion dairy commissioner, agreed with him on both counts, though he said the exchange had "useful" functions.

The Commissioner said its useful aspects included those of bringing buyer and seller together and of enabling country creameries to buy butter futures against winter requirements.

Mr. Monet indicated he would be calling further witnesses to tell of activities of the exchange.

Evidence that butter is withheld from the market to drive up prices came during the testimony of John S. Turnbull, general manager of the Saskatchewan Co-operative Creamery Association Ltd.

Mr. Turnbull said his organization had held butter off the market in June, July and August of last year "in the hope of working prices up" because it feared current prices were not enough to maintain production. It sold when prices went up five cents a pound in August.

The general manager said he doubted whether as much as 500,000 pounds had been held off the market by the Association.

Colorful "King's Keys" Ceremony Dates Back to William the Conqueror

By SHAUN McQUILLAN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, March 17—(CP)—London's annual Royal Tournament [illegible] of the three services at Olympia will have another attraction this year—enactment in public for the first time of the colorful "King's Keys" ceremony.

It is probably one of the most curious customs observed within the Tower of London's gray walls, but nobody seems to know exactly how and when it began.

The earliest record is in the 14th-Century reign of Edward III when a John of London performed the ceremony, but the custom probably was routine centuries before that—perhaps as far back as William the Conqueror, who built the Tower in the 11th century.

Shortly before 10 o'clock at night the chief warder goes to the guardroom, dressed in a long red cloak and Tudor bonnet and lights a tallow candle lantern. Picking up the keys of the wicket gate and the Byward Tower, he walks to the main guard and calls for an escort for the keys.

Bolts Shoot Home

First the wicket through which visitors enter the tower is locked [illegible] the escort and keys [illegible] their steps to the [illegible] of the outer ward where a great clanging of metal can be heard as the ancient bolts are [illegible] home.

The only interruption is when the party approaches the dark arch of the Bloody Tower. The sentry there lowers his bayonet and challenges:

"Halt! Who comes there?"

"The keys," cries the chief warder.

"Whose keys?"

"King George's keys," replies the chief warder.

"Whose keys?"

"King George's keys," [illegible] the chief warder.

"Pass, King George's keys," [illegible] the sentry, and the escort passes up the slight rise of ground under the Bloody Tower towards the guard-room where the main guard is drawn up. The guard presents arms, the warder steps forward with his lantern, lifts his bonnet and cries: "God preserve King George," and the guard, from officer to drummer boy, answers: "Amen."

Once Interrupted

Only once in the ceremony's ancient past has it been known to be interrupted. During an air raid in April, 1941, the guard was knocked over by a bomb blast while marching across a courtyard, but nobody was injured and the ceremony proceeded.

The Royal tournament is an annual display at which famous scenes from British history are vividly enacted.

We were starting to eat supper [illegible] being [illegible] and [illegible] honor, [illegible] ma said, Really, Willyum, I mean really, I never had sutch a day, I don't know how I ever found time to prepare this supper.

Ah yes, good old Nora, she was dependable, pop said. We could count on her to put on her little act every time I was 15 minutes late for a meal, smacking down the dishes and talking to herself. It was a great show. When it came to keeping us [illegible] on the edge of our chairs, a famous [illegible] like Boris Karloff couldn't [illegible] done better, he said, and ma said, She did have an obsession about getting her work done on time, that's true. But at least when she was here I could have guests for dinner without being afraid I'd [illegible] flat on my face from total exhaustion just as I opened the door to let them in, she said.

Yes, Nora loved guests, nothing was too good for them, pop said. I'll never forget the time you invited 3 people for dinner with only one day's notice and Nora [illegible] asked you if you'd gone crazy, so we took them to the [illegible] roof and the bill came to 19 dollers. We've enjoyed many a good natured laugh over that, he said.

Being the end of the subject on account of ma not thinking of any good answer.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

It is all very well to plan a squeeze play. But it does you no good unless you find a victim to squeeze. There must be blood in a turnip before you can get any corpuscles out of it.

Before a squeeze is possible, what are the first three items you must find in your pair of hands? Two promotion cards, ten reduction cards, and an entry to the hand opposite the squeezer.

Your two promotion cards are seeming losers, one of which may become a winner. Your ten reduction cards must be played before the squeeze. You must be able to enter your opposite hand thereafter.

When you find all three of these quqalities, are you sure your squeeze will work? No. Not unless you have a squeezee; a victim that can be squeezed. You must have a victim to squeeze.

When can a victim be squeezed? When he is protecting two suits. Providing at the same time he is without surplus cards. He must be peeled to the bare necessity of protecting the two suits.

And that is not all. A card (the squeeze card) must be led to force the victim to unguard one of his suits. This must be done before your opposite hand must give up a promotion card.

Keep operating on the cards in this deal:

NORTH
♠8 7 6 4
♥A K 9
♣8 6 4 2

WEST	EAST
♠10 3 2	♠None
♥Q J 10 8 5	♥7 6
♦A Q J 6 4	♦10 9 8 7 5 2
♣None	♣10 9 7 5 3

SOUTH
♥4 3 2
♦None
♣A K Q J

South is in seven spades. West leads heart queen. North has heart nine and diamond king as two promoters. Ten reducers can be played before the squeeze is ready; heart king, five trumps, four clubs. North has heart ace for an entry.

If west has heart jack-ten and diamond ace, he must protect both red suits. When south leads the 13th trump, west must unguard a red suit before dummy gives up one of his promoters.

West is thus squeezed. He is the squeezee; victim to be squeezed. He is caught in a pincers movement by combined operations.

Shortage of Farm Labor Still Acute

Toronto, March 17 — (CP) — Farm labor, in short supply, is expected to be in great demand on Ontario farms this spring and summer, the weekly crop report issued by the Ontario Department of Agriculture showed today.

Experienced, single men will be required in Western and Eastern Ontario while Wentworth county in Southern Ontario reports a possibility of an acute labor shortage. In Leeds county more farm labor has been placed during the last four or five months than during the same period of the last few years.

Orders for spring chicks have been greatly reduced in most counties, with Oxford county reporting a short supply of hatching eggs.

Tapping of maple trees is expected to begin shortly.

Alaska Highway Open to Tourists But There Are Some Rough Spots

Washington, D.C., March 17—This will be the first Summer in which tourists may go rolling up the Alaska Highway to Fairbanks as they please, without red tape.

Addition of road patrols, service stations, and camp grounds with sheltered cook stoves and picnic tables has enabled Canada to abandon the permit system that was in force for the route last year, notes the National Geographic Society.

In accordance with prior agreements, the Dominion Government in April, 1946, took control of the Canadian part of the route along with airfields, telephone lines and other war-built facilities.

Since, Royal Canadian Engineers with civilian aid have kept their Northwest Highway open the year around. Snowplows push away Winter snows as fast as they fall. Tourists were banned throughout 1946, however, because service stops were few.

Even in 1947 there were 100-mile stretches without roadside service of any sort. But tourists, applying well in advance and carrying specified extra gasoline, tools, parts, tires and food rations, could obtain permits to make the run. In July, 1947, about 600 cars crossed the Alaskan border.

Grades are gentle. Maximum altitude, near Summit Lake in the Rockies ,is only 4,212 feet. the Rockies, is only 4,212 feet to 100 degrees.

But pleasure jaunters are warned not to expect ideal motoring conditions. Corduroy stretches, gravel, and heavy dust can make riding far from pleasant, can play havoc with tires and motors, and cut down daily mileage average. Mosquitoes and deer flies are abundant in Summer.

Canadians now call this pioneer artery the Northwest Highway. It is known also as the Alcan, the Alaska-Canada, the International Highway, and the Road.

It was constructed in seven months of 1942 to supply airfields on the war-urgent flying route from the United States to Alaska. Some 10,000 United States Army engineers and 6,000 United States and Canadian civilians workers laid it at the average rate of eight miles a day.

Southern end of the road is at the railhead village of Dawson Creek ,450 twisting miles northwest of Edmonton, Alta.

The gravel roadway crosses the Peace River farming plains, plunges through long stretches of rugged forest land, crosses or skirts four of Canada's chief mountain ranges, and bridges 200 streams in its 1,220 Canadian and 300 Alaskan miles to Fairbanks.

Badminton Club Defeats Picton In Tournament

Members of the Belleville Garrison Badminton Club made a clean sweep of their series of matches in the return Invitation Tournament, with the Picton Badminton Club in the Armouries here this week,

Defeated by the guest players in the first tournament held in Picton a short time ago, the Garrison Club members swept thru to victories in all three phases of the tournament. They won the Ladies' Doubles by a score of 4-1; the Men's Doubles, 3-1 and the Mixed Doubles, 7-3.

About forty members of the Garrison Club took part in the tournament. The club was host to the playing guests following the play with social amenities featuring the refreshment hour.

Club officials announced today that the crack Bowmanville Badminton Club will be guests of the Garrison Club here on April 5th.

Reputed to be one of the strongest aggregations of players in Eastern Ontario, the visitors boast a men's doubles team of Messrs. Orsborne and Brough who have won the Eastern Ontario title on a number of occasions.

Only Autonomous Trade Unions Permitted in PEI

(By The Canadian Press)

Charlottetown, P. E. I., March 17 — (CP) — Legislation to permit only autonomous trade unions in Prince Edward Island was approved yesterday by that province's legislature.

The measure, said to be intended to keep out communists, bans affiliation with any national or international labor organization. It prohibits closed-shop contracts and provides for arbitration before a strike can be called. A $100 fine is provided for infractions of the Act.

Dr. D. L. Mathieson (PC—5th. Queens), leading the opposition attack on the bill, said the legislation would deprive the working man of his rights to organize and was "the first step of a police state."

AT THE BELLE — Dinah Shore heard in three hit songs and narration in Walt Disney's "Fun and Fancy Free," in color by Technicolor, featuring Edgar Bergen, Charlie McCarthy and Mortimer Snerd. Closing at the Belle tonight. The second feature is R.C.M.P. File 1365, "The Connor's Case."

Will Inquire Into Effect Of Butter Hoarding

By JOHN LeBLANC
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, March 17 — (CP) — Growing indications were evident today that the Commons Price Committee plans to dig into the effect of hoarding in pushing butter prices upward.

Another element due for further investigation, it appeared, was the Montreal Commodity Exchange and its relation to upward price movements.

Committee counsel Fabio Monet suggested that butter speculators could drive up prices in times of shortage and that the possibility of "abuse" existed in the exchange's operations.

J. F. Singleton, Dominion dairy commissioner, agreed with him on both counts, though he said the exchange had "useful" functions.

The Commissioner said its useful aspects included those of bringing buyer and seller together and of enabling country creameries to buy butter futures against winter requirements.

Mr. Monet indicated he would be calling further witnesses to tell of activities of the exchange.

Evidence that butter is withheld from the market to drive up prices came during the testimony of John S. Turnbull, general manager of the Saskatchewan Co-operative Creamery Association, Ltd.

Mr. Turnbull said his organization had held butter off the market in June, July and August of last year "in the hope of working prices up" because it feared current prices were not enough to maintain production. It sold when prices went up five cents a pound in August.

The general manager said he doubted whether as much as 500,000 pounds had been held off the market by the Association.

Colorful "King's Keys" Ceremony Dates Back to William the Conqueror

By SHAUN McQUILLAN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, March 17 — (CP) — London's annual Royal tournament of the three services at Olympia will have another attraction this year—enactment in public for the first time of the colorful "King's Keys" ceremony.

It is probably one of the most curious customs observed within the Tower of London's grey walls, but nobody seems to know exactly how and when it began.

The earliest record is in the 14th-Century reign of Edward III when a John of London performed the ceremony, but the custom probably was routine centuries before that — perhaps as far back as William the Conqueror, who built the Tower in the 11th century.

Shortly before 10 o'clock at night the chief warder goes to the guardroom, dressed in a long red cloak and Tudor bonnet, and lights a tallow candle lantern. Picking up the keys of the wicket gate and the Byward Tower he walks to the main guard, and calls for an "escort for the keys."

Bolts Shoot Home

First the wicket gate, by which sightseers enter the tower, is locked, then the escort and keys retrace their steps to the towers of the outer ward where a great clanging of metal can be heard as the ancient bolts are shot home.

The only interruption is when the party approaches the dark arch of the Bloody Tower. The sentry here lowers his bayonet and challenges:

"Halt! Who comes there?"

"The keys," cries the chief warder.

"Whose keys?"

"King George's keys," replies the chief warden.

"Whose keys?"

"King George's keys," replies the chief warder.

"Pass, King George's keys, all's well," says the sentry, and the escort passes up the slight rise of ground under the Bloody Tower towards the guard - room where the main guard is drawn up.

The guard presents arms, the warder steps forward with his lantern, lifts his bonnet and cries: "God preserve King George," and the guard, from officer to drummer-boy, answers: "Amen."

Once Interrupted

Only once in the ceremony's ancient past has it been known to be interrupted. During an air raid in April, 1941, the guard was knocked over by a bomb blast while marching across a courtyard, but nobody was injured and the ceremony proceeded.

The Royal tournament is an annual display at which famous scenes from British history are vividly enacted.

Little Benny's Note Book

By LEE PAPE

We were starting to eat supper being liver and onions in pop's honor, and ma said, Really, William, I mean really, I never had sutch a day, I don't know how I ever found time to prepare this supper.

By gollies I know how I'll find time to eat it, just watch me closely, pop said, and ma said, It's hard to believe there was ever a time when we always had a cook slaving cheerfully away in the kitchin, and we regarded it as second nature, but now the very thawt of a cook is like the will of the whisk at the end of the rainbow, and even an occasional cleening woman costs more than an old fashioned plumber with 2 assistants. The Proverbial problem of meals was a little different when we had Nora, she said.

Ah yes, good old Nora, she was dependable, pop said. We could count on her to put on her little act every time I was 15 minutes late for a meal, smacking down the dishes and talking to herself. It was a great show. When it came to keeping us quaking on the edge of our chairs, a famous star like Boris Karloff couldn't of done better, he said, and ma said, She did have an obsession about getting her werk done on time, that's true. But at least when she was here I could have guests for dinner without being afraid I'd fall flat on my face from total exhawstion just as I opened the door to let them in, she said.

Yes, Nora loved guests, nothing was too good for them, pop said. I'll never forget the time you invited 3 people for dinner with only one day's notice and Nora laffingly asked you if you'd gone crazy, so we took them to the Stitz roof and the bill came to 19 dollers. We've enjoyed many a good natured laugh over that, he said.

Being the end of the subject on account of ma not thinking of any good answer.

Little Benny's Note Book

Me and pop were starting out for a Saturday walk, and ma said to pop, William, I want you to bring me back a carton of eggs.

I cant, my trailer is out of order, pop said, and ma said, Now William, you have a perfect fobia against carrying packages on the street, but I want those eggs and I dont want you to give them to Benny to carry under any circumstance. He's carried eggs too many times to my sorrow, she said.

Meening I genrelly either drop them or almost drop them, and we went for our walk, and on the way home I said, We're passing the market, pop.

I was just thinking the same thing, pop said. That makes a quorum, or something, he said.

And he went in and bawt the eggs and started to carry them home, saying, Horse blankets to blazes, why should I be carrying this thing with a strong boy walking beside me empty handed? Is it a scientific fact that you cant carry a carton of eggs without dropping them? Are your fingers weak? Are you fizzically incapable of looking where you're going? For Peet sake cant you be normally careful? he said.

Sure I can, pop, I said. Just let me carry them, and those eggs will be just as safe as though they were in the bank. That's how careful I'll be, I said, and pop said, Good, I dont think I have the moral rite to refuse to let you carry them.

And he handed me the eggs, saying, Now watch your step, and I said, Dont worry pop, even if I trip and fall I'll still hang on to the eggs and tern a tumblesalt like the tumblers in the circus with my head between my knees and land on my feet again still holding the eggs with every egg still in its original shape.

Yee gods, give me those things back, pop said.

Meening the eggs, and he carried them the rest of the ways himself, me not tripping once but not proving what I would of done if I had the eggs.

Stoking Unit Of Guards Regt. Heats Palace

London, March 17 — (CP)— Heat and hot water in Buckingham Palace today were by courtesy of men of the Guards Regiment.

A stoking detachment of the famed unit marched into the palace Tues. to relieve the lone non - striker who vainly tried to keep the fires burning after 38 mates walked off their jobs.

Apart from the palace and other residences of the Royal Family, the strike of engineers and elevator attendants affected more than 45 buildings from which the business of the country is run, ranging from the House of Commons to law courts and ministries.

The 1,600 men said to be on strike claimed an increase in wages from £4 17s 6d ($19.50) to £5 10s.

HANDFUL OF STARS

By Margaret Gorman Nichols

She went into his office, wearing a blue skirt and blue sweater, the auburn of her hair heightened by the vivid blue. The ever so slight pencil smudge across her small nose amused Stephen who arose and smiled and did not sit again behind his long desk until she was sitting opposite him. Sitting like a proud and defiant child, he thought.

He smiled again. "Don't make me into a pompous vice-president, Lyle. I sent for you because I'm interested to know about you and Jeff. You know, you've got a pencil mark on your nose. You can't be dignified with that. Come now....let's be friends again."

She had to smile. Then her eyes, as blue as her dress a moment ago, were gray. If only she could say, "Jeff has a splendid position. Letting him go was the best thing you ever did for him. I'm leaving too. We are going to be married."

But instead she said, "Jeff hasn't a job. And every day he's more discouraged. You haven't been very kind to us, Stephen. You sit here in this big office and pull strings that affect the lives of several hundred human beings. It doesn't seem right that one person should have so much power. Jeff and I are an example of what your power can do, can destroy. And Jeff was your friend."

"I regret that you have to use that past tense, Lyle. But, my dear, you didn't expect it always to be ."

"Near the stars?" She shook her head vigorously. "No. But the day you lost your temper you were thinking mostly about yourself. What Jeff did in Chicago made you look small to people more powerful than you! You created the opportunity and talked up for him."

Stephen felt his face burn. He thought, "There she sits, an obscure young artist, and lashes out at me in defence of Jeff! And I can't tell her that one of the reasons why I let him go was to see if he were worthy of such love and loyalty as she has for him. He'd have gone along here for years, never getting anywhere, making mistakes I covered, going on sprees and not showing up for a couple of days while I lied and said he was sick."

Finally Lyle said, "I'm sorry."

"Don't be sorry. I'm not." But he was. He'd like to see her happy again, her eyes lighted up, her face responsive. He'd like to hear her warm laugh. "You know, the trouble with most people who come in here is that they are afraid to speak up. If you've any criticism of me or the store, I'd like to hear it."

"You're making fun of me."

He laughed. "I am not! But seriously, I sent for you to tell you that if Jeff hasn't a job by the first of the year, I'll try to find him one." He held up his hand in defence and gave a short laugh. "Wait! Don't flare up! Don't say that Jeff wouldn't take a job I got for him if it were the last job in the world! He won't have to know. And I want to tell you because there's a strong possibility that Jeff hasn't been to the company I have in mind. And so you must mention that company, very casually, of course, and ask him to go there and fill out an application. And after about a week, they'll call him. And Jeff will think you are a very smart girl. Which you are."

"Now you make me feel ashamed for the things I said."

"Perhaps I waited because I like to see a girl fight for a man and believe in him. Did that occur to you?"

She laughed a little. "No. You see, I'm not very smart. Thank you, Stephen. That's all I can say, isn't it, though I'd like to say more or do something to show you how grateful I am. He's tried, I know. Couldn't you speak for him before the first of the year?"

He thought, "I could but I won't. When I do, he's failed you. I'm going to give him a little more time. Any man who wants to marry should have the backbone to get out and get a job so that he can support the girl he loves. When I speak for Jeff, I'm upholding him in his laziness."

He said, "I don't think it will break before then."

They arose together. Lyle said, "Thank you again. It seems I'm always thanking you for something." Her heart had begun to sing....

Just as she was opening the door, Stephen said, "You still have that pencil mark on your nose. But don't take it of. It's—it's rather cute on your nose."

"Now you're teasing me." She knew she was grinning impishly.

As she closed the door, she heard him chuckle.

It was five o'clock. Jeff was not meeting her tonight. He was coming to the apartment at eight, he had said at noon. But suddenly she could not wait until evening to talk to him—just to talk to him....Going into a telephone booth, she called his number.

When the phone was taken up at the other end of the line, Lyle heard many voices, much laughter, and a radio playing loudly.

Then a girl said, "Hello, Jeff Conway's apartment."

Lyle's hand dropped.

Jeff was having a party....

Lyle said nothing. She replaced the instrument on the hook, came out of the booth, and walked to the elevator slowly. Jeff was having a party and he had not invited her! He had not even said he was planning to have one! But perhaps friends had come in uninvited .. It was a comforting thought for as long as it lasted but it wasn't true. Jeff was not meeting her today because he had planned this party and he had meant to exclude her! But why?

Finishing her work, she got her hat and coat and in a few minutes was walking heedlessly through the snow. Over and over she told herself that she would not go to Jeff's apartment because she would not be able to disguise her hurt and anger.

Who was the girl? Instantly she hated herself for wondering. It did not matter who the girl was. It did not matter how many girls were there. What annoyed her and hurt her was that Jeff had deliberately and schemingly eliminated her! She thought, "I can't let these ugly feelings in. I can't let them grow. Perhaps it would be better if I went and saw for myself. I could be wrong. Oh, I hope I am wrong!"

Outside Jeff's apartment she hesitated, hearing the voices and the laughter and the music she had heard over the telephone. She thought, "I feel that I'm the wife who comes home at the wrong time. I feel I'm being such a poor sport. But why didn't he want me?"

She knocked. Somebody opened the door.

There were probably a dozen people in the smoky room. Girls in dark dresses and small dark hats, their fur coats piled in a heap in a chair, their wet galoshes scattered everywhere. And young men bending down to fill again glasses only half emptied, holding lighters to cigarettes.

Lyle, still standing at the door, ignored, took in the scene with one sweeping glance. She did not know any one. None of these people had been at Stephen's. She did not see Jeff. But the next moment she saw him coming out of the kitchen with Troy Fallon. Troy was carrying a plate of small sandwiches....

Jeff looked happier than he had for weeks. He was the Jeff every one liked, the gay, genial, generous host. He was the young man with whom he was pleased and proud, the young man his friends patted on the back and flattered. King of his own castle, he was important again. Lyle thought, "And all I have tried to give him during these dark weeks hasn't made him smile as he is smiling now at these people who aren't really his friends. Stephen and I are his true friends. And he hates Stephen. And he—he didn't even hear me one night when I said I loved him."

Then a repulsive thought she could not subdue.... "He didn't invite me or tell me about this. Yet I am paying for it. It is my money that is entertaining these fair-weather friends."

He saw her....

For an instant Jeff just stared. Then, smiling that charming smile that had drawn Lyle to him from the first, he crossed the room to her. Every one saw her now. Every one stopped talking and stared.

Jeff took her cold hands in the brown gloves. "Hello, darling." He avoided her eyes. "I don't believe you know any of these people."

She was introduced. As she left one little group to go to another, she knew that the girls were going for their coats and their galoshes and that the men had gone into the hall for their coats and hats.

Troy said, "How are you, Miss Marsh? It's so nice to see you again." And to Jeff, "It was a grand party." And to Lyle again, her eyes mocking, "It's too bad you didn't get here sooner."

They were leaving, Lyle thought because she had come. They were leaving because they knew she had not been invited and her soberness dampened their high spirits.

Jeff closed the door after the last guest and lighted a cigarette so as to give himself time to think of lies and excuses. But there were none.

Lyle was standing by the window which she had put up to let the smoke out.

She said, "Jeff, I apologise for coming. I'm sorry I came. I had no right to break up your party, no right to come. It wasn't an accident dropping-in. I telephoned from the store and some one answered and I knew you were having a party."

"That you didn't know anything about and to which you were not invited," he said sullenly. He threw the cigarette into the fireplace and said explosively, "Don't be so sweetly sarcastic about it! Go on and say what you are thinking. I felt low and bored. I wanted some fun."

That was partly true. He had wanted what he could not successfully live without—admiration and approval and new faces. When it had occurred to him yesterday to have a party, to do anything that would briefly alleviate his depression and self-pity, Lyle had been included without question. But then it had occurred to him that the guests he had in mind were people with whom Lyle had nothing in common. But they were people he wanted, the people who played, who were invariably gay and diverting. And they in turn would resent the presence of Lyle, the hard-working artist to whom he had become so swiftly engaged and whose good influence on him they considered deadening.

Hence his thoughts.. .. she wouldn't be able to get away from the store early anyway.... she wouldn't have a good time with people she didn't know....And he, without her, would feel free. It would be good to feel free and uncaring for one afternoon. Not that he didn't love her. Oh, no! He adored her. But, just for one afternoon to have the "old gang."

Seeing her now and realizing that the party was like a bad play that was over and for all his pains and his lies and his troubled conscience (because he had spent her money) he had nothing except a messy apartment, a headache, and Lyle hurt and angry, he was ashamed and provoked with himself.

"You don't know what it's been like these past weeks," he said, low. "I've just been keeping up a front. I've never had it very tough. I'm not much good, I guess, at going without the things I've been used to. Spoiled, probably."

He wanted to work for his comforts and pleasures and not for her, for them—together....

Lyle asked, "Don't you have fun with me, Jeff? Do you feel too—too possessed being engaged to me? Because if you do...."

"Because if I do, you'll break it off? Is that what you want?" Incensed and shouting....

Aching, Lyle straightened. Why had she come?

"I'm going, Jeff. We aren't being reasonable. We aren't understanding each other."

"Suzanne and Stephen have been filling your head with a lot of stuff! They don't care what happens to you! They want to use you! They want to make you into a machine! I...."

Not looking at him, she went to the door and opened it. She was shaking. Then down the elevator to the dark street. It was snowing lightly now. As she walked, the cold air cooled her burning face.

But she had walked only a little way when she heard the crunching sound of the snow of hurrying footsteps. Turning, she saw Jeff, without his overcoat, running to her....

His hands took her shoulders and drew her close.

"Lyle, you can't leave me like this! You can't treat me like this! You don't understand. I didn't invite Troy. She came with one of the men." That was true.

Now she knew only that his arms were around her, that he had come after her without his coat, that he was shivering in the cold.

"Jef, you'll...."

"Freeze? Get pneumonia? I don't care. You've...."

And he was leading her back into the lobby, to the elevator, and into his apartment again.

Lifting the boyish brown felt hat from her hair, he bent his dark head and kissed her lips tenderly. That made it all right, he told himself, that skis....And he was sorry.

"Love me, Lyle? Then tell me."

"I love you, Jeff," Stephen had told her she could not expect to stay near the stars....

He grinned. "I'll count three and we'll smile at each other. Then we'll go out to dinner and forget the whole thing. I'm sorry."

Through the snow they walked to the restaurant where a certain waiter had come to know them. They talked about Christmas and Jeff said he had always gone home for Christmas.

"But not this year," he said, "unless you come, too."

Lyle said, "I can't go but you must, Jeff." And smiled. "What would your mother think of me if I kept you away from home at Christmas? Besides, I can't leave Bonnie. It's going to be a bad holiday season for her."

And so before they parted that night it was decided that Jeff would go to Boston for Christmas.

Lyle said good-bye to Jeff as they stood at the entrance of the store after luncheon. He was taking a train to Boston rather than motoring, he explained, because of the danger of probable snow and sleet.

"As you are taking an afternoon train I can't see you off," she said a little sadly, holding on to his hand. Over the cuff of her brown glove was a thin gold chain bracelet he had given her. "Have a good time and don't worry about anything." Since his mother had determined the length of his stay, he would be gone a week. But when he returned, Stephen would have spoken for him and soon he would be working again.

He said, a little sadly, too, "It seems cruel to leave you now. But mothers, you know...."

"If mine were not so far away, I'd be going to her."

Critic Says Painting by Russian Expression of Perverted Imagination

By STUART UNDERHILL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

London March 17 (CP)— If things get quiet in London's art world they can always be stirred up by exhibiting a controversial painter, and Marc Chagall, whose works are on display at the Tate Gallery, is no exception to the rule.

Traditionalists, who like to see things portrayed roughly as they appear to the human eye, rushed to the attack as soon as the show opened. Epithets like "Pygmy Playing the Fool" and "Perverted Imagination" were hurled at the Russian-born, Paris-trained painter.

The Arts Council, which sponsored the exhibition, replied with a straight face that "those to whom Chagall will come as an entirely new revelation will recognize him as a great artist."

One picture showed a barelegged woman standing on the roof of a house, kicking at a red horse. On the back of the horse another woman in red tights stands on her head. The horse straddles a bride and bridegroom in their wedding clothes.

The front legs of the horse have hands instead of hooves and one hand clutches a lighted candle in a candlestick. A new moon, a violin and some ghosts complete the decoration.

Interpreters of Chagall differ on the symbolism of his work. Why, for example, does he paint a cow red and give it green horns, or detach a woman's head from her body? Questions like these yield hours of debate in Chelsea studios.

But listen to critic Frank O. Salisbury, well-known portrait painter:

"Chagall's works are not the productions of a fine painter or a master of artistic technique, but the expression of perverted imagination, developed with a view to achieving a position with the mass-minded public."

Sentence 41 Former Jap Navy Men to be Hanged

Yokohama, March 17 — (AP) — The greatest mass execution order, resulting from Pacific war atrocities, sentenced 41 former Japanese navy men to be hanged.

Two others were sentenced to prison at hard labor — one for 20 years and one for five. Two were acquitted.

The charges involved the beheading of Lieut. Vernon L. Tebo and radioman Warren H. Loyd, and the bayonetting to death of ordnanceman Robert Tuggle.

The three American airmen were shot down over a Pacific Island and captured by the Japanese in April, 1945.

Tuggle was bayonetted by 40 Japanese after he had been tied to a stake and beaten.

HOUSE COMPLETES

R. W. Mayhew, parliamentary assistant to Finance Minister Abbott, disclosed that the government will make a statement within a few days of how long it plans to continue buying Canada's bulk sugar supplies. The Crown-owned Commodity Stabilization Corporation, which buys the sugar, also purchases scarce fats and oils from external sources.

He said rental control was one of the most important still functioning but at the same time was one of the most difficult to administer. There was no pattern to follow.

Rent Control

As for the future of rent control, it would be up to parliament next year to decide whether or not it should be continued beyond April 1, 1949, the date to which it now is being extended.

Some members pressed for the lifting of rent controls in smaller communities but Mr. Mayhew said the Prices Board had found that there was just as great a shortage of housing in the small centres as there was in the towns and cities.

Lawrence Skey (PC-Toronto Trinity) belabored the government's policy and charged that controls were "aggravating" the housing shortage. If the government insisted on continuing controls, it should either build houses or subsidize the provinces and municipalities in this field.

Housing was Canada's No. 2 problem of the day, he said. It came behind Communism and, in fact, helped to create Communism by producing "dissatisfaction and discontent" over housing regulations and restrictions and the lack of accommodation.

L. E. Cardiff (PC-Huron North) suggested that those who had gone into the cities during the wartime boom period be encouraged to return to the land. Vacant farm homes dotted the countryside.

H. G. Archibald (CCF-Skeena) and Claire Gillis (CCF-Cape Breton South) protested against the passage of orders dealing with merchant vessels and said they allowed the use of unseaworthy vessels and endangered the lives of Canadian seamen.

Transport Minister Chevrier replied that the orders, which relieve vessels from certain obligations under the Canada Shipping Act, soon are to be added to that statute by amending legislation.

Wants Larger Payment

The wheat debate, largely a repetition of discussion on the same bill last week, brought from F. E. Jaenicke (CCF—Kindersley) a demand that a proposed increase in the initial wheat payment be of substantial proportions. If, as reported, the increase came to only 20 cents a bushel, farmers would be disappointed.

A. L. Smith (PC — Calgary West) said the Progressive Conservative party believed that the farmer had been the "goat" in everything he produced since controls first came into effect. While the price he received for his products was controlled, the prices he paid for goods were allowed to range uncontrolled.

Of a provision to introduce state marketing of barley and oats, he felt that the "grabbing" of the farmer's products "by force" marked the beginning of a "police state" in Canada.

J. F. Pouliot (Ind L—Temiscouata) said this provision had been forced upon the government by C.C.F. propaganda and held that there were many farmers in western Canada who did not want it.

100 FAMILIES FLEE FLOODS AT ETOBICOKE

Three Long Branch Houses Swept Away

Toronto, March 17— Whipped into whirlpool fury by a sudden March thaw, perennially troublesome Etobicoke Creek, on its worst rampage in history, last night had swallowed up three Long Branch houses, forced 100 families out and spread untold confusion for miles along the Lake Ontario shore.

Twenty miles northwest it had left part of the town of Brampton under five feet of water.

Concluding a careful check at midnight, police reported there had been no loss of life. Every family that wished to leave had a chance to do so. Occupants of four or five homes persisted in remaining.

They were warned that the water might rise anywhere from one to five feet and that they were staying at their own risk.

Rescued From Drowning

At 9 p.m., four volunteer rescuers saved Mrs. James Hooker, her baby, less than a year old, and an 11-year-old son, Bobby, from drowning. The three had been removed from their home in a boat piloted by Lloyd Eden, a neighbor. As an ice cake scraped the side, Bobby, in fright, jumped to his feet. The boat turned over. Fortunately the water was only five feet deep. The rescuers were passing in another boat.

There were many close calls and far into the night volunteers groped around in the darkness with boats, ropes and breeches buoys, while huge ice cakes ground around them and hammered incessantly at the fragile walls of the little houses.

Before sundown thousands of near-by residents, swarming on No. 2 Highway, had witnessed scenes reminiscent of sea rescues. About 4 p.m., three lifesavers lost their first launch. It was holed by jagged ice. Nobody was in it at the time.

Darkness had set in when another lifesaving crew rescued Ted and Mrs. McMartin and their four children from their Island Rd. home. The youngest, a girl of only seven weeks, they took away in their boat after the mother dropped her to them.

They made a second trip for parents and the three others, Douglas, age 15 months; Carol, 2 1-2, and Teddy 4. The father has been laid up with a broken foot.

Mother Gets Ducking

When the launch drew up to the bank Mrs. McMartin stepped out with Douglas in her arms. Immediately she sank up to her neck, holding Douglas above her head and crying for help. The rescuers grabbed the child before he was drenched and hoisted the mother to dry land.

As the family was being bundled up and rushed to emergency quarters set up for the flood refugees in the municipal hall, another cake of ice crashed the launch. Straining every muscle the lifesavers kept it from being swept down stream.

But there were many similar incidents throughout the day as the flood broke so suddenly that those who had gone to raise the alarm were in many cases trapped themselves.

Meeting in the morning, the Long Branch town councillors decided that they would request every resident of the danger zone to clear out. The creek has been in the habit through the years of spreading over an area two blocks deep and three blocks long, including 42nd St., 43rd St. and Island Rd., running north and south and the Lake Promenade east and west.

Sees Wall of Water

Councillor James Wallace had visited two homes and was calling on a third when he looked around and saw a wall of water rushing toward the doorstep.

Further up the stream an ice bridge had given way with a roar that could be heard for blocks.

All afternoon the councillor was kept prisoner by the flood whose danger he sought to avert.

With the first wild rumors that spread it was reported that he had been swept away in one of the collapsed dwellings.

How and when the three houses disappeared nobody seemed certain. Other victims were too busy watching their own belongings to pay much attention. They noticed the roofs floating by.

But a thorough check disclosed that all the occupants of these homes had left some time before the flood reached the serious stage.

LADY KATHERINE PEACOCK DIES

London, March 17 —(CP)— Lady Katherine Peacock, 60, wife of Sir Edward Peacock, Canadian-born bank director, died here Tuesday.

Born in England, she went to Canada at the age of 17 and married Sir Edward in Canada in 1912. They moved to England and during the First World War she turned her large house into a convalescent centre for Canadian soldiers.

Eight Americans Land in Russian Sector of Berlin

Forced to Use Parachutes When Plane Disabled

Berlin, March 18 — (AP) — Brig.-Gen. Telford Taylor and seven other Americans bailed out of a transport plane and landed in the Russian sector of Berlin today, Tempelhof airfield reported. Taylor is Chief United States prosecutor in the German war trials. He suffered a wrenched back in landing.

The plane developed engine trouble and all the passengers bailed out. The pilot and co-pilot landed uninjured at the R.A.F.'s Gatow airport, in the British zone of the city.

At least one passcengeer besides Taylor was reported injured. A sergeant who was treated at a hospital in the Russian zone.

Mrs. Taylor also was aboard the plane. She had not been located two hours after the bail-out. Others of the passengers also were being sought in Russian-occupied territory.

Several passengers who landed in the Russian-occupied suburb of Lichtenberg reported they had been picked up by Russian soldiers and taken to Soviet headquarters.

It was learned that Mrs. Taylor was among those who bailed out. Army authorities held up the full list of passengers until they established the fate of each.

Ten Killed, Four Injured in Crash Of B-29 Bomber

Tampa, Fla., March 18 (AP)—Ten men were killed and four injured early today when a B-29 from the Spokane, Wash., United States Army Air base crashed and burned on landing at Macdill field here.

The four survivors were admitted to the base hospital. Their condition was described as good.

The bomber was coming in for a landing in a dense fog when it hit the edge of the runway at the southwest corner of the field. The big craft hit the ground, bounced once and then crashed and burned. Wreckage was scattered over a wide area.

Fog was rolling in from the bay and hugging the ground about 150 feet thick. Apparently it was impossible to pick out the runway quickly.

Family Flees In Night Attire As House Burns

Toronto, March 18 — (CP) — Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Andrews and six small children fled bare-footed from their burning one-storey frame home in suburban East York last night and found out a few minutes later they were penniless.

Mr. Andrews, a paper hanger who has been unemployed some weeks, said that at the height of the excitement the family's last $10 was stolen from his wife's purse. He said they had been stretching their scant savings until the time that spring weather increased the jobs in his line of work. The $10 was all that was left.

"Someone just took it out of my wife's purse and threw the purse on the floor," he said.

Cause of the fire was undetermined.

FLUORINATED WATER TO PREVENT TOOTH DECAY

Truman Hoped Stalin Was One Of His Audience

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

Washington, March 18—(AP) President Truman was talking in person to Congress yesterday — but he hoped that Premier Stalin was listening.

Advisers who helped with preparation of the president's speech said Truman was seeking to reach three audiences with his report on the state-of-the-world. They put it this way to this reporter:

1. He wanted to impress upon Stalin the idea that the United States will fight if Russia goes too far in Europe. Truman wanted to do this because there is a conviction among the president's Russian experts at the state department that Stalin does not want war and will check communist aggressions when he thinks he has gone as far as he can peaceably.

2. Truman also was talking to the people of Western Europe, in Italy, and to a lesser extent in France, the communists have recently gained some followers through a combination of fear and a bandwagon psychology.

3. The third audience was the American audience. His remarks focused on the idea which he himself expressed: "We must be prepared to pay the price of peace, or assuredly we shall pay the price of war."

Truman went about as far as his advisers considered he properly could in promising military support for a Western European bloc.

Only One Way To Preserve Peace Says Claxton

Montreal, March 18 (CP)—Defence Minister Claxton last night described President Truman's statement to Congress yesterday as "the beginning of a marshalling of force on the side of right which is essential if we are to preserve the way of life in which we believe."

"There is only one way to preserve peace," he said in an address at the life members' dinner of the Montreal Amateur Athletic Association, "and that is to apply the same rules between nations as between individuals—the rule of law, backed up by force which is used for no other purpose than to back the rule of law."

FLOOD THREATS SLIGHTLY EASED ON ONT. RIVERS

Rain, Snow Predicted In Some Districts

(By The Canadian Press)

Southern Ontario today dried its feet and wryly eyed its flimsy line while keeping fresh hipboots near — for the annual tussle between advancing spring and aging winter gave little indication that rampaging flood waters and grinding ice thaws would not continue their destruction, a Canadian Press survey shows.

Hundreds of home owners along the banks of rivers, swollen creeks and lake fronts yesterday looked to the weather man for support — but his forecast remains: light winds, little change in temperature and, perhaps rain or snow in some districts.

Ice in the Grand River near Caledonia went out with a roar last night, forcing closing of Highway No. 54 from Cainsville, Brant County, east to York. Swift-flowing waters reached a 10-foot level on the road near Six Nation Indian Reserve west of Caledonia.

"And not all of the ice has come through yet," was the grim report of a Highwayz Department official.

Worst in Years

Veteran flood observers at Goderich, Huron county, said the Maitland River break-up was the worst in many years. For a while it threatened severe damage to harbor works. A portion of the south pier was crumbled when ice jammed the river mouth.

Spring Floods Threaten Bridges, Flood Highways

Toronto, March 18 — (CP) — Spring floods continued to inflict damage on Southern Ontario communities today, flooding highways and threatening to sweep away bridges.

Ice in the Grand River near Caledonia went out last night closing Highway 54 from Cainsville, Brant county east to York. The swollen river reached a level of 10 feet on the road near the Six Nations Indian Reserve, west of Caledonia.

Observers at Goderich, Huron county said the Maitland River break-up was the worst in many years. Part of the south pier was crumbled when ice jammed the river mouth.

A cement bridge at Meaford, Georgian Bay, was threatened when a large ice jam rose to within five feet of its central arch. About 100 employees of Meaford woollens mill are idle as flood waters pour through plant doors.

Radioactive Gold Best Treatment For Cancer Among A-Oven Products

Atlantic City, N.Y., March 18. (AP)—Radioactive gold is the best treatment for cancer so far among the new, man-made products of the atomic ovens, it was reported today to the Federation of American Societies for Experimental Biology. The report was made by Dr. P. F. Hahn of the Vanderbilt University School of Medicine, Nashville.

The new form of gold is made from ordinary gold based in an atomic pile, where it becomes slightly heavier. The only difference in the heavy and the ordinary gold is that the heavy stuff emits streams of electrons, known as Beta rays.

For cancer treatment this new gold is made up in a soft, colloidal solution that can be injected by needle into the malignant growth. Most chemicals so injected would spread throughout the body, but not so the gold.

Dr. Hahn said the yellow stuff stays just where it is placed. A cancer can be well saturated with the gold without danger to healthy tissues close by.

The rays from the gold travel only a small fraction of an inch. They kill the cancer cells that they hit. The gold is rich in these rays, millions of them spilling out in all directions, each from an atom of gold.

These rays also die out after a few days, so that even if the gold should remain in the body a long time, it would not do harm.

A new cancer discovery was reported by Drs. William H. Fisher, Kurt I. Altman and Belle Springer of the Universiay of Chicago. This is an inhibitor for an enzyme known as glucuronidase. The enzyme is plentiful in cancers. The inhibitor destroys the enzyme. The inhibitor opens a new approach to learn whether the enzyme is something a cancer needs, and, if so, to destroy it and see whether that also destroys cancers.

President's Warning Poses Grim Question For Military Officials

Washington, March 18 (AP)—Can American military force be made strong enough to back up the order for a marching Russia to halt?

This was the stark question posed for the high command today by President Truman's declaration that the United States has become "the principal protector of the free world."

All of Truman's emphasis was on peace, not war. But the chief executive declared that the risks involved are "perhaps greater than any this country has been called upon to assume."

Defence Secretary Forrestal and his army, navy and air force chiefs can measure some of the American strength in exact figures—in terms of men and weapons.

They have not made public all they know but from what has been disclosed, this picture emerges:

Under arms in the regular services (the army, air force, navy and marines) are 1,392,000 men—and comparatively few women. The total authorized strength is 1,732,000. By contrast, the Russians had some 4,050,000 actually under arms according to most recent estimates.

Truman told Congress yesterday the services have been unable to maintain strength through voluntary enlistments; therefore, a temporary revival of the wartime draft is in order.

The army, at a present strength of 550,000, is 119,000 short of authorized strength. The navy, with 392,000, says it is 160,000 under the set figure; the marines, at 90,000, are 20,000 under. The air force has 360,000 men, which is all its current budget allows, but it is 41,000 short of the figure originally planned.

Spread Across World

The army's 550,000 men are spread across half the world. In the United States, the Caribbean area and the Panama Canal zone are 275,000, in Europe 100,000, in the Pacific (Japan, Korea, Alaska, Hawaii and small islands), — 175,000.

The army estimated for the House of Representatives Foreign Affairs Committee last December that the Russians had 1,702,000 troops in Western Russia and the occupied zone of Europe. This did not include an estimated 1,121,000 soldiers of satellite countries.

Thus 100,000 American troops confront 2,823,000 potentially hostile troops in Europe. It is to be assumed, of course, that in event of trouble military aid would be forthcoming from Britain and other friendly powers.

The Balance of Air Power

It has been estimated officially that Russia has in her air force 450,000 men and 14,000 planes ready for combat. The Soviet Union is reported to be producing 75,000 to 100,000 new planes a year.

The United States Air force has 360,000 men, 5,500 combat planes in operating condition and 7,500 more in reserve. The United States produced about 1,700 military aircraft of all types last year.

Naval Strength

The United States Navy claims to be the most powerful afloat. But the Foreign Affairs Committee reported 600,000 men in the Russian navy — 208,000 more than the United States has.

The Soviet fleet is said to consist mainly of cruisers, destroyers and submarines, with few modern carriers or battleships. To some authorities this indicates that Russia is giving first attention to her fleet of thoroughly up-to-date submarines, patterned after late German designs.

The Atomic Bomb

No one knows how long the United States can keep its long hold on that weapon. Best estimates: three to five years.

WARTIME HOUSING WILL BE AFFECTED BY NEW MEASURE

Provincial Gov't. Would be Able to Cut Off Services to Units

Toronto, March 18 —(CP) — Throne Speech debate was expected to end today in the Ontario Legislature. Both afternoon and evening sittings were scheduled.

In yesterday's sitting, devoted to discussion of bills, the House gave first reading to a bill enabling the province to cut off all services to a crown-owned community such as a Wartime Housing unit if the Federal government does not agree to make grants instead of paying taxes. Crown lands cannot be taxed.

Services which could be excluded are hospitals, fire protection, police, sewage, garbage collection, welfare, relief, planning, public utilities and others which the province might decide upon.

Reform Minister Dunbar introduced a bill to amend training schools act. Thirteen government bills, eight dealing with education, were approved in committee and second reading was given 8 other government measures.

The House gave first reading to bills sponsored by R. H. Carlin (CCF-Sudbury) to amend the Workmen's Compensation Act and to control fumes given off by industrial plants. Three private bills also were given first reading.

Defeated on Vote

On a recorded vote, a Labor-Progressive Party bill to give municipalities the right to buy, sell and store milk was defeated 58-2.

Dallas, Tex., March 18 (AP)—Within 30 minutes after President Truman urged Congress yesterday to enact temporary draft legislature the Dallas recruiting office had six telephone calls from women seeking to enlist.

Hours later, not a man had called.

CONGRESS SPLITS DOWN MIDDLE ON TRUMAN'S CALL

Party Labels Lost in Shuffle as Leaders Divide Over Two Measures

Washington, March 18. (AP)—The United States Congress split down the middle today on President Truman's plans for shoring up American military strength with universal training and revival of the draft.

Party labels were lost in the shuffle as leaders divided over the two measures Truman said are needed to flex the muscles of a country that has become "the principal protector of the free world against Communism."

The upshot seemed to be a trend toward giving the President one—but not both—of the manpower-raising laws. Universal military training looked like slightly the better bet although the cards are stacked against it in the House of Representatives now.

(The difference between U.M.T. and the draft is that under the latter men, probably youths, could be drafted directly into the armed services. Under U.M.T. youths around 18 and 20 would be drafted for military training but not be in the armed services.)

As a third step to halt the aggressive march of "one nation" —Russia—Truman also called for quick and final approval of the $5,300,000,000 Marshall plan for European recovery.

The Senate already has passed its bill. And, within four hours of the President's address to Congress, the House Foreign Affairs Committee stamped its approval on a similar program.

Truman later told a New York St. Patrick's Day banquet audience last night that the big issue in the world now is "tyranny versus freedom.

"Our faith and our strength must be made unmistakably clear to the world."

JUSTICE MINISTER WARNS AGAINST COMMUNISM

Claims Infiltration Into Trade Unions

Ottawa, March 18 (CP) — A blunt warning to Canadians to see to it that Communism in "some" of the trade unions of Canada "does not spread very much further," was sounded in the Commons yesterday by Justice Minister Ilsley in an outspoken, three-hour debate on the dangers of Communism.

He said Communist infiltration into the trade unions was "a more important factor" in Canada than that of infiltration into government. The Communist had little power in legislative bodies such as municipal councils or in the political field.

Then he added:

"But proportionately they are very much stronger, I am afraid, in some of the trade unions in Canada. And I would say, without trying to cause any undue alarm, without saying anything that would cause panic or anything of that kind, that the situation at present in Canada is such that Canadians would do well to examine all the facts and be alert to this matter, and alert to it every day, and see that it does not spread very much further."

Keep Out of Service

He also declared himself emphatically against any Communist or former Communist being allowed to join the federal civil service.

Mr. Ilsley spoke after the leaders of the four major parties in the Chamber, in a debate which developed with the anti-Communist declarations of President Truman in Washington and Britain's Foreign Secretary Bevin in Brussels, placed themselves and their supporters squarely against any further development of Communism in Canada.

The debate sprang from a motion by John Bracken, Progressive Conservative leader, calling on the Commons to adjourn its regular

Officers' Mess At Vancouver Camp Destroyed

Vancouver, March 18 —(CP)— A two-alarm fire of undetermined origin early today, destroyed the officers' mess and a small arms shed at the Jericho army and air force camp in Vancouver's Point Grey district.

Twelve army officers, housed in the building, escaped uninjured but lost all their possessions in the fire. Explosion of shells in the shed prevented firemen from approaching to extinguish the blaze.

Maj. H. Cotton, playing cards with five other officers, turned in the alarm. They then aroused others in the building. One man was forced to jump 20 feet from an upstairs window when flames barred a door.

Ottawa, March 18 (CP)—Whether to meet external threats or to protect Canada's internal safety, the armed forces will open the doors to its two service colleges next September to some 500 high school 'teen-agers to begin training as officers for Canada's navy, army and air force.

Opening their first full year of operations, the two colleges will incorporate latest training methods and a variety of subjects in line with new warfare discoveries.

Unusual, too, is the collective method of training. The students will work side by side for the first two years at least; 160 of them at H.M.C.S. Royal Roads at Victoria, and about 350 at the Royal Military College, Kingston.

Naval service headquarters said naval personnel at Royal Roads, which opened in 1942 and was converted to the new-style training in 1947, are wondering how army recruits will dove-tail. Although the navy has trained air force fledglings during the last year, it has yet to drill khaki-clad youngsters, who may range from 16 to 20 years.

The recruits entering R.M.C. will remain for four years, but many of the navy entries will leave at the end of the second year and go to sea as midshipmen.

Similarly, at Royal Roads, where academic subjects will form the backbone of the winter training, all students will take the same subjects for the first two years, after which some will be separated, for sea-training with the navy or aircraft training at R. C. A. F. stations or to continue at R.M.C. until their four years are completed.

Success of the joint services training scheme is already evident, a naval spokesman said. A selected 34 of those now training at Royal Roads have donned flying togs at Trenton, Ont., for dual flying instruction; while another 67 have embarked in the cruiser Ontario and the destroyer Crescent for a month's training at sea.

Mine Shutdown Cause of Order By Defence Board

Order Becomes Effective At Midnight March 21st

Washington, March 18 —(AP) —The government today ordered a 25-per cent reduction in passenger train service in the United States because of the coal mine shutdown.

It was issued under the wartime powers which the O.D.T. still retains.

The agency said the step was necessary because "railroad coal stocks today are considerably lower than they have been on previous occasions when stoppages in coal production have interfere with railroad operations."

Coal Stocks Low

The bureau of mines reported two days ago that coal stocks generally were at a dangerously low level.

At the time the O.D.T. Act, the government was making other moves to end the pension-caused work stoppage which already has forced the steel industry to cut operations.

Cyrus Ching, Canadian-born Federal conciliation chief met with Ezra Van Horn, spokesman for the mine operators, and arranged to talk later with John L. Lewis, chief of the United Mine Workers (Ind.)

The O.D.T. order requires railroads to reduce coal-burning passenger train service 25 per cent under the operations as of March 1, 1948.

It prohibits the carriers from substituting diesel-electric or other equipment for coal-burning locomotives which will be laid up as a result of the order.

All special passenger train service requiring coal will be prohibited, and circus and carnival trains using coal will be banned for the duration of the order.

O.D.T. authorized the railroads to cancel passenger reservations or take any other action necessary to carry out the terms of its order.

At Ottawa, government officials saw little likelihood that the United States soft coal strike would affect Canadian rail services.

They said Canada's coal stock position at present is "pretty good," and that the effect of the U. S. strike would not likely be felt in the Dominion for some little time.

Pittsburgh, March 18 (AP) — Steel production and railroads in the United States today fell victim to the four-day-old pension-raised soft coal work stoppage.

The first blast furnace was shut down to conserve fuel and in Washington the government ordered a 25 per cent reduction in passenger train service, effective next Sunday midnight.

The office of defence transportation said the order was necessary because of low railroad coal stocks.

Youngstown Sheet & Tube Company shut down one of the blast furnaces at its Briar Hill plant at Youngstown, O. A company spokesman said it was done to save fuel. Two other companies would soon follow suit.

None of the announcements indicated the number of workers affected or the probable production loss.

These cutbacks were only forerunners of the effect a coal shortage would have on American industry. Dwindling full supplies from a long walkout would hit everywhere.

Reports from union leaders and mine operators indicated at least 344,000 miners were idle in 19 of the 28 coal-producing states. This left, at the most, only 14 per cent of the country's coal-diggers on the job.

Along the Ohio Valley several hundred river barge workers were being left idle with the collapse of the coal traffic. The Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad told the 1,800 workers in its Huntington, W. Va., shops they will be laid off Saturday. Coal traffic dropped to a trickle on two Virginia railways.

In Washington Congress' Labor relations "watchdog committee" headed by Senator Joseph Ball (Rep.-Minn.) called for "all facts" from both sides within 48 hours. It needs the information to decide "what further steps it should take."

Cyrus S. Ching, Canadian-born head of the Federal Conciliation Service, was to meet John L. Lewis, head of the United Mine Workers, and Ezra Van Horn, chief operators' spokesman separately today.

The walkout revolves around Lewis' demand for $100 monthly pensions for miners out of a $30,000,000 welfare fund built up by 10-cents-a-ton royalties on all coal mined. The operators claim $100 pensions would bankrupt the fund.

Police Blotter

The Shell Oil service station at the corner of North Front and Moira Street, and the farm machinery sales office of Bateman Motors on Moira Street, West, were broken into some time during Wednesday night, police were informed this morning.

The two break-ins were investigated by Inspector Hayes and Detective Sgt. D. Ellis who reported that nothing of any great value had been taken, the thieves apparently having been looking for cash.

Two airmen, John J. Young and John D. Raymond, were apprehended and charged with theft when patrol officers found them in possession of a microphone stand. The airmen had "parked" the stand while they visited a local restaurant and were apprehended when they returned to pick up the stand. The stand, valued at approximately $45 was the property of Mr. Jack McCaughen, Stirling. The two men will appear in court March 30th.

Police had a rather busy night as a number of inebriates were apprehended and lodged in the cell room of the police station. Howard Calnan, 42 Sinclair Street, was charged with drunk driving when officers found him in charge of a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor.

Establishment of a free blood transfusion service to cover every district in Canada, both urban and rural is a feature of the Red Cross peacetime program which already has paid big dividends in lives saved.

Valuable Canadian lives, including mothers in childbirth, accident victims and operative cases, are being lost every day for the want of blood. Many hospitals in Canada are still without the blood and facilities necessary for their transfusion needs and it is the aim of the Red Cross to be able eventually to supply sufficient blood to all hospitals so that everyone in Canada needing a transfusion will get it, immediately and without charge.

Many persons, including a number of newborn infants already owe their lives to this Red Cross service in the provinces where it is now operating.

But the heavy cost of extending this service is one of the reasons this blood transfusion service has not been extended to every part in Canada. It is also one of the reasons why Canadians are being asked for $3,000,000 in the current national Red Cross Campaign. Belleville's share of this objective is $8,000 and canvassers are already making their calls in the various parts of the city.

The national blood transfusion service is only one of the many phases of Red Cross peacetime work. This includes outpost hospital; aid for sick and disabled veterans, disaster relief, home nursing courses and the homemakers' service.

The Belleville branch of the Red Cross is especially active in the last named feature with many local families, having benefited through this service which provides temporary care when the head of a family is ill in hospital or disabled through accident.

The Red Cross outpost hospital at Whitney is also dependent upon the local Red Cross branch for much of its supplies. Through outpost hospital many people living in this section of Ontario are provided with hospital care, nursing and public health services which otherwise they would not receive.

These are just a few of the reasons why Belleville residents are being asked to subscribe $8,000 for the Red Cross during the current campaign. So when the Red Cross canvasser calls, please be generous. Or if the canvasser fails to call, donations will be accepted at any of the local banks.

Hospital Auxiliary Hears Talk On Nursing Education

The regular meeting of the Hospital Auxiliary was held Tuesday afternoon in the Nurses' Residence with the President, Mrs. Gilbert Scott presiding.

A very gratifying report of the Fashion Show was given, the net proceeds being $669.00. Appreciation was expressed to the models, exhibitors, those who donated prizes and all others who contributed to the success of the show. The auxiliary is especially grateful to Mr. Shapiro of the J. A. McNabb Co., who directed the stage performance.

A donation from the St. Andrew's Church Guild was received to help with the annual gifts of Easter baskets presented to the ward and indigent patients.

It was announced that the Belleville Prince Edward Club is holding a tea the last week in April at the home of Mrs. Earle, Ann Street.

$800 Donated

A donation of $800.00 was given toward the cost of the recently purchased X-ray table making a total of $1,000 which the Auxiliary has given this year for this purpose.

Miss Johnstone, Director of Nursing, reported five layettes given to new-born infants from the "Good Samaritan" Cupboard, which is kept supplied by the Junior Group of the Auxiliary.

The guest speaker for the April meeting will be Dr. Fred W. Routley of Toronto who will give an illustrated address on the "Blue Cross."

Miss Johnstone, Director of Nursing, gave an instructive talk on Nursing and Nursing Education. She informed the members that the nursing school in connection with the hospital has several outstanding features and has been commended by the Department of Nurse Registration.

Nurse Shortage General

She stated that the much talked of shortage of nurses is world wide with few exceptions. Owing to this shortage, nurses are unable to always give the detailed attention to their patients or do the preventative work to the extent that they would wish.

Graduate nurses are deeply concerned about adequately meeting the demand of the public for nursing service. They are doing their utmost to use the present number to the best advantage and are also planning to increase this number. The importance of the quality of the nursing staff was stressed as the reputation of the hospital in the community is largely influenced by the patient's contact with the nurse.

Nurses are usually grouped into four different fields. According to recent statistics 48 per cent are in hospitals, 28 per cent doing private nursing and the remainder doing public health, industrial and nursing educational work.

Increased Demand

Miss Johnstone spoke of the increased demand for hospital services today. It is estimated that over 75 per cent of births occur in hospitals and one third of the deaths. Admission in general to hospitals has increased considerably.

The greatest loss to the nursing profession is through marriage, although many continue to be active in nursing. In recent years there has been an increase in the number of girls entering the schools for nurses.

At the present time an experiment is in progress in Windsor to have a nursing school independent of a hospital. It is hoped by this means to determine the time and cost required to adequately train a nurse.

Assistant Nurses

There are also schools to train girls to become assistant nurses who will work under the supervision of a graduate nurse. These girls will relieve the graduate nurses of many duties. This course requires nine months and the educational requirements are not as high as for a graduate nurse.

Mrs. Mikel expressed the appreciation of the members of the Auxiliary to Miss Johnstone for her very splendid address.

At the close of the meeting tea was served by Miss Johnstone.

OBITUARY

MRS. EMMA J. (ROBLIN) COMINS
(Scarboro-Thurlow township)
(Contributed)

An invalid for many years, Emma Jane Mabee Roblin Comins passed away in Scarboro at the home of her daughter on March 2. She was in her 89th year.

Born at Woodrow's Corners, Prince Edward County, she married Willis Wilbur Roblin and resided on the ninth concession of Thurlow. Their three children, Mabel (Mrs. J. Falconer) Scarboro; Ethel (Mrs. Walter Beckhorn) New York City, and Ivy R. Roblin, Toronto, survive her. She later married Benjamin Franklin Comins and spent the greater part of her live on the old homestead.

102 BANK STREET,

Dear Sir:—

The appliance you put on me in September, 1927, has caused a complete cure of that big rupture. The past two years, not wearing the appliance, working at my own trade as usual. I have tested the cure to my own satisfaction. Before I called on you I had at least ten trusses, some of these were fitted on me by so-called expert truss fitter. All were useless to me. My experience proves that your appliance is the best when all others failed to even hold my rupture. Your invention caused a complete cure of same and I want to recommend it to my friends and all interested,

Yours truly,

OSD Junior Girls Hoop Champions Seek Ont. Title

Under the efficient coaching supervision of Miss Eileen Leverance, girls athletic director of the school, the junior girls basketball team of the Ontario School for the Deaf, two-year champions of the Bay of Quinte District of the Central Ontario Secondary Schools Association (COSSA) leave for Toronto tomorrow where they will seek the Ontario title.

Their only handicap being deafness, the OSD juniors have developed into a smart young squad of court players. They have beaten the best the district can produce for two years in a row, and their ambition is the COSSA junior girls title.

On Friday night in Malvern Collegiate Institute starting at 7 o'clock they will meet a crack team from the Georgian Bay District, and if successful will play against other Ontario district champions on Saturday for the COSSA blue ribbon of junior basketball.

The faculty and students of the OSD are justifiably proud of the basketball accomplishments of this group of courageous girls, and the city joins them in wishing the team the best of luck in its quest for an Ontario championship.

Other city teams which will play in the Ontario championships include the BCI senior girls, under Miss Morgan, BCI junior boys under "Red" Townsend, and the Trenton CI senior boys squad.

Speculators Serve Useful Purpose Prices Probe Told

Ottawa, March 18. (CP)—The Common's committee on prices, probing the cost of butter, today will question the first large packing company to be called. The witness will be J. S. McLean, of Canada Packers.

In its investigation into butter prices the committee has already questioned representatives of producer organizations but has not had any wholesaler before it.

Speculators received some qualified praise at yesterday's hearing.

Robert W. Morrison, secretary of the Ontario Cream Producers' Marketing Board, was asked by Committee Counsel Fabio Monet whether speculators performed a useful function.

Emphasizing that he strongly felt that something better might replace speculation Mr. Morrison replied:

"I think they do under present conditions. We find ourselves with over-produtcion compared to needs during the pasturage season.

"Someone has to own that butter. The service of storage and financing is one that someone has to perform. As long as no one else offers to buy it and the speculator does, then he serves a useful purpose."

Feed grains will be investigated later in committee hearings, Health Minister Martin, chairman, announced.

Cost Accountants Hold Meeting

The regular monthly meeting of the Bay of Quinte Chapter of the Society of Industrial and Cost Accountants of Ontario was held recently in the form of a dinner meeting at the Bar B-Q restaurant dining hall.

At the conclusion of the usual good fellowship during the dinner period, Harold Kellar, chairman opened the meeting by having the minutes of the previous two meetings read by Bob Taylor, secretary treasurer.

The meeting was turned over to Carl Casey student group chairman. Carl with the help of Art Lockley, Harold Kellar, Les Lennox and Bob Taylor assembled a questionnaire on various phases of accounting. Each of the above presented his own questions to the group in general, and lively discussions and answers were submitted. The evening was very successful both for the students' benefit and the other members present.

The club looks forward to more of these informal but educational evenings. Actual student members present were 6 in all, they appreciated such a program at this time with examinations in the offing.

Other business brought forth during the evening was the suggestion that members of both the Kingston Chapter and the Peterborough Chapter be invited to the May meeting, probably 10 from each chapter. This was to be further discussed by the executive and brought before the April meeting. It was moved and seconded by Les Lennox and Mark Vanner respectively that car expenses to the extent of $8 be approved for payment by the chapter to defray expenses of the Kingston trip.

RUSSIA GRIMLY SET AGAINST INQUIRY IN CZECH COUP

Clash in U. N. Seen Over Expansion of Soviet in Europe

By LARRY HAUCK

Lake Success, March 18 —(AP) —Russia seemed grimly determined today to fight on against a United Nations inquiry into the Communist coup in Czechoslovakia.

The U. N. Security Council voted yesterday, over strenuous Soviet objections, to hear all that can be turned up on the Czechoslovak crisis.

The decision was taken against a backdrop of bitter name-calling by Soviet delegate Andrei A. Gromyko. Applause for speakers answering Gromyko's thrusts echoed three times in the packed, usually-staid council chamber.

The council set next Monday for the start of debate on the case, filed last Friday by Chile against Russia.

Gromyko called the Chilean complaint a dirty and slanderous document; he said Chile was a lackey of influential foreign circles; and he called Dr. Jan Papanek, U. N. delegate discharged by the new Prague Communist regime, a traitor.

On Orders From Kremlin

Twice Gromyko emphasized that he was acting on direct instructions from the Kremlin. But he did not walk out, as he did two years ago in the Iranian case.

The council voted twice — to put the case on its official agenda and to give a non-voting seat to Hernan Santa Cruz, delegate of Chile. Both times Gromyko got only the support of the Soviet Ukraine; the other nine members voted solidly against him. Seven affirmative votes were needed to adopt the case for consideration. The veto did not apply.

Gromyko appeared to be trying to tie the Chilean complaint to President Truman's speech, delivered to Congress two hours before yesterday's council meeting. Before entering he told reporters the speech was "propaganda mainly for internal consumption." Inside he told the delegates the campaign against the Soviet Union was being heated up by statements of certain officials, including highly-placed persons.

Property of Gromyko's Words

The most prolonged applause from the crowded spectator section broke out when Dr. Alfonso Lopez of Columbia looked at Gromyko and said slowly:

"I believe it is high time that somebody should question the propriety of using this kind of language when referring to some of the non-permanent members of the Security Council or to other members of this (U.N.) organization, and I, for one, should like to register my protest against that kind of language in the Security Council."

T.F. Tsiang of China, this month's president of the council spoke in a similar vein but Gromyko quickly replied that he was not prepared "to take lessons in language."

Gromyko said the U.N. charter prohibited interference in the internal affairs of a country and that this was strictly a Czechoslovak affair.

The charges are that Russia sent high officials into prague to engineer the February coup and stationed Red Army troops on the Czech borders as a threat.

Today the Security Council resumes debate on the India-Pakistan dispute, to consider differences between Hindu India and Moslem Pakistan over the future of princely Kashmir state.

Enters Guilty Plea to Charges

That the law has a long memory was learned by Fred Boyle, formerly of Trenton, who today appeared in county police court on a traffic charge dating back to November, 1946.

Boyle pleaded guilty to charges of dangerous driving, of driving without a permit and of giving Provincial Police officers false information thereby creating a nuisance. He was assessed a total of $44 in fines and costs, or in lieu of payment will serve 21 days in jail.

Charges against Boyle were laid as a result of an accident on No. 2 Highway in November 1946. Provincial Constable Hector Gould who investigated told the court that Boyle had stated at the time of the accident that another party had been the driver of the car, the reason for giving this information being that the accused had no driver's licence.

When police learned Boyle had been the driver of the car involved in the accident a warrant for his arrest was issued but the accused had not been located until Wednesday. Boyle was located in a lumber camp north of Coe Hill.

CONGRESS SPLITS

Accuses Russia

He accused Russia of trying to sabotage the peace and of seeking to bring all of Europe under communist sway.

"We will have to take risks during the coming year — risks perhaps greater than any this country has been called upon to assume," he declared grimly. "But they are not risks of our own making and we cannot make the danger vanish by pretending that it does not exist.

"We must be prepared to meet the danger with sober self - restraint and calm and judicious action if we are to be successful in our leadership for peace."

Truman used different words before Congress:

"We must be prepared to pay the price of peace, or assuredly we shall pay the price of war."

Lashes Out at Wallace

In New York he made a major departure from his prepared text when he lashed out by name at Henry Wallace, the third - party presidential candidate.

After asserting that "We must beware of those who are devoting themselves to sowing the seeds of disunity among our people," he declared:

"I do not want and I will not accept the political support of Henry Wallace and his communists.

"If joining them or permitting them to join me is the price of victory, I recommend defeat. These are days of high prices for everything. But any price for Wallace and his communists is too much for me to pay."

There was no immediate reply from Wallace, who has scheduled a radio rejoinder to Mr. Truman's speech to Congress for 10:45 p.m. EST (ABC) tonight.

WARTIME

It is expected that government milk legislation, which may include provisions to enable municipalities to go into the milk business, will be introduced at this session. Premier Drew said the Labor-Progressive Bill as it stood did not properly provide for what is intended by the forthcoming legislation.

The Training School amendment will increase the daily rate paid to training schools for each person to $1.50 from $1, with the municipalities and the province sharing the increase ekgHRDLU sharing the increase equally. Mr. Dunbar said that in unorganized areas the provincial government pays all of the increase.

Lengthy Discussion

The government bill to amend the Industrial Standards Act was given lengthy discussion before second reading.

It will return to the municipalities the authority to establish hours of operation of service stations.

At present in Brantford, Windsor, Hamilton and Toronto hours are set under the act. They are generally followed throughout the rest of the province although not by law.

Calvin H. Taylor (CCF—Temiskaming) said garage operators in his constituency wanted the act to remain in effect n regard to hours of operation. They were satisfied with working from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m.

He said that it was apparently big business interests that were pressing for the lifting of restrictions. In order to compete with larger well-staffed stations a small owner would have to stay up half the night, Mr. Taylor declared.

J. B. Salsberg (LPP—Toronto St. Andrews) said the government should agree to what he described as a reasonable request from the Retail Dealers Association asking that the measure be placed in committee and that they be given a chance to discuss it and present arguments against it.

He suggested as an example of the shortcomings of municipal control what might happen in places like Galt and Preston.

Could Draw Business

Galt might decide its service stations can remain open to midnight. Preston might decide on 6 p.m. as closing time.

Thus, Mr. Salsberg said, Galt could draw business from Preston and operators would be powerless to do anything about it. It could develop into a feud with each municipality making the regulations to allow later and later closing, he said.

Labor Minister Daley, who sponsored the bill, said the municipalities have demanded the return of the right which was theirs until the act came into effect two years ago.

Attorney General Blackwell said that sympathetic though the government leaders may be to the plight of operators they must take into consideration all groups, the tourists and travellers. "We must decide what is the fairest compromies." He expressed belief that return to municipal control was that.

35 GREEN CARS

Thirty five showed up.

Canada Defence Forces Likely To Be Strengthened

Ottawa, March 18 (CP)—Pressure of critical world events seemed likely today to lead to a strengthening of Canada's defence forces, now only 34,000, compared with more than 1,000,000 enlistments during the Second World War.

Following President Truman's speech to the United States Congress in which he calld for universal military training in the U.S., urgent demands for an increase in the three Canadian services are expected to be made soon in parliament.

This increase is likely to come, in the first stages at any rate, through an increased recruiting drive.

Defence Minister Claxton said in a speech in Montreal last night that steps now were being taken to reduce or adjust the educational standards for entry into the forces to broaden the field for recruits. The standard at present is junior matriculation or its equivalent.

Earlier Mr. Claxton suddenly cancelled a 10-day flying tour of the Arctic because of "recent developments," on which he did not elaborate.

During 1947 31,688 "approaches" for active service were made to the three services, which resulted in 9,240 enlistments.

Question Serious

"The largest single cause of rejection was the high educational standards required," said the Minister who added that the "question of educational standards is serious."

Mr. Truman's plea for conscription in the U.S. was the most-discussed aspect of his speech in corridor talk in parliament.

But there seemed to be little likelihood that the Canadian government would consider it seriously at present.

Several prominent members from Quebec Province indicated privately, however, that if Russia and Communism were the potential enemy, the question of conscription would not precipitate the crises it has in the past in that province.

Prime Minister Mackenzie King in a statement in the Commons on the Truman speech, called it "magnificent."

Calling attention to the 50-year pact just signed in Brussels by Britain, France, Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg, he said:

"The people of all free countries may be assured that Canada will play her full part in every movement to give substance to the conception of an effective system of collective security by the development of regional pacts under the charter of the United Nations."

Appoint Delegates To Press Parley At Geneva

Ottawa, March 18 (CP)—The External Affairs department today announced names of the Canadian delegation to the United Nations freedom of the press conference at Geneva March 23.

Jean Desy, Canadian Minister to Italy, who has represented Canada on numerous international conferences, will head the Canadian group.

Other members will be Arthur Ford, editor-in-chief of the London Free Press; W. Arthur Irwin, editor of MacLean's Magazine; Lorenzo Pare, Ottawa correspondent of L'Action Catholique, Que., and Daniel C. McArthur, chief editor of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation News Service.

Advisers to the Canadian group will be Max Wershof of the Canadian High Commissioner's office in London; Campbell Moodie information officer of the same office; George Hambleton of the External Affairs Department Information office in Ottawa, and LLewellyn A. D. Stephens of the Canadian legation at Berne, who will act as secretary to the delegation.

Invited to participate

All members of the U.N. have been invited to participate in the conference which will have the task of formulating views concerning the rights, obligations and practices which should be included in the concept of freedom of information.

Provisional agenda for the conference calls for a general discussion on the principles of freedom of information and consideration of basic fundamental principles involved in gathering transmitting and disseminating news. Study will be given to measures to facilitate gathering of information, international transmission and free publication and reception of information.

Recommendations on these subjects have been prepared for the Geneva Conference by the subcommission on freedom of information and of the press, which has held two sessions at Lake Success, last May 19 to June 4 and Jan. 19 to Feb. 3.

The conference is expected to last four or five weeks.

Chateauguay Que., March 18—(CP)—To become $100,000 richer unexpectedly does not always mean happiness. It often means trouble, especially when you're a small earner used to little more than $25 a week.

Emilien Maheu of this Chateauguay County town, 15 miles south of Montreal, was a fireman in a local foundry when he won $100,000 in the Irish Sweepstake last Oct. 20. Today, he works as an apprentice mechanic in a garage because he does not know what to do with his fortune.

"You see, when one has too much money, he gets into trouble because he does not know how to spend his money," he said. "To stop short of all those worries, I decided to keep on living as I did before winning $100,000."

But the money has not made him happier.

"To have money puts you in all kinds of difficult situations," he explained. "You may think that money means security for the future. But is the future so secure? A sum of $100,000 may be spent so fast, you know."

To avoid troubles, he turned down offers of all kinds and put his money in the bank "so as to have it handy in case of absolute necessity."

The only things he bought were a 1947 automobile and a fur coat for his wife. He did not even buy new furniture. The old pieces "are as good today as they were before I won the money."

As for a new house—"Houses cost too much right now. I shall wait until prices become more reasonable."

He would not say however, whether he bought a ticket for the Grand National being run Saturday.

District Members R.A.M. Entertain Canada's Grand Z.

Members of Royal Arch Mason chapters in Prince Edward District welcomed the Grand Z of Canada, Most Ex Comp. F. W. Dean of Hamilton, at a meeting held in the Masonic Temple at Trenton on Tuesday night. More than 250 companions of the district were present along with companions from the Ontario district and Kingston.

Rt. Ex- Comp. Everett Wood, Grand Superintendent of Prince Edward District presided as chairman for the reception and banquet. The banquet was provided by members of Trenton Chapter Order of the Eastern Star.

Entertainment was provided by Miss Phyllis and Claude Huffman, who gave a number of piano duets. Several humorous readings were given by Mrs. Gordon Kartzmark. The toast to the King was proposed by Rt. Ex. Comp. C. Sprague of Trenton, while Ex. Comp. Bert Orr of Quinte Friendship Chapter, Belleville, introduced the principal speaker of the evening the Grand Z of Canada in Royal Arch Masonry.

Stresses Guidance

Most Ex. Comp. Dean stressed the importance of guidance and example to the young boys and girls of this country, especially the boys. As members of the Masonic Order he pointed out that it is a duty to give these young people the example that would give them the proper outlook on life. If we lived our principles of the craft in our daily lives then by this mode of living we would so impress our children and those of our neighbors that instead of well-filled jails and reformatories we would have churches overflowing at all services"

The church, he pointed out, was the only institution that stood for the worship of the Diety and he asked "what are we doing to support that effort?"

He showed that as a teacher of young men from 16 to 21 years in Hamilton that over 500 had passed through his hands and yet not more than a dozen parents had bothered to find out what he was teaching their children.

"Some are not interested enough in their children's welfare to inquire what type of religious training these children were getting," said the speaker. "They had grown so indifferent to the belief of the Fatherhood of God and that the church was the only place to publicly demonstrate that belief that they just didn't bother to go themselves but in some cases sent their children there to receive whatever, training others wanted to give them.

In Position to Show Brotherhood

He stressed the point that Masons were in the position to show real brotherhood of men to the world at large and if they all lived that type of life the whole world would be in the same position as Canada and the United States, no fortified border, the urge to visit back and forth, the desire to exchange views on current topics for the benefit of both countries whereas in other countries where fear of each other kept those countries in constant turmoil. In conclusion he urged all his listeners to so live their lives that their sons would be glad and proud to have as their motto: "I want to be the man my dad is."

Rt. Ex. Comp. Hilton McCartney presented the speaker with a gift of silver to mark the esteem of the Companions in the district for the Grand Z and Rt. Ex Comp. Bruce Smith, Grand Scribe N expressed the thanks of the Companions for the inspiring address.

Most Ex. Comp. Edwin Smith replying for the guests of the evening recalled the growth of capitular masonry in this district and paid tribute to some of the builders, especially the late Col. W. N. Ponton and Dick Spencer.

Rt. Ex. Companions Ed. Cherry and J. Phillip were presented with 25-year Principal Jewels. In addition these Companions have been Royal Arch Masons for over 50 years. Very Ex. Comp. W. C. Mikel, one of the oldest Companions in the district, spoke briefly.

Tribute was paid to Mrs. Dean who is the Worthy Grand Matron of the O. E. S. at the same time her husband is head of Royal Arch Masonry in Canada.

Canada May Join Security Pact Signed in Brussels

Ottawa, March 18 (CP)— Possibility that Canada eventually might join the collective security pact signed in Brussells by five western European Democracies was seen here today.

Official sources pointed out that the Burssels pact, signed by Britain, France, Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg, need not be confined to European countries if it is broadened.

If this collective security grouping snowballs, Canada would probably be glad to be picked up, these sources added.

Prime Minister Mackenzie's King's brief statement yesterday in the Commons on the Brussels agreement is considered significant.

He put the Canadian government squarely behind the idea of regional pacts when he said "the peoples of all free countries may be assured that Canada will play her full part in giving substance to the conception of an effective system of collective security."

Officials here said this pact, bolstering Western Europe against Communist advances, "may well" become a model for a broader collective security system within the United Nations. It might well lead to the inclusion of all free Democracies.

There is a certain optimism here that this collective security development on the part of the free Democracies will be a strong deterrent to aggression. One source said he thought it might prevent or at least postpone a conflict.

Italian Elections Event of Vital Int. Importance

Rome, March 18 (AP)—An event of vital international importance will occur a month from today when Italy elects its first parliament under the new Republic.

A clear Communist victory would upset the delicate balance of power between the east and west in Europe, a balance already rocked by Czechoslovakia's full incorporation into the Soviet sphere.

Opponents of Communism in Italy, including Premier Alcide De Gasperi, are telling voters clearly that if Communism wins, Italy will go the way of Czechoslovakia.

The Communists and their allies declare that Russia represents "real, progressive democracy," and that "Italy must belong to no bloc."

In the last elections, held in June, 1946, the Christian Democrats won approximately 37 per cent of parliamentary seats and the Communists and Socialists together almost 40 per cent. Since then the Socialists have split.

The Republic is governed by a parliamentary system in which the President of the Republic is chosen and the cabinet approved by parliament. The government must have a majority of both houses of parliament behind it to get in power and stay there.

The new parliament will meet May 10 to choose a president. He will select a leader of what he judges to be the strongest faction in parliament to form a cabinet. If the politician picked by the President can form a cabinet and get approval of both houses, the new government is completed.

The new government will remain in power for five years, or as long as it commands a parliamentary majority.

More than 26,000,000 voters are registered.

Voting will begin April 18 and continue through April 19.

Stocks Stronger When Distress Selling Eases

By The Canadian Press

Stock markets were actively firmer yesterday with Toronto taking the lead on substantial advances for industrials and mining stocks although New York at the closing showed signs of retreating from the high points touched in forenoon trading.

The gains made on the Toronto Stock Exchange were in large measure a reaction to the sharp recession of the previous three trading days. Distress selling — investors holding stocks on margins and to sell when the price dropped below the margin requirements—was said behind a considerable portion of the heavy volume Monday and Tuesday.

Indications that when this type of selling dried up the market would rebound, were borne out yesterday.

Trading in New York reflected anticipation that President Truman's address on the international situation would bolster equities of such armament industries as steel, rubber, motors and metals. Best example was the aviation stocks which moved up to new highs in morning transactions.

Stocks Decline

Following the President's talk, however, the market began to back away with aircraft stocks leading the decline. New York financial circles attributed the decline to failure of Mr. Truman to ask for specific appropriations for any phase of re-armament.

Generally, too, it was believed that even should a full-fledged rearmament program be undertaken, wartime curbs such as restriction of profits, would be imposed.

Commodity markets, grains, cotton, etc., were irregular and on a downward trend. At Chicago wheat, corn and oats moved down as much as three cents a bushel while cotton at New York closed as much as $1.80 a bale lower.

European Recovery

On the international front the deteriorating relations between the big powers was the foremost cause for uncertainty. Observers, too, did not fail to note reports of substantial industrial and agricultural recovery in Europe.

Also noted were statements made in London yesterday by Food Minister Strachey and Harold Wilson, President of the Board of Trade. Both pointed to the dificulty of continuing the purchase of foodstuffs from the dollar countries while Strachey made reference to indications that "the non-dollar world is beginning to recover in the nick of time for us."

Jim (Chief) Smiley, Marksman, Burned To Death

Port Dalhousie, March 18 (CP) —Jim (Chief) Smiley, veteran marksman and vaudeville trick-shot, burned to death today when fire destroyed his combined home and boat livery here on the banks of the old Welland Canal. Police said flames were sighted by a passing motorist and when volunteer firemen arrived the small frame structure was engulfed and entry was impossible.

When flames were quelched an hour later, the body of the "Chief" was found lying a few feet from the door. He had apparently wakened and tried unsuccessfully to make his escape.

Smiley acquired the name "Chief" years ago during a 20-year career on the stage and was considered one of the ranking revolver shots of the day. He was a familiar figure to Royal Canadian Henley Regatta spectators who watched amazed as he performed trick shots from a canoe in front of the grand stand. Two years ago one of the racing shells of the St. Catharines Rowing Club was named after him.

Firemen said that an overheated stove was responsible for the fire in the small canal side building where he lived alone.

Significant Events

Two significant events took place on Wednesday. It was a day in the democratic world. In Brussels was signed a fifty-year treaty of economic co-operation and military aid by the five nations of Western Europe, France, Britain and the three Benelux countries, Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg. That pact will likely be greatly expanded by the entry of more of the European nations in the very near future. In Washington President Truman called for immediate action for help for Europe's recovery and asked for a temporary draft law and universal military training in the United States.

The President was outspoken in his references to the recent developments in Europe which have been forcibly brought to the attention of the world by the events in Czechoslovakia particularly.

Words which must lend much encouragement to the democracies of Europe who would maintain at all cost their democracy were those of Mr. Truman, "I am sure that the determination of the free countries of Europe to protect themselves will be matched by an equal determination on our part to help them to do so."

Russian action in regard to nations in eastern and central Europe he called "ruthless" and blamed for the critical situation which has developed in Europe since the close of the Second Great War. He warned of the danger of hesitation in action and declared that there are times when it is "far wiser to act than to hesitate."

British Thoroughness

One of the pieces of news offered the world yesterday was that concerning the British headquarters underground beneath London, during the Second World War. It was thrilling news for it recalled those days of high resolve when Britons gave their utmost, leading the Allied world in the struggle to match and defeat the tyranny of Nazism and Hitlerism. The world was told many details of the great underground headquarters of 150 rooms and the small reinforced council chamber of war days.

British thoroughness in her long and inspiring history has stood her well. Germany's oft-heralded and boasted thoroughness was not of the same kind. Germany's was brutality itself. Britain's thoroughness was the wholehearted devotion of a great people to preserve herself and mankind for the enjoyment of democracy. Whatever Britain does she does well. She laid the foundations of democracy through many hundreds of years of history, she built an empire, in which she developed young nations to play their part worthily in the cause of freedom, she gave of her great power to help others and she has stood as champion in defence of right in a world twice threatened by a return to the darkness of barbarism and came out victor in the cause of justice among nations as among men.

She has always had the reputation of thoroughness and that applies to her business instinct and to the work of her handicraftsmen. The result of British labor and industry is a product which has justly earned the admiration of all people for its perfection. Her present economic problems she will solve by the fine work of her people.

And in building a defence within the defences of the nation, a headquarters that would safely weather any possibile blows from the Nazi enemy, she showed that same thoroughness. This is but a symbol of her work in commerce and in the international life of mankind.

The story of the underground headquarters under London where so much that was vital to the success of the Allied war to smash Hitlerism and German barbarism was determined in meetings of the War Council inspires British subjects of today and the lovers of democracy everywhere for Britain's ways are ways of right and completeness.

How much the world owes to this vast underground retreat and the security it afforded the leaders meeting in council, it may be difficult to realize. But that it meant a great deal no one can doubt. It meant security.

That this underground headquarters will become a national museum comes as welcome news for it has so close a contact with the people of this age for here was decided so much that meant victory and triumph of democracy.

Signs

All the signs of spring despite March's reputation for rudeness of wind and weather are here. The warmth of the sun's rays though the air be chill, the melting of the fetters of ice and snow which have bound the earth, the imminent crack-up of the icy coating of rivers and streams, and the lengthening of the day by the steady increase of light earlier and earlier in the morning and later and later in the evenings, all portend what cannot fail—spring is almost here, in fact, just two days away.

March, which is linked to spring, has all varieties of weather under its control, the wintry blast and the wild March winds, the driven snow often piled deep even in the latter days of the month, the sting of the cold and the elusiveness of ice and snow when once the heat generated by the impact of the sun's rays goes to work. Placed on the ridge between winter and spring, March partakes of the spirit of both. Swift changes of temperature and wind, of snow or rain, of gentleness and violence, are all marks of the divided month, part winter and part spring. In the meantime all the forces of life which have lain dormant like the hibernating bear are gently setting to work, the urge of the sap upward to the branches where will be the leaves of another growing season is under way and the observant folk see the buds swollen on the trees.

William Morris struck the note for March,

"Slayer of the winter, are thou here again?
O welcome thou, that bring'st the summer nigh!
The bitter wind makes not the victory vain,
Nor will we mock thee for thy faint blue sky."

At the spring equinox, March roars often like a lion. So many generations has the race of man felt the March winter that human beings do not mind the wild March morning or the blasts which rock the leafless trees and keep the air above and about in a howl of rage and fury during the night for on the other side of that disturbance is the smiling face of romping spring with its symbols of gambolling lambs. Rude or gentle though March's entry and farewell be, March has her duty to perform in the year and she carries out her outlined task. She is the boundary line or border that separates the age of winter and the new birth of spring.

BEST PRIDE

He builded a fortune to leave at the last.
He proved he was clever, deserving of praise.
He was pleased at the top of his field to be classed.
But, sitting alone and reviewing his days,
Though proud of his fame and the goals he had won,
He was prouder of some little good he had done.

He remembered his struggle to come to success,
Was glad that of triumph at last he could boast,
But it seemed not enough merely things to possess,
And he found they were not what he valued the most.
As over his years he let memory run,
He was prouder of some little good he had done.

'Tis conquest, he'd learned, which best pleases the throng,
But tarnish comes quickly to cups on a shelf.
And though fortune and fame to him rightly belong,
A man wants at last to be proud of himself.
And alone when he comes to the set of sun,
He wants to be known for the good he has done.

INFORMATION ROUNDUP

How is the President paid?

On the first and 15th day of each month he receives a cheque for $3,125 signed by the chief disbursement clerk of the Treasury Department, whose name is affixed by a machine that clears six and seven thousand cheques an hour.

The President is the only Federal official or employee who does not sign the Government payroll.

His salary cheque is delivered to him at the White House by a special messenger from the office of the Treasurer of the United States. The cheque is made payable not to the President by name but to "The President of the United States." It is generally accepted by one of the President's secretaries. Formerly the President was paid once a month and on the last day of each month a Treasury clerk went to the White House and handed the President a cheque for $6,250.

In the Constitutional Convention of 1787 Benjamin Franklin proposed that the President serve without pay, but the Constitution as finally adopted provided that "The President shall, at stated times, receive for his services, a compensation, which shall neither be increased nor diminished during the period for which he shall have been elected."

By act of September 24, 1789, President Washington was allowed a salary of $25,000 a year during his term of office. The act of February 18, 1793, passed after Washington's re-election, fixed the salary of the President at $25,000 a year from and after March 3, 1793.

In 1808 Senator James Hillhouse of Connecticut sponsored a proposal to amend the Constitution to provide that the compensation of the President should not exceed $15,000 a year, and in 1822 Representative Timothy Fuller of Massachusetts sponsored an amendment to the Consituation to provide the salaries of the President, Vice President and members of Congress be refixed every ten years.

But the President's salary remained at $25,000 a year until the act of March 3, 1875, the last day of Grant's first term, increased it to $50,000. In 1876 Congress passed a bill reducing the President's salary to $25,000 but President Grant, who had made it known that he could not live on $25,000, vetoed the bill and no attempt was made to pass it over his veto. By act of March 4, 1909, the last day of Theodore Roosevelt's administration, the President's salary was raised to $75,000 a year.

JUSTICE MINISTER

and said it was right that the people's business to discuss the dangers of Communism. The motion carried unanimously.

Windsor Star Praised

As the debate progressed, members of all parties praised the Windsor Daily Star for its current series of articles exposing communist activities in Canada ple should be kept informed.

Mr. Bracken pledged his party to give the government wholehearted support in any steps it takes, with its legislative powers, to fight communism.

Prime Minister Mackenzie King commenting on the Western Union pact signed in Brussels, said assurance that Canada will play her "full part" in every movement to give substance to the conception of an effective system of collective security by the development of regional pacts under the Charter of the United Nations.

M. J. Coldwell, C. C. F. leader, made a public rejection of efforts of the leftist Labor - Progressive party to infiltrate his group.

Asks for Action

A. L. Smith (PC — Calgary West), asked for action to stop the rights of citizenship from any Canadian who is an avowed communist and to deport to his homeland any foreign communist who accepts Canadian citizenship.

"There is no greater menace in the world than all of us must face in common with all the strength reserve and power that it is possible for us to muster, Mr. King said.

He recalled that the Liberal government had been the first in the world to expose communists in the public service and said he could not forget that External Affairs Minister St. Laurent, then Justice Minister, had been taken "pretty strongly to task" by the opposition for interfering with the liberty of those charged.

Canada Envied Place

He did not know whether the Communists had their eyes on Canada. He was inclined to think that they were more concerned with the countries of Europe and Asia. But there was no doubt that they looked on Canada as one of the most envied places on the globe.

Mr. Bracken warned that Communists regarded Canada as a strategic county and one which they felt was a vital source of information on such things as the atomic bomb.

He felt that Canada "obviously" had no reason to believe that Soviet espionage, although uncovered in 1945, had been discontinued. In fact it still was going on to a larger extent.

Canada should associate herself with the United States in its efforts to promote world recovery and should accept her share of the responsibility of giving moral and economic leadership to the world, Mr. Bracken added.

Mr. Coldwell, warning that the world faces danger from the "extreme right" as well as the "extreme left," said there should be opportunities from time to time during the parliamentary session for the House to discuss international affairs.

He said the outlawing of political movements throughout history had showed that they increased by suppression.

"I prefer," he went on, "to know where my opponent lies, rather than have him working underground."

Mr. Low said there was no place in Canada for the "evil thing" which was the doctrine of Karl Marx and which had been "spawned in the cesspools" of 19th century Europe. He and his party had opposed Communism throughout their political life.

Mr. Ilsley said that if Canadians would acquaint themselves with what the Communists had said and done during the Russo-German alliance of the early war years they would be "appaled." They would learn that anyone who called himself a Communist could have no loyalty to this country whatsoever.

YOU STILL HAVE YOUR TONSILS

It may seem presumptuous and even bumptious for a doctor who is not an authority about anything to say this, but I've cogitated the matter carefully for many years now and I've got to say it now, for my own peace of mind.

A patient (not of mine, he's just an acquaintance of mine) who had electro-coagulation (diathermy) treatment of infected tonsils many years ago has since been examined by two nose and throat specialists, one ear specialist and two all around, head of eye-ear-nose-and-throat specialists, and, believe it or not, upon learning that the patient had received diathermy treatment, every one of these self-sufficient little men (in private life some of them, I know, are not at all conceited or arbitrary) looked at the patient's throat and uttered the same banality, "But, my dear sir, you still have your tonsils!"

The very utterance and the implication it so subtly conveys is a sad commentary on the professional competence of the physicians who blabber like that in the presence of an intelligent patient.

Now, children, tell me, if you had, say, an infected Meibomian gland in your upper eyelid and your physician drained or pasteurized or disinfected it with diathermy and years later you came under the care of an eye specialist and told the specialist your history and he remarked: "But, my —friend, you still have your eyes!" would you still have confidence in the specialist's medical or surgical ability?

Well?

If any physician or surgeon or specialist of standing questions the propriety or the honesty of my teaching about this, on his own responsibility (without the help of any unidentified "authorities"), let him state what he believes to be the truth and I'll print it here without revealing his name unless by his written consent.

The death rate from tonsillectomy is high. Even if only one child out of ten thousand subjected to tonsillectomy dies from the operation, the death rate is too high to justify the attempt to remove the entire tonsil in any circumstance short of malignancy (cancer).

After all, tonsils are not harmful to health and, in the opinion of most physicians the lymphoid or adenoid tissue of the tonsils is functionally useful in the defence of the body against infections, particularly the respiratory infections. Kaiser in his book Children's Tonsils in or Out (Lippincott, '32) concluded from his ten year study of 2200 school children whose tonsils were removed and 2200 (control) school children whose tonsils were not removed — Dr. Kaiser's exhaustive study of the question still outweighs any similar observation of experience I believe—that "The respiratory infections such as laryngitis, bronchitis, pneumonia, not only are not benefited but actually occur more frequently in tonsillectomized children."

What Dr. Kaiser meant, of course, is that tonsillectomy does not help the child to remain immune from the respiratory infections—he did not mean to imply that the atrocity is ever inflicted on a child ill of laryngitis, bronchitis or pneumonia.

Tonsillotomy—slicing off a portion of tonsil to relieve obstruction of breathing—is comparatively safe and, in my opinion, necessary and advisable in many instances.

Tonsillectomy — the attempt, it is never more than an attempt, to remove every bit of tonsil from the throat—is a major operation which, in my opinion, is justifiable only when we believe the lesion in the tonsil is malignant, cancer or other grave, life-threatening disease.

Arthritis

Lived in Michigan all my life. Have had arthritis for thirty years. Do you think if I moved to another climate— (T. H. C.)

Answer—I know of no better climate than that of Michigan, Texas, Massachusetts, California, Montana, Missouri or Manitoba, for one with chronic arthritis. Forget the weather, climate, season, cold, damp nonsense and find out what ails you and what treatment may be required. Some facts to think about instead of the almanac hokum that has misled you for thirty years, are given in the booklet The Ills Called Rheumatism. Ask for it in writing (do not use clipping) and inclose twenty cents and stamped self addressed envelope.

Elsewhere in Southwest Ontario, flood fears were calmed when most river levels dropped. The Thames, which Tuesday reached a point eight feet below the surface of London's breakwater, diminished sharply.

At Brantford, the first stage of the annual flood run-off appeared to be passing — but residents crossed fingers as the Grand retreated from cellars and front porches.

Grand River conservation commission officials said this week's overflow came mainly from two tributaries, the Conestago and Speed. However, 30-inch ice remains in the Upper Grand.

A cement highway bridge in the heart of Meaford, Georgian Bay, was dismantled when a huge ice jam rose to within five feet of its central arch. Waters of Big Head River were blamed. Meanwhile, about 100 employees of the Meaford woolens mills are idle as flood torrents pour in one door and out the other.

At Long Branch, suburban Toronto, a nervous "all clear" was given more than 50 families who were forced to flee homes when the Etobicoke Creek leaped its banks to a depth of 12 feet.

A POINT TO CONSIDER
CHARGED WITH MANSLAUGHTER
Many of us spend several hours a day behind the wheel of a motor vehicle, hours which to some are enjoyable and to others tinged with fear and worry; the thought of being involved in an accident like so many of us have seen and shuddered at. A high percentage of these accidents could have been prevented if the vehicle involved had been in good mechanical shape. Don't drive in constant fear of your vehicle. You owe it to yourself and to those who put their lives in your hands to keep your car or truck in mechanical fitness. Is a dollar worth someone's life?
MR. MOTORIST — check these safety points and see if they apply to YOU.
1. POOR LIGHTS?
2. FAULTY BRAKES?
3. ERRATIC STEERING?
4. FAULTY HORN?
5. WORN WINDSHIELD WIPER?
6. UNCERTAIN ENGINE PERFORMANCE??
We are thoroughly equipped to check all of these SAFETY Points.

World Reaction to Speech Of President Truman

London, March 18 (CP)—Signing of the five-power defence pact at Brussels and President Truman's request to the United States Congress for reintroduction of conscription in the United States today jockeyed for top play in all but one of London's morning newspapers, which approved both. The exception was the Communist Daily Worker.

"No time must be lost," streamered The Daily Mail with the sub-title "Truman calls: Bring in conscription." The Daily Express bannered "Conscription in the U.S." and The Daily Graphic headlined "Truman Demands Call-Up."

The Times gave two-column prominence to each on page four. The Daily Worker headlined "Truman Calls for Conscription in America" and said in a front-page story that "his speech came as a climax to a carefully-fostered war hysteria throughout the United States."

A Foreign Office spokesman, in the first official government reaction to the speech, said Britain welcomed the emphasis on the "essentially defensive character" of American policy. Britain also was pleased to hear the reaffirmation of United States belief in the United Nations.

No Consultation With Britain

The spokesman said that Truman's speech had not been preceded by any consultation with the British government. Foreign Secretary Bevin, now in Brussels, had been totally unaware of its contents before it was delivered. He was expected to comment on his return to London Friday.

Truman's speech met with general approval from western Europe, but the Communist east maintained almost complete silence.

The general view in the west was that Truman had taken a step in the right direction. Some quarters concluded he had laid down a historic United States policy. Others commented the payoff was up to Congress.

The Soviet Union told its people about the speech over Moscow radio but did not comment.

Prague Critical

Czechoslovakia, where the communists took control last month, produced the first communist criticism. The Prague government radio said last night, "There are other ways to preserve peace than to introduce universal military service."

Italy, where the Communists are campaigning for an election April 18, a spokesman for Christian Democratic Premier Alcide De Gasperi said the message held good news for Europe's democratic countries.

Approving comment came from spokesmen of some of the five countries which signed the 50-year mutual-defence treaty in Brussels yesterday. The signers were Britain, France, Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg.

High French officials for the most part agreed that Congressional adoption of universal military training and a temporary draft would leave no doubt of American determination to stop communism cold in Europe.

A Netherlands foreign office spokesman called the address a big encouragement to Western Europe and "the best blessing of the western pact."

Russian Broadcast Summary

The Moscow radio broadcast an 80-word summary of the speech on its early-morning newscast for Russian listeners, without comment. The summary, as recorded by the Soviet monitor in London:

"At yesterday's joint session of the Chambers of Congress President Truman made a speech in which he asserted that rapid changes touching upon foreign policy and the national security of the U.S.A. were taking place in Europe.

"Truman recommended the immediate introduction of military conscription, of general military training and the rapid passing of the Marshall plan.

"Truman's speech contained attacks on the Soviet Union and countries of Eastern and Central Europe. Truman welcomed the signing of the Brussels military pact."

Lord Teynham's Remark

In the House of Lords debate last night on the armed forces budget, Conservative Lord Teynham said, "Britain is living in the shadow of another war which may break out at any moment."

In Stockholm, well-informed observers however coupled Truman's reference to "danger to Scandinavia" with the signing a few hours earlier of the pact at Brussels. Some suggested that this pact, reinforced by American backing, might eventually be extended to the Scandinavian countries.

The Danish Conservative newspaper Nationaltidende said Truman's speech "marks the turning point in post-war politics. The time of protest notes and requests is over."

Non-Communist politicians in Berlin greeted Truman's statement as a sign the United States was awake to the dangers of European situation and expressed hope Congress would act swiftly on his recommendations.

Govt. Encourages Prospecting For Uranium

Ottawa, March 17 — (CP) — Private prospecting for uranium and other radioactive minerals is permitted and encouraged by the government under a plan announced in the Commons Tuesday night by Reconstruction Minister Howe.

Announcing removal of restrictions by which the Crown reserved title in these minerals, he said the United States Atomic Energy Commission's policy is 'along parallel lines.'

Mr. Howe said the radioactive ores, when mined, will be purchased by the government through Eldorado Mining and Refining Ltd., or any other designated government-operated agency.

To encourage the search for and development of atomic materials, the government would pay $2.75 a pound, based on uranium content.

Mr. Howe said the government retained its original title to radioactive minerals "largely because the question of ownership of ores in the ground was still under discussion in the United Nations Atomic Energy Commission and it was felt that no action should be taken here that might embarrass those discussions."

"Since then the second report of the U. N. Commission has been published and that report does not contemplate ownership of ores in the ground by any international authority which may be established.

International Situation Never Worse Says King

Ottawa, March 18 — (CP) — Prime Minister Mackenzie King told a Liberal caucus Wednesday that the international situation had never been worse.

Before the members adjourned to listen to a broadcast of President Truman's call to universal military training in the United States, they heard the prime minister give what one member called "a pessimistic interpretation" of the crisis in Europe.

Without specifically mentioning the prospect of war, Mr. King said the crisis might well come to a head in weeks. The Italian elections next month were of the greatest importance.

There was some speculation in parliamentary corridors that if the situation continued to darken it might mean postponement of the August convention of the Liberal party to choose a successor to Mr. King.

Drew Declares Statements Made Improper, Untrue

Toronto, March 18. (CP)—Premier Drew declared in the legislature yesterday that statements attributed to Attorney General Gordon Wismer of British Columbia blaming Ontario and Quebec for failure of Dominion-Provincial negotiations are "improper and untrue".

"I can quite understand some people who have no knowledge of what took place being affected by the propaganda of the Dominion government over the radio, through the press and elsewhere which seeks to build up the impression that Ontario and Quebec brought the Dominion-Provincial conference to an end," the Premier said.

"After all, they have no way of checking such statements with their own personal knowledge of it and it is only natural that in many cases they should not know how utterly untrue such statements are.

"But this excuse is not open to Mr. Wismer. He attended the conference He knows what took place. He knows that the conference did not adjourn because of any action by the government of Ontario and Quebec, but that it adjourned on motion of the Dominion government for the stated purpose of considering the proposals then before it. Since that time this government and many other provincial governments beside that of the province of Quebec have been urging the Dominion government to reconvene that conference.

"The only reason there is no general agreement today between the Dominion and all the provinces is because of the arrogant attitude of the Dominion government and their flat refusal to reconvene the conference."

Premier Drew referred to a Canadian Press dispatch quoting Attorney General Wismer as saying:

"In Dominion-Provincial taxation negotiations, neither Premier Duplessis of Quebec nor Premier Drew of Ontario gave an indication they were willing to settle the question of taxation for all provinces. . . Those wealthy provinces . . . which syphon many millions from British Columbia should give consideration to the people of Canada as a whole. If the taxation agreement is not satisfactory to Ontario and Quebec, there must be a compromise. The people of Canada will not stand for their attitude much longer."

Lipstick Applicator Newest Cosmetic Fad

Now the latest gadget to tickle the pennies from your cosmetic budget is a lipstick of top quality which chains to it a lucite applicator! The end of the applicator is ridged so it will collect color quickly from the lipstick as you rub it across and carry it to your lips. There's no excuse now for those one-sided mouths or smeary lipstick!

You have your choice of eight luscious shades.

For Prettier Lips

Too many women are careless when they apply lip color. It is likely to be smeared or one side of the upper lip is fuller than the other side, thus making the face look a bit off balance! Perhaps this is because these women never learned to use a lip brush or applicator and rely upon a blunt lipstick to do an even job. A new lipstick with its planed top or point can apply lip color evenly but after it gets worn down and rounded, it is impossible to use it skillfully.

If you are going to use lip color, have it make you look better instead of less attractive! Select a shade which flatters your skin tone and which does not fight with a wardrobe color you might be wearing. Then apply it carefully and well so that it will not come off the first time you unconsciously lick your lips or eat something.

Use a foundation lotion over your lips. Let it dry. Then paint on a thin coat of color evenly, blot it, powder over it lightly and apply a second coat of color. Blot it and then press a piece of fresh cotton moistened with cologne or skin tonic over your lips to set the color. Your lips will stay with you all day long!

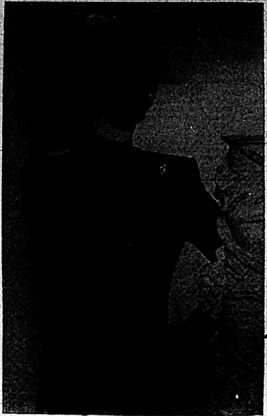
Originality Looks Ahead

As sensible as it is sensational, is the creation of the "Zip-a-Part" Chapeau by Irma Kigere of New York. Starting with two fundamental hats, Mme. Kigere proceeds with the aid of zippers to separate and interchange the hats' individual parts so as to evolve six entirely different silhouettes and color combinations!

Another of Mme. Kigere's ingenious designs is the "Cover-Up Stolette" which can be worn over bare shoulders or over any kind of sleeve. According to the fabric and degree of hand detailing, the stolette can be worn for day or evening, and may be accompanied by gloves, mittens, belt or bag made to match.

TREND TO COMFORT

The trend in sleeping cars on United States railway roads is toward private, single-occupancy accommodation, officials say.



A V-shaped dickie that buttons with golden double hooped novelties, "makes" the fascinating fastening detail on this navy blue dressmaker suit. Buttons are B. G. E. Originales.

Lined Collar Wears Longer

All fastidious women find that keeping their silk blouses and print dresses fresh and dainty mounts up to quite a sum in the course of a month. Those that cannot be laundered at home make frequent trips to the cleaners.

One resourceful business girl had an idea which has saved her considerable outlay of her hard-earned cash. She noticed that the back of the neck, extending sometimes down near the shoulders was always the place that first showed soil, even when the rest of her garment still appeared to be spotless.

To forestall this, she made a lining from the collar from a strip of white silk, hemmed it and then basted it to the collar. This protection worked out so well that she made several more collar linings and put them in all her dresses. For her heavy, cold-weather garments, she added a back yoke which is tacked to the shoulder seams, as well as at the neck. This has been more satisfactory than she dreamed of.

When long-sleeved garments are worn there should be strips made to baste inside the cuffs. You will find you must launder them frequently but that will be easier than the trip to the cleaners establishment, not to mention the cleaners charges for services.

Small pieces of fine white cotton can be used for these back yokes and collar linings, or other fine white materials such as nainsook or lawn. The young business girl made her linings from what she had on hand much of it being from discarded slips.

Many of us have found the once popular vestee very satisfactory as a means of presenting a spotless, well-groomed appearance to those with whom we come in contact. Fashions change, however, and neckwear very often.

Off-the-Face Bonnets And Matching Parasols At American Hat Show

Attending a "Hats for You" preview presented by Madame Aranka of New York was like a flashback to grandmother's day.

The showing included saucy off-the-face bonnets, tied under the chin, with flowers sprouting over the narrow brim; heavy, droopy brims weighed down with flowers and sporting long streamers; frothy, black and white lace and veil edged big brims, redolent of Merry Widow fantasies. There were also little flowered, ribboned and laced parasols to match some of the hats.

One observer gasped: "My goodness, I hope we won't have to start buying parasols to match our hats."

But there were innovations too. One was the removable wide straw brim, which leaves a small plaid turban with a sash hanging down one side. In the removable class also were small black velvet Juliet caps with flowered earmuffs. These could be worn with or without wide pink shantung straw brims.

One number, displayed by identical twins, was a lacy off-the-face with bleeding hearts trembling from the brim.

A "beau catcher" was a dull-like Easter bonnet of pale blue straw with small rosebuds facing the brim and tied with long lengths of pink maline veiling. Another was Aranka's new color, "Tiger Lily", designed in a square-crowned straw with wide handsome brim banded with Dresden ribbon.

Montreal (CP)—Henry F. Hall, dean of Sir George Williams College says the sun still has some new elements to give the earth's scientists. Dr. Hall says that through the spectroscope method, the presence of helium was first discovered on the sun and the effects of the sun on the weather may yield fresh knowledge.

Mainbocker Presents Newest Look in Smart Old-Fashioned Design

One definition of chic describes it as contemporary attractiveness. Mainbocher, foremost American designer, who presented his spring and summer custom collection to the fashion press on Friday, says that the new chic is to be pretty, a prettiness that combines sophisticated authority, wearableness and just good old-fashioned charm.

In Current Collection

Mainbocher's current collection has the familiar natural shoulders he sponsored long before his imitators would relinquish the padded, mannish look; the femininely small waistline he always has believed in; the varying skirt lengths he created to fit our way of life and the wearer.

Gleaned from the collection are these significant straws in the fashion wind: Short jackets that fall close to the figure in front with slightly more back fullness; jackets with the lines of a man's tail coat, rounded over the bosom and falling in the back to the hips; enveloping skirt-hemlong coats flaring wide in the back, raincoat fashion; exclusive eyelet embroideries with a Maud Muller air; lace-trimmed aprons to tie over a basic frock and what this writer has chosen to call transparents"—the combination of two fabrics, one over the other.

These are gowns of sheer tulle, embroidered net or lace over gowns of silk or cotton. Mme. de Sevigne, whose seventeenth century letters were masterpieces of unaffected, vivid and sympathetic narration, called them transparents in describing such gowns worn at the French court of her day. The name fits the lovely "pretties" which Mainbocher has created.

Butterflies have replaced the dainty bows used in other seasons by Mainbocher. Cascades of roses and rose petals that drift and fall from shoulder to hemline on fragile evening gowns, ribbons that bind and tie and discreet metallic embroideries are among the accents he employs to give that "pretty look."

flattering side tilt nets, toques and pillboxes is high on the hit parade of popular-priced hat fashions and will undoubtedly continue through the summer months. But even in their softly rippling picture hats, most of the name designers prefer the simple, straightforward pose of the head-fitting round crown.

The flowers and the flower-toned ribbons, straws, felts and veilings of this Easter season are exquisite. Pastels are beguiling. They may be deep-toned or the most delicate tints. Pinks, mauves, orchid and periwinkle blues are marvelously lovely and many bonnets are trimmed with silk roses, fragile lilac blossoms, honeysuckle and lilies of the valley. Apricot, buttercup, jonquil and tangerine are among the soft sunny shades that also look wonderful with spring navy, grey and black costumes, as well as with harmonizing pastels.

Sailors, worn on the hairline rather than on the back of the head, may be simply tailored or flowered and feminine. Veils and scarves increase the softly feminine charm of hat silhouettes. Dainty laces are used on straws or to make entire hats, as are petticoats ruffles of embroidery or lacy straw.

Much Ado About Accessories

For every blouse there's a gamut of wonderful skirts— pleated ones, gathered ones, flared ones— a few padded through the hips to gain still more fullness. For streetwear they are 13" and 14" from the floor, for dancing under the [illegible] length, and straight skirts, knife-pleated at the back only, he cut away the centre back jacket from the waist downwards, showing the pleating as far as the waist. Another suit had a rolled collar to the waist and double-breasted buttoning from the waist to foot of jacket.

In afternoon two-pieces the long three-quarter length jacket effect was popular, either straight with hip padding or fluted in apron effect. These often had bobble trimming on the yoke, neck or skirt and jacket hems.

Occasionally wide petersham or satin trimmings were used in the same way with large bows at waist, hip or back of the jacket, sometimes also on the skirt.

Functional Clothing Combines With Styl In Spring V

Considering the urgency of our times and the great speed with which everything, including ourselves, is forced to move, no one will long be foolhardy enough to be hampered by lengthy, voluminous skirts, over-sized hats and sleeves and Victorian ruffles and laces, a fashion expert recently decreed. We must change, she said so let's have clothes for '48 rather than those of the 19th century.

Most women want clothes to "do something" for them, to be functional and suited to their way of life. Most Canadian women do not feel like adopting a habit of "production" buying.

Also, with shortages of fabrics of all types, too much material is in as poor taste as filling your plate with meat in a famine. It is time for women to use common sense, take a look at ourselves, find out how tall, how wide, or how slim we are and balance our figures. Veteran Tea Taster Warns Against Long-Boiling Water

By NORMAN CRIBBENS
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, March 18 — (CP) — At 85, Arthur Hartley still goes daily to his old-established business to taste, value and sell tea.

Bent and white - haired, Hartley is known to the trade as a "first-class tea taster." His office stands at the top of a dusty staircase — at the end of a narrow lane in the financial quarter of London.

"I've been tasting tea and assessing its value for 70 years," Hartley said. "These days there is a lot less tasting to do than we'd like. But pre-war I used to taste 400 different teas and price them — all before breakfast."

To the suggestion that tea-tasters have to be careful not to spoil their palates with other drinks, Hartley lay back in his chair and laughed.

"Oh yes — yes indeed," he said. "We mustn't drink alcohol — at least so we tell our wives. And we don't smoke either," he added, lighting a cigar.

Hartley's tea-tasting den is a low-roofed attic with a long, sloping window and a score of tiny white teapots ranged along a bench.

"For tea tasting you must have a good north light," he explained. "You have to watch tea. Good tea creams over — goes cloudy, y'know, when it cools."

He made a specimen pot. Weighing enough tea to balance a sixpence in a pair of scales, he popped it into the infuser.

"A most important point—you must catch the water the moment it boils. If it has been boiling even 10 seconds it spoils the flavor. That's where so many people go wrong.

"Canada? Oh, they can't make tea there — and it's worse in the United States."

Hartley predicted there would soon be "more tea in Britain than we can use."

"There is enough tea to end rationing now between the gardens and the ports of India — all held up because of transport strikes. The same thing happened after the last war. So much tea flooded into Britain in 1920 that the price fell to nothing."

Men Will Wear More Town Wear

Men will find that clothes designed especially for town wear have a more dressed-up look than for some time. Coats, suits and accessories are all styled with a marked formal note and are detailed with artfully subtle fabric patterns and tailoring construction. Guard model coats, Chesterfields and Homburg hats, worn with very conservative shirts, will be high fashion notes for urbanites.

In suits there is a tendency towards modified square shoulders and a straight-hanging back. The extra-full drape is gone. Double-breasted jackets continue to stress a low-waisted look. 3-button styles are expected to show a great gain in favor among single-breasted suits. Jacket sleeves are more noticeably tapered.

New topcoat styles stress lower button placement, roomier cut and the revival of patterned fabrics. One new model is a roomy raglan with a very full skirt and military collar. These features give the coat truly casual and sporty air and make it highly desirable for comfort in traveling as well as for general use. Topcoats meant for town and dress-up wear are slightly fitted, come in single and double-breasted models, and will be available in wider color ranges of fine coverts and tweeds.

1948 sports jackets are featuring single-breasted designs with three buttons and three patch pockets. Most of these are very light in weight and some are longer than before, with two rear vents and slanted pockets. Fancy backs with shirring and half-belts have been revived somewhat in the newest models. Many new colors have been added in this field, since men will accept new color ideas most readily in their leisure clothes. Slacks to wear with these also come in a greater color variety. These bring new interest with added colors in flannels and featherweight worsted gabardines. Color offerings in all sportswear include bright shades of rust, blue, green and yellow.

Gabardine's Versatile

Gabardine emerged in the current Men's Fashion Guild of New York offerings as the most important men's fabric of the year. Prominently featured in almost every item of a man's wardrobe, sleek gabardine has been tailored into handsome topcoats, suits, leisure jackets, and slack ensembles, sport shirts, and swim trunks.

EARLY CHRISTIANS

Christianity was first brought to Denmark more than 1,000 years ago by Ansgar, about the year 850.

Hats Were Never So Lovely

Fragile, feminine hats designed to make the plainest Jane look pretty are the perfect complement to the already firmly-established "look" of Fashion 1948. With snug bodices, short-and-simple hairdos and softer, longer skirts, designers prescribe demure little bonnets, sailors and cloches for women of all ages. But especially for post-Easter afternoons and evenings, there is a nostalgic return to the frankly beautiful picture hat that so effectively balances the full, flowing skirt.

The subtle difference between the small, flowered hat of the new season and those seen earlier is its forward-moving line. Crowns continue to fit comfortably to the head and brims are narrower at the sides but extending forward from just above the hairline. At the nape, the brim is either turned up Watteau-fashion or cut away completely.

The profile-flattering side tilt in bonnets, toques and pillboxes is high on the hit parade of popular-priced hat fashions and will undoubtedly continue through the summer months. But even in their softly rippling picture hats, most of the name designers prefer the simple, straightforward pose of the head-fitting round crown.

The flowers and the flower-toned ribbons, straws, felts and veilings of this Easter season are exquisite. Pastels are beguiling. They may be deep-toned or the most delicate tints. Pinks, mauves, orchid and periwinkle blues are marvelously lovely and many bonnets are trimmed with silk roses, fragile lilac blossoms, honeysuckle and lilies of the valley. Apricot, buttercup, jonquil and tangerine are among the soft sunny shades that also look wonderful with spring navy, grey and black costumes, as well as with harmonizing pastels.

Sailors, worn on the hairline rather than on the back of the head, may be simply tailored or flowered and feminine. Veils and scarves increase the softly feminine charm of hat silhouettes. Dainty laces are used on straws or to make entire hats, as are petticoats, ruffles of embroidery or lacy straw.

Good Taste Determines "Fashion"

Certainly with the urgency of our times and the great speed with which everything, including ourselves, is forced to move, no one will be foolhardy enough to be hampered by too-long, voluminous skirts, oversized hats and sleeves and Victorian ruffles and laces.

If we must change—and change we must—then let's have the clothes that are right for 1948 rather than those of 1868, 78, 88, 98 and 1900. Most women want clothes to "do something" for them, to be functional and to be suited to their way of life. Most American women do not feel up to making a "production" of going to market.

Also, with shortages of fabrics of all types, too much fabric is as poor taste as filling your plate with meat when there is a shortage. It is time for women to use common sense and take a look at ourselves, find out how tall, how wide or how slim we are and balance our figures. If our shoulders look badly rounded, then we should keep them moderately square. If we need long jackets, then let us wear five gored skirts or pleated skirts.

If we can wear flared coats and swirl skirts, by all means we should wear them.

Find the skirt length that looks just right and then stick to it. If you can wear a pretty hat and veil wear it. If you can't, have your hat made to suit your profile.

Gloves, bags and shoes are very important. They too are so much better when geared to the wearer's scale than when oversized.

Taste is more important than style. Fashion is not to be followed blindly. It is like a table of hors d-oeuvres. Take the things that you can use to make you more attractive and better dressed to your type.

Don't risk being ridiculous because you think you are in fashion. Well dressed women select and balance and weigh. They coordinate their clothes and accessories and also spend less by so doing. Don't waste anything and give away everything you cannot use.

Tweed Suits On New Plan

Charles Creed, in his tweed suits used two innovations. With straight skirts, knife-pleated at the back only, he cut away the centre back jacket from the waist downwards, showing the pleating as far as the waist. Another suit had a rolled collar to the waist and double-breasted buttoning from the waist to foot of jacket.

In afternoon two-pieces the long three-quarter length jacket effect was popular, either straight with hip padding or fluted in apron effect. These often had bobble trimming on the yoke, neck or skirt and jacket hems.

Occasionally wide petersham or satin trimmings were used in the same way with large bows at waist, hip or back of the jacket, sometimes also on the skirt.

Spring Ideas For the Ladies

A bouquet of tiny flowers tucked into your pearl necklace. Choose flowers in a color to match or blend with pearls.

A "suspender" suit. The skirt of a grey flannel suit rises high at the waistline and it is held comfortably in place with narrow straps of matching fabric that cross in the back for further comfort. The jacket is fitted and brief.

Gloves that give slim lines to the hand. An irregular scalloped line down the back of the glove divides it into two colors.

Hearts on your new silk scarf. A white square is scattered with hearts in a subdued tone of red. Wear with a favorite suit or dress.

The daytime dress with a pleated capelet that reaches almost to the elbows. It is lovely in solid colors and polka dot prints.

The dressy suit with passementerie embroidery at jacket hipline or bodice top. This is the perfect afternoon and dinner suit to wear under a fur cape or jacket for spring.

LONG AND NARROW

Egypt consists of a narrow strip of irrigated land along the 900-mile course of the Nile River, surrounded by desert.

Six-in-One Ladies' Hat

As sensible as it is sensational, is the creation of the "Zip-a-Part" Chapeau by Irma Kigere of New York. Starting with two fundamental hats, Mme. Kigere proceeds with the aid of zippers to separate and interchange the hats' individual parts so as to evolve six entirely different silhouettes and color combinations.

Another of Mme. Kigere's ingenious designs is the "CoverPUp Stolette" which can be worn over bares houlders or over any kind of sleeve. According to the fabric and degree of hand detailing, the stolette can be worn for day or evening, and may be accompanied by gloves, mittens, belt or bag made to match.

EARLY TEA COSTLY

In the 17th century the cost of tea was so high that with the added tax, only the well-to-do could afford to drink it regularly.

Veteran Tea Taster Warns Against Long-Boiling Water

By NORMAN CRIBBENS
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, March 18 — (CP) — At 85, Arthur Hartley still goes daily to his old-established business to taste, value and sell tea.

Bent and white - haired, Hartley is known to the trade as a "first-class tea taster." His office stands at the top of a dusty staircase— at the end of a narrow lane in the financial quarter of London.

"I've been tasting tea and assessing its value for 70 years," Hartley said. "These days there is a lot less tasting to do than we'd like. But pre-war I used to taste 400 different teas and price them — all before breakfast."

To the suggestion that tea-tasters have to be careful not to spoil their palates with other drinks, Hartley lay back in his chair and laughed.

"Oh yes — yes indeed," he said. "We mustn't drink alcohol—at least so we tell our wives. And we don't smoke either," he added, lighting a cigar..

Hartley's tea-tasting den is a low-roofed attic with a long, sloping window and a score of tiny white teapots ranged along a bench.

"For tea tasting you must have a good north light," he explained. "You have to watch tea. Good tea creams over — goes cloudy, y'know, when it cools."

He made a specimen pot. Weighing enough tea to balance a sixpence in a pair of scales, he popped it into the infuser.

"A most important point—you must catch the water the moment it boils. If it has been boiling even 10 seconds it spoils the flavor. That's where so many people go wrong.

"Canada? Oh, they can't make tea there — and it's worse in the United States."

Hartley predicted there would soon be "more tea in Britain than we can use."

"There is enough tea to end rationing now between the gardens and the ports of India — all held up because of transport strikes. The same thing happened after the last war. So much tea flooded into Britain in 1920 that the price fell to nothing."

Formal Note Features Men's Clothing Styles

Men will find that clothes designed especially for town wear have a more dress-up look than for some time. Coats, suits and accessories are all styled with a marked formal note and are detailed with artfully subtle fabric patterns and tailoring construction. Guard model coats, Chesterfields and Homburg hats worn with very conservative shirts, will be high fashion notes for urbanites.

Three-button styles are expected to show a great gain in favor among single-breasted suits. Jacket sleeves are more noticeably tapered.

New topcoat styles stress lower button placement, roomier cut and the revival of patterned fabrics. One new model is a roomy raglan with a very full skirt and military collar. Topcoats meant for town and dress-up wear are slightly fitted, come in single and double-breasted models and will be available in wider color ranges of fine coverts and tweeds.

Nineteen forty-eight sports jackets are featuring single-breasted designs with 3 buttons and three patch pockets. Most of these are very light in weight and some are longer than before, with two rear vents and slanted pockets. Fancy backs with shirring and half-belts have been revived somewhat in the newest models. Gabardine's Versatile

Gabardine emerged in the current Men's Fashion Guild of New York offerings as the most important men's fabric of the year. Prominently featured in almost every item of a man's wardrobe, sleek gabardine has been tailored into handsome topcoats, suits, leasure jackets and slack ensembles, sports shirts and swim trunks.

Demure rayon taffeta, made of Avisco yarns, in a formal with the new padded hips, by Junior Formals, Inc.

Our Waist Is Encircled

Novelty belts are an important feature in any "new look" wardrobe. The wide, twice-around-the-waist, Balenciaga style belt reminds one of the leather girths worn by the huntsmen of the Middle Ages. Belt Modes Balenciagas are seven inches in their widest section and are fashioned of softest suede. For those whose skirts lack the fashionable amount of "hip emphasis", there is a navy blue capeskin belt with wide padded peplums on either side. Particularly good for livening up white is the weskit-style belt in black or green checked taffeta.

French Look For '48 Tots This Spring

French fashions will predominate in many of the junior creations this year, according to Canadian and U.S. fashion experts. Stores across the continent will offer high fashion clothes to tots and teen-agers with a French flavor hitherto beyond their reach—through the efforts of Dominique, Parisian couture house making infants' and children's custom fashions.

M. Rene Mola, designer and head of the firm has brought a selection of his Paris models to American manufacturers, and he himself has carefully superintended their execution. The clothes are scaled to Canadian children's sizes and made under Canadian and U.S. methods of production.

The models in the collection include dresses and coats and range from christening and infants' dresses through teen age costumes, dresses for youngsters from two to six are carried out in lustrous cotton broadcloths and fine cotton cords and are identical with those of the seven to fourteen group so that little sister and big sister may dress alike. The coats in corresponding sizes are made in fine wool fabrics of check and tweed patterns as well as solid flannels. The teen age dresses include two three piece costumes with short bolero jackets and full skirts becoming that age group.

Mr. Ben Rothchild, co-ordinator for the American manufacturers who are making the replicas of these fashions, believes with M. Mola in the necessity of simplicity of line in children's clothes with room for freedom of action and careful adaptation of the mode of the moment to the needs of the young. The good taste and common sense representative in the Dominique group have led to its acceptance in high style department and specialty stores all over the United States and Canada.

New items will be added and the fashions will be expanded as circumstances prove desirable. In the future, it is quite possible that shoes, millinery, carriage robes, knit items and other goods will be added. The first group to reach consumers will be fashions for Spring 1948. To help launch them successfully, M. Mola has come to this country to appear personally in the stores featuring the Dominique designs to discuss the basis of successful designing for youth, with store executives and customers.

The Modern Kitchen is Both Beautiful and Efficient

Choose your kitchen as you would your wardrobe! Your kitchen, as well as the other rooms of your home should be designed not only for comfort and efficiency, but should also be decorated for the charm of personal living.

In selecting a wardrobe, you usually start with a few good basic items and choose accessories for variety and color. Kitchen planning works on the same principle. Basically, your kitchen is a workroom and should be planned to simplify kitchen duties and shorten kitchen hours.

An efficient kitchen is designed around work centres. The refrigerator or food storage centre provides storage space for fresh and frozen foods. Lighted cabinets store staples and canned goods, and also provide work surfaces. The refrigerator centre should be adjacent to the outside door where deliveries are made. The electric sink or dishwashing centre provides for automatic dishwashing and the disposal of all food wastes. Cabinets provide storage for dishes. The sink centre should be located between the other work centres. The range or cooking centre, provides speed cooking combined with cleanliness and safety. Lighted cabinets provide storage for utensils and work surfaces for food preparation and the use of small appliances. The range centre should be near the dining room entrance to shorten serving distances.

Your work centre can be arranged in any one of four basic designs — U-shaped, L-shaped, two-wall, or one-wall—depending on the size and shape of your room.

The U-shaped kitchen is an ideal arrangement, offering good spacing of work centres, plenty of work surfaces, and room for extra storage cabinets or appliances. It is a spacious room—organized for step-saving. (See photograph No. 1) The curved counter adjoining the range makes a convenient extra work surface and can double as a snack and serving bar.

A Bit Of History

One woman, the wife of a famous Chinese emperor, Si-Ling by name is credited with having originated in 2640 B.C. one of our most important textiles—silk. She personally devoted herself to the care of the silkworms and invented the loom. Until 300 A.D. this secret of sericulture was jealously guarded by the Chinese. Eventually some Koreans were sent from Japan to China to engage competent people to teach the arts of weaving and preparing silk goods.

From this obscure beginning has sprung an industry that prior to the war was one of world-reaching importance. Today an effort is being made by our government to re-establish the silk industry in the position it held before Pearl Harbor.

There is no doubt that silk is on its way back. Pure silk in solids and prints, silk shantung, silk taffeta and silk satin are once again appearing in designers' collections in street dresses, suits, cock-tail dresses and ball gowns. Vibrant colors can be achieved in silk because of the fine, lustrous fibre. The very feel of silk is a luxury in itself, yet the fact that silk can be easily laundered is appealing to those who prefer to preserve the freshness of a garment by personal laundering. Couturiers praise the draping qualities of silk which lends itself to soft or bulky poufs with equal grace of line. Durability is another inherent quality.

"Lady-Like" Is New Look

The term "lady-like" is applied to the clothes catching the approval of the teen-age crowd.

The full skirt is liked by the young, but there is also a straight skirt and a little boxy jacket is also approved. The blouse and skirt continues a favorite, since changes can be worked out with the minimum of cost. A new two-in-one style is a coat dress, shown in navy with a bright printed frock underneath. Either could be worn separately.

Low heels prevail in the shoes, all through the day clothes and into evening sandals. Like their elders, coats for the young have much variety, and there are both the fitted and full back coat, and the short full-backed coat and cape are shown. Overarm bags are still popular, although the new clutch bag is also among the juniors' clothes.

A scarf ring seems to be a jewelry "must" and bright gay scarves are shown with both suits and coats. Berets to be worn at varying angles are shown, and to top the snug-waisted, full-skirted new costume there are hats with flowers mounted upon stem in a perky fashion.

WIRE LETTERS, CHEQUES

London (CP)—Photographs, letters and cheques now can be sent by wireless between London and Wellington, New Zealand, on the new cable and wireless photo-telegraph circuit, the largest in the world. Pictures automatically relayed via Colombo, Malaya, travel more than 18,000 miles.

Light weight, light color, in a comfortable woolen jacket worn with a wool challis bow tie.

Less Seen Of Sleeves

This spring, short, short gloves team with short, short sleeves to create a new "bare-armed" look from shoulder to wrist and to make the purchase of your spring gloves an important investment in fashion.

For short gloves in fine leathers are a leading fashion feature for spring. Shorties will go with everything this year; they'll accompany tweed suits, sheer wool afternoon dresses and even cottons. And they'll be most important for after-five and evening dresses.

Fine, hand-sewn French doeskin gloves by Kislav, in soft shades of creme and beige, are shown with ballet-length cocktail and evening dresses with brief, cap sleeves, off-the-shoulder necklines and no sleeves at all.

Other short gloves, with a touch of novelty, stitching on the back, are matched to rough-textured short-sleeved sweaters, to sleeveless blouses and sports dresses. And short glace gloves, as soft as the precious kid gloves of a century ago, accompany filmy organdies and a whole range of light-weight fabrics. Kislay gloves are practical even in the pale shades of this season's fashions, because all of them are washable.

Important as the short glove is, however, it is not the entire glove story. Longer gloves, in four or six-button lengths, are perfect with suits, furs and long-sleeved dresses. These longer gloves are smartest in classic, elegant styles and soft, muted colors.

County Council Grants $8,000 To Legion Branch

Picton, (Special)—Prince Edward County Council yesterday granted $8,000 to Picton Post of the Canadian Legion to complete payment of the Memorial Hall. Last year, Council granted the Post $2,000 and these two amounts represent the cost of the purchase of the former McMullen homstead which is being converted into a hall. The Post had raised $2,000 by its own efforts and will have this amount for renovations.

Representing the Legion were the President D. P. Pyke, Capt. William Graydon, M.C., Murray Clapp and Harry Grimmon, while Garnet Taylor spoke on behalf of the Wellington Post. Mr. Taylor stressed the idea that useful memorials are more popular than monuments of stone.

Mr. Pyke stated that the annual cost of carrying the property is estimated at $2,000 and at least half of this will be raised through renting of apartments in the building.

Three Children Burned to Death Near North Bay

North Bay, March 18 (CP) — Two wan-faced parents of Port Loring, 68 miles southwest of here, stood still and quiet today as neighbors told how their efforts failed to save three children —all under five—whose bodies were unrecognizably charred when fire turned their tiny tar-papered home into smouldering ruins.

Their grandmother and aunt—Mrs. Martha Currie and Mrs. W. Short—were in their home about 75 yards away when flames began to destroy the three-roomed, frame house.

The children were in bed.

"I went to look in upon them about five minutes before the fire, and there was no sign of anything wrong then," Mrs. Short said. "There was only a small fire in the stove."

"I think the pipes must have become overheated while Mr. Fetterly was cooking their dinner earlier."

Harold, 7, a brother of the victims, was at school, and a sister, Fern, 5, was innocently unaware of the start of the tragedy as she played in the yard between the two houses.

Mrs. Short suffered numerous cuts and gashes to both hands and wrists as she fought frantically to force her way into the flaming house.

Within 15 minutes, the wooden house with its outside tarpaper covering and inside cardboard lining was an inferno, with eye-blinding smoke halting all rescue attempts.

Drew and Globe Bitterly Attacked In the Senate

Ottawa, March 18 (CP) — New attacks were on record today in the prolonged and hectic Hong Kong dispute.

Senator J. W. deB. Farris (L-British Columbia) yesterday accused Premier Drew of Ontario of "unthinkable" conduct for a lawyer and the Toronto Globe and Mail of "the most terrible thing I've ever seen done in Canadian journalism."

His statement in the Senate was prompted by their criticisms of the findings of Sir Lyman Duff, former Chief Justice, in his Royal Commission inquiry into Canadian participation in the 1941 defence of Hong Kong. Both had said the findings were contrary to the facts.

In retort, Senator John T. Haig, Progressive Conservative Leader, said that when judges accepted roles as commissioners they laid themselves open to public attack. He charged Senator Farris with making a "political speech" that was geared to the prospects of provincial elections in Quebec and Ontario.

Senator Farris rapped Quebec's Premier Duplessis for his "charges and insinuations" against External Affairs Minister St. Laurent over the Polish treasures.

It would be "tragic" if Mr. St. Laurent were kept from becoming Prime Minister of Canada through "attacks from the House of his friends."

Senator Farris' argument was based on his contention that this was the worst possible time for "unfair" attacks against high political, public and judicial offices and that their chief effect was to help subversive elements.

Discredit on Press Claim

In a 100-minute address, Senator Farris quoted the Globe and Mail as saying that Sir Lyman's findings were "false on four counts."

Such attacks on the "greatest judge in Canadian history" were a "discredit to the press of Canada." Mr. Drew's charges against the honesty of Sir Lyman were "unthinkable" for a member of the legal profession.

"The Globe had done "the most terrible thing I've ever seen done in Canadian journalism" in declaring not only that Sir Lyman's findings were false but that the blood of Hong Kong's dead rested on Prime Minister Mackenzie King. The editor and publisher "should be ashamed of themselves."

Senator Farris said Canadian institutions were being "traduced and discredited" at a time when the need for public respect for them was at a peak.

Mr. King would never "callously and indifferently" send troops into a battle for which they were untrained and which he knew was imminent, as Premier Drew and the Globe had charged. Yet such charges came from adherents of the "once great Conservative party."

Senator Farris would leave it up to the Canadian people to decide whether they believed Sir Lyman in his exoneration of the government or Mr. Drew in his charge that Sir Lyman had made a "complete misstatement of the facts."

Senator Offered Chance

Senator Haig predicted that Premiers Drew and Duplessis would not take the charges "lying down" and offered Senator Farris the chance of defeating them. He said the speech would cause the Senate future difficulties.

As for the Hong Kong inquiry, the public had not been given all the evidence. There were five cables missing, because the British government had declined to have them made public. However, if the Canadian government said it was being challenged on the subject, London would release them.

The Globe editorial, Senator Haig said, was "mild" compared to some personal attacks made by Winnipeg papers.

Senator Haig said he felt the Globe and Mail was "quite capable of taking care of itself" and needed no defence from him.

As to the Hong Kong force itself, the feeling in his home town of Winnipeg at the time the Winnipeg Grenadiers left was that they were "not properly trained."

Their small arms had gone with them, but their heavy equipment had not, said Senator Haig.

Discussing the question of the imminence of war with Japan, he said that "we all felt there was going to be war."

"The Americans knew what was coming on," he said, "even if they did not know of the surprise attack."

Explaining that it takes years to learn about the var medicines, he said that one of chief proposals to the governm would be the abolition of h dealers so that the governm could "open a big warehouse."

In other words, he wants Henry Gluckman to be the N medicine-man in the Union, full control over the learned iness of herb therapy, from registration of new "doctors" the sale of roots and croco teeth.

Big Shot Nazis in Berlin Prison Now Look Like Bums

Berlin, March 18. (AP)—Albert Speer, German minister for armaments and munitions under Hitler, was working in the garden of Berlin's Spandau prison where he and the six other surviving Nazi war criminals are held.

An Allied interrogator approached and questioned Speer, for information to be used in other war crimes trials. The former armaments boss gave his answers readily.

During a pause he lowered his eyes to his footwear. They had shapeless wooden bottoms with a loose canvas top. In the Nazi Reich they were worn by slave laborers employed in Speer's munitions plants. Speer, in fact, admitted he had designed them.

With a wry smile, he remarked: "You know, if I'd ever thought I would be wearing these damned things I'd have put some leather in them."

To obtain even an innocuous item like that about the life of the surviving "big seven" of Nazidom inside Spandau, a correspondent has to pierce a wall of silence. For this the Russians are chiefly responsible.

The Russian idea about the Spandau Nazis, said a representative of the western powers, is that they should be forgotten men and that there should be no curiosity about them. The Russians suspected that any news that is printed about them may be intended to arouse sympathy.

Besides Speer, serving 20 years, the other Nazis in Spandau are Rudolph Hess, Walther Funk and Grand Admiral Erich Raeder, all sentenced to life; Baldur von Shirach, 20 years; Konstantin von Neurath, 15 years, and Grand Admiral Karl Doenitz, 10 years.

Certain persons report for anyone interested that the seven former big Nazis now "look like seven bums".

"Actually," said one observer, "I was amazed at what three years of confinement did.

"The men who once strutted so boldly now shuffle about, most of them bent."

Diplomatic Action Without Military Backing Just Appeasement--Marshall

Washington, March 18 (AP)—State Secretary George Marshall told Congress members that "diplomatic action without the backing of military strength in the present world can lead only to appeasement."

Marshall testified to the Senate Armed Services Committee yesterday in support of Universal Military training, and temporary enactment of a selective service law.

The committee opened hearings on these proposals only two hours after president Truman had appealed for them in a personally-delivered message to Congress.

Marshall said that in addition to these manpower measures "a reconsideration of our air program is also necessary."

"The combination of two things, enactment of the European Recovery Program on the one hand and a decision by the American people that clearly indicates that they are determined in their course, are necessary now, I think, to the maintenance of peace in the world," he said.

Express Concern.

Marshall expressed concern over what he called the "accelerated trend" of events in Europe, specifically mentioning the communization of the Balkan States, except Greece, and the fact that both Hungary and Czechoslovakia "have been forced into complete submission to the Communist control."

He reminded the committee that within a month (on April 18) Italy will hold a national election. This, he said, "has an importance far beyond local Italian affairs."

"It will decide not only whether Italy will continue with its restoration into a true Democracy. It will foretell whether the disintegrating trend to which I have referred may reach the shores of the Atlantic."

German Prisoners From Russia Underfed to Point of Emaciation

By GEORGE BOULTWOOD

Hamburg, March 18 — (AP) — The physical condition of German prisoners-of-war returning from Russia is causing British medical authorities here grave concern.

Reports from British Army doctors show that 20 per cent of prisoners returned from the Russian zone have had to be taken to hospital. Similar complaints have been made by American military government authorities.

Of the 29,400 prisoners repatriated to the British zone from the east since last September, 10 per cent have been suffering from malnutrition, British Army doctors reported.

Sample checks taken among those who did not go to hospital revealed many men were "undernourished to the point of emaciation." Others showed "loss of weight, with dry wrinkled skin and pallid or greyish complexion."

The repatriation trains arrive at irregular intervals at Freidland, on the British side of the Russian border. There the stretcher cases and weakest men are removed to local German hospitals. The remaining "fit" men are then taken to an old German army training camp at Muenster Lager. Within 24 hours they are processed and released.

Two contingents, each of 1,000 prisoners, arriving at Friedland had a hospital rate of 42 per cent and "a considerable number were unfit for further travel," the British Control Commission said.

Prisoners interviewed on their return said they received rations with the rough value of 2,000 calories a day. That was more than the normal Russian consumer received, but they claimed the ration was inadequate for the work performed. Prisoners said they had been employed on manual labor.

Woman Killed, Section of Dance Floor Collapses

Chicago, March 18 (AP) — One woman was killed and more than 100 persons were injured last night when a large section of a third-floor dance hall collapsed under the weight of about 500 persons attending a downtown St. Patrick's Day celebration.

Twelve of the 92 persons who were treated at six hospitals were reported in from serious to critical condition. Several others were given first aid treatment at the scene.

The dead woman, who was removed from under the wreckage three hours after the floor caved in, was identified as Mrs. Ann Hunt, 35, mother of four children. Two of her children who were with her at the party and dance were not injured. Her body was identified by her husband, John, 38, an electrician.

Hundreds of the merrymakers were walking off the floor at the end of a dance number when a large section of the floor collapsed. Scores were hurtled headlong to the second floor. As the floor settled, parts of the false roof caved in.

Owners, Sailors Expect Early Start Of Navigation

(By The Canadian Press)

Ship owners and sailors at Canada's inland ports are preparing for what may be the earliest start in history of Great Lakes navigation.

How soon the big ore-carriers and long grain-hauling freighters ply the run from Fort William and Port Arthur to the lower lake ports depends on the weather. The ice still is thick and solid in the upper lakes.

The ore-carrier Fred G. Hartwell led a parade of freighters out of Buffalo harbor yesterday shortly after the United States Coast Guard icebreaker Mackinaw escorted the vessels through the Lake Erie ice. The freighters proceeded to ice-free ports to await opening of the Straits of Mackinac.

Two tugs yesterday opened the harbor at Port Stanley on the northern shore of Lake Erie. Commercial fishermen there said harbor icefields and offshore floes probably would delay the start of fishing operations for several days.

April 1 has been set as tentative opening date for the Welland ship canal. Present ice conditions in Port Colborne harbor augur for early opening of that port.

Bay Still Frozen

At Owen Sound, however, shipping interests hold the view that opening of navigation there may be delayed until the second week in April. The bay at Owen Sound still is frozen over but open water can be seen beyond its mouth. So far, no fitting-out work has started there.

Opinion at Sault Ste. Marie is that shipping through the great canals which link Lakes Superior and Huron may get under way between April 5 and 10, somewhat earlier than last year.

Cmdr. T. A. Dahlburg of the United States Coast Guard base in Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., estimates the thickness of St. Mary's River ice at 15-27 inches. He says the ice is 22-40 inches. He says Whitefish Bay at the eastern entrance to Lake Superior.

The tug Mesquite, from Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., yesterday pounded through St. Mary's River ice and reached Lake Huron.

At the Lakehead, Thunder Bay icebreaking operations were scheduled to start today. The work of clearing the harbor floes and breaking up ice in grain elevator slips is expected to take about three weeks.

The ice is thicker this year than last, with depth in some spots ranging to 32 inches as a result of extremely cold weather in January and February.

From the head of the lakes to Montreal Great Lakes sailors are pinning their hopes for an early start on a mild spring.

PARTY OUTLAWED, COMMUNIST FIGHT LOOMS IN BRAZIL

By ANDREW MARSHALL

Rio De Janeiro (Reuters)—Although Communism in Brazil is dead—officially—it is generally believed here that the real battle of Communists versus the rest is yet to come.

The Communists themselves are known to have threatened that if ever they were deprived, "by underhand and unconstitutional methods" of the position which they attained by the will of the people, they would fight back with "similar tactics."

That position, they claim, has now arisen.

A long campaign against Communism, which has intensified in government circles and in certain sections of the press towards the end of 1946, reached a climax recently when Congress passed a bill revoking the mandates of Communist members of the federal and state parliaments.

The decision was reached, after months of heated debates and bitter controversy, in a final stormy session of Congress passed a bill revoking the mandates of Communist members of the federal and state parliaments.

The decision was reached, after months of heated debates and bitter controversy, in a final stormy session of Congress during which deputies stood on chairs, shouted each other down and drew revolvers.

Barely three hours later, President Enrico Gaspar Dutra sanctioned the bill and 75 Communist federal and state deputies, one senator and 18 members of Rio's municipal council, were ousted from their seats.

Already, in June, 1947, the Communist party, which had been allowed to re-open when the dictatorship of the Vargas regime was overthrown in October, 1945, was declared illegal. Constitutionally, however, this did not affect the mandates of the Communist representatives who had been freely elected by the people and who, until the new bill became law, retained their seats.

Battle Only Beginning

So, today, although Senator Ivo de Aquino, who first introduced the bill in Congress, stated when the bill was passed: "Communism is dead in this country," it is generally felt here that the real battle is only beginning.

The Communists have vowed that they will continue to fight what they describe as the "undemocratic principles, general inefficiency" and "subservience to foreign interests, especially those of the United States" of the Dutra government.

Communism as such has little ideological significance for the average Brazilian who, although party minded, is indifferent to strong political doctrines. In the first free elections after the Vargas regime, Communists polled 600,000 votes out of a total electorate of 5,000,000. In the presidential elections which followed, the Communist candidate polled 500,000 votes.

Nevertheless, by exploiting the country's economic difficulties, food, transport and housing problems, and the increasingly high cost of living, the Communists have succeeded in building up a considerable following. In the little over two years during which Communists were allowed to participate in the country's affairs, they have, according to their critics, succeeded in creating an attitude of obstruction and mistrust towards the government. Brazilian industry has lately reported increasing difficulties in relations between management and workers.

Mrs. Gordon Conant, Provincial Girl Guide Commissioner for Ontario, has announced Girl Guide participation in certain areas for the annual Easter Appeal of the Ontario Society for Crippled Children who work in conjunction with about 180 service clubs in supplying treatment, hospitalization, camping and other aids to crippled children of the community. These Girl Guides in the specified areas will sell doughnuts during March, the proceeds to go to crippled children's work in the Province.

Last Aircraft Made by Nazis On Display at Winnipeg

Winnipeg (CP)—Two German aircraft, said to be the only jet and rocket types to see general operational service during the Second World War, now are resting in a hangar at the R. C. A. F. station at Stevenson Field.

They are the Messerschmitt 163, known as the "Comet," and the Heinkel 162 "Volksjaeger," two radical designs which reflect the desperate, last-ditch stand of the Luftwaffe in the closing stages of the war.

The two planes will form the nucleus of a war relics museum which the R.C.A.F. station hopes to set up here. British and Canadian aircraft now obsolete will be added shortly to the collection to show future airmen the kinds of planes which fought in the Second World War.

The Messerschmitt 163, built by Willi Messerschmitt—designer of many of Germany's top-line fighters—is the most radical in design. The stubby aircraft is only 19 feet five inches long, sports a rocket motor, thick, swept-back wing, and no tail.

It went into service in 1944. It possessed a range of only 10 minutes, and had a top speed of 550 miles an hour. The plane was far from safe. It probably killed more German than Allied airmen. The life expectancy of pilots assigned to Comet squadrons was five sorties.

Rammed Bombers

The plane's main object was to disrupt bomber formations. Frequently it was used to ram bombers. When this was done the pilot was ejected in a seat propelled by an explosive before the ramming occurred. The heavily-armored machine was extremely heavy for its size. It weighed 9,500 pounds and carried two 30-mm cannon as offensive armament.

The Heinkel 162 was a "bottom of the barrel" effort by Goering and his Luftwaffe. The tiny fighter, with a wingspan of 23 feet eight inches, was cigar-shaped, with drooping wings and squared-off, double rudders.

Despite its awkward appearance and the non-strategic materials used in its construction, the Volksjaeger, or "People's Plane," was quite successful. It attained a speed of 522 miles an hour at 19,700 feet, but was lightly armed.

A jet engine mounted on a deck atop the fuselage powered it. The jet unit was lost somewhere in shipping, however, and the aircraft here has no engine.

Radical and dangerous though they were, these planes, now resting harmlessly in Winnipeg, are only a symbol of the Luftwaffe's defeat.

South Africans Pinch Pennies as Prices Rise

Johannesburg, South Africa—(CP)—The South African middle-income man, with a wife and two children, since the end of the war has been eating away his wartime savings or, if he was on service, his gratuity and allotments in an attempt to maintain his pre-war standard of living, the cost of which is estimated to have risen about 69 per cent since 1939.

The nest-eggs with which many middle-class South Africans ended the war have practically disappeared. They were used chiefly for durable or semi-durable goods—the deposit on a house, a new car, furniture. Now they are wondering what they can do next to make ends meet.

The choice is clear—either to reduce their standard of living considerably or to find a way to increase an income between £600 ($2,400) and £700 ($2,800) a year which gave them a reasonable living in 1939, to about £1,100.

It is natural to try the latter before resorting to the former, but the chances of achieving it for the majority seem small. Meanwhile, those who try it run the risk of eating further into their shrinking reserves and of leaving the cuts which might balance their budgets until too late.

A reasonable middle-class standard of life, with comforts but without wasteful expenditure, could be provided in Johannesburg before the war on £56 a month. The same standard would cost £95 a month today. This is for a man and his wife, a child of 10, who is obtaining free education at a government school, and a baby who is over the first costly troubles of infancy.

The family runs a car, in which the breadwinner travels to work. They use it for weekend excursions and for their annual holiday. They live in a modest suburban house.

One Suit a Year

They buy only essential clothing. The man is allowed only one suit a year, his wife two linen dresses and one costume, their son one blazer and three pairs of trousers. Yet clothing shows the highest percentage increase in the budget. Their monthly allowance for clothes was £6 in 1939. Today it is £13, an increase of 101 per cent.

Their budget for housing has increased from £12 a month to £23, or 82 per cent. The family's monthly expenditure on food has gone up from £14 to £24.

Other heavy increases in minor items in the budget include: household cleaning goods, up 54 per cent; cigarettes, of which the family allow themselves only 30 a day, up 58 per cent; chemist's supplies, up 60 per cent; taxes, insurance and doctors' fees, up 49 per cent; and sundries, up 73 per cent.

The average man who earned £60 a month before the war is probably earning, at best £80 a month today, allowing him a good average pay increase and a cost of living allowance. This means he must cut his expenses nearly £20 a month to balance his budget.

The savings which would result from sale of his car and other economies might balance his budget, but they would reduce his standard of living from modest comfort to a necessity level. He will have fallen from the middle class standard of life, which was his at the start of the war, to the standard of the better-placed sections of the working class.

South Africa Will "Import" Tradesmen

Johannesburg, South Africa—(CP)—South Africa's force of workers in the building trades will be doubled in the next five years as a sequel to the decision by the National Federation of Master Builders to send a representative to Britain to make arrangements for the "importation" of 15,000 tradesmen.

W. H. Harrison, the man chosen for the job, said that he was leaving for England on April 9 and would spend four months in Britain.

Mr. Harrison has been connected with the building industry for 31 years, 11 of which were spent in England.

His immediate task, Mr. Harrison said, was to select 2,000 tradesmen for the Union within the next few months, and another 1,000 to follow six months later. He would then make arrangements for the yearly migration to the Union of 3,000 tradesmen for the next four years.

Mr. Harrison said he would work in conjunction with the Immigration Council in London.

"Naturally we will not be allowed by the British Board of Trade to denude any particular area of its workers and cause dislocation," Mr. Harrison said. "Our plan is to select immigrants from all over the country.

The building industry in South Africa is crying out for "new blood." In the plastering trade, for instance, there is only one apprentice for every 20 qualified men, he said.

Crowded Schools in U.S. Are Seeking $15 Million

By ROBERT E. GEIGER

Washington, —(AP)— Millionaires and babies are big question marks to school officials trying to find $15,000,000,000. The $15,000,000,000 is the price tag the United States office of education puts on new school and college buildings this nation needs.

If there is a scarcity of multi-millionaires—as statistics seem to indicate—it means "small fry" earners will have to pay more of the education bill.

Multi-millionaires have often been bill-paying "angels" for colleges in the past. Many college heads are worried that endowments will fall off now, but officials in the U.S. office of education believe the smaller fry will come through.

John W. Studebaker, U.S. commissioner of education, says $10,000,000,000 is needed for repairing and replacing old schools and building new ones before 1960. The full tide of the big baby crop will strike the schools then. Census experts predict the baby boom will continue well into the '50s.

Two other experts of the office of education, Ernest V. Hollis and J. Harold Goldthorpe, have just completed a detailed study of what the war did to colleges and universities.

Five Billion Before 1950

They estimate these institutions need $5,000,000,000 before 1950 for expansion and replacement of buildings and purchase of land. Even this would give each student less elbow room than pre-war students had.

College plants which were built for a peak pre-war enrolment of 1,500,000 now have 2,340,000 students. About 2,675,000 are expected by 1950.

Hollis and Goldthorpe said the colleges and universities have 341,550,000 feet of building space and need an additional 265,000,000. At 1948 construction prices the additional cost would be about $2,650,000,000 or $10 a square foot.

"In space this is approximately the equivalent of 133 Empire State buildings," says Hollis. These new classrooms, laboratories and dormitories would give colleges and universities 253 square miles of space. This is larger than any American city except New York, Los Angeles or New Orleans.

Besides problems of raising money, labor and material shortages are tough hurdles for anyone starting a multi-billion dollar job. Experts at the bureau of labor statistics say the school work might be done by about 265,000 workmen working steadily for a year.

The apparent shortage of millionaires isn't causing office of education officials to lose much sleep. They figure the "small fry" earners and tax payers will come through.

People who make contributions to educational institutions can deduct them from their incomes before figuring income taxes. Less than two per cent of all income is being contributed as gifts now.

A Black Market In Locust Legs?

Johannesburg (CP) — "Doctor" Lawrence S. Khontsiwe, president-general of the African National Native Herb Doctors' Association of South Africa, whose "consulting room" is in Newclare, Native Township, Johannesburg, wants to issue a challenge to Dr. Henry Gluckman, minister of health, as part of his campaign to obtain government recognition for medicine men.

Khontsiwe recently led a deputation to the Witwatersrand native commissioner, K. D. Morgan, with the object of stating the reasons why he wants status on the lines of the South African Medical Association for registered medicine-men.

Among the reasons given was the desire to curb the present black market in locust legs and other clinical commodities used by the herb doctors, as well as the elimination of the quacks, who, according to "Doctor" Khontsiwe, are a definite threat to the profession.

Khontsiwe intends holding a big meeting of medicine-men in Johannesburg early next month to gain public support for his aims. His challenge will consist of "proving" to the minister that he can cure any number of patients Dr. Gluckman likes to select.

Explaining that it takes five years to learn about the various medicines, he said that one of his chief proposals to the government would be the abolition of herb dealers so that the government could "open a big warehouse."

In other words, he wants Dr. Henry Gluckman to be the No. 1 medicine-man in the Union, with full control over the learned business of herb therapy, from the registration of new "doctors" to the sale of roots and crocodile teeth.

Tide Water Plant Ready To Process Foreign Iron Ore

Baltimore, —(AP)— The United States steel industry— maintained since its start by native materials—is out today digging holes in South America, and a lot of other places that offer mining potentialities.

It is digging these holes to supplement its present iron ore supply. Its greatest single source, Minnesota's Mesabi Range, is running out.

When foreign ore becomes an important factor in the industry, the Sparrows Point plant of Bethleham Steel in Maryland will be found occupying a strategic position.

The industry has not been blind to the fact that the rich Mesabi could not endure forever. It realizes the end of its present profitable production of open pit mining in the Lake Superior region is in sight. For some pits, it will come in less than five years. For the others, perhaps within 25.

For that reason, steel's geologists have been scouting every continent to find the richest ore fields. Iron itself is a plentiful mineral, but the industry is seeking fields where the ore is sufficiently pure to use in its furnaces without the expense of refining.

The expansion of these foreign ore fields is hitting its stride. Already, fields are under stepped-up development in Brazil, Chile, Columbia, Peru, and Venezuela. Others are in India, Cuba and Sweden. An apparently rich iron field is being explored now in Labrador.

One drawback to use of foreign ore is the expense of the transshipment required in hauling it from mine to seacost, transferring it to ocean vessels and later carrying it from United States ports to inland mills.

Adirondack Operations

In addition to the activity abroad, the industry is renewing some operations in the Adirondacks. These fields, not as rich as the Lake Superior yields, were shunned when Masabi's purer deposits were developed. This does not mean that mining in the Lake Superior region will cease. Beneath the relatively pure Mesabi ore deposits, called hematite, are thick layers of a hard iron-bearing rock, or taconite.

Because they do not wish to be largely dependent on foreign ore, several large steel concerns are spending huge sums constructing processing plants wherby a concentrate of ore can be obtained from the rocky taconite.

The industry realizes this method will be more expensive. First, a quarrying operation is necessary, then a manufacturing one. To get one ton of ore of sufficient concentrate for blast furnace feed, a concern will have to quarry about three tons of taconite.

To keep steel within its present relative price range, the industry ralizes that imports of the richer hematite ore will have to increase. Here is where the $300,000,000 Sparrows Point plant just outside Baltimore occupies, a most enviable position. For there it can draw from mining operations in every part of the world without the overhead expense of shipping the ore inland by rail.

As the Great Lakes region's ore output continues to decline, the number of ore boats and the capacity of Sparrows Point and other plants like it will continue to expand. The country's steel industry is entering a new era.

Child's Natural Rights Denied

(Philip Wylie's Comment On Modern Urban Life)

"The past 50 years of what we call civilization have ruined urban childhood," declares Philip Wylie in the Reader's Digest for March. "The automobile restricting children to yard or block, has conditioned their very impulse to chase a ball. Parents, trying to barricade their children from perils, have fenced in schoolyards and hired more cops at corners, more counsellors at camp. As soon as he can crawl, the child is impounded in a playpen which frustrates his every vital instinct."

In an article condensed from the Atlantic Monthly, Wylie holds that only through "a process of adventure experience and exploit" can a child become an emotionally mature and self-reliant adult. But fearful parents, instead of aiding this process, inhibit its development by over-protection.

Many parents, in the artificial life of our urban centres, are themselves lacking in basic experience, Wylie contends. "They join welfare and hygiene societies, but have never seen a chicken killed or a kitten born. They cross the Atlantic, but they cannot swim. They have slept in hotels in Cario and Bombay, but never in the woods. They drive to the top of Pike's Peak, but they never shinnied up a tree."

Without such basic experience, adults lack self-reliance, the author maintains. Adults fears, ranging from an anxiety about crossing the street to panic over the possibility of another war, are projected upon children, in the shape of parental tabus and restrictions of the very activities essential to youngsters. Cited as an example is our "safe and sane" Fourth of July, which destroyed "the most emotionally potent national fiesta America ever had . . . the day of greatest boyhood independence."

The one discipline which a child must have, he asserts, is the natural discipline of cause and effect—"the perfect honesty of nature and the inviolability of its laws. Children have the right to observe and experience every fact of nature in environs where they can dig, pluck, build, walk, swim or chop without let or hinderance."

But in modern urban life such expressions of a child's instincts are necessarily illegal. "If a boy peels the bark off a tree to make a toy boat to float on a pool, he destroys somebody's birch, his dad has to pay, and the old lady who owns the goldfish pond has him chased by a policemen."

Expert Says Gals Vocally Stronger Than Strong Sex

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE

New York (AP)—Women, says an authority on speech, are better equipped than men to talk easily and well. Their speech mechanism is more rugged.

This is probably the reason why fewer girls and women have speech defects than boys and men. Girls generally learn to talk sooner and more easily than boys. Whether the better voice mechanism may account for any tendency for women to be more talkative is an entirely different issue.

About 4,000,000 Americans have speech troubles of some kind, says Dr. Martin F. Palmer, president of the American Speech Correction Association, and director of the Institute of Logopedics at Wichita, Kansas. Logopedics is the study and treatment of speech defects.

One of the most common troubles, he said in an interview, is stuttering. About one per cent of Americans stutter to some degree, and three times more males than females stutter.

Oddly enough, most stutterers can sing well without any sign of stuttering, he continued, because singing involves a different part of the brain than talking. So some stutterers benefit at least temporarily by trying to sing or time their words. But when the singing becomes habitual, the stuttering is likely to recur.

There are many different ways to correct stuttering, and "about 90 per cent of cases can be relieved if their attention can be distracted from the mechanism of stuttering," Dr. Palmer said. "The best success is achieved when the stutterer isn't conscious of the correction method that relaxes him or permits a new adjustment. I don't know of any method which brings a permanent correction."

Sickness Impairs Speech

Speech begins to develop at birth, Dr. Palmer continued, and is a process of learning by stages or steps. Sometimes sickness or injury can delay or inhibit the next stage of learning but usually by the age of three, a child's speech mechanism is set.

Some defects, like cleft palate or hair lip, develop before birth. Surgery often can correct the physical trouble. When the corrective surgery is performed by the time the child is six months old, his speech quite probably will develop normally, Dr. Palmer said. In older children, speech training may be necessary.

Children or adults who have lost their voice-box, the larynx, sometimes can be taught to speak with their esophagus, by swallowing air and forcing it out. They may become proficient enough to say three or four words at a time. Various mechanical devices also are used.

Much more difficult are cases where the brain or nerves have been injured, producing spasms or paralysis. They can produce various kinds of effects on the coordination centres of the brain. Children with such afflications may be intelligent, but are unable to communicate and are often regarded as dull, Dr. Palmer said.

But by medical care and long speech training, some of them can be improved. Other areas of the brain and other muscles can be trained to do at least part of the work normally done by those which are out of order. One boy who has spastic paralysis now is a university student studying for his master's degree. He still does not walk normally and his speech is still somewhat slurred.

Keeping to a Normal Weight

By HELEN FOLLETT

PORTRAIT painters love to talk about beautiful bones. If a model hasn't beautiful bones she can run right olong and roll her hoop. No girl whose elbows are sharp, or whose collar bones form little shelves, is particularly keen about her anatomical frame, be it beautiful or not. She yearns for enough adipose upholstery to make for pleasing slenderness. She does not desire to look as if a strong gust of wind would blow her away.

Movie stars have strict orders to keep to normal weight. They do it by means of diet and exercise under the supervision of a physical education director. To be too thin is almost as bad as being too plump. If a girl can't make the scales leap to the right weight-point, she must do something about it.

Imperfect Posture

Even when weight is what it should be, collar bones can reveal themselves through imperfect posture. Throw the shoulders forward, let your chin droop, and there are the ugly little ledges. Stretch the backbone full length, bolst up your chest, tuck in your tummy, keep your head balanced and before you know it the ledges have packed themselves away where they belong. The fact alone should teach any girl the beauty value of correct positions when walking, standing or sitting.

If bone display is due to emaciation, the wise step is to have a medical checkup. If Doc says you're all right, just too active, or run down, make it a practice to drink a quart of rich, creamy milk every day. For breakfast have fruit or fruit juice, a beverage and a good-sized serving of a hot cereal well garnished with sugar and cream. That alone will put fat on your ribs.

Avoid acid and salty foods. The diet should include meat, fish, poultry, eggs, fruits, vegetables, cheese, nuts and sweet desserts. The more varied the diet the better. A little more butter on the bread, if you please. Fats are good adipose tissue builders.

Ottawa, (CP)—A crisp, bright salad for lunch is just about as welcome as a bouquet of spring flowers these drab off-season days.

Just as the time has come to begin casting off winter clothing, it's also the season for turning to lighter foods—and the housewife will find that most members of the family welcome a fruit or vegetable salad.

Moulded Vegetable Salad.. .. .. —Two tablespoons gelatine; one-half cup cold water; one-half cup vinegar; juice one lemon; two cups boiling water; one-half cup sugar; one-half cup shredded cabbage; one-half cup chopped celery; one-half cup chopped green pepper; salt.

Soak gelatine in cold water and then add boiling water and let stand until gelatine has dissolved. Remove and add vinegar, lemon juice, sugar and salt. Cool, and when it begins to jell add the chopped vegetables. Pour into molds, chill, and serve on lettuce leaves with salad dressing.

Rice and Salmon Salad

Ingredients: 1 1-2 cups cooked rice; 1 1-2 cups cooked salmon; one-half teaspoon salt; one-eighth teaspoon paprika.

Drop rice into rapidly boiling water and boil until tender. Wash in cold water and drain well. When cool, mix with cold flaked salmon, salt and paprika. Mix with French dressing and chill thoroughly. Mix with chopped celery and serve on lettuce leaves.

Plain Fruit Salad

Ingredients: One grapefruit; one orange; one cup diced pineapple; one apple, peeled; one banana; one-half cup chopped celery.

Remove membrane from the fruit pulp, add the celery, arrange on crisp lettuce, and cover with mayonnaise.

Hints for Salads

When the salad is served as a separate course, crackers, sandwiches often accompany it. Olives and radishes and celery also may be served. Crackers, if used, should be spread with butter or cheese and crisped in the oven.

Steamed Apple Pudding

Ingredients: Six apples; one-third cup sugar; one cup all-purpose flour; two teaspoons baking powder; one-half teaspoon salt; one-half cup milk; two tablespoons shortening.

Pare, core and slice apples into a buttered double boiler. Add sugar. Mix and sift dry ingredients, cut in shortening and add the milk. Spread the dough over apples and steam 35 minutes. Turn out to serve—six servings.

Versatile Wools Flatter Daytime and Formal Wear

By MARILYN LAMBORN

Toronto (CP)—This spring's flock of femininity will look flattery-fetching in soft wool.

At a recent departmental store fashion show sponsored by the International Wool Secretariat, wool stepped out as a further challenge to dainty smartness. Coats, suits, dresses and even resort clothes looked their long-skirted best in eye-catching weaves, spins and textures.

For a light-weight tweed coat, women were advised to take the brown of the season's first pussy willow and lay it on a ground of tender spring green. Combined together, these shades accentuate the open weave of an English reefer coat—wide of pocket and princess of line.

Taking its cue from the flowing flair of winter, the cape has made its dashing appearance on the spring fashion-plate. Its romantic folds worn fabulously full for formal wear or modestly flaired for daytime. In four sections with the seam at the centre back, the grass-green cape gave promise of trim ensembles underneath, whether slacks or formal attire. The collar is cut to stand at the back of the neck and form an attractive frame for the face.

A new fabric, with mink fur actually blended into a luxurious Canadian wool jersey, makes a hit when patterned into a light-weight uncreaseable dress. White pique detachable collars and cuffs, imitation bolero, flap pockets and long, fitted sleeves slashed at the wrist add to the simplicity and smartness of this all-occasion dress.

Clever wool-gathering was achieved in a summer resort costume of printed, sheer cashmere. The dirndl skirt is gathered to a curved hipline and swings into a heavy corded flair at the bottom. The brief blouse has a drop shoulder line and small puffed sleeves. The model wore the ensemble with gold kid shoes and bag and four of five heavy gold bracelets on either arm—an exotic touch to the California design.

Wool really goes versatile when it blossoms into a delicate pink georgette for evening wear. A fitted bodice and long slim sleeves compliment the "gay nineties" waistline. A pleated ruffle frames the shoulder, and a white taffeta petticoat with a sheer nylon frill stiffens the fabric to crinoline fullness.

Horse Sense Better Than Human In Blizzard

(Calgary Albertan)

The other night an Indian got off the train at Gleichen and set out in a snowstorm for his home on the reservation. His body was found later in a snowdrift. He had become hoplessly lost.

Variations of this story are reported every Winter. Lives are lost in most of the severe storms. If the unfortunate travellers don't lose their way, they become tired. Those who have been out in such storms say the temptation to lie down and rest becomes irresistible. But if they do, they will fall asleep and never waken.

Elderly people succumb in this manner more readily than others, for they are more easily fatigued. Sometimes they become utterly exhausted and can't go on. But more frequently it is just mental fatigue, just a desire to rest and sleep.

A strong will and a strong body will see the traveller through to his destination, if he has a fence or a road to follow and knows exactly where he is. But the person who strays out in a blizzard away from roads and fences has little hope. Indians are much more weather-wise, much more at home in the outdoors, than white men are, but even they are no match for such a storm.

The most dangerous feature is a loss of sense of direction, without knowing it. The weary plodder through the snow has no idea he is lost until he comes upon his own tracks or until re realizes he should have run into that certain fence long ago. No longer has he the slightest idea of direction. Usually he has forgotten to set his mental compass by the wind before he started out, and if he did not forget, then, like as not the wind shifted.

Farmers know that animals never lose their sense of direction, and if the traveller has a horse he is lucky. He is almost certain of surviving the storm if he simply bundles up tight, shuts his eyes and hangs on to the saddle horn, or if he lets his team have plenty of line. The horse will go home. Western Canada is full of stories of people out in blizzards who unwittingly tried to make the horses turn from the right road or direction, and of farmers who owe their lives to a horse's taking them safely through a storm.

Oranges and Lemons Introduced In N.S. Probably Back in 1610

Oranges and lemons were probably the first fruits to have been planted in Canada, says the Brockville Recorder and Times. At least they were in Nova Scotia as long ago as 1610, when a settler's son planted seeds of these citrus fruits "which grew shoots a foot high in the space of three months."

It is probable, that apples were planted at about the same time, though there is no direct reference to apple trees in the Maritimes before 1633. In an interesting paper Arthur Kelsall, superintendent Dominion Experimental Station, Kentville, N.S., has sketched some early history of Canadian agriculture, which had its beginning around the Nova Scotia coast.

Indian Cultivation

A type of agriculture had developed before the arrival of the white man, and corn (maize), beans, squash and sunflowers were grown by Indians. Indians' peacepipe was not the tobacco of today, but probably, the leaves of the wild low-growing plant an alkaloid similar to that of nicotine in tobacco. It is possible they even cultivated this plant, which now has the common name Indian Tobacco. Jacques Cartier in 1534, commented on "a wild wheat like rye, which seems to have been sown and cultivated." This was probably wild rye or Indian wheat, and it seems likely that the Indians cultivated it as well as harvesting it from its wild state.

Though the first persons to establish permanent settlement did not arrive until 1604, the previous hundred years had witnessed attempts at colonization by English, French, Portuguese and Spaniards at various points in both Canada and the United States. Cattle and swine appear to have been landed at Canso and Sable Island as early as 1518, and again in 1550 and 1538, but historians differ as to the fate of the animals.

Found In 1600

There is some evidence that descendants of these animals were found on the island early in 1600 though one authority claims that they were from the wreck of a Spanish vessel, which had for its objective the establishment of a settlement in Cape Breton.

The cultivation of agricultural crops goes back to early days. Jacques Cartier sowed turnip seed in 1534 somewhere in the vicinity of the present city of Montreal, but no settlement was established. Probably the first wheat field in North America was planted in 1604 at what is now the town of St. Stephen, N.B., by a group of French settlers under Poutrincourt. By 1606 there is reference to the sowing of wheat, barley, rye, hemp, peas, cabbage, raddish and flax at Port Royal (now Annapolis Royal). These crops suggest the beginning of vegetable gardening in Canada and the culture of crops for cloth and rope. In the same year the erection of fences, sheds for hogs and the enclosure of fields and the erection of a water mill for grinding feed is reported—undoubtedly the first mechanical industry in North America. In 1610 horses, cattle, iron ploughs and various seeds were imported from France.

Mixed Farming

Something approaching mixed farming must have developed by 1613, for the writer Lescarbot reports a piratical raid in that year by British settlers from Virginia. "They went off" he writes, "to a wood a league distant from the said habitation to capture a number of swine which had been driven there to feed and eat acorns, and from there to a meadow where the horses, mares and colts were usually sent, and took all. Then they went to the spot where the ploughing was going on."

In 1634 a seminary was established at Lequille, south of Port Royal, to educate Indian youths in the Christian faith and to teach them European methods of agriculture. Though the latter objective was not achieved, it is probably the first record of an agricultural school in North America. Land reclamation, and the construction of dykes, had an early start too, for writing of Port Royal at about the same period an early author says: "There is a great extent of meadows which the tide overflowed and which D'Aulnay de Charnisay caused to be made dry."

Crossbred Alsatians Attack Aussie Herds

By LESLIE BRODIE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Brisbane, Australia (CP)—Crossbred Alsatian dogs and dingoes (Australian native dogs) are killing calves and full-grown cows less than 50 miles from this city of nearly half a million people.

The wild dogs have wandered in from west-central Australia hunting in packs of from five to 10. Old timers in the Samford and Dayboro districts, 43 miles from Brisbane, say they are more numerous than they have been for the past 50 years.

Local farmers blame meat rationing for the increase in the number of crossbreds. When rationing was introduced many people turned their dogs out to fend for themselves.

The dogs, many of them Alsatians and blue cattle dogs (a hardy type of dog bred in this country for the cattle ranchers) took to the bush and crossed the dingo. This type of crossbred usually retains the cunning of the dingo and combines his killing instinct with a complete lack of fear.

These dogs seldom, if ever, attack humans, although one farmer told a reporter that a pack followed him home one night recently. Later they killed a calf less than 100 yards from his homestead.

Toronto Leafs Lead Detroit By One Point With Two Games Left to Play This Weekend

By HARRY ECCLES
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

The Detroit Red Wings and Boston Bruins played to a scoreless tie at Boston last night, while the New York Rangers beat Chicago Black Hawks 5-2 in Chicago.

Those two results in the fast-closing National Hockey League schedule clarified things considerably.

They meant, first, that the league title will be decided by the two games between Detroit and Toronto Maple Leafs this coming weekend, and Detroit goes into that climactic series behind the eight-ball. Toronto leads Detroit by one point. Saturday the Wings are at Toronto, and Sunday the Leafs are at Detroit.

And the Wednesday night games also meant that Montreal Canadiens at last are definitely out of the Stanley Cup playoffs. The post-season cup games will be between Toronto, Detroit, Boston and New York. The Canadiens join the Black Hawks in the discard once the schedule winds up Sunday.

One Point Ahead

The standing today gives Toronto 73 points with two games left; Detroit 72 and two games. Boston has 57 and one game, New York 55 and one game. Canadiens have 49 and two games, which just isn't enough to overcome that six-point gap between them and the last fourth-place playoff spot. Chicago at the bottom has 44 points and two games left.

Naturally the goalies starred in the scoreless contest at Boston last night. Young Harry Lumley in the Detroit nets threw out 31 shots, and Frankie Brimsek in the Boston cage had 27 saves. It was the seventh shut-out for Lumley and the third for Brimsek.

Bruins rested winger Woody Dumart and defenceman Murray Henderson, who had worked in four games in five nights previous. They replaced them with Arnie Killman and Ran Hanson of the Boston Olympics, Quebec senior league team.

Close Checking

In the close-checking affair tension mounted until the bell ending the second period was the signal for a threatening free-for-all. Johnny Pierson of Boston jammed with Lumley back of the Detroit net and nearly everybody on the ice got into it. It took the officials three or four minutes to clear the mob, but nobody was hurt and no penalties were awarded.

At Chicago, where 16,431 turned out to see Charlie Conacher's fighting Black Hawks in their third-last game of the season, New York rang up a 3-0 lead. Ed Kullman scored in the first, and rookie Ronny Rowe and Buddy O'Connor scored in the second period before Roy Conacher broke the parade with Hawks' first goal. Edgar LaPrade and Tony Leswick scored again for New York before Conacher got his second goal.

For Buddy O'Connor it was a successful St. Patrick's night. His goal and one assist gave him a point-scoring total of 60, four more than second-place Elmer Lach of Canadiens.

The Big Seven

(By The Canadian Press)

Buddy O'Connor, a true son of Erin, celebrated St. Patrick's Day in fine style last night when he earned a goal and an assist as New York blasted Chicago and thus boosted his National League scoring lead to four points over Montreal's Elmer Lach. The Ranger centre star has one game left while Lach has two. Doug Bentley of Chicago collected an assist to take over third spot behind the pace setters.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

BY GEORGE H. CARVER, Sports Editor.

It may have been the Green of the Siventheenth of Ireland, magnetised hockey shillalaghs; an uncanny telepathic gift, that enabled them to locate a fellow team-mate, or just plain hockey ability, but 1,500 of the hockey faithful sat in more or less amazement when the precision-like machine that is the Markham Millionaires, showed their wares in a 9-3 defeat of the Trenton Flyers last evening.

The smooth-working greenshirts who appeared to disdain the use of their husky bodies in their defensive tactics, and refrained last night from firing long-range shots from the indigo stripe at the Flyer nets, relied almost entirely on their ability to toby the rubber to a fellow Millionaire, who generally popped out of nowhere to take up the chore where his pal left off.

Their passing tactics both on the offence and the defence was a treat for the hockey optics hereabouts which have become more or less acclimatized to the wide-open hard-hitting, shoot-where-you-like and if-you-like, knock-'em-down, drag-'em-out style that has featured the up-to-now branr served up in this balliwick.

They had more plays than a stage-door Johnny has for a new chorine. Their passes seldom went astray, and when they did another Millionaire was Johnny-on-the-spot to make up the lost yardage. On one occasion when short-handed, they staged a behind-their-blueline exhibition of criss-cross basketball passing that had even rabid Flyer fans applauding. On the attack they feinted opposing defence out of position, slung short passes to team-mates and never fired the disc at the net until they were within very short range.

Millionaires are easily the best-coached team to appear on Belleville ice this season. And they should be good. It should be remembered that this starry band of puckists have played in a Senior "B" group all season and knocked off the best of the big boys their group could produce. They tied the University of Toronto, Intercollegiate champions, even if the knowledge knibblers were short some of the stars. And they have been together for quite some time, and each knows how many bites his mates take when chewing gum, or sucking an orange.

In all fairness to Flyers, they battled courageously in a lost cause. They were thrown off-stride by the precision-like play of the Millionaires in the first period, and they never fully regained it. They battled hard and never gave up trying, in a game which last night they were outclassed in all departments. The teams clash again in Oshawa on Saturday night in the second tilt, which, according to last night's form should be Flyers' swan song. But strange things happen some times in this funny sport called hockey.

Millionaires were tickled to death with their reception here last night, and the fifteen hundred fans that saw them win a thrilling victory. They expressed the wish that if a third game is necessary, it be played here.

Four teams from the city and district schools will battle in the COSSA championships at Malvern Collegiate Institute on Friday evening. Included are the OSD junior girls; BCI junior boys; senior girls and the Trenton C.I. senior boys. The OSD girls will play a sudden death game with the winners of the Georgian Bay district for the title.

"Red" Townsend's senior BCI hoop squad lost a close district COSSA finals round with the Trenton seniors, being nudged out of the title by the slim margin of one point. They lost to the Trenton squad in the first game of their points-to-count series, won the second but lost the round.

The injury jinx has hexed the Townsend team, and the redhead is scratching his noggin wondering where he is going to get a centre-player for the all-important 3rd Annual Queen's U. basketball tourney scheduled for March 31, April 1 and 2. Lloyd Faulkner, starry pivot man of the BCI team wrenched a leg in practice the other day, and leaves a big vacancy. Burke, another centre is also out of the game temporarily through illness. "Otherwise" grinned the irrepressible "Red", "we'd show those guys sumpin. We've got the best team to come out of BCI in some time, but these blankety-blank injuries have weakened us considerably." BCI, Albert College, and Trenton CI will send teams to the tourney.

A new National Hockey League champion will be crowned on March 21 when the regular 180-game championship schedule comes to a close. Succeeding Montreal Canadiens, N. H. L. title-holders for the last four years, will be either Detroit Red Wings or Toronto Maple Leafs.

The battle for first place this season between these two teams has been one of the closest in the 31-year-old history of the League. Ever since the middle of December it has been strictly a two-team race for top honors, with the lead see-sawing back and forth from week to week between Detroit and Toronto.

In a week from now the four top teams in the N. H. L. standings at the end of the regular schedule will commence the drama-packed, fan-appealing Stanley Cup Playoffs, won last year by the Toronto Maple Leafs. The club finishing first meets the team that finished third, while the second-place team clashes with the sextet that ended up fourth. Both of these series are four-out-of-seven semi-final rounds with the winners playing a final four-out-of-seven round for possession of the famous old Stanley Cup.

The Stanley Cup has been won by teams representing the City of Toronto on six occasions. Montreal aggregation have annexed the coveted mug five times.

There have been five all-American finals under modern Cup rules. Boston vs. New York Rangers in 1929; Detroit vs. Chicago in 1934; Detroit and New York Rangers in 1937, and Detroit and Boston in 1941 and 1943. The Stanley Cup has been held by a United States club on eleven occasions. Detroit Red Wings, Boston Bruins and New York Rangers have each won it three times, while Chicago Black Hawks have carried it off twice.

Teams from the Land of the Maple Leaf have had their names engraved on Lord Stanley's pewter for the last four years. Montreal Canadiens in 1944 and 1946 and Toronto Maple Leafs in 1945 and 1947. It was an all-Canadian final last year—the first time for twelve years that two clubs from Canada met in the Cup finals. Montreal Maroons and Toronto Maple Leafs reached the finals in 1935.

Toronto Maple Leafs and Detroit Red Wings are used to a bitter battle for supremacy, for they've met no fewer than three times in the Stanley Cup finals. In the 1936 series Detroit downed the Maple Leafs, but in 1942 and 1945 Toronto edged out the Red Wings. The 1942 and 1945 affairs were classics, both rounds going the full seven games.

Stanley Cup play usually produces some thrilling overtime games. The longest hockey game on record took place in Cup play in 1936 when Detroit Red Wings and Montreal Maroons played 116 minutes and 30 seconds of overtime before Mud Bruneteau scored for the Wings and gave Detroit a 1-0 victory. The teams played 176 minutes and 30 seconds of hockey. The game started on March 24 at 8:30 p.m. and finished at 2:25 a.m. on March 25.

Czech Coach Fired After Flyers Win At Olympic Games

(By The Canadian Press)

Members of the R. C. A. F. Flyers last night at London told how Mike Buckna, pre-war Trail player and coach of the Czech Olympic team which placed second behind Canada in the games, was "fired." The players said that Prague newspapers screamed for Buckna's "skin" after the highly-touted Czech team failed to add the Olympic title to the world championship won at Prague a year ago.

The fuss started when Vladislav Pabrodsky, starry Czech centre, was quoted in Prague newspapers as saying that Czechoslovakia would have beaten Canada if Buckna had allowed them to play a wide-open brand of hockey. They tied 0-0 in the Olympics.

"We played them in a wide-open game after the Olympics and beat them 5-2," one player said. "And this proved Buckna's tactics were correct."

He wanted to return to Canada but it's doubtful if he'll be allowed out of the country as his wife is a Czech."

Expenses of teams from eight Provincial golf associations to Willingdon Cup matches, held at the venue of the Canadian Amateur championship each year, will be paid from funds of the Royal Canadian Golf Association's one-dollar-per-year plan, Association assistant secretary E. H. Banks said yesterday. The plan will also provide for international matches. Due to existing conditions in Great Britain, it is expected the committee will concentrate on matches with the United States.

Ken Lovegrove of the Hamilton Amateur Boxing Club last night knocked out "Irish" Joe Callahan of London in the second round of the scheduled five-round main bout at Hamilton. Billy Goulds of Oshawa, won on a technical knockout over Russ Barko of Hamilton after one minute of the fourth round of a five-round 147-pound bout. In the 118-pound semi-finals, Mike Garlash of St. Mary's decisioned Bill Harding of Oshawa in five rounds.

Brilliant Passing Plays Of Markham Millionaires Clip Flyers Wings in 9-3 Defeat

By GEO. H. CARVER
Sports Editor

Functioning like a smooth well-oiled machine, the Markham Millionaires, easily the best-coached team to perform here this season defeated the Trenton RCAF Flyers by a 9-3 score in Memorial Arena last night to take the first game of their best-of-three Intermediate "A" playdown series. The second game is scheduled for Oshawa Saturday night.

Jerseyed in an appropriate St. Patrick Day's green the starry visitors unleashed a passing attack that had fifteen hundred fans agog with its precision, and a smooth checking defensive, mostly of the "poke" variety, that disorganized many a Flyer foray.

The Flyers have played better hockey, but they could not cope with the collective and individual brilliancy of the visitors in their combination play on the offensive and their basketball-defensive passing when shorthanded.

The smooth work of the Millionaires had the air crew disorganized in the first period with their uncanny poke-checking and spot-passing which was the best seen here in many a moon.

Played Best in Final

Flyers flashed back into the picture periodically in the second period and played their best hockey in the final session, but were unable to take advantage of the four penalties handed out by officials to the green-shirted visitors. They flashed in on the Millionaires goal but could not penetrate the stalwart defence of the visitors but three times, and at others were thwarted by the finished work of Harper in the Millionaires nets.

It was the new hockey seen at its best here, and that goes for any teams that have performed in the Memorial Arena. There was a marked lack of the razzle-dazzle knock-em-down drag-em-out type of play familiar to Belleville fans, who saw some of the prettiest combination both offensive and defensive played here in a long time.

The Millionaires clicked like a machine, going both ways. Their offensive strength is more or less evenly distributed as evidenced in the fact that the nine goals scored were distributed among eight players.

Rumney Scores Two

Rumney was the only Millionaire to dent the twine twice, with Stark and Bangay two outstanding stars of the visitors being credited with three assists each. Benny Baker and the Scott brothers also scintillated for the winners with Rumney and Nesbitt turning in stellar efforts. One of the best balanced squads seen here, the Millionaires' strength is not diminished with the changing of players.

Flyers deserve a lot of credit for the fine display they put up against a team that was superior in all departments. Mid Middleton again played himself into the ice with Miller, after a shaky first period start, doing yeoman service with Sargent, Brackenbury, Ault, Christy and Edwards.

Nesbitt drew first blood for the Millionaires midway through the first period when Bangay tipped him a neat pass in front of the goalmouth. Watson and Melroy teamed up for the second marker four minutes later, and Millionaires, who rarely shot from the blueline, were taking their passing plays close in on McKenna's doorstep.

Added Two More

Perry and Scott added two more for the winners midway through the second heat and Flyers struck back with their first goal when Edwards took Brackenbury's pass to fool Harper. Ben Baker on a brilliant rush fired home the rubber for Markham's fifth goal with assists going to Nesbitt and Bangay.

Stark pulled the puck at the first face-off in the third period, ripped through the Flyer defence and his pass to Rumney clicked with but ten seconds showing on the clock. The game evened itself a bit as Markham penalties began to materialize. B. Baker went off for tripping and he was scarcely back on the ice than Bangay drew the official wrath, Perry joined him a few seconds later and the Millionaires were down two men. Flyers surged to the attack and finally Miller ripped home Brackenbury's pass to make the score 6-2.

Got One Back

Lawrie got that one back on a smooth goal-mouth passing play two minutes later and the Millionaires' Watson drew his team's fourth penalty of the period. O'Meara led a Flyer offensive and beat Harper with a high shot that the goalie never saw. Rumney and Melroy came back with the Millionaires' eighth and ninth goals of the game and the tilt ended just that way.

Ten penalties were handed out by Referees St. Louis and Maurice Walsh, all of them minors. The game was clean, with hard body-checks being at a premium. The most of the sin-bin sentences were dished out for tripping or holding.

The teams:

Markham: Goal, Harper; defence, F. Scott, G. Scott; centre, Stark; wings, Nesbitt, Rumney; subs, Bangay, B. Baker, Melroy, Lawrie, Watson, A. Baker, Perry, Sellars, Perry.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

Five distinct and separate basic needs are found in a squeeze. Count them on the fingers and thumbs of either hand; one, two, three, four, five.

The first one to look for are the promotion cards; two cards that are not winners but are likely to be.

The second to look for are reduction cards; usually ten cards that can be used up in tricks that are taken first.

The third is an entry to the hand opposite the squeezer; a card that will take a trick in the opposite hand.

The fourth is a squeezee; a victim that can be squeezed out of a card that he is holding to protect at least two suits.

The fifth basic need for the operation of a squeeze is the squeeze card. What is a squeeze card? It is a 13er; the last unplayed card of some suit; a card in some suit of which the squeeze has none.

When this 13er is led, the victim must play some card from one of the two suits he is protecting. When this happens, one of the promotion cards is kept for taking a trick in that suit.

South must take all 13 tricks when spades are trumps in this deal:

♠8 7 6 4
♥A K 9
♣8 6 4 2

WEST	EAST
♠10 3 2	♠None
♥Q J 10 8 5	♥7 6
♦A Q J 6 4	♦10 9 8 7 5 2
♣None	♣10 9 7 5 3

SOUTH
♠A K Q J 9 5
♥4 3 2
♦None
♣A K Q J

West leads heart queen. Dummy and south third heart will lose a trick unless a squeeze prevents. Dummy heart nine and diamond king are promoters. Heart king, five trumps, four clubs are played as ten reducers. North heart ace will then be an entry when necessary.

South now leads the 13er of trumps and west is squeezed. West is trying to protect two suits. If he unguards diamonds, north king is good. If west unguards hearts, north nine is good.

The purpose of leading the 13er is to squeeze west into giving up control of one suit. This enables north to save a promotion card.

Heavy, heavy, heavy lies a promotion card over your head.

The Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, March 18 (AP)—When a three-time academy winner gives advice to young players, it's worth listening to. Here's what Walter Brennan has to say:

"Let other actors fight for top billing Give me a featured spot every time.

"Suppose my name tops the casting list in a couple of films then next time I draw a smaller part and get fourth billing. People would say . . 'Brennan's' slipping; He was starred in his last picture."

Brennan feels many actors aim too high — they try to be stars when they should play character roles.

"Take me, for example," he said. "I started playing old man parts 25 years ago when they had to powder my hair gray and paint on the wrinkles. Now they just set a hat on my head and I hop to it."

Eastward Ho

Clark Gable is heading East for a three-week visit in New York, his first in several years. He'll see "Command Decision," which he'll play on the screen. Clark was offered the stage role but refused saying he was happy being a movie actor (a rarity). He recommended Paul Kelly for the part. It's possible that another reason for Clark's trip is Dolly O'Brien . . .

The Dorothy McGuire starrer, "A Doll's House," may not be filmed in Sweden, as announced. Although the Selznick studio has made extensive preparations, the international situation appears too stormy.

Hamilton Tigers Win Senior Title For Fourth Time

(By The Canadian Press)

The ever-green veteran Hamilton Tigers are monarchs of the Ontario Hockey Association Senior league for the fourth straight season. Last night they chalked up a 1-0 overtime triumph over Kitchener - Waterloo Flying Dutchmen to take the senior crown in the fifth game of their best-of-seven final series.

Barrie Flyers completely outplayed Windsor Spitfires to take a 2-0 victory and go into a 3-2 lead in their best-of-seven junior finals. Barrie netminder Jim Strachan chalked up his second straight shutout over the Spitfires with the win.

The Northern Ontario Hockey Association junior champions also were decided as Porcupine Combines took down their second straight title by handing Copper Cliff Redmen a 6-4 beating. Porcupine won the best-of-seven finals 4-3.

The Hamilton Kitchener match went scoreless until 2:05 of the second overtime period when Carl Smelle potted the title-winning marker on a driving shot. Earlier, goalies Art Childs of Hamilton and Keith Woodall of Kitchener, had put on a brilliant display of netminding to frustrate attack after attack and keep the three regulation periods and one overtime period scoreless.

Smelle picked up the puck at centre ice, wheeled over the blue line, and whipped a shot from outside the defence to beat Woodall cleanly. Both clubs had numerous chances to go into the lead but the goalies were almost unbeatable as they stopped labelled shots time after time.

Tigers to Play North

Tigers now will move against the winner of the Northern Ontario Hockey Association finals between Sault Ste. Marie Greyhounds and McIntyre Macmen for the all-Ontario championship.

Barrie outskated and outchecked Spitfires all the way, keeping the Windsor team disorganized and off balance while producing a fast passing attack. Frenchy Mayer again checked winger Gord Haidy, who played the main role in Windsor's two victories in the series, into the ice.

Flyers took a one-goal lead in the first period when Rusty Alkin scored on a pass from Gil St. Pierre. An earlier Barrie goal was disallowed on grounds that Jerry Reid had kicked the puck into the nets. Barrie's second marker came in the middle frame when Frenchy Mayer passed to defenceman Ray Gariepy, who fired the puck home from just inside the blue line.

The sixth game of the series will be played at Barrie Saturday.

Spot losers a Goal

Porcupine Combines spotted Copper Cliff the first goal, tied the score by the end of the first period and ran up a 5-2 lead at the end of the second. They added a single in the third while Redmen picked up two.

Roger Mineault and Johnny Kovich paced the Porcupine attack with two goals while Ernie Keefe and Domenico added one apiece. Copper Cliff marksmen were Bud MacIver, Conrad Bonhomme, Marcel Clements and Jerry Toppazzini. Mickey Demarco in the Combine nets played strong hockey to hold back the Copper Cliff snipers who outshot Porcupine 33-21.

Little Benny's Note Book

Ma was reeding her paper and pop was reeding his saying, Now here's something intristing. It may not be possible to lick the intire high cost of living, but at least we can lick the high cost of meat, he said.

How, William, what is it? ma said, and pop said, I dont know what I'm doing here on the women's page, but by gollies I've struck gold. Here's a recipee for a meatless dish that sounds good enough to make a meal for a hungry king. How about trying it and having a good dinner and a good laugh at the butcher all at the same time? How about fixing it up tomorrow? he said.

I'm sure I'll be delighted, but every time I suggest a meatless meal, you tern your nose up a mile, ma said. What kind of a recipee is it, what's in it she said, and pop said, Everything except meat. There's 6 different kinds of vegetables cut up in a casserole with layers of cheese between them and cooked in some kind of a sauce made of a lot of cream and butter, and you cover the whole werks with slices of eggplant and let it go to town in an oven heeted up to a certain number of degrees, he said.

Well, it certainly sounds nourishing enough, and I'll be glad to prepare it for you tomorrow, though I must say after I get through paying for all that butter and cream and cheese, not to speak of that array of fresh vegetables, it'll amount to the price of a big steak, ma said, and pop said, Oh, really? Well, in that case, maybe you'd better get the steak. That's a good idea, we haven't had a steak since that last steak we had. By gollies I'm glad I ran across that recipee, he said.

Sutch a man, ma said.

Meening him.

No More Piles

Here is a low cost, simple home medicine. It helps make it possible for you to get quick relief from the itching soreness and burning pain of piles.

It is a medical fact that piles come from causes INSIDE your body. They may need internal treatment. Hem-Roid is an internal medicine. Its medical action helps correct some of the internal conditions that cause such intense soreness and pain. Hem-Roid relieves constipation, wakes up your lazy liver and bile, eases the tormenting rectal irritation and helps heal the sore, painful pile tumors.

U.S. Dollars Will Start Action Quick When Bill Approved

By ROBERT EUNSON

Paris, March 18 — (AP) — United States dollars will start clanking on European counters almost as soon as President Truman's pen is dry on the European reconstruction bill.

A high American source in Paris said the machinery is all set to begin parcelling out the long-awaited Marshall plan aid as soon as the program gets past the House of Representatives and the president signs it.

The $5,300,000,000 program already has Senate approval. House leaders in Washington have set April 1 as a target date for passage there.

"All America demands of the organization now being born in Paris is a serious indication that these countries are willing to work together and help themselves," the informant said. "They can start receiving aid even before they have an organization of their own if we feel sure they are going to have one eventually."

Gas and Stomach Disorders Made Her Nervous, Rundown

"Suffered 3 Years," Says This Woman. Got Bad Rheumatic Pain; Always Tired; Could Not Sleep Well. Tells How Syntona Helped Her.

"For the past three years I suffered from awful spells of nervous indigestion with gas and pains after my meals," said Mrs. Lavina McEwen, Lucan, Ontario, in a recent report.

"Many days I didn't feel like eating at all. My food would sour and rise in my throat, gas formed in large quantities bringing a distressed, breathless feeling that made my nerves all on edge. My entire system became affected by this sour, gassy condition of my stomach. I began to have backaches and pains in my limbs and joints. I was always tired, but when I'd lie down at night I was so nervous and upset I couldn't sleep.

"Having tried a lot of different things without benefit, I was badly discouraged. Then, one day I read in the paper about Syntona helping other people and decided to get some. This medicine has meant all the difference in the world to me. Even from the first bottle I noticed my food beginning to digest better and since that time I have kept on improving until I am virtually free of all gas, sourness and distress. My nerves are calmed down so that I enjoy, sound, restful sleep, the aches and pains are gone away and I feel like an entirely different person from what I did a few weeks ago."

Why not let this grand Herbal Compound help you as it has so many other local men and women? It's speedy, effective and pleasant action has surprised nearly everyone who has taken it.

HANDFUL OF STARS

By Margaret Gorman Nichols

She waited until she lost him in the crowd before going in. A weight seemed to tug at her heart. For two weeks she had been telling herself that he should go home since he had not been home since summer and since, when he began to work, a visit with his family for as long as a week would be impossible. But to leave her at Christmas, their first Christmas.

That afternoon Suzanne called her into her office to discuss work. Then she said, "I suppose you and Jeff are planning big festivities."

Lyle shook her head. "No. He went to Boston today. I'm going to spend most of the time with Bonnie and the baby."

"Stephen is having his customary house-party. He usually invites people who haven't any families or homes to go back to. Oh, and incidentally, Bonnie is doing very well. I saw Mrs. Hunt with whom she works and she's very pleased with her. Both having babies, they have something more in common than just commercial art." Seeing the bracelet so new, so bright on Lyle's wrist, she asked, smiling, "From Jeff? It's lovely."

Lyle nodded. The fingers of her left hand touched it lovingly. She thought: "I probably paid for it but he gave it to me and even clasped it on."

Suzanne thought as Lyle went out: "Every time Jeff goes away, he gets into trouble. I've never known it to fail."

Bonnie was at home when Lyle came in that night, an incredibly changed Bonnie from the tired little housewife of a few months ago. The home-made house dresses had given way to smart dark dresses. Her brown hair, worn in flat waves for as long as Lyle had known her, had been arranged in a roll around her head by a master of his profession. The nails of her small hands were vividly painted and she who had laughingly admitted reeking of kitchen soap was now subtly fragrant with expensive French perfume.

No longer was Bonnie's conversation confined to her baby and her home. She lunched with the many people with whom her work brought her into contact and she had gone alone to several Sunday afternoon parties, returning bright-eyed and eager to talk.

Lyle watched the metamorphosis of Bonnie with absorbing interest and complete understanding, knowing it was a desperate but brave girl's attempt to pick up the broken pieces of her marriage and carry on for the sake of a child who would not always be a child but who would one day be proud of his father, must be proud of his gallant mother who had not returned to her family, who had taken no money from Michael except for Mike's support, who had worked and improved herself and cried on nobody's shoulder and asked for no one's help or sympathy. And Lyle knew, too, that Bonnie was filling her spare time with people and an interest in clothes so as not to have time to—remember.

Coming in one evening, Lyle heard Mike's voice in the kitchen where the now indispensable Mrs. Ryan was giving him his supper.

Bonnie, taller by two inches in the diminutive black suede pumps, a shining-haired, deftly made-up Bonnie in a new black dress was standing in the centre of the room, looking down helplessly at several unpacked cartons which had obviously just arrived.

When she looked up, Lyle saw the pain in her eyes that Bonnie had not let her see for weeks.

"These just came," she said flatly. "They are toys for Mike from—from Michael, I think." Turning her back, she walked to the window, not wanting Lyle to see her tears.

It was the first time Michael's name had been spoken since that night Bonnie had come back from Baltimore.

"Shall I open them?"

Bonnie said, "I don't know. I suppose so. I—I can't."

Lyle knelt down and began to tear at the heavy brown paper.

Then Bonnie said, "I told you I wasn't going home for Christmas, Lyle. I really don't want to go for several reasons but mainly because it leaves you alone with Jeff away. But I had a pathetic letter from my parents today. They want Mike terribly. They've made plans. I suppose I'll have to go."

"Of course they want Mike and you, too. I'll be all right. I'll write letters and mend."

"I thought you could have dinner with Suzanne Gibson."

To make Bonnie feel better she said, "Yes. I could—probably."

Bonnie and Mike left after dinner. Shortly after Mrs. Ryan left, Lyle was curled up on the divan with a book on art when the telephone rang.

Her first thought was that it was Jeff. Then she thought and prayed that it was Michael. But the moment she heard the "Hello, Lyle?" she knew it was Stephen.

"Yes, this is Lyle, Stephen."

"Suzanne told me you were staying in town with Mrs. Hill, and I . . ."

"I was but Mrs. Hill and the baby left for Baltimore tonight."

"And you're alone? You're going to spend the holiday alone?"

She laughed. "Does that seem so terrible?"

"Not at any other time. But now—yes." He chuckled. "I know. I've spent Christmas alone. They're bad. You think too much and get morbid. You're coming up to my place with Suzanne and me. We're driving up within an hour. The house is probably filled with people already. Can you be ready in an hour?"

She hesitated. Her heart had begun to beat fast. "I'd love to go but I don't think Jeff would like it, Stephen."

"What utter nonsense! He'll understand if you explain you were alone. You're coming. That settles it. If you stay alone, you'll come back to the store and draw girls with long, melancholy faces. I can't have that! Put some things in a bag. We're coming for you." He rang off.

Jeff couldn't mind, couldn't blame her for wanting to escape the small, silent apartment on that one day of all days in the year—for wanting cheer and companionship. But while she still debated, her mind was busy seeing herself in Stephen's lovely home filled with people "who haven't any families or homes to go back to" and wearing the silver dress she had bought before she had known Jeff was going home for Christmas. Besides, if she refused, both Stephen and Suzanne would think her reason both foolish and inadequate. Lyle thought, "I want to go. I don't want to be alone on Christmas."

She packed hurriedly everything except the silver dress she had bought to wear for Jeff. That she packed carefully. For a moment her hand lingered on it. Not for Jeff whom she loved and who loved her would she wear it but for Stephen who saw her, not as a girl, but as a person who could do amazing things with pencil and paper. Putting in sport clothes, she thought, "I owe Stephen too much to refuse his invitation. And some day, perhaps, Jeff will know it was Stephen who helped him when he most needed help."

She was ready when they came.

On the street beside the car Suzanne said, "Lyle, you sit between us, dear. We'll keep you warm."

Feeling Stephen's great scratchy tweed coat on one side of her and the soft fur of Suzanne's coat on the other, she felt peacefully happy.

Stephen glanced down at her, smiled, and said, "Suzanne, did I ever tell you that I put Lyle to sleep? I'll bet you ten dollars she's asleep before we get there."

Suzanne said, "I'll take you up on that. I've never seen her sleep at her work."

Lyle was asleep before they had gone twenty miles.

On this night it was the guests who welcomed the host. He came in laughing with Suzanne and Lyle because the former had just paid him ten dollars because the latter had slept with her face against his tweed coat nearly the whole way.

Again Lyle thought that Stephen's guests were the most attractive people she had ever seen, and the friendliest. There were several new people tonight to whom she was introduced before going upstairs with Suzanne to the same room they had shared on that unforgettable weekend in October when Jeff had asked her to marry him.

A little later she came down the steps wearing the shimmering silver dress that accented the rich coppery shade of her hair. And because she was talking to Suzanne she did not notice Stephen's eyes narrow the way they did when he was deeply thoughtful. She had so vital, so colorful, so lovely, he thought. And so young. Undoubtedly the youngest person here. And his eyes swept up from the toes of her silver sandals to her face, clear-skinned and glowing.

But for Lyle the scene below her was incomplete and the weight at her heart still stubbornly tugged. So many faces but not Jeff's! Lovingly she touched the chain bracelet. This seemed to bring him closer—touching his gift. And because he was far away tonight their recent difficulties became inconsequential and the hurts he had given her recently were wholly forgiven.

There was gay talk for a time, interesting talk. Then somebody suggested bridge and tables were set up.

Ray Hardy, tall and thin and dark-haired, sullenly refused to make a needed fourth.

Some one asked, "Ray, what is the matter with you tonight? You've said almost nothing. You've been sitting in a corner glowering for hours."

A girl named Lettice laughed. "Let him alone. I know what's wrong." And to Ray, "The girl who shares my apartment is disappointed, too, and probably glowering. She'd planned to drive to Boston with Troy, too, but had to take a train. Obviously Troy preferred the passenger whose name she wouldn't mention."

Ray flushed. "You don't have to be very smart to guess who that passenger is!" He looked at Lyle. "Jeff drove to Boston with Troy. Did you know that? I think you should. Aren't you supposed to be engaged to him?"

Lyle lowered her eyes. "Yes. I knew he was driving to Boston with her." A lie quickly spoken in defense of Jeff . . .

Ray said: "I'm sorry. I apologise. But when it comes to pulling underhand tricks, both Jeff and Troy are unequaled. I've been sore because when Jeff stepped out I thought I'd stepped into his place. Now I don't know where I stand. I'm sorry."

He moved away and joined the bridge players.

Lyle sat quietly, tautly, her lashes lowered. So that was why Jeff had said he was taking an afternoon train! He knew she could not get away in the afternoon! So that was why he was not driving his own car! But why hadn't he told her? Foolish question—that. He had not told her because he knew that of all girls she would object to Troy most. Troy who had come here at Stephen's that day and belittled and embarrassed her.

When the tenseness created by Ray Hardy's outburst had passed, Lyle arose and went up the steps. At one end of the long second floor hall was a window-seat. She went to it and sat down and looked out the window, seeing a thick fog descending over the countryside.

Downstairs Suzanne said, low, "She can't trust him out of her sight."

Stephen Said, "You mean that she can't trust him."

"I don't understand Troy." She nodded her dark head. "But then I do, I suppose. She's still in love with Jeff in spite of what she said about him the day she was here. Stephen, what has Jeff been living on all these weeks he hasn't worked. His family? But I understand they haven't much any more. I know he doesn't have any money because he bought the new car shortly before he was let out. He never has had any money."

Stephen inhaled deeply on his cigarette. "You don't mean what has been keeping him but—who? I'll make you another bet that it's Lyle. They have a joint bank account."

"Then it's worse than I thought." Suzanne looked genuinely distressed. "What is going to happen to them? What keeps it alive in her?"

"The first weeks they knew each other. She thinks it will be like that again."

She saw him go up the steps and knew he was going to Lyle. And she was afraid not for Lyle—but for him.

Because the soft deep rug on the second floor cushioned his footsteps Lyle did not hear him until he spoke her name. Looking up, the glow and brightness gone from her face and eyes, she thought that he looked more serious than she had ever seen him. No use to pretend with Stephen to whom people were transparent. No use to say something flippant as if the scene downstairs had been forgotten.

Communist Named Foreign Minister Of Czechoslovakia

Vlado Clementis Was Chief Assistant to Jan Masaryk

Prague, March 19 — (AP) — The Prague radio announced today that Vlado Clementis, a Communist, has been appointed Foreign Minister of Czechoslovakia.

Clementis, who had been the No. 2 man in the foreign ministry, succeeds Jan Masaryk, who died in a plunge from his apartment in the Foreign Office building March 10.

The new foreign minister, a Slovak had been Secretary of State for foreign affairs and had been Masaryk's chief assistant for several years. He is a lawyer, 46 years old.

The Prague radio broadcast said the offices of foreign minister and secretary of state are being combined and that Clementis will fill both posts.

The appointment was made public just four weeks after the start of a cabinet crisis which resulted in complete communist control of the government. It came three weeks after President Eduard Benes swore in the new cabinet, of which Masaryk was a member.

Association with West

Though for many years an energetic worker for communist causes, Clementis has many associations with western countries. He speaks English and French fluently.

In 1935 he was a communist deputy representing a Slovak district in the Prague parliament. Upon occupation of the country by the Germans he fled to Poland and Russia and ultimately reached France. There the Daladier government interned him.

After France fell he went to England. From there for several years he broadcast news of world events to his homeland.

In 1942 Clementis became a member of the Slovak state council in London. Now he is a member of the Slovak National Council, a provincial legislature which sits in Bratislava.

The appointment does not change the composition of the communist-dominated cabinet. As Secretary of State Clementis previously had cabinet rank. Masaryk was affiliated with no party.

POLISH SOCIALISTS TO JOIN RED WORKERS' ORGANIZATION

Warsaw, March 18 —(AP)— Premier Josef Cyrankiewicz announced today, the Polish Socialist Party was preparing to merge with the Communist Workers' Organization.

The Premier is secretary-general of the Leftist Polish Socialists. He told the party's Warsaw executive committee the unified party will be prepared for "the great international battle for peace."

FRENCH WOMAN SCIENTIST FREED FROM DETENTION

on Own Recognizance for 15 Days Days

Washington, March 19 —(AP) —Attorney General Tom Clark today authorized the release of Mme. Irene Joliot-Curie, French scientist, who had been detained by immigration officials at Ellis Island.

Mme. Joliot-Curie was taken into custody and removed to the island shortly after her arrival late yesterday in New York from Paris.

Waiting at La Guardia airport to greet here were offers of the joint Anti-Fascist Refugee Committee, which has been listed by Clark as a subversive organization.

A committee spokesman said she had come to this country "to acquaint the American people with the immediate needs of the Spanish Republicans in exile."

The order for Mme. Joliot-Curie's release followed earlier indications from the Justice Department that she would be detained until it could be determined whether her entry would be "prejudicial to the best interests of the United States."

She was released on her own recognizance (without bond) for 15 days. This is the exact period of her proposed visit to the United States which was authorized in a State Department 15-day visitor's visa issued at Paris.

At Liberty While Case Studied

In reply to a question concerning an apparent reversal in the exclusion plan, the Justice Department said that Mme. Joliot-Curie will remain at liberty "while her case is being studied."

An official said the first word the Justice Department had on Mme. Joliot-Curie's visit was when she arrived at the airport. He said there was no advance information that diplomatic authorities in Paris had issued the visa.

She came here for a speaking tour under the sponsorship of the joint Anti-Fascist Refugee Committee.

Asked whether she would be permitted to go on the tour now, the department said she was at liberty to do so and that no strings had been attached to the release.

GreekGovt. Learns Guerrillas Planned Salonika Attack

Athens, March 19. (AP)—Constantine Rentis, Minister of Public Order, said today the government had learned guerrillas planned an attack on Salonika between March 22 and March 30.

A foreign ministry spokesman said considerable military movements had been reported in Yugoslavia and Albania.

Salonika is a major port and military headquarters at the waist of Greek Macedonia. It lies about 180 miles north of Athens and 40 miles south of the Yugoslav frontier.

Rentis said reports had been received of an international brigade in neighboring countries. Official dspatches from Athens to the United States State Department ,made public in Washington yesterday, said three Russian-backed international brigades were reported poised in Yugoslavia, Aloania and Bulgaria for a threatened attack. The forces were estimated to total 30,000 men.

Dwight Griswold, chief of the American Mission to aid Greece, said he has received no report of an international brigade. He said he believed the Greek army could repel any such invasion without the help of Americans.

The Mission said four 170-foot motor patrol boats were expected today for delivery to the Greek navy. The boats left Norfolk 24 days ago, each with a crew of Greek officers trained there.

Vast Mineral Wealth of Canada Devoured Faster Than Discovered

By HAROLD MORRISON

(Canadian Press Staff Writer)'

Ottawa, March 19 (CP)—Canada's vast mineral resources are being devoured faster than new discoveries are being made, thus placing the country at a disadvantage in event of another war.

That is the considered statement of a mines official after noting that the government has encouraged private prospectors to seek uranium and other radioactive minerals, basis of the atomic bombs.

Elaborating, he said he was certain one other country—Russia —held an advantage over Canada since she had used her mineral resources over a shorter period and therefore could anticipate a greater potential.

"I believe Russia's mineral strength and supply to be greater than our own," he said in an interview.

Turning to the United States, he said she was in a worse position than Canada. Mineral depletions were greater than discoveries.

"It's like oil and coal," he added. "You have to go slow or face scarcity."

Eventually, he continued, the world would either reduce industrial development or find synthetic material.

He said known synthetics such as magnesium and aluminum have already been manufactured. The cost was heavy compared with steel, but the potential seemed almost unlimited.

Amplifying the government announcement on uranium, the official said a booklet had been prepared for prospectors to assist them in the location of uranium oxide, usually found in pitchblende.

As to the price to be paid, he said it did not compare with gold for instance, but with tantellum, a corrosion-ressistant metal used in the chemical industry and in the manufacture of surgical instruments.

He said the base price of $2.75 a pound may be changed, if warranted.

Other valuable minerals located in the ore would be either returned to the miner or purchased by the government at extra cost.

Another point was whether prospectors in Canada other than Canadians will be allowed to locate and mine uranium ore. He could not say whether, for example, United States mining companies operating in Canada would be able to take over uranium mining.

IMPERIAL OIL TO CONCENTRATE ON WEST CANADA

Will Sell Holdings In International Petroleum

Toronto March 19 (CP)— In a move interpreted as a withdrawal from South American operations to concentrate on development in Canada, Imperial Oil, Ltd., is planning to dispose of its holdings in International Petroleum Co., Ltd.

The deal, if it goes through, will place some $80,301,188 in the hands of Imperial, on the basis of 8,728,390 shares at $9.20 a share.

Imperial proposes to sell its stock in International, which it at present controls, on a prorata basis to Imperial shareholders; Standard Oil Company (New Jersey) is the majority holder of Imperial stock and so it will get the majority of international shares. International will thereby become a direct subsidiary of Standard.

In the meantime, before it parts with control of International and that company's South American operations, Imperial has made preliminary arrangements with Standard for a crude oil contract to assure Imperial of a continuing source of crude for its eastern Canadian requirements over a period of years.

Head Office at Sarnia

The announcement was made yesterday in statements by Henry H. Hewetson, president of Imperial and L. P. Maier, president of International.

Strong, but Short Sap Run Expected

Quebec, March 19 (CP)—With the year's first cash crop at hand, farmers in the counties have an eye on the weather, a prayer on their lips and sugaries fully geared to handle the run of Maple sap whose by-products in 194" reached a gross farm value of $11,000,000 compared with $5,444,000 in 1946.

That's a heap of money to be resting at the mercy of a capricious fellow — the weather man —hence the prayer for sunny days and frosty nights. Even if the prayer is answered, first reports indicate a strong flow but an abbreviated run.

Tree tapping already has started in the counties of Beauce, Megantic, Shefford and Dorchester which in 1947 produced the bulk of Quebec's 2,381,000 gallons of syrup and 3,260,000 pounds of maple sugar. But there's little likelihood of either product hitting the market for Easter as usual, for Easter is early this year.

The price is unknown at this stage but last year the average farm price was $3.48 a gallon for syrup compared with $4 in Ontario; $4.25 in New Brunswick and $3.94 in Nova Scotia. Quebec produced 2,000,000 gallons more than all other provinces in eastern Canada combined.

Scandinavian Leaders Join W. Europe Lineup Against Communism

(By The Associated Press)

Scandinavian leaders joined the western European line-up against Communism today. Premiers of Norway, Sweden and Denmark took their stand while delegates in Finland, to the east got last-inminute instructions for Moscow negotiations toward a Soviet-Finnish treaty.

The Communists were accused at the same time of having a five-country committee working on Italy, where an election is scheduled April 18, and on France. They also were charged with having an international brigade ready to attack Greece.

The Moscow radio said today President Truman's preparedness speech to Congress Wednesday and th five power Brussels pact signed that day favor American Imperialists and militarists.

Italian premier Alcide de Gasperi said the nine-country Communist International Information Bureau (cominform) has a special five-country secret committee to issue directives to synchronize the conduct of Communists in Italy and France."

De Gasperi said the committee met first in Poland last September shortly before the cominform was organized there. It included Col.-Gen. Andrei A. Zhdanov, Russian Communist secretary general; Luigi Longo, Italian vice-secretary general; Anna Pauker, Romanian foreign minister; Jacques Duclos of France; and Molovan Djilas of Yugoslavia.

The heads of the three Scandinavian countries told a Stockholm audience last night their countries will fight aggression from any quarter. All condemned Communism. They spoke after a day-long conference as Social Democratic party leaders of their countries.

Called Grave Danger

Premier Einer Gerhardsen of Norway called communists "a grave danger to freedom and peace."

Sweden's premier, Tage Erlander, said: "However intense our will to peace and understanding, we put freedom before peace."

Premier Hans Hedtoft said Danes "will defend our independence and freedom against any attacks wherever they might come from."

In Copenhagen, his finance minister, H. C. Hansen, told a social democratic meeting, "Danish defence must be expanded."

Finland's negotiators with Russia are to leave Helsinki by train Saturday to start talks next Monday on Prime Minister Stalin's proposal for a treaty of friendship and mutual assistance Premier Mauno Pekkala, in hospital with an ear infection, may follow later by plane.

In Paris, a spokesman for the French security police said today they had arrested 11 Russians in a private home.

Turkey's military attache in Sofia, Bulgaria, and his assistant returned home last night. Official sources would not say whether they had been recalled or ejected.

Three Hungarian diplomatic workers in Turkey were reported ordered back to Budapest. They were counsellors of the Ankara Embassy and of the Istanbul consulate and the Istanbul Consul General. The order was not explained.

Marshall Declares Door Wide Open for Any Conciliatory Moves by Soviet Russia

Berkeley, Calif., March 19 — (AP)— State Secretary Marshall today declared quick action is needed to stop the spread of Communism, but added "the door is wide open for any conciliatory moves" by Russia.

He compared the spread of Communism influence in Europe with Hitler's tactics.

"Never before in history has the world situation been more threatening to our ideals and interests than at the present time" he told a University of California charter day audience.

He called for prompt enactment of the European Recovery Program to check the advance of Communism.

He defined United States policy as: "To stand firm on basic principles but at the same time to keep the door wide open for any general conciliatory moves."

A "depressing aspect" of the world situation was "the publication in Europe of the high-handed and calculated procedure of the Nazi regime.

"It should now be perfectly clear that rule based on threats and force instead of on reason and justice must not be allowed to spread further unchecked.

"We cannot evade the issue by the negative procedure of inaction."

Marshall pointed a parallel between the present need for determining "just where and how we should exert our influence" and his wartime problems as Chief of Staff in deciding the priority of men and material for various war theatres.

"Unfortunately critical situations are not confined to Europe he said. "They exist in the Middle East, in Indonesia, in China —and we cannot ignore Latin America, or our direct responsibilities in Japan and Korea.

Must Spend Wisely

"Rich and powerful as we are, we cannot afford to disperse our efforts to a degree which would render all ineffective . Our means are not unlimited— we muts not spend our efforts unwisely."

The need for prompt congressional action on the European recovery program was pointed up by a comment that the plan was first broached June 5, 1947.

Citing "the initial advantage of dictators in dealing with democracies such as ours," Marshall emphasized "the importance of timely action on our part in the face of the dictatorial procedure with which we are confronted in Europe.

He took note of "the frank declaration of the Soviet government and Communist parties to oppose in every way possible the development of the European recovery program." However, he indicated willingness to reach an agreement with Russia "which will terminate once and for all the present dangerous situation.

Policy to Stand Firm

"Our purpose, our policy is to stand firm on basic principles but at the same time to keep the door wide open for any general conciliatory moves".

Prompt action on E.R.P. was necessary particularly for Italy. He warned that a Communist victory in the Italian election next month would cut off that country from American economic aid.

He pointed out E.R.P. is based on "economic factors" and added: "I agree that the economic reinforcement of the free nations will not alone guarantee their safety under existing conditions.

"But it should so strengthen them that they will have a far better chance of defending themselves and their governments against transition into police states dominated by the central committee of the Communist party in Europe."

The secretary was given an honorary Doctor of Laws degree.

$200,000 Fire At Saint John

Saint John, N.B., March 19 — (CP)—Raging out of control for nearly —four hours, a two-alarm fire of undetermined origin early ;today gutted a four-storey brick building on Midtown Union Street and damage was unofficially estimated at $200,000.

Fireman Phillip Letson was injured when he crashed to the ground from a 65-foot extension ladder as a front cornice of the building collapsed across power lines.

Six people living in an adjoining two-storey wood-frame building were evacuated at the height of the blaze and one fireman suffered minor burns to his hands.

Officials of the firm located in the building declined to estimate the damage to their shops but firemen said it would "run into several hundred thousand dollars."

Douglas Bishop first spotted the flames as he left an all-night cafe. He ran to the nearby fire station to sound the alarm. The second call for apparatus was sent in almost immediately.

Flames were first noticed coming from the second-storey windows but soon spread to the upper floors. Several times the outbreak appeared to be under control only to break out anew.

COMMONS DRIVES TO CLEAR DECKS BEFORE RECESSING

Members Discuss Wheat, Uranium and Taxes

Ottawa, March 19 (CP) — The Commons, driving to clear away emergency government legislation before the Easter recess begins next week, yesterday touched on sugar, briefly discussed wheat, verged on a full-dress debate on atomic energy and finished with a slowly-moving discussion on the new 25-per-cent excise tax.

Sugar and atomic energy came before the chamber as it completed study of a measure empowering the government to continue certain wartime controls until April 1, 1949. The bill was given third and final reading.

A highlight of the sugar debate was a suggestion by Jean Francois Pouliot (Ind. L-Temiscouata) that Canada ask Britain for the outright transfer to dominion sovereignity of the British West Indies in return for the "sacrifice in men, money and food....We have made for the empire." No response came from cabinet benches.

The atomic energy discussion began with C.C.F. members protesting against the government's action in opening the prospecting and mining of uranium and other radioactive minerals to private companies and closed with Reconstruction Minister Howe's assurance that no great wealth would be lost to the country and that there would be adequate control on "every fraction of uranium" mined.

Prime Minister Mackenzie King said he could give no information as to whether steps will be taken to extend the five-power western union treaty to Canada, the United States, the Commonwealth and other nations interested in keeping the peace.

First Shiploads Of Immigrants Dock Sunday

Halifax, March 19. (CP)—The first two of six ships, bringing more than 3,500 immigrants from Europe to Canada this month, will dock here Sunday, it was learned today.

Two ships, the Sobieski and the General M. B. Stewart, will arrive, March 25.

The Sobieski, a Polish vessel, has 400 displaced persons from Naples aboard while the General Stewart, a converted United States army transport, will land 700 displaced persons from Bremen.

Cornwall, (CP)—A number of Dutch immigrants may be available for farm service here this Summer, National Employment Office officials said today.

Approximately 2,500 immigrants from Holland are scheduled to come to Canada this year. Officials said a large number of them were expected to some of this district.

ExpectHeavyRains Will Cause Rivers, Streams Overflow

Flood Warnings Issued In Many Municipalities

Toronto, March 19 (CP)—Flood warnings were issued here today by officals of the Ontario Department of Planning and Development. They were "very much afraid" heavy rains which started in Western Ontario and are expected to sweep the province by tonight would cause rivers and streams which overflowed their banks earlier this week to run wild again.

Officials said there is still frost in the ground in various sections of the Province while other sectons are fully saturated with water from previous rainfalls, giving the present downpour no settling place but the rivers and lakes.

Thunderstorms were expected throughout the morning and late afternoon by weather officials here who said the rain started in the Windsor area shortly after six o'clock this morning and was spreading northward and over the rest of Ontario.

Light rain followed by Toronto's first thunderstorm of the year shortly after ten o'cdock this morning was responsible for disrupting hydro power in several sections of the city. High temperatures, which also contribute to floods, were also forecast with thermometer readings expected to reach the middle 50s before nightfall.

Families Evacuated

Several families of Toronto's suburban Long Branch area, scene of the worst flood in the history of the Etobicoke Creek Tuesday, were evacuated early today as a precautionary measure. More than 100 families were trapped in the Tuesday disaster at Long Branch which swept three houses and two automobiles into Lake Ontario.

A heavy electrical storm broke over Chatham this morning and the downpour gave aid to the rising Thames River which has now risen 13 feet above normal but is still eight feet below the level of last year's disastrous floods.

At nearby Prairie Siding the river was rising due to recurring ice jams and during the night residents worked in an effort to strengthen earthen dykes.

St. Peter's Church in Tilbury township was surrounded by water and parishioners were out with sandbags in an effort to stop the water from entering the basement.

Near Thamesville, west of Chatham, the river overflowed onto the river road at Harwick, closing it to traffic.

Warm moisture laden air from the Gulf of Mexico is streaming into Ontario ahead of the disturbances. Rain and scattered thunderstorms whipped by strong southerly winds will be general over most of Ontario today. Temperatures will rise to the fifties in southern districts and to the high thirties over the rest of the province. Saturday promises to be cloudy with little change in temperature.

Alaskan Old-Timer to Take Look At 'Outside' First Time in 40 Years

Cordova, Alaska, March 19 — (AP)— An Alaskan old-timer was en route to Seattle today to see what the "outside" looks like after 40 years.

He's Tom White, who in his almost 83 years — 60 of them in Alaska — has:

Survived a mountain climbing expedition in which six were lost, made the only rowboat trip up the turbulent Copper river for 100 miles, discovered an oil field and helped discover a mountain.

Once a saloon keeper got his hand shot to shreds in an argument and Tom amputated the hand, administering whisky internally as an anaesthetic and externally as an antiseptic. More whisky was used to sterilize a meat saw and a razor for the amputation job.

White discovered the Katalla Oil Fields in 1896 while hunting. Following tracks of a bear he had shot, he found himself mushing through a thick heavy ooze that smelled like kerosene. The oil field has been under extensive survey by the United States interior department the last four years.

Tom was with the National Geographical Society expedition which discovered and named Mt. Logan, second highest peak in North America. He accompanied a dozen expeditions across 1,400-square mile Malispina Glacier. He came to Alaska in 1888 in search of gold.

He is travelling modern and due to arrive in Seattle tomorrow by plane.

Declares Three Quebec Companies Cut Power Exports, Former Liberal Govt. Blamed

Toronto, March 19 —(CP)— The Ontario Legislature, which adjourns Thursday for a five-day Easter recess, will vote next Tuesday on adoption of the Speech from the Throne.

Following speeches by Premier Drew and Farquhar Oliver, leader of the Liberal opposition, divisions will be called on two amendments sponsored by C.C.F. and Liberal members and then the vote will be taken to adopt the speech read March 3.

The House, heard Hon. George Challies assert yesterday in resumed Throne Speech debate that the primary cause of the power shortage in Ontario was the action of three Quebec companies which cut power exports to Ontario by 16,000,000 kilowatt hours a week.

Mr. Challies, vice-chairman of the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission, said withdrawal of the power was forced by poor water conditions.

He blamed the former Liberal administration for building up ill will between Ontario and Quebec which he said hindered later attempts to reach an agreement for mutual development of hydro. He said repudiation of a power contract with Quebec in 1935 and in 1938 caused deterioration of relations.

NEW BRIDGE STEEL BEING INSTALLED

Canadian Pacific Railway employees are presently engaged in installing new steel in the railroad bridge over the Moira River. The glare of acetylene torches as steel is cut by workmen, and the noise of automatic rivetting hammers is audible as the steel is fixed into place.

MUSKRAT SEASON STARTS SATURDAY

City and district muskrat trappers looked with approving eyes at the weather today, for it augured well for the opening of the official season tomorrow.

Mild weather with rain, one veteran trapper said today, was "right up our alley," for it releases the ice which shackles the creeks and marshes and allows the rats to come out.

Ed. Thomas, licence issuer, said today that the sale of trapping licences has been very brisk this week, and compares favorably with the large number sold in 1947.

BRIGADIER GENET HEARD BY CLUB

At a supper meeting of the men's club of St. Thomas' Parish which was held in the Parish House Thursday evening, the members were privileged to listen to a most interesting and informative address by Brigadier Genet in which he told of eminent men in military and civil life whom he had the honor to meet during the last war. The speaker was introduced by Lieut. Col. Milton Davison and the appreciation of the club was expressed by Major Harry Alford. Brigadier Genet, after 34 years of service in the regular army, is now living retired in Ameliasburg township.

There was a large attendance of the members and the excellent supper which was provided and served by members of the Parochial Guild was much appreciated and enjoyed.

The meeting was in charge of the president, Norman Garbutt, and Jack White as Sergeant-at-Arms, was active in collecting fines.

OFFICE OF KIWANIS CENTRE ENTERED

On Monday evening next this forum will join with the forums of Carmel and Zion in the Plainfield Orange Hall to celebrate with a banquet the final meeting of the season.

Accused Given Year in Jail For Joy Riding

Convicted on a charge of taking a motor vehicle without the owner's consent, Jay Patterson, 42 no given address, was sentenced to one year in the common jail when he appeared before Magistrate T. Y. Wills in county police court Thursday. The charge against Patterson had been reduced from that of car theft.

The offence was committed some months ago, the accused having since served a term in Napanee jail on another charge. A lengthy record of jail and reformatory terms was read before the court before Patterson was convicted.

Three young Montreal youths were shown leniency by the Magistrate when he gave each one year's suspended sentence on three charges of breaking and entry. All three pleaded guilty to the charges. They are Thos. Mullins, 20; Gerrard Meilleur, 18, and Roger Meilleur, 19 years.

Apprehended Week Ago

Provincial Police at Belleville apprehended the three youths one week ago after reports had been Highway east of the city ppid received of dwellings being broken into along No. 2 Highway east of the city. The youths had entered the residence of Fred Pope where they had taken a chisel and screwdriver with which they later had used to effect entrance to the home of Jesse Miller, of Milltown, where they stole three wristwatches, flashlights and edibles. A third home in the Milltown district had been entered but nothing was taken.

Woodrow Maracle, Shannonville, was fined $10 with $3 costs for having intoxicants on the Indian Reservation. He was given one week to pay.

Fined for "Having"

Douglas Boutilier, also of Shannonville, was fined $10 and $3 costs for having liquor or 15 days in default, and $10 and $3 costs on a charge of intoxication.

Edmund File, Deseronto, pleaded guilty to three charges, one of having liquor in a public place, of doing wilful damage and one of assault. He was fined $10 and costs on the "having" charge and was given three months suspended sentence, with $7 costs and orders to make restitution on the damage and assault charges. owner's consent, Jay Peterson, 42, received of dwellings along No. 2

Charged With Assaulting Driver

Charged with assaulting a transport driver while he was fixing a light on his truck in front of the Round Spot on Dundas Street, Robert Orr, city, appeared in the city police court this morning and was remanded on bail to appear on March 30th. Bail was set at $500.

Orr was charged with assaulting Jack Perneroski, Toronto, when without apparent provocation he is alleged to have struck the truck driver with his fist knocking him to the ground. Perneroski reported the incident to police. His clothes were muddied and his face was swollen.

Perneroski was able to give police a fair description of his assailant and later Orr was apprehended and charged with assault. The alleged offence took place Thursday night.

OBITUARY

DR. C. J. CARLETON (Thomasburg)

Dr. Christopher James Carleton, Veterinary Surgeon, Thomasburg, died in the Belleville General Hospital late Thursday evening after an illness of two weeks' duration.

Born on a farm near Thomasburg the late Dr. Carleton was in his 72nd year and was a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Walter James Carleton. All his life was passed in the district where he was born and he was highly esteemed. He was a member of the Thomasburg United Church and fraternally he was a member of the Order of Oddfellows.

Dr. Carleton never married and is survived by one sister, Mrs. Samuel (Alberta) Coulter, Thomasburg, and one brother, Edmund Carleton, Plainfield.

The funeral announcement is made in this edition.

MRS. ANNIE E. TRIPP (Frankford)

Frankford, March 19 (Special) —Mrs. Annie Elizabeth Tripp, widow of Blake Tripp, died at her home here late Thursday evening after an illness of four months' duration.

Born in Sidney township the late Mrs. Tripp was in her 59th. year and was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Sharp. For the past thirty-eight years she resided in this village and conducted a bakery business for 29 years. She was a member of the United Church.

Surviving her are two sons, Donald and Cecil, both of Frankford; one brother, Thomas Sharp of Saskatchewan; one sister, Mrs. Hiram Dafoe, Stirling, and one granddaughter, Faye Tripp, Frankford. Her husband died seven years ago.

The funeral announcement is made in this edition.

Big City Doesn't Impress Farm Boy

Regina, (CP)—A 16-year-old farm boy who had never ridden an elevator, street car or train until he came to Regina to participate in a high school drama festival, wasn't very impressed by it all when he got the chance.

Bill Forrest had never been more than 30 miles from his farm home near Carnduff in the southeast tip of Saskatchewan until a high school drama group brought him here for the festival.

His reactions:

Trains—"Too doggone rough."

Street cars—"They look like trains."

Elevators—"I guess it's better than walking."

Regina—"I was disappointed. People said it was a town. I expected more than it is."

He said he expected taller buildings and more traffic.

No Sight-Seeing

Aside from a senior hockey game scheduled for the day of his visit, Saskatchewan's capital had few charms for Bill. He saw the game but he hadn't gone shopping and didn't especially plan on visiting any stores. But he might "pick up something" for his brothers and sisters back on the farm.

As far as cities are concerned, there's only one that interested him — he wanted to visit Vancouver.

He had an important role in his school play, but Bill wasn't too enthusiastic about drama. He studied Shakespeare, but "only because I have to in school. There's a lot of silly things in Shakespeare"

Although Bill isn't too keen on cities, he didn't want to stay on the farm. He said he liked working with engines and wanted to be an air force mechanic.

HEROIN INSERTED IN CARDS

New York, March 19 — (AP)—Comic postcards have been used to mail narcotics to addicts at the city penitentiary. Postal inspectors said the sender carefully split the postcards, inserted a small quantity of heroin between the layers of paper and then glued the card together again.

The "Clam Shell" Operations Cease And Editors Are Now at Peace

The thunder and the roar has ceased,
Gone is reverberating blast.
The editors are now at peace,
And normalcy is here, at last.
. . . . The Office Cub

That about sums up the situation in the news rooms of this newspaper.

The mechanical monster, that dipped its clam-shell shovel into the murky depths of the Moira River, and came up with everything from old umbrellas to parts of junked cars, tin cans, and other discarded debris, during the recent pipe-laying operations below the Lower City Bridge, is stilled for the nonce.

No longer steam jets in jersy plumes from the exhaust of the contraption. No longer the scrunch of metal on rock and ice resounds in the "quiet" of this busy news-dispensing department. No longer the clash of meshing gears, and the "plop" of shovel-loads of debris, ice and river rock disturbs the mental processes of reporters, pounding out with two-finger pecks, the copy for the day.

Editors Now Normal

And best of all, no longer are the seats of the editorial mighty, flung back against the wall with leg-breaking force, as their occupants leaped into near mid-air, when the shovel whistle tooted the "explosive" sign, or the diver, came up or went down on his periodical jaunts to the river bottom.

For "Operation River-bed" is being held up. All is quiet on the river front, and the raucous roar of trucks, and other mobile mechanical noise-making apparatus, is conspicuous by its absence.

River Job Completed

The pipe-laying job is completed, as far as the submerged bosom of the Moira is concerned. Now remain the land operations, and these cannot be started until the frost is out of the ground. —The "gang" has been laid off; the "clam - shell" nuzzles its jaws —in a restful position on Mother Earth on the west side of the river, and nought but two parallel mounds of debris mark the spot of the recent operations.

In the news-rooms, the familar, but good natured bickerings anent current events, sports, the political situation (you can choose whichever side you like), have taken the place of the mechanical overtures which heralded excavation events of importance and caused editors to catapult from their desks to points of vantage at the windows.

Now all is peace. That is until the spine-jarring, rataplan of rock - rivetting contrivances which will go into action at the first approach of warm weather, once again disturbs the more-or-less even tenor of this newspaper life.

Deseronto Cases Will be Heard In That Town

Police court cases from the town of Deseronto in the future will be heard in that centre instead of at Belleville, it was announced in county police court Thursday when Magistrate T. Y. Wills objected to the number of Deseronto cases appearing on the docket.

Previous orders received by the magistrate had been to the effect that Deseronto police court cases were to be heard in that town, thus avoiding extra travelling by persons appearing as witnesses and to avoid excessive court costs.

"The understanding was that Deseronto court cases were to be heard in Deseronto and not in Belleville," stated the magistrate as he brought attention to the matter.

"I have been bringing these cases to be heard in Belleville for your convenience," returned Crown Attorney B. C. Donnan, "but if you have orders to hold them in Deseronto then in future that is where they will be held."

APPROVES GREEK AID

Washington, March 19 (AP)—The Senate Foreign Relations Committee today approved $275,000,000 aid for Greece and Turkey.

Senator Walter George (Dem. Ga) told a reporter that the 13 Senators lined up unanimously for the full amount President Truman asked for the Greeks and Turks.

George said the committee then began a closed-door discussion of the proposed $570,000,000 aid for China.

Y's Men Hear Interesting Talk On North America

Rev. J. W. Flatt, retired United Church minister, was guest speaker at the regular Y's Men's dinner meeting at the Y.M.C.A. on Thursday evening, when he delivered a most interesting talk on main points of interest in the Canadian and United States Western Coasts. His theme was "See North America First". Canada is one of the most important countries in the world today, and is one of the least known by its own people.

The speaker traced a trail across Canada, where a person saw all types of land, along with hundreds of miles of undeveloped land, to Vancouver, which is a scenic beauty land. From there to Seattle which the speaker called the most beautiful city on the Western Coast. Then, south 1,000 miles to San Francisco, a city of a population of 2 1-2 millions. The climate here is very even with slight change between winter and summer. Flowers bloom all year around. Points of interest which the speaker gave detail information about were the famous San Francisco bridges, the Red Wood Empire, where some trees are over 3,000 years old, the unusual buildings, and the many different religions.

The speaker was introduced by Don Amos and thanked by Larry Buck. Sgt-at-Arms was Austin Watkin, and song leader, Roy Wilcox. Bert Blair, member of the Y's Men's Club of Woodstock, was a visitor, and briefly addressed the club. The President, Don Williams, presided over the meeting.

The announcement was made by Mayor D. L. Storey, who represented the Public Utilities Commission in the absence of Mr. O. H. Scott.

The hours of cut-off will be from 7.05 to 7.50 and from 5.30 to 6 p.m.

Political Revolt In Costa Rica Causing Concern

San Jose, Costa Rica, March 19 — (AP) — Gen. Rene Picado Michalski, security (war) minister, said yesterday Costa Rica's political revolt is building into a Central American war.

Picado answered "Yes" when reporters asked him if the week-old rebellion by forces under Jose Figueres is going to involve all of Central America.

Four other countries already are said to be involved in Costa Rica's political quarrel.

Guatemala has been accused by Costa Rica of sending arms across the border to insurgent forces.

(Guatemala's foreign ministry instructed its San Jose envoy last night to require Costa Rica to prove the charge, or withdraw it.)

Nicaragua has sent planes and officers to aid the government, and government forces have charged that some Nicaraguans are helping Figueres.

Costa Rica's political cauldron, simmering since the Feb. 8 elections, boiled over last Saturday when President Teodoro Picado Michalski proclaimed martial law.

The dispute began in Congressional action March 1, when the presidential election of Otilio Ulate Blanco was annulled.

Ulate charges that communists are backing the government and are trying to use current political strife as "a bridgehead for control of Latin America." Figueres, champion of Ulate, claims his men have captured a number of known communists.

Tweed

Rev. J. Robinson Appointed Rector Of Napanee Church

Tweed — Announcement was made this week by Bishop of Ontario Rt. Rev. John Lyons of the transfer to St. Mary Magdalene Church, Napanee, of Rural Dean W. J. Robinson, rector of St. James Church here.

Members of his congregation and his numerous friends in the village will be sorry to learn of his departure from the community but will be glad to know that the new parish comes as a promotion.

Rev. Robinson came to Tweed on December 1st., 1941, having served as assistant rector of St. George's Church, Trenton, for a short time. St. James was his first parish following his graduation from Bishop's College, Lennoxville, replacing Rev. A. E. Pepper who is now rector of St. Paul's Church, Brockville.

Popular Minister

During his incumbency in Tweed Mr. Robinson has been popular both within his own congregation and among followers of other denominations. His work among the young people of St. James has been the means of reorganizing an active A.Y.P.A. and all other groups of the church have flourished under his tactful supervision. Four years ago he was appointed Rural Dean of Hastings and at that time he was the youngest minister in this part of Ontario to hold such a position.

Two years ago he was named Dominion Chaplain of the Anglican Young Peoples Association and last July he was a representative of this organization at the Second World Conference of Christian Youth held in Norway. He was one of 45 young men and women from all denominations chosen to represent Canada at this important gathering. Since his return he has been constantly in demand to address all types of meetings and only two weeks ago was in Northern Ontario speaking to different groups on his experience at the conference.

Rector Retiring

His new charge will consist of only St. Mary Magdalene Church at Napanee, where he will replace Archdeacon R. J. Dumbrille who is retiring from the ministry. His new duties will commence on June 1st. On June 29, 1946, Mr. Robinson married Miss Isobel Morton of Belleville, a daughter of Mrs. Stanley Morton and the late Rev. Stanley Morton, former rector at Brockville.

Mrs. Robinson has also been very popular since she came to Tweed and has taken an active interest in all women's activities of the church.

This young couple and their infant son Tommy will leave behind them in Tweed many good friends who will wish them success in their new field of endeavor.

Fire Damages Chemical Plant At Sulphide

Tweed—On Wednesday morning a watchman of the Nichols' Chemical Plant at Sulphide while on his rounds discovered flames eating into the walls of the chemical building and quickly sounded an alarm.

In a few minutes fire extinguishers had put out the blaze, but not before considerable damage to the interior had resulted.

Fortunately this department is more or less isolated from the main plant.

Pack Chemicals

The building is used mostly for the packaging of chemicals, with a small office at the one end. Labels, wrapping paper and other packaging equipment were destroyed, along with some office furniture, but fortunately no records were lost. No explosives or inflammable chemicals were being readied for shipment, although a large amount of calcium chloride was affected and made useless. The cause of the fire is unknown. A small heater was in the building but it was in good working order and it is doubtful if this was the cause of the fire. Damage was estimated at $4,000.

Renovations Made In Two Stores

Tweed — Barnett & Son have completely remodelled their grocery store and are now serving their customers by the self-serve method.

The interior has been redecorated in gleaming white with black trim. The ceiling has been lowered two feet and new shelving added. New cash and serving counters have been installed.

In the rear of the store a large room has been partitioned where facilities are provided to attend to telephone orders.

Customers who do not wish to make use of the self-serve method will be attended to by members of the Barnett staff.

Enlarge Floor Space

Sims Electric have enlarged their floor space to double its former size, put in a large front window which adds greatly to the appearance of the store.

Play Presented By Young People Of St. Carthagh's

Tweed—On Tuesday and Wednesday of this week the young people of St. Carthagh's presented an Irish play "Her Good Old Irish Way" in the auditorium of the school.

The play was one of the best ever presented by this organization. With only three weeks training under Fr. O'Neill, these young players portrayed their parts with an ease and naturalness that would do credit to a professional group.

Olive Marsh gave a brilliant performance with Elaine Gehan doing much to add to the success of the evening.

The rest of the cast were as follows: Father McBride (John Rashotte) his brother Andy the sheriff (Edwin Champagne) and an old friend Dr. Fellows (Dean Whalen) with their Irish housekeeper Della Monaghan, (Olive Marsh), Keen Henshaw the town gatmbler (James Gabourie) Nora O'Day played by (Lorna Doran). The comedy relief in the play was provided by Della (Olive Marsh) Mrs. Murphy (Elaine Gehan) and Patric Malone, the farm hand (Henry Lajoie), John Fobert portrayed the part of Dawson, Nora's father.

Between the acts Harvey Parker rendered two vocal solos. Sheila Trudeau once again received applause for her tap dance numbers, Robert Fobert gave a clever pantomime on how not to go to sleep (which brought screams of laughter from the younger members of the audience), Jack Marchen sang two Irish songs.

Following Wednesday evenings performance a dance was held which was also well attended.

Kinsmen Club Presents Bag To Bruce Gehan

Tweed — Bruce Gehan, assistant to his father at the Dominion Stores in Tweed for the past two years, has been transferred to Cannington where he will have charge of the store. He has been succeeded in Tweed by Tom Brynes who has been engaged in the grocery business with his father at Marmora for some years.

Bruce will be missed in Tweed particularly in hockey and softball circles.

Members of the Trent Valley Hockey Club were entertained by the Kinsmen Club at the club rooms recently, and Bruce Gehan one of the stalwarts of the team for the past several seasons was presented with a club bag by President Bob Woods, on behalf of the club.

Bruce expressed his thanks for the gift and said he would not soon forget the fine times he had enjoyed with members of the hockey team and the Kinsmen Club. Bruce has been an active members of the Rink Committee in the Kinsmen Club.

HEAVY RAINS

Rail Traffic Halted

Near Stratford rail traffic across the C.N.R. bridge south of Clinton again halted as water of Bayfield river rose. Heavy chunks of ice dashed against the understructure, weakening the bridge, delaying traffic until crews could repair the damage.

At Brampton, the Etobicoke River had already begun spilling over the banks at the north end of town this morning.

George Gage, village clerk at Long Branch said today that "to say the situation now is grim is to put it mildly. It's very bad and there is not much we can do about it."

This morning's rain had forced cancellation of plans to blast river ice today. Residents in the flat lands at the mouth of Etobicoke creek were alerted to be prepared for new floods.

It is hard to predict but there is every possibility we may have floods again this afternoon" police said. "It takes about 12 hours for the water to reach the creek mouth so we do not expect much trouble before mid-afternoon."

Several miles upsteram, at Brampton, water had begun to spill over banks at the north end of the town. Town engineer D. T. Black said the danger was not serious yet but his department had been asked to pump out more cellars this morning.

Town Clerk, N.L. Patterson, said a rise of three feet in the river level had been reported during the night.

Williams, to $1,500 and that of the hall caretaker, Mrs. E. Ellsworth, to $900.

Threshing Machine Seen

An unusual sight greeted residents of Greenbush neighborhood yesterday when they saw a threshing machine in operation. Seven truck loads of oats were threshed, outdoors, under bright, sunny skies. The unthreshed grain had been stored in a barn during the winter months on a farm near Picton, and was purchased by Arthur Holland and Freeman Cory, who trucked it to their own farm where it was threshed.

Bacon Entries Win

Prince Edward County's entry in the Quinte District Export Bacon competition held at Peterborough in conjunction with Quinte Seed Fair, won honors, it was learned here yesterday. Each county shipped hogs to that city and they were killed and dressed. They were then entered in the Wiltshire sides class. When the sides were judged, the entry of P. W. Chipswick of Northport, north of Picton, was judged the grand champion side. In another class, five sides were judged in one group, and in this, Prince Edward County ranked sixth. Other local farmers who contributed to the entry were Whytock Fox and Fred Kotchapaw.

Asks U.S. Take Lead In Guaranteeing Pope's Future Safety

Washington, March 19 (AP) — Representative Donald O'Toole, (Dem.-N. Y.) urged today that the United States government take the lead in guaranteeing the future safety of Pope Pius.

Commenting on the possibility of a change occurring in the Italian government after the April elections, O'Toole said in a statement that a 'terrible fear has been placed in the hearts of more than 25,000,000 Roman Catholics.

"Our state department should, in forthright manner, take the lead in sternly warning the forces of evil that our government and the other governments of the western bloc intend to, and will, guarantee the security of the papal state and our holy father."

Urge Council Act To Restore Peace In Palestine

Lake Success, March 19 (AP)—The big powers today recommended that the United Nations Security Council take immediate steps to restore peace in Palestine.

No mention was made as to how this should be done.

Warren R. Austin, chief United States delegate, presented the findings which emerged from two weeks of closed-door consultations among the four powers on the Palestine crisis. Austin said the United States, France and China were in full agreement but that Russia would state its own case to the council.

Britain boycotted the big power and had no part in the report.

Austin said the big powers hoped to continue their private talks in efforts to reach some agreement on how to carry out the recommendations.

The big power majority report said it was apparent that the U. N. assembly's plan to partition the Holy Land into independent Jewish and Arab states could not be carried out by peaceful means. It was noted that the Jewish agency would accept no modifications in the partition plan and that the Arab higher committee, spokesman for Palestine Arabs, rejected any solution based on partition.

PRESIDENT TRUMAN CALLS FOR DRAFT

President Harry S. Truman is pictured as he told Congress in Washington during a historic address that the United States must mobilize its armed might because Russia and her satellites have refused to co-operate for peace and world recovery. He asked for a draft and military training. The chief executive charged that Russia has persistently obstructed the peacemaking efforts of the United Nations by use of her veto power.

Wallace Answers Truman's Appeal For Preparedness

New York March 19 (AP) — Henry A. Wallace said last night that President Truman's St. Patrick's Day speeches expanded the Truman doctrine to a point "where it threatens the life of every human being in the world."

The third party presidential-aspirant, answering Truman's appeal to the United States Congress for new preparedness measures to meet the "menace" of Russia spoke over a radio (ABC) network.

"Yesterday," the former United States vice-president said, "we heard a call for universal military training. Tonight I plead the case for universal peace."

Wallace, referring to the President's recommendations for speedy enactment of universal military training legislation and a temporary revival of selective service, added:

"Mothers and sons rightfully believe a draft and compulsory military training are not the way to preserve freedom at home or to guarantee Democracy abroad."

Truman, speaking here Wednesday night, elaborated on his Congerssional address and, at the same time, asserted that he would not accept the support of Wallace "and his Communists" even if his refusal meant defeat next November.

Repeats Charge Made

Apparently referring to that part of the President's address, Wallace said:

"One year ago I said that President Truman was the greatest salesman Communism ever had. I repeat that charge tonight. He has ignored the deep, underlying nature of the people's problem."

Russia, Wallace continued, has no "aggressive designs" on the United States. The "men who are stirring up hate and fear' traffic in the word "Communism," hoping that it will "provoke a hostile response from the great masses of the people."

The people of the world are "on the march," he said, adding that the Truman administration knows the "people of France, Italy, Czechoslovakia — yes, and the people of China and Greece —want to try a new approach."

Fighting Breaks Out at Leftist Rally in Rome

Rome, March 19 (AP)—Fighting broke out at a big leftist rally in the middle of Rome today and police riot squads were summoned to restore order.

The battling erupted after a speech by Luigi Longo, Italy's No. 2 Communist.

The Popular Front rally, in Rome's Piazza Santi Apostoli, not far from Piazza Venezia, was one of three political meetings being held almost simultaneously on this holiday—St. Joseph's Day.

One rightist meeting was addressed by Marshal Giovanni Messe, one-time commander of Italian forces in Russia. Another heard Giuseppe Saragat, leader of the anti-Communist wing on the Socialist party, and Ivan Matteo Lambardo of the Socialist Unity ticket.

Police quickly quelled the disorders at the leftist rally and no casualties were reported.

The trouble began when crowds leaving the rally in the Piazza Santi Apostoli met those leaving a nearby Socialist meeting. Jeers and catcalls were exchanged and then fists began to fly. Police split the two groups and sent them on their way.

Ansa News Agency said two policemen and a bystander were seriously wounded when the officers attempted to arrest a Communist leader at Porto Gruaro.

The dispatch, from Venice, quoted police as saying Angelo Marson, Communist party secretary, fired on police when they tried to arrest him for theft. It said Marson, slightly wounded, fled on a bicycle.

WORKERS FORCED INTO IDLENESS BY COAL STRIKE

350,000 Miners Demand $100 Monthly Pensions After 65 Years

Pittsburgh, March 19 (AP) — The five-day-old soft coal walkout today made deep inroads on steel and transportation in the United States, leaving idle at least 12,000 to 15,000 workers.

If the 350,000 United Mine worker who demand $100 monthly pensions stay out over the weeknd many more thousands will be forced into idleness.

Biggest single layoff hit 10,000 employees of the coal-carrying Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad. R. J. Bowman, president of the line, said another 5,000 will be laid off unless the strike ends by Saturday.

The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad reported a 25-per-cent reduction in coal runs and shifting yards crews. It said coal cars ordered by mines had dropped 70 per cent from a normal average of 5,335 daily. Figures on the number of workers laid off were not immediately available.

Other railroads also laid off or failed to call workers for duty.

Other transportation workers reported idle because of the coal walkout included 200 river bargeman in the Pittsburgh area and 100 river coal-loading terminal workers at Huntington, W. Va., there were reports that reports that the Lake Ontario shipping season might be delayed by the work stoppage.

The Bethlehem Steel Company at Lackawanna, N.Y., said it had coal for only a few days full operation. The Bethlehem plant at Johnstown, Pa., said it postpone a cutback only a few days.

Furnaces Banked

Two steel companies already had cut back. Youngstown Sheet and Tube had banked one blast furnace at Youngstown, O.; Sharon Steel had shut down a blast furnace and five open hearths at Farrell, Pa.

While the number of miners idle crept slowly upward from 350,000, officials at Washington took steps toward ending the walkout and alleviating its effects.

The government banned export shipments of coal, except to Canada, to conserve United States stockpiles.

The office of defence transportation ordered a 25-per-cent reduction of coal-burning passenger train service effective Sunday midnight. About 45 per cent of American passenger trains burn coal.

Cyrus S. Ching, Canadian-born director of Federal conciliation service, met separately with John L. Lewis, head of the Mine Union and Ezra Van Horn, chief spokesman for the operators. Ching made no comment.

Lewis demands that miners past 60 paid $100 monthly pensions from a $30,000,000 miners' welfare fund built up from a 10-cents-a-ton royalty on all coal mined. Van Horn declared the Lewis plan too expansive and said such payments would bankrupt the fund.

District Churches To Participate In Service of Witness

The third annual Service of Witness, under the auspices of the Central Hastings Ministerial Association, will be held in the Foxboro United Church on Monday, March 22nd, at 8 o'clock. A large number of local and district congregations, including the Anglican, Baptist, Free Methodist, Presbyterian, Salvation Army and United Churches, will join with their ministers in this united expression of their witness to the Christian faith.

This year the Service of Witness, being held during Holy Week, when Christian people are called to repentance and the deepening of the spiritual life, will be one of inspiration and challenge. The Association is honored to have as its guest preacher the Right Rev. C. H. McDonald, Moderator of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in Canada. The service of praise will be in charge of the combined choirs of the Presbyterian and United Churches in Foxboro.

The Rev. J. F. Everson, of Ivanhoe, President of the Ministerial Association, will conduct the service. Assisting him will be Rev. C. C. Brazill, of Stirling, Rev. W. H. V. Walker, of Stirling and Rev. A. L. Shorten, of Foxboro. Announcement of this important undertaking of the ministers will be made in the various churches on Sunday. It is the hope of the Association that through participation in this devotional service, with great congregational singing and a timely message, many may be helped in making effective their Christian witness in our day.

Good Will

A demonstration of the spirit that exists in the churches has been shown of late. MacVicar Memorial Presbyterian Church in Montreal was destroyed by fire recently and the proof of the spirit which marks their work is shown by the practical sympathy which the loss of the fine structure which had been doing so noble a work called forth. Differences of religious views do not hold other denominations from proving to the world that their hearts are really one in the great object with which the churches are associated. Two Roman Catholic parishes, St. Raphael's of which Rev. John O'Rourke is the rector and St. Michael's of which Rev. J. Singleton is in charge, offered to provide facilities for the congregation of MacVicar Church in their misfortune. Temple Baptist Church has given part of a special offering to help the Presbyterians and the Salvation Army is contributing the proceeds of a concert.

The world looking at these acts of sympathetic co-operation with the suffering congregation cannot but feel that here is evidence of the importance of religion in the lives of men and women of different faiths. Such deeds leave indelible impressions and help to link all creeds in all churches and religious organizations in the cause of man's salvation for life on earth and for that which is to come. They show how deep the spirit of Christianity is rooted in the denominations which are carrying on a supreme work for the sake of humanity.

Toyworks Industry

Britain is to open a high-class toyworks for employment of disabled miners exclusively. Work will be provided for upwards of two hundred men and resident doctors will care for the miners' health. This scheme is being sponsored by the Austin Motor Company's chairman and is his own idea. The plant will be run without profit and most of the necessary raw material will be steel and leather left over from the manufacture of cars. The first toys will be racing models and open touring models and will be finished up to the high standard of Britain's full-sized cars and fitted with dummy engines and pneumatic tires. It is thought they will find a ready market abroad as well as at home.

The idea of providing work for the crippled miners is something that embodies the views of modern psychology. These workers will get an inspiration out of the work they are accomplishing, they will know that they are able though disabled to produce something that will bring pleasure. Making anything is something which appeals to the wish of the workers to achieve. The thought of how the children will get a large amount of fun and pleasure out of their products will go far to add inspiration to the lives of the disabled builders of the toys.

British Year of Effort

The drive to reach new production and export targets this year will not be easy for Britain. It will entail the postponement or moderation of the new housing schemes, of reduction in working hours and in supplies for the home market. The standard of living is expected to fall. Food consumption for example is expected to drop by two hundred calories. Again, although the financial situation within the country is sound, the level of money incomes must be kept down — in view of the increased shortage of home supplies — as a check to inflationary pressure. The outlook for 1948 is on the face of it not a cheerful one for the people of Britain. As the National Economic Survey points out, "it remains full of uncertainties and the coming year is bound to be one of great anxiety." The Survey adds, however: "But we can help make 1948 the first year of a great upward turn in European economic recovery. Nothing in this survey throws any doubt upon the ultimate capacity of our people to regain their economic strength and stability. The response to the demands made by our present situation in the last months of 1947 has been encouraging to the whole nation. If time can be given to bring about the necessary changes, there can be no doubt that the great task of our economic recovery will be carried through with the same energy and determination and that they will prove to be within the compass of our ability and capacity."

The National Economic Survey which was published in Britain as a White Paper on March 9th explains in large measure why Britain is still one of the most stable and productive of the free societies of the world. Handicapped in her postwar recovery by an unparalleled war effort, she has yet achieved steady and indeed remarkable progress since the summer of 1945.

Dynamited Gold

A disgruntled prospector who gave up searching for gold after months of fruitless search in an abandoned section of the Western Australian gold fields has struck it rich, says Australian News. The man is Camillo Reghenzani and he says he'll never stop to count ten again. Reghenzani had invested all his savings in his effort to unearth a legendary reef which old timers said had been found and lost many years ago. With his stores running low and his cash exhausted, Reghenzani tied all his remaining sticks of dynamite together and exploded them in a barren hold as a farewell gesture to his claim. When the dust died down, the hole was strewn with specimen and Reghenzani could see the top of a $4,000 reef. He has decided not to leave his claim.

Man Who Went With Peary

When Admiral Peary made the trip that culminated in his discovery of the North Pole, Capt. Bob Bartlett was in command of the explorer's ship. Captain Bob was a staunch friend and devoted follower of Peary and was ready to accompany him on the hazardous trek over the ice after the party had left the ship and taken to dogsleds for the final effort to reach the top of the world. But when the group came within striking distance of the Pole, Peary ordered Bartlett and several others to return to the ship while the admiral continued on with dog teams and one trusted companion over the last dangerous stretch. That companion was Matthew Alexander Henson, who later received the Congressional Medal of Honor for his exploits. Now, at the age of 81, thirty-nine years after he and Peary became the first to reach the Pole, Henson has received the Gold Medal of the Geographic Society of Chicago, thus becoming the first Negro in this country to be honored for scientific achievement in the geographic field.—New York Times.

Children should never be frightened into avoiding danger, warn the health authorities. Better, they say, to point out the peril and then watch the youngsters to ensure their safety. Too much parental interference with juvenile initiative and experimentation is unwise. Of course, no one would suggest that a child should be allowed free play with a sharp knife or a hot stove, but there are situations in which the youngster is better left to find his or her own way personally, without serious danger. That's necessary for experience and personality development.

HIGH-CHAIR DAYS

I like them at the table with the high chair in its place,
And I like to see the baby with a spinach-smeary face.
There's no music quite so soothing as the banging of a spoon,
For a baby at the table is a joy that ends too soon.

I like those pudgy fingers reaching out for mother's sleeve,
And the stains of crimson jelly which at suppertime they leave.
And I like that rush for towels after every sad mishap,
When a cup of milk has landed in the middle of her lap.

Some feed them in the kitchen, where there's no one near to see.
But I want them at the table, for it's there they ought to be.
And the accidents that happen I am always glad to share,
For too soon the day is coming when the high chair won't be there.

INFORMATION ROUNDUP

Did Andrew Jackson receive a degree from Harvard University?

When Andrew Jackson, who never went to college and had little formal schooling, visited New England in 1833 his escort in Massachusetts was Josiah Quincy, Jr., son of the President of Harvard University.

Young Quincy was so impressed by Jackson that he persuaded his father that Harvard should confer an honorary degree on him. John Quincy, Sr., called a hasty meeting of the Harvard overseers and obtained their consent to honor Jackson.

Ex-President John Quincy Adams, who had been defeated by Jackson in 1828 and who was related to Quincy, didn't like the idea. On June 10, 1833, Adams was called from his nursery and garden at Quincy near Boston by the President of Harvard. That night Adams wrote in his diary: "He told me also that as President Jackson is about visiting Boston, the Corporation of the university had thought it necessary to invite him to visit the colleges, that he (Mr. Quincy) should address him in a Latin discourse, and confer upon him the degree of Doctor of Laws; and he intimated that I should receive an invitation to be present at the ceremonies. I said that the personal relations in which President Jackson had chosen to place himself with me were such that I could hold no intercourse of a friendly character with him. I could therefore not accept an invitation to attend upon this occasion.

"And, independent of that, as myself an effectionate child of our Alma Mater, I would not be present to witness her disgrace in conferring her highest literary honors upon a barbarian who could not write a sentence of grammar and hardly could spell his own name. Mr. Quincy said he was sensible how utterly unworthy of literary honors Jackson was, but the Corporation thought it was necessary to follow the precedent, and treat him precisely as Mr. Monroe, his predecessor, had been treated. As the people of the United States had seen fit to make him their President, the Corporation thought the honors which they conferred upon him were compliments due to the station, by whomsoever it was occupied. Mr. Quincy said it was thought also that the omission to show the same respect to President Jackson which had been shown to Mr. Monroe would be imputed to party spirit—which they were anxious to avoid."

Adams was not satisfied with these reasons and adhered to his determination to stay at home. Four days later he sat in his house at Quincy and wrote: "There was much cannonading this afternoon at the President's reviewing of the military companies. The distant report of them gave me a double relish for the solitary tranquility of my own occupations."

CRUELTY CHARGES DISMISSED

Toronto, March 19 — (CP) — Whisky and hot water, fed to a cat, inseparable friend of a cow that died, failed to keep the grieving feline alive, York county was told yesterday. Harley Morden of nearby Concord, faced charges of cruelty to animals, but Magistrate O. M. Martin gave him the benefit of the doubt and dismissed charges.

GILL NET FISHING

St. Thomas, March 19 — (CP)— Gill-net fishermen are already out along the north shore of Lake Erie despite ice along the shore. One tug from nearby Kingsville brought in a 150-pound load of whitefish.

Dozen Freighters Released From Ice In Buffalo Harbor

Cleveland, March 19 — (AP)— A dozen freighters, released from the ice of Buffalo harbor, were spotted at lower Lake Erie ports last night, ready to join ore fleets when navigation opens.

Simultaneously, the first cargo vessel to cross Lake Erie this season reached Cleveland. The Matsafa of Nicholson Transit Co. arrived from Detroit with 400 automobiles aboard, 10 days ahead of last year's start.

Ice conditions in the Straits of Macinac and the possible effects of the coal mine shutdown will determine when the ore season gets under way, it was reported in shipping circles.

Vessel companies hope to start operations several weeks ahead of the usual April opening. They have set 86,000,000 tons of ore from the Lake Superior district as their goal for this season.

The icebreaker Mackinaw broke the dozen freighters out of Buffalo Wednesday. Three vessels dropped out of line early yesterday and put in to harbor at Astabula, O. Five more followed the ice-breaker into Cleveland. The remainder proceeded without help, two for Turon, O., and 3 for Toledo.

The Mackinaw will head today for the Straits, where blue solid ice is reported 40 inches thick and windrowed ice has piled as high as 30 feet.

On the trip from Buffalo, the icebreaker encountered blue ice about two feet thick and windrows 15 or 18 feet high.

Boon for Canada Seen in Publicity Through Films

By DOUGLAS HOW
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, March 19 (CP)— The government hopes to see Canada get a lot of free and valuable publicity in United States theatres as an important by-product of plans that were originally designed primarily to save U.S. dollars.

A government official made that clear today in stating that discussions with Hollywood interests were progressing "very satisfactorily" in the wake of Ottawa's announcement that it intended to encourage production of Canadian films as part of its program for exchange conservation.

His statements indicated that the government had no intention of subsidizing Canadian firms to compete with Hollywood in production or distribution. They also indicated that Ottawa anticipates that some of the large Hollywood producers will be coming here to make parts of pictures and some complete ones.

The films would be shown not only in Canada but in the United States and would therefore be a boon to the tourist trade and to a general understanding of Canada by Americans.

The official said that discussions had been carried on both by correspondence and by consultation, and had involved Eric Johnston, spokesman for Hollywood's producers, and representatives of the producers themselves. The Bank of Canada and import officials have been speaking for Canada.

The official added that Hollywood had shown a full readiness to co-operate. He only grinned when it was suggested that this might arise from fears that Canada would follow Britain in slashing imports of American films.

Television Sets Get Live Music

New-York, March 19. (AP)— Television gets live music under a new three-year agreement between the American Federation of Musicians (A.F.L.) and the radio networks of the United States.

The agreement, announced in a joint statement late yesterday, lifts the three-year-old ban by James C. Petrillo, A.F.M. president, that has limited television to recordings.

It also averts the possibility of a walkout by radio network musicians March 31 when the terms of the old contract expires.

The new agreement provides for existing salary scales and quotas of musicians for the networks and network-owned stations. Petrillo has asked for higher pay and employment of more musicians. On the other hand, he obtained an agreement prohibiting any reduction in employment of musicians by the networks.

IS PURE CARBOHYDRATE POISON

Several correspondents have asked whether such foods as white sugar, white syrup, cornstarch dextrose, glucose, maltose, candy, corn syrup or other more or less pure carbohydrates, are poisonous or injurious to health. for some subtle reason these querists are cagey—they do not tell where they got the idea, but I suspect it was from our old friend Ben. A substantial part of daily mail is inspired by Ben Told, and next to "wrong combinations," such as protein and carbohydrate in the same meal, the "poisonous" effect of pure carbohydrate is one of Ben's favorite delusions.

People who take these notions seriously seem unconscious—or, no, they're conscious, you can tell from the way their chins wag—they seem unaware of the fact that bread and milk, or bread and cheese or bread and meat as in a sandwich or milk alone, or wheat alone, is a combination of protein and carbohydrate.

Every little while some correspondent informs me that his or her "doctor" advised against such combinations of food — but the identity of the "doctor" is none of my business. All the correspondent asks is that I give my opinion of the advice. My opinion is such advice is the malarkey.

The wrong combination racket was worked extensively on the sucker population forty or fifty years ago by a smooth operator who knew how to tell the Wiseacres what they thought they knew better than the ordinary home town doctors did. By turning most of the profits back into advertising he was able to maintain a thriving business for years —until regular physicians began the unheard of practice of sounding off in the public prints.

Not that I would advise the use of any of the processed or manufactured carbohydrates in the diet. They are just not healthful food, particularly for children and youths. For example, the sugar the pampered American child gets in his or her favorite fountain or bottled beverage yields a substantial supply of calories as quickly as any real food possible can, and the youngster derives a brief burst of energy or refreshment from use of the sugar as fuel for whatever activity he or she happens to engage in. But his burst as quickly ends when the sugar calories are expended, and then the malnourished child loses interest in the activity and sinks back into ladylike passivity.

After the American malnourished child gets along into the 'teens the excessive amount of refined carbohydrate in his or her daily diet keeps metabolism always burdened with fuel. More that half of the calories in the average American diet are derived from refined carbohydrate anyway, and children who consume quantities of candy, sweets, fountain beverages get two-thirds of their calories from the sugar in such cheat foods.

"You know" writes a noted nutrition authority in a personal communication chiding me for speaking too favorably of refined white sugar and refined white flour as food, "that these foods do not carry enough B complex to completely metabolize them and therefore they are slow poison."

I understand what the doctor means by that, and maybe many readers would understand, but I'm not calling white sugar, white flour or refined syrup poison—I call it cheat food—though for the very reason the doctor mentions, that these refined, processed, manufactured carbohydrates do not carry enough vitamin B to insure complete metabolism or utilization of the food in the normal way.

Former Convict Held by Police For Kidnapping

Concord, Vt., March 19 (AP)— Kenneth A. Ingalls, 34, wanted for kidnapping a farmer's daughter, was arrested early today, state police reported. The girl, Charlotte O'Brien, 16, was found unharmed.

Police said Ingalls was taken into custody three miles from the farm home where he seized the girl at gunpoint Sunday.

Authorities did not immediately give details of the arrest. The announcement said the girl had been returned to her home.

Police said Ingalls forced his way into the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles O'Brien Sunday night and, after threatening them with a rifle, made the girl accompany him.

The parents said Ingalls, a former convict, had become infatuated with the pretty brunette high school girl while he worked on their farm last summer.

A POINT TO CONSIDER
CHARGED WITH MANSLAUGHTER

Many of us spend several hours a day behind the wheel of a motor vehicle, hours which to some are enjoyable and to others tinged with fear and worry; the thought of being involved in an accident like so many of us have seen and shuddered at. A high percentage of these accidents could have been prevented if the vehicle involved had been in good mechanical shape. Don't drive in constant fear of your vehicle. You owe it to yourself and to those who put their life in your hands to keep your car or truck in mechanical fitness. Is a dollar worth someone's life?

MR. MOTORIST — check these safety points and see if they apply to YOU.

1. POOR LIGHTS?
2. FAULTY BRAKES?
3. ERRATIC STEERING?
4. FAULTY HORN?
5. WORN WINDSHIELD WIPER?
6. UNCERTAIN ENGINE PERFORMANCE??

We are thoroughly equipped to check all of these SAFETY Points.

LIKE HOCKEY, STANLEY CUP GROWS AND GROWS

Oldest trophy competed for by professional athletes on the North American Continent is the history-steeped Stanley Cup. Like the game itself, it has grown tremendously in stature, now looks like this. Every fan knows, of course, that Toronto Maple Leafs won it last season, and here Leafs' captain Syl Apps, and Coach Hap Day, admire the giant bauble after its recent furbishing by a Toronto firm. During the trophy's latest face-lifting, the base was rebuilt, previous winners' names were inscribed in sequence and ample space left to record future winners for many years.

Tokyo, March 19 — (AP) — Japan's Minister of Agriculture got caught in one of Tokyo's popular "man in the street" broadcasts yesterday and was asked by a bystander how he managed to live, the food situation being what it is.

The crowd roared approval as someone shouted, "Good! At least, you're honest!"

Marmora Swamps Bloomfield 13-1 To Win Round

Marmora, Trent Valley champions, defeated the Bloomfield Sky Chiefs 13-1 in the Wellington Arena last night to take the International "B" round goals-to-count by a 20-4 count. The Hastings County champs turned back the Sky Chiefs in Madoc earlier in the week by a 7-3 count.

Marmora outclassed the Prince Edward County champions in every department. They scored four goals in the first period; racked up four more in the second when the Chiefs scored their only goal of the game, and fired home five more in the third heat.

Bloomfield officials intimated that the protest they lodged against the Marmora squad prior to the first game on the grounds that the winners used ineligible players, might be dropped.

It was not ascertained at press time, which team the Marmora squad will meet in the next round of the playdowns.

Vern Goyer and Don Lee of Belleville officiated at the game.

STICK-UP MAN GETS AWAY

Los Angeles, March 19 —(AP) —Policeman J. N. Coberly entered a tavern early today just in time to find 12 customers and the bartender held at bay and a masked gunman, with $542 from the till, going through the door of the little girl's room.

"Ho-ho" thought Coberly. "The guy took the wrong door; we've got him!" He locked the door marked "Ladies," then called for reinforcements.

When the cops, with drawn guns, cautiously opened the door they found, alas, that the powder room had a window. That left them with a natural question: "How did the stick-up man know that?"

Notes From St. Petersburg Florida

By NELLIE ARTHUR

Between Christmas and New Year's, a number of people from the Belleville district visited St. Petersburg. The two weeks' trip was conducted under the name of "The University Tours". They spent one night in St. Petersburg at the Suwannee Hotel and departed in the large bus the next day for Miami. Present among the tourists were Mr. and Mrs. Andrews, Belleville, Miss Gertrude Alford, K.C., Trenton and Miss Amelia Hayes, retired teacher, Trenton.

Mr. C. M. Reid is this winter in St. Petersburg. It is said that he has sold his home on 21st Avenue, near Crescent Lake.

Mr. and Mrs. Ewart Harns and Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Harns (Hilda Morton) visited Florida and St. Petersburg in January. They live at Burr's, Prince Edward County.

The season seems at its height here just now. Most rooming places are displaying "No Vacancy" signs. The downtown motor traffic is heavy and it is difficult to find a parking place for the day after ten o'clock in the morning. Cars from many states are seen, the larger number being from New York, Ohio and Illinois. There are very few Ontario cars, still fewer Quebec cars and only occasionally one may see a New Brunswick licence. Tourists stand in line at meal time in all large cafeterias and on Sunday the churches are crowded.

Some churches, the Methodists and Presbyterians, require two morning services to provide seating room for all those who wish to attend. After services the police guard nearby traffic intersections and direct not only the autos but also the throngs of pedestrians coming out of and entering the churches.

Everyone thinks we are having an early spring here. The mocking-birds sang for the first time on February 5, and all through February we had fine springlike weather. After a few heavy rains, the flowers began to bloom. The large bell-shaped hibiscus now makes bright red spots of color on the green bushes. The bright orange flame vine spreads its glowing mass of color over the trellises which shelter the players at Mirror Lake Shuffleboard Club. Throughout the city, it is seen here and there spreading itself over roofs and fences.

The meadow lark sings all day long in the large orange grove near the cottage where I live. The blue-jay and the cardinal, the flicker and the shy little brown doves are there, too. Throughout the city, the brown dead leaves of the oaks are now showering down, and the bright new glossy green leaves are now taking their place and pushing off the long gray tendrils of Spanish moss, which have clung all winter to some of the branches. The grass is losing its faded brownness and is becoming green and strong, and under the foot feels like a heavy carpet.

The orange trees are in blossom; the rich sweet perfume pervades the air and the little white flowers look pretty against the bright green leaves. I recently saw a strange flock of ducks. They were not the small black and white ducks that have been here all winter. They were larger brown ones and had long bills. They kept looking this way and that and in a scared manner as they swam about. The next evening when I passed the lake they were gone. They were Northern ducks on their way, but much earlier than usual. I used to see these flocks at the pier late in March. It is to be hoped that, as we have all the signs of an early spring here, there will also be an early spring up north.

Personals

Mrs. Edith Donaldson is a guest this season at the South View Hotel, which is only a block from the downtown business section.

The Misses Hayes are again pleasantly located at the Dusenburg Hotel, right in the centre of the city. They have a suite of rooms there looking out upon a large upper verandah facing south. They enjoy card parties and other entertainments provided by the management for their guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Woodley have rooms in the same house as Mr. and Mrs. Dafoe of Madoc, in the Shuffleboard district near Mirror Lake. This house faces on beautiful tree-lined 4th Avenue North.

Mr. and Mrs. Newton Thompson are living not far from the same section of the city.

Mrs. Calnan arrived in St. Petersburg not long ago and called upon Mrs. Donaldson.

Mr. and Mrs. Stoneberg are living as usual in their large, luxurious trailer at the Orange Blossom Trailer Camp, 5th Avenue South. Here a shuffle board court is provided for the amusement of the guests.

Miss Elizabeth Corbett, with her sister and niece, Mrs. (Dr.) Blakely, (Dorothy Boyle) and children, of Kingston, are spending the winter at Bradenton, about 16 miles from St. Petersburg, across the ferry and down the West Coast. This city is very beautifully situated on an inlet of the Gulf of Mexico. Miss Corbett has visited St. Petersburg and has called on the Misses Hayes.

Burr's United W.A. Celebrates Its 22nd Anniversary

Burr's — March 17th., "St. Patrick's Day in the Morning", was the date of an auspicious occasion in the life of the Woman's Association of Burr's United Church, when the members were hostesses to the congregation and other friends, for a well attended birthday supper in Allisonville Hall.

Tables were decorated in green and white, the traditional colors of Ireland's historical Saint.

Rev J. F. Lane was chairman for the presentation of a suitable program, with Miss Sylvia Motley, Master Hugh Joyce, Mrs. Roy Ferguson, Miss Doris Blakely, Mr. and Mrs. Ken Wood, and the Barber trio of Huff's Island contributing enjoyable and well received numbers.

The committee sponsoring this very successful venture report that the proceeds amounted to $98 which amount is very gratifying to members of the organization.

Good Companions Club Presents 3 Act Comedy In Tabernacle Ch. Hall

Last evening a capacity audience in the Assembly Hall of Tabernacle United Church enthusiastically applauded the members of "The Good Companions" Club, who presented the three-act comedy "Aunt Tillie Goes to Town," under the very able direction of Miss Helen Sulman.

All the characters were remarkably well portrayed, each participant entering whole-heartedly into his or her respective role. From the rise of the curtain on Act one, the hilarious sequences of the story followed each other in rapid succession to the final happy denouement of Act three.

Special mention may be made of "Lucinda", who continually and industriously looked forward to matrimony, regardless of age, size or sudden appearances; of Lizzie Parsons, who was almost constantly "hysterical"; of Roland Howland who found some explanation for every untoward occurrence in spite of its transparency as an alibi; and of the very versatile Mervin Tucker, whose continuous "peck of trouble" was at the root of the many humorous situations in Aunt Tillie's house during her visit to town, all of which were complicated by the unexpected and uninvited visitors Ellen Neeland, Luther Lorrimer, Mrs. "Tillie" Tucker, and Charlie One Lung, who was very good "Mellican". However, with the arrival of Dr. Hattie Bing, chiropractor, and with Aunt Tillie's second "going to town", former puzzling circumstances finally are pulled and straightened to the intense relief of Pamela and to the satisfaction of all concerned, so that nobody could possibly believe that so many "impossible" situations had all occurred during only one June day.

Following is a list of the cast personnel:

Tillie Trask (Aunt Tillie) who dislikes all males—Hazel Thompson; Lucinda Talbot, her maid, who is anxious to be married — Jane Smyth; Pamela Marsh, Aunt Tillie's charming niece—Ruth Boulton; Lizzie Parsons, an aspiring young novelist—Norah Dane; Ellen Neeland, who appears suddenly—Dorothy Moorman; Ronald Howland, who always has an explanation for everything — Douglas Boulton; Luther Lorrimer, Ronald's wealthy employer —Morley Hancock; Mervin Tucker, who is in a peck of trouble—Geo. McKellop; Charlie One Lung, a Chinese cook—Albert Mulvey; Mrs. Tillie Tucker, Mervin's Aunt —Minnie Ferguson; Dr. Hattie Bing, a Chiropractor—Rachel Fox.

Directed by Helen Sulman.

Mr. Merritt Hackett, pinch hitting for the president of the club, Mr. Albert Mulvey, welcomed the audience and expressed gratitude for the use of the stage properties loaned for the occasion. Miss Ethel Horton was at the piano for the final curtain call, with the National Anthem.

The Junior Y.P.U., at a refreshment booth, sold candy and soft drinks between the acts.

The play will be presented again this evening, same time, same place.

THE COLLEGE HILL WOMEN'S GROUP

On Wednesday, the College Hill Women's Group held its monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. Glad Waite, N. Front St., with a good attendance.

Mrs. J. Vandevorte conducted the opening exercises and Mrs. A. Dickens offered prayer. Appreciation to Mrs. F. Cooke, past-president, for services rendered the group during 1947, was expressed by Mrs. L. Bird, who presented Mrs. Cooke with a cup and saucer and best wishes from the group. Mrs. Cooke graciously responded.

The devotional period was in charge of Mrs. W. Cowels, who chose "The Bible" as her subject. She told how the Bible, as we know it, was made from pieces of script, and later bound in book form and printed in different languages.

Two layettes were collected and are to be given to needy mothers of the community. Mrs. J. Thompson contributed her favorite recipe for doughnuts, to be added to the cook book being compiled by members of the group.

Mrs. W. Mifflin was welcomed as a new member.

At this period Mrs. G. Coulter conducted a discussion of "Current Events" and chose "The Marshall Plan" as the subject for debate.

Mrs. L. Bailey will be the speaker at the April meeting, which will be held in the home of Mrs. L. Bird.

A benediction closed the meeting.

JOHNSTOWN W.A.

The Johnstown W. A. met on March 10th at the home of Mrs. M. Mallory with fifteen members present.

Mrs. Mallory conducted the meeting. The Scripture lesson was read by Mrs. E. Bush.

Several items of business were discussed. It was decided to hold a quilting at Mrs. Mallory's home in the near future.

The program was sponsored by Mrs. K. Stickle and Mrs. C. Curtis and consisted of readings, a duet by Mrs. Bush and Mrs. Curtis and a contest, which was won by Mrs. E. Bush.

The meeting closed with a benediction.

Refreshments were served by the hostess and her assistants.

Woman Found Captive in Trunk Two Children in Virtual Captivity

Venice, Cal., March 19 (AP)—The strange life of the occupants of a Venice seaside home drew the attention today of detectives armed with shovels.

They dug in the soft sand surrounding the house where a cringing, 27-year-old woman was found in a trunk and where, officers charge, two children had been held in virtual captivity.

But police declined to discuss whether any definite information led to the search, or whether it was merely routine.

In jail were two spinsters, Maria Clavey, 60, and Josephine Vella, 58, who lived in a three-room apartment with the three emaciated occupants, 27 canaries, 10 guinea pigs and two dogs.

Police inquiry into their affairs began a week ago, when John Joseph Wayne, 11, was found shivering in girl's clothing, sitting on a curbstone. He led them to the house where he said he had been kept prisoner for years.

Yesterday, armed with warrants, two juvenile officers went to the house to arrest the woman. They are charged with inhuman treatment to a juvenile and false imprisonment.

Police quoted Miss Clavey as saying:

"If you're going to arrest me, somebody's going to have to take care of my birds, my dogs, the guinea pigs—and Edna."

"Who is Edna?" police asked.

"She's in that trunk," was the reply.

Opening it, they found a woman identified as Edna Bessie Dinsmore. A police psychiatrist described her as "underdeveloped and with the mentality of an unschooled 7-year-old." She weighed 85 pounds, and had been sleeping on a shelflike bunk. Police quoted Miss Clavey as saying she had been left at their nursing home when she was two weeks old.

The Wayne boy, who weighed only 48 pounds but was described as intelligent, also was left by his mother when he was two weeks old, the women said.

"We sent John Joseph to school when he was 6," Miss Clavey told officers, "but he was too unruly and we had to take him out after three months."

The women's statements led police last night to a home in Santa Monica, where they found 9-year-old Mary Riechel. Mrs. Elizabeth Riechel said the child had been left with her by an unidentified mother, that she had named it, and seven years ago had placed it with the two spinsters. The girl was returned to Mrs. Riechel two days ago, she said. Police said she also showed evidences of malnutrition.

Officers quoted neighbors as expressing surprise that the apartment had other occupants besides the two women and their dog.

"We have been here 14 months" said one, "and never say any children."

The Dinsmore woman was quoted as saying that she had been taught to hide in the trunk when any one knocked on the door, but Miss Clavey said it was because her landlord didn't like children. She and Miss Vella were held in default of $3,500 bond each.

Marjorie Lawrence, Metropolitan Opera Star, will appear in Toronto at the Maple Leaf Gardens next Sunday, for "Timmy's All Star Easter Party" a benefit performance in aid of Ontario's Crippled Children. A polio victim herself, she accepted without hesitation the invitation to sing without fee on behalf of Ontario's crippled children to help boost Easter Seal Sales. Amongst the Canadians headlining the same bill are Mart Kenney's Orchestra; Gregory Clark and Jim Frise; Wayne and Shuster and Samuel Hersenhorn. Lucio Agostini will conduct for Miss Lawrence.

At least thirty radio stations throughout the Province will carry the show between 4 and 5 p.m. that Sunday, which is to help boost the sales of Easter Seals.

"The Road Back" Skillfully Presented By Tabernacle St. YPU

The auditorium of Aikens United Church was packed to the doors' last evening for the initial performance of "The Road Back" presented by members of Tabernacle United Sr. Y. P. U. sponsored by the Sunday School of Aikens Church.

Mr. Harleigh Hamilton, Superintendent of the School, introduced Rev. F. R. Harback, minister of Tabernacle United Church, Belleville, and Mr. Garnet May, president of the Union, who is well known among residents of the Aikens community. In turn Mr. Harback introduced the cast personnel.

"The Road Back" in three acts was well presented, and enthusiastically received by the large audience, all the players affording a unique and skillful portrayal of their respective roles.

During the intermessions between acts, Miss Ruth Palmer, teacher in the Hogle School, contributed two vocal solos, with Mrs. H. Hamilton as accompanist; while Mrs. Lee Grills and Mrs. Hamilton entertained with a much appreciated piano duet.

It was later learned that one of the members of the cast, Mr. Edgar Goodfellow, with a recording machine, had made records of the solo, "When Irish Eyes Are Smiling" and of the piano duet.

Following the final curtain the players were invited to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Spafford, where refreshments were served by the committee in charge.

HOLLOWAY ST. W.A.

The March meeting of the Holloway Street United Church W.A. met in the Sunday School rooms on Thursday afternoon with 38 ladies present. The president, Mrs. A. Campbell, conducted opening exercises. Secretarial reports evidenced considerable industry during the past month, when 38 calls were made on sick and shut-in members.

Mrs. G. Dodds led in a devotional period, and Mrs. Doxsee read the Scripture lesson, followed by a "meditation" and prayer led by Miss Donnan. Mrs. S. P. Hagerman and Mrs. Jas. Cordes contributed a pleasing duet. Guest speaker for the afternoon was Mrs. H. Elliott of Stirling, introduced by Mrs. Dobbs. Mrs. Elliott is president of the Hastings and Prince Edward Counties Presbytery W.A. and she gave an inspirational address on "The Christian Church and Home". Mrs E. Hopkins voiced the appreciation of the ladies and tendered a vote of thanks to Mrs. Elliott.

A highlight of the afternoon was a presentation made to Mrs. Ed. Shortt on behalf of the W.A. by Mrs. Ferguson and Mrs. Scott. Mrs. Shortt, who is leaving shortly to reside in Sherbrooke, Que., graciously responded expressing regret for the severance of the pleasant associations with other members of the W.A., and thanking them for their kind thoughts, good wishes, and very lovely gift.

Several new members were introduced and the serving of refreshments brought a profitable afternoon to a close.

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMESON

Polish Your Hair, Make it Shine

Hair should carry lights and shadows. That is what distinguishes the virgin color from the dyed mop, which is one flat tone every shaft the same color as its neighbors. The pate of the brunette may contain shafts of dark brown, medium brown, even a few strays of auburn. The blonde's halo is not always pure gold: some of the silky fuzzers may be straw-colored, some of a copper cast. Mama Nature knew what she was doing. This system gives it eye-charm and character.

To produce the best effects, to make the feminine crest lovely, hair should be polished. Every shaft should shine like a freshly washed mirror. Taking heads by and large, especially those of young girls who do their own shampooing, we must come to the conclusion that too many of them carry the dull finish. The reason is careless shampooing; soap scum is left on the strands. Oil and cream shampoos are more easily rinsed away. Even when they are used, however, there just as many rinsings with a bath should be several applications, and spray and a strong current of water.

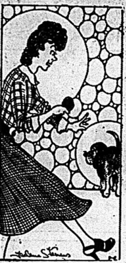
Ducking the head into a washbowl, rubbing a bar of soap over it and rinsing a few times, is a method that is fatal to the beauty and health of the hair.

That brushing enlivens the growth, grooms it and imparts lustre is evident. But many a hairbrush has been mislaid for years. The prevailing idea is to preserve the undulations, the rolls and ringlets, so women use combs that are a less disturbing influence. If the permanent is strong, brushing will not weaken it. After all, the shampoos should be spaced not further apart than a fortnight; by that time there is an accumlation of debris that should be removed—atmospheric dust, the exudations of sweat and sebaceous glands, dead skin scales.

Many women brush the dog's coat to give it sheen and neatness, yet never pause to think that ten minutes devoted to the grooming of their own hair would make it lovelier.

Brushing tugs at the shafts, slightly stimulates the tiny blood vessels that feed the papilla from which the shaft emerges. As the gardener prepares the soil from which his flowers grow, so should a women keep in condition the scalp from which her hair pushes forth.

A five minute passage after the bedtime brushing is beneficial. Slip fingers and thumbs under your hair. Keep the fingers on the flesh; message with the thumb. Use plenty of pressure. Then, with thumb and first finger, do pinching movements.



Many women brush their dogs' coats regularly

Fashion Flashes

THERE'S COLOR in accessories, especially fashion jewelry. Latest idea is chromatic colors in pearl beads, with ropes of sky blue, sky pink, sun yellow and nile green pearls to tie in with pastels or set off dark tones.

A BIG SPLASH come summer, for the one-piece bathing suit of elasticized satin. Apple-green elasticized satin is used for a very pretty little suit built on princess lines. Another suit is of elasticized metallic cloth, non-tarnishable and apparently able to take a dip.

IMPORTANT SHADE for Spring and Summer is chamois-yellow, for both accessories and clothes. Chamois-yellow felt is used for a neat cloche which has a cushion brim. Elephant gray taffeta ribbon is used for trimming, with a neat little bunch of violets at the back —a nice color scheme.

PETTICOAT FEVER is mounting as Spring fashion trends crystallize. Navy crepe forms a prety frock made with a snug bodice, three-quarter length sleeves and a white wing collar with a bow of red, white and black print. With the gored skirt a matching print petticoat.

ADDICTS of the blouse will rejoice that the chiffon blouse—plain or printed, rayon or pure silk—is back again. Silk chiffon in blue, with small red and white coin dots, is used for a pretty suit blouse that has the neckline tied in a big soft self bow.

BEST SELLER say the stores, is the dress with its own matching jacket. Navy blue, very light-weight woollen makes a pretty frock, its full skirt market below the hipline with a broad insert of mauve-pink grosgrain that terminates in a hip bow. The torso-fitting, bracelet-sleeved jacket has revers and a band of the pink grosgrain.

ESPECIALLY PLEASING are new mid-season hats that tell of Spring. An off-the-face sailor of navy felt is trimmed with crisp white daisies arranged across the front and extending down over the right ear. The flowers are combined with emerald velvet ribbon bows, and the centre of each flower is yellow, and bright with a green sequin.

Keeping A Figure in Shape

By HELEN FOLLETT

WOULD you retain the svelte shape? Are you ever fearful that the bathroom scales may show that you have taken on a few pounds? Then try hopping. The moment you notice that there is difficulty in zipping up your frock at the side, you can be pretty sure that a half inch has been added to your waist measurement. At that moment decide to start hopping.

You may feel silly indulging in this infantile pastime. Instructors of physical education recommend this form of exercise, especially if hips, thighs and calves have gone all out for a policy of expansion. It shakes off fat cells. If you have not any fat cells bothering you, it will keep you from getting them. Muscles will be strong and resilient.

The Heavyweight

The heavyweight may not be able to hop very high but as she continues fighting adipose tissues her movements will be lighter, faster, brisker. Large bodies move slowly, slow movements mean that the musculature weakens, fat cells come along and take up lodgings.

An exercise that will ward off the tummy bulge that comes along in middle ages or develops because posture is not correct is this one: lie on your back on the floor, lift both legs until your feet are over your head, lower them slowly.

Keep Hips Trim

A good exercise to keep hips trim, or take unwanted weight off them, is to sit on the floor, and bracing yourself with your hands, roll from side to side, keeping the legs slightly elevated.

Brisk walks will normalize the figure, be it skinny or hefty, if the walks are long enough. A mile or two will not accomplish much. Uncle Sam's daughters are not walkers; it is too easy to hop into the family bus. English women think nothing of clipping off ten miles.

Keep the spinal column too, chest high, head balanced, abdomen flat. Step lightly. Let the arms swing in an easy manner. No sauntering. March like a sol-

How to Address Envelopes to her Grandchildren

Dear Mrs. Beeckmah:

I have a number of young grandchildren, and I am often puzzled as to how to address the envelopes of my letters to them. I know that envelopes to the boys are addressed to Master Joe Smith, and that the eldest daughter is Miss Edith Smith. But how should the envelopes to the others in the same family be addressed?

C. H. S.

While the envelopes to your very young grandsons may be addressed to "Master", it is just as correct to address them to "Mr." . . . and even these very young boys usually prefer this latter form. Also, even in the case of very young children the envelopes should not carry nicknames. . . . "Joseph," not "Joe" (unless "Joe" is his real name).

Girls of any age are now addressed: Miss Edith Smith, Miss Elizabeth Smith. Formerly the eldest daughter was Miss Smith, her younger sister, Miss Elizabeth Smith, but nowadays the first name is always used.

She Shouldn't be Hurt by Sister-in-Law's "Bossy" Relatives

Dear Mrs. Beeckman;

A week ago my sister-in-law (on my husband's side) had her third baby. Today I met her sister and mentioned how I almost went up to visit her sister, and she told me not to go because the baby was only six days old. I was indeed very humiliated by being told not to go, as I am to be the child's godmother and my husband is to be goodfather. My husband's brother told him the same thing, and so my husband is also hurt. We live so near my sister-in-law that we thought she would feel slighted if we didn't visit her sooner than the others did. Am I being foolish in taking the attitude I am taking? What would be the best thing for us to do now? I've lost all my enthusiasm?

R. C.

It's not wise or adult for you and your husband to be hurt or to take any peevish attitude about what you were told. . .there may be some most practical and sensible reason for postponing the visits of anyone to the mother and her new baby. (You must know how relatives often are. . . like to "boss" a situation!) So do be a good and kind relative and friend to mother and child by saying nothing about what you were told, making no criticism, and in a few days get in touch with your sister-in-law directly, if possible, or by letter and ask her convenience about having you come to visit her. You have no right to lose your enthusiasm, dear lady . . . .keep that joyous quality for your duty and responsibility as godmother to this child just starting on the Adventure of Living!

Write Formal Name on Self-Addressed Envelope

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When, for any reason, I enclose a self-addressed envelope in a letter, should I write 'Miss" before my name, or just (for example) Mary Robinson? Also, when I write my mother's name on an envelope to be enclosed, what form of name should I write "Miss" before my name, or just (for example) Mary Robinson? Also, when I write my mother's name on an envelope to be enclosed, what form of name should I write for her?

Reader

Always write a title before a name on an envelope. . .whether it is your name or anyone else's. In other words, write the formal form of name. . .Miss Mary Robinson. Write your mother's formal name also on an envelope to be enclosed: Mrs. John Robinson. . . not Mrs. Margaret Robinson. . .whether the envelope is for social or business use.

It's Time to Go, Lady!

You'll be more enthusiastically urged to "come again" if you don't get the reputation of being a too-late-staying guest. You may be able to sleep on and on in the morning. . . .but your hostess and host may be haunted by the thought of the imminence of that early-morning alarm. And, lady, remember that it's up to you to remind your escort that "It's time to leave."

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Did the Children Cause This Rift?

Mrs. W. M. has been married eight years. The first five years of her marriage were childless, and she and her husband made a happy couple. Now there are two children and there is no more happiness in her home.

"I thought the children would bring us closer together," she writes, "but they didn't. Instead my husband stays away from home and runs around with a bad crowd. When he does come home, he fights with me all the time and finds fault with the children for every small thing they do. He never takes me out anywhere, not even to a movie. If I go to a movie alone, he fights with me about it. He says I ought to stay in the house all the time and take care of the children."

In other words, this completely selfish husband and father wants to shift upon his wife's shoulders the full responsibility for the children he has brought into the world, so that he can be free to go and come as he chooses.

To add to her distress, this wife now has the fear that other women may be competing against her for her husband's interest, and she thinks that they may be having some success in doing so.

There are, then, two angles to her problem—one that concerns the children, and the other, her husband's possible interest in other women. The only solution to this twin problem which occurs to her is that she might take her children and leave. But this avenue of escape is automatically cut off for her because she has no place to go and no means of supporting herself and the children.

Hers, unfortunately, is far from a new story. Many a young wife has been disillusioned to find that when children came, her husband stopped being a companion and lover and turned into a stranger. The point is what, if anything, can she do about it?

Unsatisfactory as the situation must be, I am afraid there are no very decisive steps she can take to improve things much while her children are so young. You can't force a father to baby-sit against his will. I do think however, that if she can find anyone else to take over that job occasionally, she should go out and have some fun with her friends by herself, since her husband refuses to be her companion.

She has already tried this, she says, by joining a married friend and her husband in a twice-weekly excursion to a social club. To this innocent diversion her husband has violently objected, even going so far as to suggest that she went there to see a boy friend. For a man who talks in his sleep about a woman other than his wife, as she says he has done, this protest seems rather illogical.

I believe she should not let this stand in the way of any legitimate recreation that she can enjoy. Since he is going to fight with her anyway, no matter what she does, it might as well be over something definite, and in time he may come to realize that good times are as much a wife's right as a husband's.

If she can adopt this plan and pursue it steadily without giving in to her husband's bluster and trying to avoid quarreling about it, it might even in the end bring about a change in his attitude. It's a long chance, but there seems to be no other.

As for his women friends, I doubt if there is anything she can do in this direction. If there is no change in her husband in this respect, as time goes on, when the children are older so that she might be able to work outside the home herself, she might think about the possibility of a separation. Until then it would seem to be largely a matter of exercising such patience as she can.

Fine Purse Fittings

By ALICE ALDEN

The Big Hat comes complete with its own fine fittings makes for good handbag grooming since it makes for an orderly array of handbag contents and bestows a luxury look as well. Evans, who excels in this type of bag presents a bag fashion on classic lines but with a new look. Inky black suede is set off by a gold metal frame. Within the bag, each in its own pocket, is a lighter, a cigarette case, lipstick and compact, all in matching metal, as well as the usual mirror and comb. A wonderful gift, think we, to give or to receive, and a proud product of our American manufacturer.

Trade Minister Howe said he could not accept a suggestion by the Canadian Federation of Mayors that the federal government advance money to provinces and municipalities for housing construction.

Justice Minister Ilsley said the federal government does not propose submitting Quebec's "padlock law" to the Supreme Court.

In a short-lived wheat debate, Ralph Maybank (L-Winnipeg South Centre)—declared his opposition to the provision to introduce state marketing of feed grains, although he approved of the sections dealing with the Wheat Board pension scheme and the wheat price increase.

John Bracken, Progressive Conservative leader, briefly reviewed his party's stand and said it opposed the section dealing with feed grains because this would "force" farmers to sell their products only to the Wheat Board and only at one fixed price.

The atomic debate produced charges by Stanley Knowles (CCF Winnipeg North Centre) backed by a half-dozen other C. C. F. speakers, that the government's removal of restrictions on uranium mining would open the door to "a new phase of profiteering" and lead to "stock-piling" of the valuable radioactive materials by private companies.

Price of Ore Set

Mr. Howe said the government felt that the lifting of the restrictions would lead to an increase in the known resources on uranium, the main atomic energy component.

Pointing out that all ores mined must be sold to government agents, he said the minimum price of $2.75 a pound to be paid had been worked out on the basis of experience in the extraction of uranium.

M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F. leader, expressed fear there would be a danger of leakage of uranium to unauthorized sources if the minerals were allowed to get into the hands of private companies.

As the tax discussion opened, Mr. Abbott told the Chamber he could not estimate how much in U.S. funds had been saved by the levy and reiterated that one of its primary purposes was to reduce domestic consumption of goods and allow larger shipments to Europe.

Called Lawless Tax

J. M. Macdonnell (PC—Muskoka-Ontario) termed the levy a "lawless" tax and suggested parliament in adopting it make it retroactive only to Dec. 5, the day parliament met. If it was retroactive to Nov. 17, parliament would be condoning "lawlessness."

In the sugar debate R. W. Mayhew, parliamentary assistant to Finance Minister Abbott, said the government-operated Sugar Stabilization Corporation hopes to be in a position this fall to turn the purchasing of sugar back to private industry.

The country's 198 sugar requirements were estimated at 600,000 tons, made up of 250,000 from Empire sources, 150,000 from San Domingo, about 100,000 from other foreign sources and about 100,000 from domestic beet sugar producers. The price was about $4.81 a 100 pounds.

Give First Reading

Others who took part in the Throne Speech debate during the afternoon were Victor Martin (L-Nipissing), William Robertson (CCF-Wentworth), James Newman (L-Lab-Rainy River) and William E. Duckworth (PC-Toronto Dovercourt). Speakers at the night sitting were Garfield Anderson (CCF-Fort William), Rev. M. C. Davies (PC-Windsor Walkerville), Stanley Hall (PC-Halton) and Ross A. McEwing (L-Wellington North).

The House gave first reading to three government bills. One exempts benefit athletic contests from provincial taxation, another gives the Attorney-General the right to relieve municipalities of the cost of special Provincial Police services and the third empowers the province to withhold grants from a municipality which refuses to carry out provisions of an agreement or award concerning its police and fire departments.

Spokesmen for all parties in the House congratulated Aurelien Belanger (L-Prescott) on his 70th birthday. He has sat in the Legislature for 20 years.

Wants Hydro Supply

In the debate, Mr. Martin expressed hope that it would not be long before rural areas of Nipissing are supplied with hydro. People there are deprived of many conveniences which others take for granted, he said.

Lucite deposits found in the district were discussed. He said many claims have been purchased by Aluminum Company of Canada and added that a mine would be in operation shortly. Lucite is used for making magnesium and explosives.

Mr. Martin read a letter he had received from the North Bay Board of Trade which said the people of the city were concerned about possibility of flood conditions of last year being repeated.

The letter asked for provincial government action to forestall floods of Lake Nipissing waters and recalled that assurances were received from both the Province and Dominion last year that something would be done.

Mr. Robertson said erosion is a great problem in Wentworth County. Large sections of beaches were being washed away.

He said one of the reasons for floods is that in some parts of Ontario Forests have been removed, thus enabling unhampered flow of waters into streams and lakes.

Roads Necessary

Mr. Newman directed a plea to the government for construction of roads in the Rainy River District. Roads are necessary, he declared, to maintain and develop the pulp, agriculture and tourist industries which are so important to the area.

Mr. Newman said the Forestry Commission report should be made available to all persons connected with the industry. It contained many recommendations which would help toward eliminating much of the present waste.

Discussing steep rock iron mines, he said roads are particularly needed in that area. Business and private capital had shown its faith in the mines. Development and the government should follow suit. The area had the largest open pit iron mine in Canada and production reached 2,023,000 tons of ore last year.

Qualifications Hard

Speaking in the night session, Mr. Anderson said while the qualifications for the $30 Old Age Pension constitute a means test, the qualifications for getting the extra $10 are a "meaner means test".

The Mayor of Fort William, taking part in the Throne Speech debate, said there should be a more liberal attitude on the part of the government in giving the extra $10 a month pension.

He qualified his statement, however, by saying that he hoped eventually the whole matter of Old Age Pensions would be taken over by the Federal government. He expressed the opinion that the matter was one of Dominion responsibility.

Mr. McEwing said cripples should be provided for by the government in the form of pensions similar to these for the aged.

He also suggested that the House standing committee on agriculture should meet more often, possibly once a week during the session.

There were such matters as freight rate increases, methods of improving Ontario apples so that they may compete with those of British Columbia and Nova Scotia and ways of dealing with the feed grain problem, which could well be dealt with in the committee, he declared.

He said nothing had been done to assist the farmers in the feed grain crisis last year, and recalled that the Liberal government had been of considerable help during a similar situation in 1940-41.

TIMMINS-SUDBURY HIGHWAY

Timmins, Ont. — (CP) — W. J. Grummett, M.P.P. for Cochrane South, has promised Timmins council he will "stress the great need" for the government's completion of a Timmins-Sudbury highway this year.

News Editor Cites Reasons for Quitting Communist Paper

London, March 19 (Reuters)—Douglas A. Hyde today announced that he has resigned as news editor of The Daily Worker, the Communist party newspaper, because he has become "increasingly disturbed by Russia's foreign policy and appalled by what has happened in Czechoslovakia."

"It became obvious to me that the movement for which I had fought and worked for so long was destroying those very freedoms and decencies for which it claimed to be fighting," he said. "Communism is incapable of providing a cure for an extremely sick world."

Hyde, who has been a Communist for 20 years, added that he intends to become a member of the Roman Cotholc Church.

Disturbed by Events

In a statement, Hyde said: "I have, since the end of the war, been increasingly disturbed by Russia's foreign policy and by events in eastern Europe. I am appalled by what has happened during recent weeks in Czechoslovakia, a country which despite its 'western' outlook and culture has been made to follow the rest. The way in which it was done is an indication of what may be expected in Italy, France and even Britain, should the circumstances arise.

"I believe that the new 'line' of the Communist Party in production, introduced after the formation of the Cominform last year, and the opposition to the Marshall plan from which it springs would, if successful, bring nothing but misery to the common people of Britain."

Hyde added that his "growing disillusionment" led him to seek "some other answer to the problems of our day and a way out of world chaos.

"I found it in that catholicism which once linked the whole of Christendom in a single faith and culture," he said. "I have come to believe that the Catholic Church's insistence on the need for a return to the old moral values and Christian treatment of man by man provides the answer to the social, political and spiritual needs of humanity."

IMPERIAL OIL

Mr. Hewetson said progress in the company's exploration and producing program in western Canada "has now reached the stage where the company is confident that this enterprise will be of major importance to Canada and to the shareholders of Imperial Oil.

"In view of these developments it is apparent that Imperial will require large sums of additional funds in order to continue aggressively on its oil-finding efforts in western Canada, to produce oil from established reserves, to provide adequate refining facilities and to provide economical transportation for crude oil and products to their markets."

Lion Kills Tigress In 90-Second Fight

Sydney, Australia, March 19 — (CP) — It took a lion of the Adelaide zoo exactly 90 seconds to prove to a tigress that he was king of the zoo as well as the jungles.

Keepers cleaning out the cages of the lions and tigers failed to notice the tigress asleep near a partition wall when they locked the others behind it. They left a sliding door to the lion's cage open and the lion and a lioness jumped through.

The tigress rose immediately to attack the lion, but the king of the jungles quickly locked his teeth in her neck and killed her. The lioness stood by and roared encouragement.

Washington Spotlight:

Southern Democrats Oppose Truman Even at Risk of Losing the Election

By CLYDE BLACKBURN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Washington, March 19—(CP)—President Truman closed his appeal to Congress for a preparedness program with a plea for unity at home in this year of world crisis.

"At no time in our history has unity among our people been so vital as it is at the present time," he said.

"The world situation is too critical and the responsibilities of this country are too vast to permit party struggles to weaken our influence for maintaining peace."

The president and his administration were under heavy fire from all sides of his legitimate political opponents — the Republicans — who are seeking to put their man in the White House in next November's elections.

Party Members Attack

Worse than that he was being attacked by numerous of those staunch Democrats who have maintained the party in power in the White House since 1932 but now feel Truman is not the man for them.

The president is faced by a resentful and determined leadership of southern states, all Democratic, who seem willing to oppose him even at the cost of assuring a Republican victory because of his stand for fair treatment of the Negro minority.

He is opposed by a militant third party movement headed by Henry Wallace, his former Secretary of Commerce, and his predecessor in the vice-presidency.

Wallace appears willing also to do his utmost to embarrass the administration and particularly the president even though it seems certain his reports will succeed only in helping the Republicans.

Thus the president's plea for unity comes at a time when disunity and internal political and labor strife is at its height.

The critical, and at times, scornful comments from Congressmen immediately after the president's grave message Wednesday indicated that in many instances his plea fell on indifferent ears.

Remains Calm

For good or ill Truman seems to take these things in stride, to remain calm and unruffled in the face of desperate situations, and come up smiling always.

It is not so with Marshall. He is obviously worried and worn by the burdens thrust upon him. He shows it is his voice and in his manner.

Marshall is closer than the president to the day-to-day evidence of mounting crisis, closer to the constant demands and desperate pleas that come from all quarters of the globe for United States aid.

Tourist Business Seen Larger Than Last Year's

Ottawa, March 19—(CP) — A buyer's market has been reached in the tourist as well as other trades and prices will be the biggest factor in determining Canada's income from visitors this year, D. Leo Dolan, director of the Government Travel Bureau, said on Thursday.

Mr. Dolan told a Senate committee on tourist traffic, however, that he expected this year's tourist business would be larger than last year's.

"If those who are in the business of catering directly to the tourists can maintain the present favorable price scale in this country in comparison with the United States prices, our tourist business will, I believe, show an increase in 1948," Mr. Dolan continued.

He pointed out that the Federal government has, for the first time, appropriated more than $1,000,000 for tourist trade promotion.

German Reds Say They Will Replace Allied Council

Berlin, March 19—(CP)—German communists have announced their intention of replacing the four-power allied control council with a "German government." The council has been functioning by wartime agreement among President Roosevelt, Prime Minister Stalin and Winston Churchill.

Herman Matern, Berlin leader of the Communist-controlled Socialist Unity (S. E. D.) party, told a Soviet-led "People's Congress" that a constitution for a German republic must be worked out "very quickly."

Thousands massed here to celebrate the centennial of the 1848 Revolution and honor those who fell in that unsuccessful effort to establish a constitutional German government.

The Congress is expected to set up a 400-member People's Council late today. The Communists have claimed for this council the right to speak for all Germans.

Walter Ulbricht, another key man of the S. E. D. party, accused Britain and the United States of "systematically looting" the economy of Western Germany.

About 80,000 Berliners carrying red flags and placards protesting against the Marshall plan and Germany's zonal divisions marched to place wreaths on the graves of victims of the Berlin uprising 100 years ago.

Several Russian soldiers accompanied the marching columns and prominent Soviet officials from the military administration in Berlin were present when 500 delegates of the "People's Congress" sang the "Red Flag" while marching to the cemetery.

Arrests Reported

The Berlin Socialist press today declared the Russians and German communists are again arresting non-communist German political leaders in the Soviet zone.

These allegations followed closely upon information that the Russian zone communists had established "action committees" to remove from public offices and party posts all non-communist and other "unreliable elements."

American authorities charged yesterday that a "reign of terror" was being waged against non-communists in the Soviet sector of Berlin.

The arrest wave, the Telegram said, centred in the city of Halle, in Saxony province. It asserted that, by reliable estimates, 32 persons, mostly industrial leaders and public officials, had been arrested there in the last few days.

In one case, the Telegram said, a Liberal Democratic official named Von Barnikol was fired upon by pursuing Russian M. V. D. (secret police) and German police when he fled from questioning.

200,000 Tons Of Welsh Coal Coming to Canada

London, March 19 — (CP) — Conclusion of an agreement whereby 200,000 tons of Welsh anthracite coal will be shipped this year to Canada was announced by the National Coal Board.

An official of the Board told The Canadian Press that the first consignment already is being loaded at Cardiff and a "considerable quantity will be en route before the end of this month."

He said the 1948 shipment would be more than three times the quantity shipped to the Dominion in recent years. The price at which the anthracite is being sold to Canada has been agreed "but it would be quite improper for this board to announce the figure which has been negotiated between export and import firms.

"I can only say we are delighted with the outcome of negotiations which started in Ottawa last year as we are most anxious to recaptue our coal export trade with Canada."

Before the war, the official added, Canada used to import 1,250,000 tons of anthracite from Britain annually.

"This coal came from Welsh and Scottish mines. Unfortunately, Scottish mines now have been practically worked out and our policy will be to increase the output of Welsh mines by modern methods."

Rome, N. Canada Packers Made Large Profit On Storage Butter

Ottawa, March 19 — (CP)—A "large profit" on storage butter was made by Canada Packers, Ltd., in the 1947-48 storage season but the company had not anticipated such a profit, J. S. McLean, company president, told the Commons Prime Committee yesterday.

Reasons for the profitable operations were given by Mr. McLean as a prospective acute shortage last year and removal of subsidies from feed grains, which sent up farmers' costs and brought demands for higher butterfat prices.

He said his company, in its storage operations from 1939 to 1947 inclusive, made a total profit of $103,000, or one-quarter cent a pound on more than 46,000,000 lbs of butter it handled.

On all the company's butter operations for that time, including butter which it manufactured and bought — the firm showed a profit of $625,000, Mr. McLean said. That came to .23 cents a pound.

For the 1947-48 season, because of the "extraordinary profit on storage butter," the profit was 2.29 cents a pound.

Average profit for the whole period up to March 1, 1948, was two-fifths of a cent per pound, he said.

Explains Causes

In explaining the causes for last year's profit, Mr. McLean said that the first result of decontrol last June was a 10-cent rise in the price of butter, the highest since May 1921.

At that time, he declared, the company had "a feeling of apprehension" at the start of the storage season, since the storage price was the highest in years. A loss was feared.

A table of butter operations given the committee by Mr. McLean showed the company made a profit of 11.21 cents per pound on its storage butter operations in the 11 months up to March 1, 1948.

For all butter operations in that period, the profit was 2.29 cents a pound.

For 1929 to 1947 inclusive, he said, the largest previous over-all profit had been 1.51 cents a pound in 1941. The average for that period was .14 cents a pound.

Dealing with last year's transactions, Mr. McLean said the company had accumulated 5,843,000 pounds for storage between June 5 and Oct. 15, when it "got so afraid" of the rising price that it stopped buying.

Dalton Spokesman Of British Labor

By JAMES McCOOK
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, March 19 — (CP) — Hugh Dalton, who was foreign secretary for half an hour and chancellor of the exchequer for 2½ years, now rides on the crest of political controversy.

Predictions of his Labor friends seem to be coming true. They said that when he resigned as chancellor in November, after admitting he had given a reporter information about his budget prior to reading it in the Commons, his career was only interrupted, not ended.

Party strategists saw some benefits in the situation. Ministers who hold office are oppressed by the day-to-day cares of their departments. They needed a man with time for party duties who could speak with the authority of experience in office and of labor policies in operation.

Dalton now is seldom in the Commons. Where by-elections are being fought, where Conservative charges need answering, where financial policies have to be explained to audiences outside London, where government objectives have to be clarified — there is Dalton, booming, witty, self-assured.

Replied to Churchill

His party chose him to reply to Winston Churchill, the opposition leader, during a series of political addresses broadcast by the BBC.

Dalton, who had ambitions to be foreign secretary, was used to indicate the government's line on Czechoslovakia. On the day the Communist - controlled government took office there, he told a British audience that Czechoslovakian developments represented "unprovoked aggression" and warned that "we have now got to watch for the next moves in all the countries on the boundaries of the Communist - dominated bloc of Europe.

He incidentally revealed he had been appointed foreign secretary when Prime Minister Attlee was forming his government in 1945. Ernest Bevin was to be chancellor.

"Attlee had second thoughts after lunch and changed us round," said Dalton.

"I had made up my mind that I would get drunk with (Soviet Foreign Secretary) Molotov the first night and see if that would do any good. But I was not able to do it. I am not hopeful that if we had done it we should have got on any better."

New Bus to Test Drivers in N.S.

Halifax, March 19 — (CP) — Have you got "tunnel vision"? How is your "visual acuity"? These and a dozen other questions pertaining to safe driving can be answered by a test in a new psycho-physical testing bus now being introduced in Nova Scotia.

The bus tests were demonstrated in Halifax by the department of highways which will use it throughout the province to test youths of pre-driving age at Nova Scotia schools, motorists involved in fatal accidents and those whose licences have been suspended.

It also will be demonstrated at country fairs where motorists will be given a chance to test their driving ability.

But there will be no prizes if they are good — just a stiff warning if they aren't.

NO CZECHS TO RETURN

Toronto, March 18 (CP)—K. Buzek, secretary of the Czechoslovak National Alliance, said last night he believed reports that many Czechs in southwestern Ontario wanted to go to Czechoslovakia arose from a misunderstanding. He said that prior to the Communist coup in Czechoslovakia a large number of Czechs in this country planned to attend the Sokol games in Prague in July. As soon as the Communists took over Czechoslovakia, the Czech-Canadians cancelled their plans.

CZECH NATION MOURNS DEATH OF MASARYK

Deep mourning marks the faces of these Czechs as they lined the streets of Prague, awaiting for the funeral cortege of Jan Masaryk. 25 P.C. Red Cross Quota Raised In Ontario

Toronto—Ian R. Dowie of Toronto, chairman of the Campaign for the Ontario Division of Red Cross, today announced that Ontario had raised over a quarter of its $1,200,000 objective. Returns from thirty-two of the three hundred Ontario Branches showed a total of $328,983.00.

While this figure does not compare with the amount raised last year, at this same period, Mr. Dowie stated that taking into consideration several factors, including the fact that many branches did not begin their campaign until second and third week in March, the results are not unsatisfactory.

The national objective is three million dollars.

HONEYMOONING 35 YEARS AFTER THEIR DIVORCE

The couple wereremarried yesterday following the death of McCracken's second wife and Mrs. McCracken's divorce from Husband No. 2. McCracken said: "Our trouble 35 years ago was mostly my fault. Now I have a chance to make up for quite a bit."

Aurel Belanger Congratulated On 70th Birthday

Toronto, March 19 (CP)—Members of all parties in the Ontario legislature yesterday offered congratulations to Aurel Belanger, Liberal representative for Prescott, on his 70th birthday.

Throughout his 20 years in the legislature he "has exhibited the courtesy and charm that are inherent in the race he represents" Liberal opposition leader Farquhar Oliver said.

Premier Drew said the government members joined wholeheartedly in extending best wishes to a man they respect for his courtesy.

W. J. Grummett, C.C.F. House leader and A.A. MacLeod Labor-Progressive party House leader also extended best wishes.

JAM BREAK-UP ENDS FLOOD THREAT

Prince Regent Favored to Win Grand National

Aintree, Lancs., England, March 19 (AP) — A phenomenal swing in betting today boosted the aged and previously ignored Prince Regent towards the role of possible favorite for tomorrow's renewal of the Grand National Steeplechase at Aintree.

As the vanguard of upwards of half a million racing fans poured in for the 102nd running of the world's foremost steeplechase, speculation centred on whether this was at long last Prince Regent's year.

Veteran racing writers said they could recall no sharper over-night shortening of odds for a major race than occurred after the Wednesday midnight announcement that J.V. Rank's 13-year-old Irish jumper definitely would run.

The call-over at London's Victoria Club last night saw odds against Prince Regent close to 14-1. Earlier this week at least two bets of £1,000 ($4,000) to win against Prince Regent were placed at the Victoria Club.

Racing experts here predicted that by tonight's final call-over (12:30 p.m. EST) at the club, there would be a Britain wide rush to get on Prince Regent.

They conceded some of this admittedly was sentimental, but it might oust Silver Flame, at 10 to 1, from the favorite's role. Silver Flame is owned by Lord Bicester, the international baker.

Prince Regent, favored both in 1946 and 1947, finished fourth last year and third in 1946, tiring under top weight while negotiating the 30 tough fences of the famed 4 1-2 mile Aintree course.

Surprisingly yesterday brought no scratches from the field of 46, although a couple may pull out yet.

OUR PHYSICAL ABILITIES

He may be physically handicapped, but he isn't vocationally handicapped if placed in a job where remaining abilities are used. It's not what he has lost—but what he has left that counts.

A recent survey among Canadian employers confirms that physically-handicapped workers are: efficient from the employers' standpoint; are less vulnerable to accidents; have excellent records of output and attendance; and can successfully compete with the able-bodied when properly placed.

From January, 1946, to November, 1947, more than 26,500 jobs were filled by handicapped personnel in Canada through the Special Placements Division of National Employment Service.

108 MILLION DOLLARS

...blessing or boomerang?

During 1948 Ottawa will pay back this tremendous total to individual Canadians in the form of refunds on 1942 Income Tax (Compulsory Savings) and as cash for War Savings Certificates maturing during the year. Some of this money may be coming to you.

EXTRA MONEY is always useful, and in homes across Canada these payments will be welcomed as valuable additions to income.

But the catch is that this additional spending power, if translated into immediate buying, would almost certainly drive present prices still higher and increase your own cost of living.

It is, therefore, wise, if your budget permits, to defer your spending, putting the money instead into the purchase of additional CANADA SAVINGS BONDS.

Never forget, the money you have coming to you as a Tax Refund, or as the proceeds from War Savings Certificates, is the fruit of your wartime saving effort. It represents a cash asset; think twice before you spend it.

Canada Savings Bonds can be purchased over the counter at any branch of The Royal Bank of Canada. You can buy them outright for cash, or if you wish, use the proceeds of your government cheque as a down payment for bonds to be paid for by instalments. The procedure is simplicity itself. Our nearest branch will look after all details for you.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

BY GEORGE H. CARVER, Sports Editor.

There is absolutely no truth in the rumor, Maestro Walter Gerow, Memorial Arena impressario said today, that the Stirling Village Council had reserved space in the north end of the ice palace for the village Community Hall for tonight's hockey classic between the Midget "C's" of that thriving rural metropolis and the Port Dalhousie stalwarts of tender age.

But according to our operator in the village, the Community Hall, the bank and the highway will be the only things left at home when the Hermiston prides take the ice in their first game for the OMHA Ontario Midget "C" championship battle. He reports that the exodus tonight will be a cavalcade that will make Nap's retreat from Stalinville look like the Lone Ranger minus Tonto. In fact, he goes on, by the time the northern safaris arrive on the outskirts of the village, the motorcade will extend so far, that it will be able to move just a car-length at a time, greater speed being contingent on the rate at which the Belleville Arena box-office staff can handle the crowd.

The doughty villagers, are coming in trucks, buckboards, buggies, Fords 1904 vintage, wagons, perambulators, snowplows, mowers, and red flannel underwear. From the rich fertile farmlands of the rural districts, they'll arrive in their 1947 Cadillacs, Chevrolets, cornbinders, and if there's not room, the excess residents will mount trusty Dobbins, and do a Paul Revere so as not to miss the thrill of seeing their beardless puck prides in titular action.

Yep, its Town Hall tonight in Memorial Arena. And a word to the city-slicker wise. Don't criticise these Stirling kids no matter what they do, if you're within listening distance of a Stirling stalwart, unless you smile when you say it. For the Stirlingites take their hockey seriously, and no dag-nabbed white-collar jerk from the caverns and ravines of Front Street, is going to poke fun at the lads, while they're around.

But there won't be much danger of that. For those who haven't seen these village puck-chasing half-pints in action, there's a hockey treat in sight. They're sixty-minute men every one of them and you show me a team that plays one line-up the full three periods, in Canada, and you'll be the owner of the new cocktail lounge in Lower Slobbovia.

They've got speed, guts, courage and ability to burn. They start off like a house afire, and finish when the shack is half-burned down. They take 'em on large, small, round, flat, long, short, flat, skinny, fussy and indifferent. Opposing players are just a "buncha guys" who are in the way. Brush 'em aside and there's goals to be scored. And that is what these Stirling ice-burners do, especially when the chips are down. Tonight you'll see them at their best against the toughest opposition they have met in what should be the miniature hockey epic of the season.

The trim Hastings County village is more hockey-minded in these days when the rest of we winter-weary guys are beginning to think of zephyr-like breezes; shady trees, a trout flashing from a silver stream; holes-in-thirteen on lush-grassed links; the shouts of "Play Ball", raking lawns, and planting seeds (garden, that is), then ever in its long history. Stalin can grab all of Europe he wants; the income taxes can be upped forty per cent; butter can jump to a buck a pound; Tweed can have its local sudseries; a third world war may be imminent; the rest of the world can have its New Look and Gable and Garbo can make a personal appearance in Shannonville. Purely elementary to the village Hockey Holmes.

But mention names like Mason, McNamara, etc. and the villagers nostrils flare with nostalgic fire. Their eyes take on a patriotic gleam and there is fervor in their voices. For, brother, you're talking about the best danged team of hockey moppets that ever came down the pike, and that goes for St. Mikes, Winnipeg Monarchs, and the rest of the ruddy-cheeked nonvoters whose names and feats are hockey history.

And the fame of the kids has extended far beyond the sloping hills that fringe the village. Into the hinterlands of Hastings has gone the story of their hockey prowess, and the good burghers and their ladies in these sections, Semper Fidelis, will be here tonight en masse to cheer the kids to victory.

Demand for tickets from the rural sections has been exceptional. Stirling itself, would have taken the whole dag-nabbed lot, if given the opportunity. From a distant settlement that is nearer Bancroft, than Belleville, came an urgent request for fifteen seats, yesterday afternoon.

"Sorry, we haven't that many seats left," said the courteous voice of the salesman via telephone.

"We gotta have 'em that's all," replied the anxious voice from afar.

The salesmen took another tack. "Why there's only six folks in your community," he ventured.

"Yeah, so there is, but my in-laws are here and that boosts the population to fifteen. Its the only way I can get rid of 'em. I take 'em to Belleville to the hockey game, and they'll get so danged excited they'll forget where the truck is and we can leave 'em there. Have a heart, willya neighbor?" pleaded the voice.

Referees Speedy St. Louis and Maurice Walsh, the latter of Newmarket, are busier these days than the proverbial one-armed gent with the hives, The two arbiters took off for Lindsay yesterday afternoon where they officiated at the playoff game between the Peterborough Legion and Hank Goldup's Toronto Flyers (nee Q and L, whatever these letters represent.) The arbiting duo is gaining a reputation in these parts as efficient officials, at least the OHA thinks so, or they wouldn't be sent to "cover" important playoff games. They call 'em close, and that's what keeps a game under control. Rinkside critics have castigated this pair of whistle-tooters, but it all adds up to whose ox is being gored, or which team draws the penalty.

Hornets Move Into Second Place West Division

(By The Canadian Press)

Pittsburgh Hornets moved into undisputed possession of second place in the American Hockey League's western division last night, thanks to a four goal rally in the final period that gave the Wasps a 5-1 victory over Buffalo.

The Hornets, loop leaders most of the season, showed some of their early season form in the last period after putting on a weak exhibition in the first two periods. The victory left them 10 points behind the leading Cleveland Barons.

At Providence, the Reds, eastern loop leaders, overpowered the fast fading Hershey Bears 7-1. Veteran Johnny Chad paced the Providence attack with a brace of tallies while Whitey Prokop, Chuck Scherza, Harvey Fraser, Harry Taylor and Jack Stoddard netted one each. Gordie Bruce provided the only Hershey goal.

In the only other game played last night, Indianapolis Capitols whipped the luckless St. Louis Flyers 7-4. Cliff Simpson picked up three goals for Caps while Barry Sullivan dented the twine twice, Tony Licari and Paul Couture scored one each. Bill McComb led the Flyers attack with two goals while Hec Pozzo and Eddie Olson picked up one apiece.

Buffalo is at Washington in tonight's only game.

Playoff Berths Now Decided

(By The Associated Press)

The playoff births in the United States Hockey League were filled last night. Minneapolis, Kansas City and Omaha will represent the northern division, and it's Houston, Fort Worth and Tulsa in the south.

Tulsa on Clint Smith's second period goal, knocked Dallas out of the post -season competition last night with a 1-0 victory at Tulsa.

At Fort Worth Houston Huskies and the Rangers wound up their regular season rivalry with a 5-5 overtime tie.

Fort Worth had a two-goal lead going into the third period, but Houston's Hub Macey dumped in two goals to make it 4-4. Jack Giesbrecht added another for Houston with just a little more than a minute of the overtime gone, and Rudy Brodeur came back with the final goal for Dallas two minutes later.

O.H.A. President Denies Statement C.A.H.A. Official

(By The Canadian Press)

George Panter, president of the O. H. A., yesterday took exception to recommendations of William Northey of Montreal that the Allan and Memorial Cups be retired to Hockey's Hall of Fame because they no longer represent amateur competition. "Not that I am denying there is professionalism as it is known in amateur hockey, but it would be too, a tacit admission that there is no amateur hockey. That isn't so."

"People are always screaming about amateur players receiving pay for their play," he said. "We know they are receiving pay. We have known it for years. So what? How about the thousands who don't receive pay?" He said that almost 25,000 players are registered with the O. H. A. and that most of them, perhaps 80 to 90 per cent don't receive a direct dime.

He said the O. H. A. was not afraid of taxation should the word "amateur" by stricken from the organization but it would hardly be fair to tax the little communities which annually go into the hole on hockey operation. "Frankly we need a special rules for senior "A" and junior "A" hockey and at the next rules meeting that will be the main bout," he said.

J. D. (Buzz) Harvey of Toronto, fourth year chemistry student at Ontario Agricultural College, has been awarded the Wildman Trophy, presented to the senior student adjudged to have the best combined qualities of sportsmanship and academic efficiency. The trophy perpetuates the memory of the late Ted Wildman, rated one of the outstanding athletes in the history of the college. J. A. Shivas of Sarnia received special mention.

Officials of the Ontario Schoolboys' Bonspiel at Guelph are swamped with a flood of entries exceeding the 32 rinks that can be accommodated. Many entry applications have been refused during the last few days and the draw from a list of more than 50 rinks still has to be made. The event will be held April 1-2.

Jack Kramer made it nine straight victories over Bobby Riggs last night at Atlanta, Ga., in their 50th meeting of the current tour of tennis professionals 6-4, 6-4. It was Kramer's 34th victory of the tour.

RCAF Flyers, Canada's Olympic hockey champions, weary after a strenuous exhibition tour of Europe, last night lost a 5-3 decision to Wembley All-Stars at Wembley Arena before a crowd of 10,000.

The Flyers went into an early two-goal lead but the All-Stars, Canadians from the Wembley Monarchs and Lions teams, scored three quick goals midway through the final period and were never headed.

The Ontario School for the Deaf Belleville, basketballers, C. O. S. A.'s girls' junior champions, are ready for action as they tangle at Toronto with teams from Lake Ontario, Georgian Bay and Niagara districts. Team members are: Gertrude McCourt, Kingston; Rose Chupik, Oshawa; Jeannine Gravelle, Ottawa; Jean Laidlaw, Toronto; Lula Cayer, Cornwall; Lula Vervis, Guelph; Delores Henault, Woodstock; Emily Wilson, Calabogie, and Dorothy Parks, Turiff.

Jack McKee's Montreal Heather rink gave an almost perfect display of curling yesterday to wallop R. Haworth's Drummondville, Que., quartet 17-1 in the first round match of the Lord Elgin Trophy competition at Montreal. F. T. Lamb's Kingston rink whipped Dr. R. J. McCallum of London, Ont. 24-10. Lamb also played to a 14-14 tie with E. L. Gallagher's rink, for an impressive showing.

George J. McKercher, 57, a professional dog handler and breeder of old English sheep dogs died last night at Great Barrington, Mass. He was a native of Winchester, Ont.

Sport Promotion Given a Lift By New Bill

Toronto, March 19 — (CP) — Professional athletic contests which direct all proceeds to charity will be exempt from provincial taxation under a bill given first reading in the Ontario Legislature yesterday.

At present a certain amount of proceeds from professional athletic contests are marked for promotion of amateur sport in Ontario. If the minister is satisfied that all proceeds are going to charity he will have power to return this share.

Under an amendment to the Police Act, the Attorney General would be given the right to waive collection from municipalities of the cost of special provincial police services.

At present municipalities are required to pay cost of special police services undertaken by the provincial police. They must also pay some of investigations into police matters.

The amendments, introduced by Attorney General Blackwell, relieves them of such costs. If they are not relieved the amount will be recoverable from municipal subsidies due them.

The police bill is similar to one amending the Fire Department's Act, also introduced by the Attorney-General.

They give the Ontario government the right to withhold any of its grants to a municipality which refuses to carry out the provisions of an agreement or award made in respect to the police and fire departments.

An example of this might be a situation where police or fire fighters ask for a wage increase and it is approved by an arbitration board. If the municipality were to refuse to pay the increase then the province could force the issue by wihtholding money from the municipality until it agreed to the ruling.

Two Goalies Have Chance For $1,000 and N.H.L. Title As League Schedule Winds Up

(By The Canadian Press)

Two goalies will be on the spot—with a chance for $1,000 dangling within reach of their capable hands—when Detroit Red Wings and Toronto Maple Leafs battle it out this weekend for the National Hockey League championship and the Prince of Wales trophy.

The $1,000 goes with the Vezina trophy, awarded to the goalkeeper "who has played the most games for the team having the fewest goals scored against it" during the regular league schedule. Both Turk Broda of the Leafs and Harry Lumley of Wings have a chance at it, each with a goals-against record of 138.

Last night President Clarence Campbell of the N.H.L. said at Montreal that in event of a tie the Vezina trophy would be of dual ownership for a year and the $1,000 would be split. The only time Broda ever won it, back in 1941, he edged out another Detroit netminder, Johnny Mowers.

And as the league leaders moved to give battle in one of the most crucial weekend doubleheaders in big-time hockey history, it was reported from St. Catharines, Ont., that penalty-killing ace Joe Klukay of the Leafs had a 60-40 chance of playing at Toronto, Saturday.

Klukay, an expert at tying up the opposition when his team is short-handed suffered a knee injury in a Wednesday practice but heat treatments in hospital seemed to be bringing it around. Leafs will decide Saturday afternoon whether he can play at Toronto or in the return game Sunday at Detroit.

Canadiens Out

In other games, Montreal Canadiens play Chicago Black Hawks at Montreal Saturday and Bruins at Boston Sunday. The Habitants lost their last mathematical chance to make the four-team loop playoffs when New York Rangers defeated the Hawks Wednesday night.

The other Sunday game sees the Hawks taking on Rangers at New York as the N.H.L. regular schedule winds up.

And as the Leafs, Rangers, Bruins and Red Wings head toward the start of the Stanley Cup playoffs March 24, it was announced that the ancient trophy has been given a face-lifting.

Oldest trophy in professional competition in North America, the emblem of world hockey championship has pyramided since its donation by Governor-General Lord Stanley in 1893 for amateur contention. But a Toronto announcement said two silversmiths completed hours of work to give it a rebuilt base.

Winners' names were inscribed in sequence and ample space was left for future winners. Leafs won it last year.

Training Camp Notes

New York, March 19 (AP) — Philadelphia Athletics, after several days of ironing out flaws, swing back into their exhibition schedule with a game against Toronto at West Palm Beach, Fla., today, Memphis tomorrow, and the Phillies Sunday.

Almost certain to see action in one game is Joe Coleman, formerly of Toronto, only Athletic hurler to go five innings thus far.

Detroit Tigers were beset with a rash of minor injuries today. Manager Steve O'Neill is sidelined with his annual sore ankle, outfielder Vic Wertz hurt his ankle sliding, Bob Swift has been out since Monday with a sore throat, and three others have sore arms.

Pittsburgh Pirates figure they're a sure thing to wind up in the first division this year. Why? Because of Johnny Hopp.

Johnny is starting his ninth season in the majors and has yet to finish out of the money.

By WILFRED GRUSON
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Toronto, March 19 (CP)—Principally because the welfare of the game was involved, there definitely is just about complete agreement among the public and sports writers that the two principals in the National Hockey League's recent gambling probe deserved the punishment handed out by President Clarence Campbell.

Nevertheless, many persons cannot help feel somewhat sympathetic for the pair—Billy Taylor of New York Rangers, expelled for life for betting on a game and associating with a known gambler and criminal, and Don Gallinger of Boston Bruins, suspended indefinitely for associating with the same individual.

To many it was tough to see them go out that way, for the 28-year-old Taylor was in the twilight of his career after being a top-notch star for years and Gallinger, only 22, had a promising future ahead of him.

No Other Choice

From what the evidence revealed and in the light of past experience and the emphasis that the league had placed on its warning that it would not tolerate such conduct, there was no other course Campbell could take besides punishing Taylor and Gallinger the way he did.

Be that as it may, a point that has been taken up in some quarters is whether the league itself is not somewhat to blame to allow such a condition to arise.

In this connection and pointing out that he was not "wielding any white-wash brush" since Taylor comes from his city, George (Oshawa Times-Gazette) Campbell wrote: "The game is bigger than any individual and if this is the first move (and it's certainly overdue and greatly needed) to wipe out the stigma that comes to a game when known individuals of dubious character are fraternizing with players, then it's a step in the right direction.

"But the boys who have ballyhooed hockey to such money-making heights by arousing the public to intense interest will have to use more action and not merely words to convince that same public that the game is above reproach."

Plea For Tolerance

George expressed approval of the manner in which the N.H.L. President handled the case but added that "N.H.L. hockey is 'big business' and in big business, many instances of 'sharp' or shrewd practice are condoned when similar procedure by 'the little man' or by an amateur hockey player would be considered a sin."

Apart from this angle, George is of the opinion that in Oshawa, from where Taylor rose to stardom in his first year in the N.H.L. direct from the junior ranks and where he stayed to establish his family and a business and become a member of the community, "there should be room for more tolerance and understanding than can likely be expected elsewhere."

A person cannot flout authority and not expect to be disciplined, wrote George, but "we in Oshawa in particular, should bear in mind that no law of society was broken, nobody but himself was really 'hurt' by his activities and the only evidence proclaimed is that a player bet on a hockey game in which he himself was not participating."

Cleveland Barons Unbeaten in Last 25 Outings

(By The Canadian Press)

Those Cleveland Barons just keep on rolling along.

Undefeated in their last 25 outings, the American Hockey League's hottest team on record, walked off with another triumph last night, dumping the hapless St. Louis Flyers 6-1 to increase their lead in the western section to an even dozen points.

Led by high-scoring Eldy Kobussen with two goals and a pair of assists, Springfield Indians edged New Haven Ramblers 6-4. Bill Summerhill also scored a pair of tallies for the Indians while Wimpy Jones and Bill Gooden each counted once. Jack Gordon tallies two for New Haven markers, with Dunc Fisher and Mickey Mackintosh connecting for the others.

In the only other game last night, Hershey Bears downed Philadelphia 6-4. Rody McLenahan, Jack McGill, Armand Gaudreault, Frank Mario, Herb Cain and Pentto Lund scored one each for Hershey. Steve Wochy, Phil Narduzzi, Johnny Mahaffy and George Defelice were the Rocket goal-getters.

Tonight sees St. Louis at Indianapolis, Buffalo at Pittsburgh and Hershey at Providence.

FISHING TUGS BATTLE WITH ICE FLOES

Kingsville, March 18 — (CP)—Four fishing tugs with 20 men aboard, trapped two miles west of Point Pelee last night, reached port early this morning and shortly after went out into Lake Erie again.

Battling heavy ice floes, the tugs tried to make Kingsville harbor last night but radioed they would be in port by 9 p. m. and that the ice was exceptionally heavy.

Later in the evening they radioed again saying it would be impossible to reach Kingsville because of ice and darkness.

Shawinigan Falls Evens Series With Ottawa Senators

(By The Canadian Press)

Shawinigan Falls Cataracts defeated Ottawa Senators 4-2 last night to even their best of seven Quebec Senior Hockey League semi-final series at two games apiece. Quebec Aces went one up in their best-of-three semi-final round by trouncing Valleyfield Braves 7-2.

In the Shawinigan - Ottawa tilt veteran Hal Dewey paced the winners with two goals while Eddie Theberge and Alfie Webster counted one each. George Greene and Lude Check scored the Senator counters.

MAN ADMITS MARRYING HIS GRANDDAUGHTER; BOTH ARE CHARGED

B.C.I. Takes On Copper Cliff In O.S.S.A. Tourney

Kingston, March 19. (CP)—Copper Cliff Collegiate pucksters, northern champions of the Ontario Secondary Schools Hockey Association, enter the Provincial playoffs here tonight as odds-on favorites to knock off the central champions of Belleville Collegiate.

But the outcome of the second match, in which Kingston Collegiate and Vocational Institute meets Lowe Vocational School of Windsor, is anybody's guess. Kingston, Eastern Champions and yet to play a scheduled game, are an unknown quantity. Windsor, Western representatives, meanwhile have shown themselves fast and strong.

Dedicate Woodlands To National Service

London, March 19 — (CP) — Britain's forests and woodlands are to be managed for the benefit of the nation. A scheme was published recently by the forestry commission whereby owners can make over their plantations to the state by deed of agreement. In return they receive financial assistance equal to 25 per cent of expenditure until the woodlands become self-supporting.

This ensures that Britain's 2,000,000 acres of privately - owned forests will be maintained in a way as to make the largest possible contribution to the country's timber supplies.

Rookies to Get Chance at Opening Baseball Season

Tampa, Fla., March 19 (AP)—Time was when a first-year player found it almost impossible to break into a regular Major League baseball lineup. Today, each of the 10 clubs training in Florida has at least one good-looking rookie slated to open the 1948 season as a full-time performer. Some even have two.

The best of the freshmen crew appear to be Curt Simmons of Philadelphia Phillies, Alvin Dark, Boston Braves; Virgil Stallcup, Cincinnati Reds; Lou Brissie, Philadelphia Athletics; Clarence Beers, St. Louis Cardinals; and Gil Coan, Washington Senators.

Other freshmen who probably will make the grade include first baseman Paul Campbell and Geo. Vico of Detroit; catcher Gus Niarhos, New York Yankees; second baseman Al Kozar, Senators; outfielders Duke Snider and Dick Whitman, Brooklyn; Outfielder Hank Sauer and pitchers Gerald Staley and Al Papai, Cardinals.

Simmons, the 18-year-old "boy wonder," has been hailed by all who have seen him pitch as a sure-fire big league star of tomorrow. Handed a bonus of $60,000 last June, the left-handed Simmons won 13 and lost five in Wilmington last season and defeated New York Giants 3-1 in his only big league start.

VATICAN NEWSPAPERS VIEW OF SITUATION

Vatican City, March 18 (AP)—The Vatican newspaper, L'Osservatore Romano, said today the world is back again "in the centuries of 'if you want peace, prepare for war'."

This, said the editorial, was "the only principle that was valid in a non-Christian civilization." Christianity, on the other hand, was portrayed as espousing the principle: "If you want peace, prepare for peace."

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

The squeeze ulay in bridge is new only in name. Whist players have been using this play for more than 400 years. Only they gave it another handle.

During the four centuries or more, experts kept talking about and showing the play now called squeeze. But only the most skilled seemed to understand them. None taught the play in simple enough form for beginners.

My son and I sought to evolve the easiest possible rule for a squeeze. We made an effort to prepare some kind of a guide that would help players follow its needs.

Our research brought to light that a squeeze play had only five basic items. Following our custom with bridge rules, we listed these items in their order with a fitting guide word.

In their order the five basic items are: Promotion (cards), reduction (cards), entry (card), squeezee (person), squeeze card. To plan a squeeze, look for the five items in that order.

The guide word we discovered is appropriate, a natural. It is the word Press. P for promotion, R for reduction, E for entry, S

The squeeze play in bridge is As if made to order.

Thus we gave the world an elementary guide for a squeeze play. Save it for a souvenir. After I become sufficiently famous, you may want to show it to your great grandchildren.

Let me warn you again that a squeeze is no easy task to learn. It takes some players years and years to acquire the experience necessary to apply it confidently. But Press will help.

The Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, March 19. (AP)—Following an extended illness, Errol Flynn is back at work and as dashing as ever in his maroon tights.

Errol has four weeks of fencing and action scenes to do for "Don Juan" and then he'll take off for the West Indies again. He describes the picture as "twice as hard as any I've ever done before," but seems to be enjoying himself. I saw him kidding with some fellow actors, who nave nicknamed him "P-38." It seems a recent magazine article referred to him as a paunchy 38. (Actually, he looks pretty trim.)

Double Trouble

Lon Chaney will appear as two monsters in "Abbott and Costello meet Frankenstein". Glenn Strange, playing Frakenstein's monster, broke his foot while trying to throw an actress thru a window. So Lon, who is the wolf man, slipped on Strange's mask and completed the scene. You won't know the difference on the screen. . .

Winnipeg's Deanna Durbin yearsn for a songless movie. She would like to do a straight dramatic role, but adds, "I'm afraid neither U-I nor the fans would permit it." She thinks her next after "Washington Girl" will be a lavish color musical ("Bloomer Girl"?) which the studio shelved when the British tax was levied. . . .

The British tax settlement is easing many tight conditions here. Actors expect their situation to be much better, and several stars are trying for new and better contracts from their studios. Yep, it looks as though the panic is over. . .

LIGHT GRAIN USERS

Distillers in the United States use less than one per cent of the country's total grain crop.

AT THE BELLE — Like many other men Tom Conway discovers that a bowtie needs a woman's touch. The woman is Joan Leslie and the scene is from the romantic drama "Repeat Performance," featuring Louis Hayward and Richard Basehart, new star discovery, in the film which tells the story of a woman who wins the right to re-live the most exciting year of her life. "Banjo" is the second feature closing at the Belle tonight.

'Hour of Decision' To Defeat Reds Declares Chiang

Nanking, March 18 —(AP)— Chiang Kai-Shek said today this is "the hour of decision" in the government's campaign to defeat the Communists in Central China.

"Unless an all-out effort is made to turn the tide of war in Central China, the last reservoir of Kuomintang (government party) power faces complete collapse," he told a conference of military leaders and governors of six central provinces.

Chiang's pessimism surprised neutral observers. There has been little news of fighting in that area for weeks. It apparently has been overshadowed by government defeats in Manchuria, marked by the recent fall of the big cities of Szepingkai and Kirinjm.

Pro-government dispatches to Peiping reported the Communists were converging on isolated Changchun from every direction.

Seek to Stop Racket In Aussie Fisheries

Sydney, Australia, (CP)—Efforts are being made to extend the control of Australian territorial waters to fishing grounds beyond the three-mile limit.

The external affairs and commerce departments are examining the proposal to make sure it can be done without a breach of international law.

The proposal, if it becomes law, would prevent fishermen from other countries operating in Australian waters without special permission from the federal government.

It is believed to have been put forward as a result of a racket involving "unknown" persons who are demanding protection money from small-time fishermen operating in the fishing grounds outside the three-mile limit.

The racketeers wrecked the nets of fishermen who refused to pay, and in one nistance attacked a fisherman with a rifle after he refused to pay or leave the area.

State governments deal with any trouble if it happens within the three-mile limit but they can do nothing to offenders once they are outside Australian territorial waters.

The federal government probably will seek power to control the fishing grounds off the eastern seaboard for that reason.

VARIES ONLY FEW INCHES

Brantford, March 18 — (CP) — Minor flood level of the Grand River at Brantford has varied by only a few inches in the last 24 hours, and a heavy run-off was still continuing this afternoon without carrying any threat of serious flooding in this locality.

At the Grand Valley dam near Fergus the temperature at 8 o'clock this morning was 30 degrees. With a rise expected during the day, continuing sunshine was expected to bring more ice down the river.

New Zealand Wool At Record Prices

Auckland, N. Z., March 19 — (CP) — Present high world wool prices are bringing prosperity to New Zealand's sheep farmers. Wool has always been one of New Zealand's chief exports but the return to the grower has never been as high as at present.

It is expected that the Dominion's total wool clip this season will realize more than $100,000,000, which is double the 1939 - 40 return and over three times that of 1938-39.

Top prices in New Zealand this season have not been nearly as high as in Australia because New Zealand does not grow the finest grade Merino wool. New Zealand farmers concentrate on breeds more suitable to local conditions and these have been developed to a standard where they pay far better than would concentration on breeds producing the highest grade wool.

HANDFUL OF STARS

By Margaret Gorman Nichols

In complete understanding their eyes met. "There are no stars tonight," Stephen said. "Tell me, Lyle, what did you mean that day when you said something about—touching the stars."

"I've always thought that falling in love would be like touching the stars. Sometimes at night when the stars seemed close, I'd want to reach out and touch them. I thought when you fell in love you'd climb high enough to do that. And I did—the second night I saw Jeff and knew I was in love with him." Shaking her head slowly, she turned and looked out the window, seeing nothing except the thick milky fog. "You're perfectly right. Tonight there are no stars. I couldn't see them if they were there—for the fog." Then her voice broke. "Don't you see? That's the way I am tonight, Stephen? I can't see through the fog! I don't know where I'm going. And the stars are farther away than they've ever been. Oh, Stephen!"

He put his arms around her and held her against him, thinking that this was not the first time he had held her because Jeff had failed her. And the first time it had been because of Troy. Too.

He said, "Tell me the truth, Lyle. How has Jeff been living—on your money?"

She caught her breath. How did he know? No use to lie or defend. Not to Stephen. "I don't know, she said. "I've been giving him money every week to put in the bank for our joint account. He has the bank book. I won't accuse him of spending it because I'm not certain. Even if he has, I know he thinks he'll put it back when he's working. He's too proud to tell me. I don't mind that. Stephen, you—you don't want me to marry Jeff, do you?"

She broke away and looked up at him. Her lashes were wet.

Gently Stephen put his hand under her chin and tilted her face.

"I want you to have love and happiness," he said. "One usually thinks of the two as being synonymous. But they aren't — as you've discovered. You're in love but you aren't happy because your faith has been shaken. Lyle, I want you to have love and happiness because you're—you're.... "

He took her close again and with one hand pressed her head against him. Suddenly he had not been able to go on! Suddenly he knew that he loved her. Suzanne had said Jeff loved Lyle more than he had ever loved any one in his life! It was not Jeff—it was he, Stephen! And though the realization was sudden, falling in love with her had not been for it had been happening to him from the beginning and it had the solid foundation of laughter and friendship! And all along it had not been the talented artist who had intrigued him but Lyle herself, her loveliness, the way she smiled, the way she gestured with her hands, the clear young voice in which she spoke....It was Lyle, her auburn head pressed against him now, her arms clinging to him, whom he loved and wanted more than he had ever loved or wanted any one in his life.

What do you do when you fall in love with a girl who is engaged to another man, a man unworthy? Stephen thought, "To Lyle I'm a tweed shoulder to go to sleep on and to cry on. And that's all I am or ever shall be as long as she loves Jeff—which will probably be forever."

He asked, "Is there anything I can do, Lyle?" He had an impulse to tell her about Jeff, all about his lies and schemes and drinking. And though it was probably the honest thing to do, he couldn't tell her. He thought, "I want to protect you against yourself. But you wouldn't understand that."

"You've already done so much for me," Lyle said. She straightened. Her eyes were clear again. "Stephen, everything has gone wrong since Jeff has been idle. Men can't stand idleness. They..."

"I promised to get Jeff a job, and I will." Quite well he understood Jeff's going back to Troy. She restored Jeff's dented ego. And Jeff liked being seen with a girl who was rich and popular. Moreover, Stephen, who knew him so well, knew how difficult it was for Jeff to say no to anything that amused and flattered him. Driving to Boston in Troy's elegant car had been an adventure to Jeff who, until he had known Lyle, had flitted from one gay adventure to another. About Troy, Stephen thought as Suzanne did: "She's still in love with him." There was no denying Jeff's charm and attraction for girls.

Suzanne first saw the top of Lyle's silver sandal on the stairs, then the hem of her silver dress, then Lyle, and then Stephen, frowning. And over Lyle's head Stephen looked directly at her and in that look Suzanne knew he was telling her that what he had vehemently denied and even faintly ridiculed that day in his office—was true. That steady look said, "I love her. She's the girl in the tower who needs to be rescued, I love her. and I can't get to her, Suzanne! I can't reach her!"

Suzanne and Stephen were the last to go upstairs that night.

Stephen said soberly, "It seems rather a bad joke on me that I'm going to get Jeff a job so he and Lyle can be married. I smooth the way for the girl I love to marry another man. Wasn't she lovely tonight? And tonight I remember that she's always been lovely and tonight I remember every time I've seen her and everything we've said to each other. And of all the girls I've known it's finally little red-headed Lyle Marsh. And nothing I can do or say will ever make her think of me as anything but a—a vice-president."

She looked into the fire. "Have you noticed my thouhtfulness tonight? It was just seven years ago tonight that Walter Harris and I came to the end of the only love I've ever had."

He frowned. "Walter Harris? So that's who it was!"

"Did you know him? After all these years I feel I can safely mention his name to you." She liked to say his name and saying it brought him close and clear again—his tallness, his hair prematurely mixed with gray, his brown eyes.

Stephen looked at her kindly. "Of course I knew him before he went west to live. Oh, I see. That's why he went—because you and he...." Then he took her hand. "Do you know that his wife died recently? Did you know her? I heard it just the other day."

Her eyes opened wide. "Her name was Claire Ferry. I never knew her but I saw her picture in the papers when he married her—three days after tonight seven years ago. So Walter is free. "

"Perhaps he'll come east again and...."

"Don't say it, Stephen! Don't think it! Don't let me!"

"But if he should, being one of the most successful business women in New York wouldn't mean anything, would it?"

She smiled. "How well you know women, Stephen."

There was a passionately devoted letter from Jeff when Lyle returned with Suzanne from Stephen's Christmas party. How he missed her, how dull it was at home, how he loved her! Lyle was standing in the living-room still wearing her coat and hat and with the mud of Connecticut still on her shoes when she read it. Read it, not believing it was dull in Boston with Troy there! Jeff was lying. Suddenly she felt almost sick and hated her mind for its honesty.

Bonnie and Mike were home and in bed. Lyle went at once to her room but could not sleep for vivid mental pictures of Jeff and Troy together at parties in Boston Jeff, gay again, his black eyes bright with warmth....And all she could think of was what she had thought the night he asked her to marry him—"I love him. I love him so."

Bonnie was arranging long-stemmed red roses in a tall blue vase when Lyle came home the next night.

Flags of color waved briefly in Bonnie's face. "From an old boy friend in Baltimore," she said, smiling. "Harry Bruce. I saw him at parties at home. He wanted to come up and take me out on New Year's Eve. But I told him not to come. He's become very successful since I knew him back in high school." Gently her hand cupped one of the roses. "It's no new romance, Lyle. There never will be a new romance for me, ever. I'm married and I'll stay married until Michael wants it otherwise. Now tell me about your holiday in Connecticut. Are you sure that Stephen Tennant isn't a little in love with you?"

"Stephen?" Lyle's quick laugh ridiculed such an idea. "No! He thinks I'm a child. He thinks of me as an artist, not a girl."

Stephen telephoned Lyle one evening that week.

"I've made a connection for Jeff," he said and told her the name of the company. "I've recommended him and explained that he was not to know I had made the connection for him. I confess it required a few lies but I think Jeff will be placed. The rest I leave up to you."

How curt and businesslike he sounded. "Thank you, Stephen. I'll take care of the rest."

She went back to her room to work on a painting for Mrs. Nash.

In his apartment Stephen extinguished a cigarette with a firm, angry hand. Lyle was home, working no doubt while Jeff was in Boston spending her money on Troy! Jeff was playing while Lyle was working and while he, Stephen, had been communicating with influential friends all week! And in all probability she wouldn't even mention to Jeff that she knew he had been with Troy. Happy to see him, close in Jeff's arms, his greeting kiss fresh and sweet on her mouth, Lyle would want no scene, no quarrel, to spoil his return.

All through that festive holiday week Stephen thought of her, knowing that for her it was not a festive week but a dull and lonely one. A week of waiting, a week of visualizing Jeff with another girl. And still Jeff retained her love. Still her loyalty was unshaken. There were many stories of great loves and great loyalties of which one never heard.

And now he felt an incompleteness and loneliness he had never felt before. Suddenly his comfortable, successful, amusing life had been reduced to loose ends and ragged edges. And his mind that week, no matter where he was, continually strayed to a slender auburn-haired girl working at her drawing-board—while every one else wined and dined and the man she loves had put several hundred miles between her and himself! The unfairness of it! He loathed his helplessness. But in this he felt defeated.

Lyle waited and worked and played with little Mike and talked cheerfully to Bonnie. One night she called her mother in Florida and felt better when Mrs. Nash told her she had felt better this winter than she had in years. Anything, so as not to think! But the days dragged with doubts and uncertainties and ugly thoughts. Such intolerably long days and nights while Jeff was in Boston — but not with his mother.

Jeff had said he was coming back on New Year's Eve and that they would celebrate together. But that day a telegram came, stating that he would not be back until the next evening. This time no excuse for him hurried to allay her hurt or to comfort her. Jeff was staying in Boston for a New Year's Eve party with Troy. It took little excuse for him to stay anywhere where there was a party.

And so on the maddest, merriest night of the year Lyle stayed in with Bonnie and went to bed long before midnight brought the new year. But she did not sleep until the new year was several hours old for thinking of Jeff and knowing that Troy was with him.

Says Braking Big Problem in Super Speed Cars

Winnipeg (CP)—When Capt. George Eyston was only 13 years old he was "speed crazy" — so much so he was arrested for speeding. Today at 50, he still is one of the world's foremost hurry-up merchants.

In 1938 on the Salt Flats of Utah, he achieved a speed of 357.5 miles an hour in his famous racer "Thunderbolt," which was lost last year in a fire at Wellington, N.Z. The mark stood until last year, when a fellow Englishman, John Cobb, boosted it to slightly fewer than 400 miles an hour.

Capt. Eyston, a director of a petroleum company which held a sales meeting here, said in an interview he was watching with keen interest the development of jet-propelled motor cars.

"Jet propulsion will greatly increase the possible speeds one may attain on land," he said. "But the big difficulty will be stopping the machine once you have it going. I have thought of counter propulsion as a medium."

Jet-propelled aircraft have unlimited space in which to curtail their speed. But land craft must take many factors into consideration.

"The curvature of the earth's surface is one obstacle to overcome, especially when travelling at such a high rate of speed," said Capt. Eyston. "Brakes would very easily burn out, and unless there was some other means of stopping the vehicle it would be most hazardous."

Marked by Oil Line

On his Salt Flats drive, he had a nine-inch oil line drawn over the 13-mile length of the runway.

"This enabled me to keep a steady course. If you deviate from the track you are lost," he said.

"How did he feel about speed?

"When I had finished my run at Salt Flats," replied Capt. Eyston, "I had the occasion to go to the other end of the track by passenger car. We were travelling at 60 miles an hour and I had a feeling we were stopped. I wanted to open the door and step out. No other member of my family are speedbugs. One is sufficient in any family."

During the Second World War, Capt. Eyston worked on high speed motor torpedo boats for the Royal Navy. Hhe said he expected great things in the development of British cars for export to Canada. Manufacturers were working on a streamlined, lower-priced car which should "take hold well here."

Greece Takes Step Toward Civilian Mobilization

Athens, March 18—(AP)—The Greek government took its first step today toward civilian mobilization with a measure giving cabinet ministers full power to take emergency action.

Premier Themistokles Sophoulis signed a proclamation of civil mobilization last night, empowering cabinet ministers to act. The decision was based on a compulsory law passed in 1939 and amended last year.

BELGIUM SEES CANADA A SUPERIOR COUNTRY

Winnipeg (CP)—Paul Kronacker, a member of the Belgian House of Representatives touring Canada to study possibilities of extending Belgian industry in this country, believes that prairie provinces have the best future in store of any of the provinces in Canada.

Mr. Kronacker also lists three points which, in his opinion, make Canada a "superior" country; resources scarcely scratched, superior qualities of government and hard-working people.

More Than Fifty Persons Lose Lives In U.S. Tornadoes

300 Are Injured in Gales, Property Damage in Millions

Chicago, March 20—(AP)—The death toll mounted to more than 50 today in the series of tornadoes and destructive gales which whipped across wide sections of the United States yesterday and extended into southwestern Ontario. No deaths were reported in Canada.

The wave of destruction in the United States left more than 300 injured. Hundreds were homeless. Property damage was in the millions.

The storms, striking on the last official day of winter, hit hardest in southwestern Illinois near St. Louis, where 41 were reported killed. The storm crest formed in Texas Thursday night and moved northeastward. Small tornadoes struck sections of Oklahoma and Kansas Thursday night but the twister swept with devastating force yesterday in southern Illinois.

The tornadoes or damaging winds fanned across sections of Indiana, Kentucky, Ohio, Michigan, Kansas, Pennsylvania and New York, then moved northeastward into Canada.

Four persons were killed in Ohio. Two others lost their lives in Kentucky, two in Missouri and one each in Michigan, Pennsylvania and New York.

An allotment of $250,000 was made by the American Red Cross to aid victims in Illinois, Missouri, Indiana and Ohio.

Homes, stores, factories, schools and churches fell before the smashing attack of the tornadoes and gale-like winds. Drenching rains throughout the storm belt added to the suffering and damage. Some towns in Illinois were isolated. Travel was impeded and communications disrupted in many areas.

Illinois Community Suffers

Four small communities in Illinois, suffered the heaviest damage in loss of life and property and in the number injured.

In Bunker Hill, about 80 per cent of the town of 1,500 was flattened. The Red Cross said the death toll was 19 — the most in any of the towns smashed by the tornadoes. Property damage was estimated at $500,000.

In nearby Fosterburg 13 persons were killed, scores injured and nearly all of the town's 100 homes and stores were wrecked or damaged. Five persons lost their lives in Gillespie and the estimated property damage in the city of 4,500 was about $300,000.

The twister which struck the four communities first was reported at New Athens, Ill., where it cut a patch 300 feet wide through the business district. Tornadoes also roared through separated communities across the Mississippi River in Missouri injuring more than a score of persons.

The weather bureau described the storms as a "partly seasonal" occurrence, most common in March, April, May and June.

C.C.F. and Liberals Line Up With Government to Defeat Motion

Toronto, March 20. (CP)—Attorney General Blackwell charged in the Ontario Legislature yesterday that the two Labor-Progressive Party Representatives were trying to sabotage the Province's Liquor Control Act.

He was speaking to an L.P.P. Bill which would have given municipalities authority to object to issue of any particular cocktail bar licence within its confines.

The C.C.F. and Liberals lined up with the government in defeating the bill 63 to 2.

In the short Friday sitting the House gave second reading to 12 private bills and 10 government measures.

One government bill, the one authorizing Southern Ontario Hydro frequency sonversion, passed second reading without comment.

In committee of the House approval was given to the Industrial Standards Act amendment, giving gasoline station hour-setting authority back to the municipalities, and a bill amending the vital Statistics Act.

Congratulations Offered

On the liquor amendment, Attorney General Blackwell said that what the L.P.P. members were trying to "is to completely destroy the judicial system of dealing with liquor licences."

Premier Drew offered congratulations to the Attorney General for his arguments on the bill, stating that apparently he had influenced the opposition members to come around to the government's way of thinking on the issue.

A. A. MacLeod (L.P.P.-Toronto Bellwoods), who sponsored the bill with support of J. B. Salsberg (L. P. P.-Toronto St. Andrews), declared:

"It does seem to me that the municipalities should have prior rights in protecting the welfare and the morale of the community over which it exercises the responsibilities of government."

Liberal Opposition Leader Farquhar Oliver, although he voted against the bill, said he didn't think the broad structure of the whole act was involved in the amendment before the House.

W. J. Grummett, C.C.F. House Leader, said the municipal councils are saddled with enough work now without adding this new unnecessary field.

Coal Operators Appeal to Lewis To End Shutdown

Washington, March 20 (AP)—United States soft coal operators today appealed to John L. Lewis to end the mine shut down and offered to negotiate on his demand for miners' pensions.

They charged that the shutdown violated their work agreement with Lewis' United Mine Workers (Ind.).

Nevertheless, they did not threaten to take any legal action against Lewis or the Union. The Federal Taft-Hartley Labor Act permits damage suits for breaking contracts.

Charles O'Neill, spokesman for the major operators, said they wanted to sit down with Lewis and talk over the pension dispute. But he made it clear they would not move until he sent the 350,000 idle miners back to work.

No deadline was set for Lewis to act.

Crippled Student Wishes for Miracle, Reign of Brotherhood on Earth

New York, March 20—(CP)—Elliot Sprechman, 17-year-old crippled high school student would not choose to walk if one miracle could be performed for him.

Yesterday his wish for a miracle to bring peace to the world won him a $500 savings bond in a contest entered by more than 6,000 high school children who wrote about "The modern miracle I would like to see."

Elliot, who has suffered from infantile paralysis since infancy wrote:

"I am tempted to wish for a modern miracle to take the shape of a return to health for me so that I could walk and run the way my friends do. However, after reading each morning's newspapers I forget my disability and wish for a modern miracle that will fulfill the aims of a 1,900-year-old miracle-maker named Jesus of Nazareth.

"The modern miracle I would most like to see is the union of people everywhere in the world in a true brotherhood that will bring light and peace into the lives of all men everywhere and for all time."

RIVERS IN FLOOD WREAK HAVOC IN SOUTH ONTARIO

Blame Floods for Three Deaths, Heavy Damage

(By The Canadian Press)

Savagely destructive floods, already blamed for three deaths and damage that may reach millions of dollars, surged through at least six Ontario centres today as sections of Southern Ontario faced what may be their worst spring inundation since 1937.

A forecast of cloudy, mild weather promised no respite from the raging Thames and Maitland Rivers. Residents in the Grand River valley took fearful precautions as the stream burst its banks. At Goderich damage may reach $6,000,000 from a huge ice field which spilled from the mouth of the Maitland to grind over harbor installations.

Partially inundated early today were St. Mary's, Listowel, Mitchell, Clinton, Wingham and Grand Valley and damage was reported heavy. Scores of persons fled from their homes, rail service was suspended in some sections and buses and automobiles were left stranded.

Rail service between London and Clinton was suspended last night after a Canadian National Railways bridge was flooded. Passengers on buses travelling between Wingham and London were stranded near Clinton.

Missing and believed drowned in the ice-filled Thames were 3 Nicholls brothers, Peter, 28, Charles, 20, and Cedric, 9. They were swept downstream on a half-built raft and an eight-hour search revealed no trace of them.

Swollen by heavy rains and the first rush of the spring run-off, the ice-laden streams raced so swiftly toward Lake Erie that their flood crests caught most communities along their banks unawares.

Muddy waters rolled into dozens of houses and many persons were marooned until rescuers in rowboats reached them.

Families Taken From Homes When Grand R. Floods

Galt, March 20 — (CP) — The Grand River went on its annual rampage here during the night, and this morning Water Street from Quen Street to the southern limits became a river, flooding business blocks, stores and dwellings for a block back from the river.

A number of families were evacuated from their homes by firemen using a boat. Highway 24 to Brantford was closed to traffic with the water two to three feet deep in some sections.

Following yesterday's heavy rain the river rose steadily and about 2 o'clock this morning surged over its banks.

The fast running water poured through cellar windows and to avert possible deaths, hydro linemen cut off electric service to Riverside buildings. Police last night warned Riverside residents of the possible flood and many deserted their homes but some declined to leave but finally had to when water started running in front doors and covered the first floors.

This morning a government gauge recorded the river at 17.5 feet, five inches above normal and nearly a foot higher than it was a year ago.

While not confirmed here, it was reported that the Conestogo dam near Kitchener was washed out. It was said no water had been released from the Bellwood dam at Fergus and that flood was caused by the heavy onrush from tributaries of the Grand.

U.S. Sources Sure UN Will Accept Proposal To Abandon Partition

Lake Success, March 20 —(AP)—United States sources expressed confidence today that the United Nations will accept the surprise American proposal to abandon the Palestine partition plan.

The reversal of American policy came with dramatic suddenness late yesterday. The United States now wants a temporary U. N. trusteeship over the embattled Holy Land. A special session of the U. N. Assembly was asked immediately to approve the interim plan and consider a permanent solution.

Most delegates were stunned by the move and hurriedly cabled their governments for instructions. Russia, however, announced immediate opposition.

The Jewish agency for Palestine called the move an "amazing reversal," and added that the Jews will resist trusteeship by force.

Arab delegates said little. They still demand one independent country in Palestine but welcomed the blow to partition.

The Security Council will meet next Wednesday to start debate on the new American stand.

The United States was the strongest supporter of the partition plan when it was pushed through the Assembly, 33 to 13, last Nov. 29. At that time the Soviet Union joined with the United States in one of the rare instances of American-Russian agreement within the U. N.

It was understood here that the American decision came from the White House and was of Cabinet level.

Loophole Left

The United States statement left a loophole for the possible reinstatement of the scheme to split the Holy Land into Jewish and Arab countries by next Oct. 1. However, a high U. N. official said bluntly: "This means the end of partition."

Reports and rumors that Washington was abandoning partition have been current here for some time but in each instance the State Department has issued careful statements of denial.

Warren R. Austin, chief United States delegate, presented the proposal at a private session of the Big Five Powers and then to the council. The council was asked to call the special assembly session, endorse the interim trusteeship under the U.N. trusteeship council and instruct the U.N. Palestine commission to give up efforts to put through partition. The commission already has a small advance party in the Holy Land.

Austin anticipated Russian opposition but is understood to feel that the program is veto-proof. It was conceded that Soviet delegate Andrei A. Gromyko might exercise the big-power veto in the council to stop any of the three requests. However, alternate routes were open.

London, March 20 (AP)—The Colonial Office announced today Britain stands pat in its determination to surrender the Palestine mandate May 15.

British troops, the office said, will be pulled out not later than Aug. 1, regardless of the situation created by the withdrawal of American support for partition.

The text of the Colonial Office statement:

"The new situation created by the United States proposal is now being studied in London. Nothing in the new situation affects the determination of His Majesty's government to terminate the mandate not later than May 15 and withdraw all our troops by Aug. 1."

A Foreign Office spokesman, asked whether Britain would feel obliged to participate with other countries in a trusteeship, said that question will have to be studied.

This spokesman said:

"We tried to avoid the difficulties by a settlement which would be reasonable and acceptable to all inhabitants, both the Jews and Arabs.

"It has been our endeavor to bring about arrangements which would permit them to live and to work together."

Asked whether there is any possibility of a change in Britain's plans, the spokesman declared:

"They remain our settled policy."

"No matter what happens at Lake Success?" asked a reporter.

"There will be no deviation," he said.

May 15 Definite Date

Only yesterday the House of Commons wrote in "May 15" as the definite date for termination of the British mandate over the Holy Land.

Government sources said it was too soon to make a definite statement about Britain's position in view of the United States' sudden shift in policy.

A cabinet review of the situation is expected Monday.

One informant said evacuation of the British troops is "already in full swing and it would be difficult to reverse the process."

The United States made its proposal of trusteeship instead of partition as Britain faced a serious decision regarding the Arab world. This was brought about by the reported occupation of two Arab districts of Palestine this week by the British-subsidized Trans-Jordan Arab Legion, acting in the name of the Arab League.

British morning papers gave banner play to the American proposal. Headlines read "U.S. Throws Over Partition," "America Backs Out of Palestine Partition" and "U. S. Somersaults on Partition Plan."

The Times of London said: "The United States government has accepted the hard logic of facts in Palestine both the Security Council and the Assembly have been discussing this grave matter with their heads in the clouds ... time is short."

Palestine Jews May Proclaim Hebrew State, Says Source; Arabs Against UN Trusteeship

By CARTER L. DAVIDSON

Jerusalem, March 20. (AP)—Palestine's Jews may proclaim a Hebrew Republic as an answer to United States abandonment of partition, an informed Jewish source said today.

Then "it will be up to the United Nations to recognize it, ignore it or suppress it," the informant said.

A framework for a Jewish government already exists. It is a 32-member Provisional Council established several weeks ago by the Jewish agency and the Jewish National Council (Vand Leumi). Hagana, the Jewish militia, says it is ready and able to take and to hold Jewish sovereignty in predominantly Jewish areas of the Holy Land

Both Arabs and Jews turned thumbs down on the United States proposal of trusteeship for Palestine. Both said they will fight on and warfare continued. The toll of death since partition was voted by the United Nations as almost 1,900.

Arabs hailed the American abandonment of partition. Secretary-General Abdel Rahman Azzam Pasha of the Arab League said the United States action was "wonderful". He said "justice always prevails in the long run.

"We always wanted peace, but I'm afraid the Zionists will lose their heads. They will fight. If the Jews fight, we will accept the challenge."

Azzam Pasha told a press conference in Beyrouth, Lebanon, that Arabs would agree to a short, definitely limited trusteeship period, "but if they're going to shelve independence for Palestine indefinitely, then we will never agree to that." He said it is even possible to reach agreement with the Jews.

War May Grow Even Fiercer

But the war in Palestine may grow even more fierce. In the Holy Land itself Arab officialdom is largely silent save for one brief statement. Leaders are saying privately they would accept trusteeship if the trust power were the Arab League, but meanwhile would try to wipe out Zionism completely".

A statement of the Palestine Arab higher committee said: "We find in this withdrawal by the United States of its support of the Jews a return to recognition of the natural rights of Arabs."

An Arab spokesman of the military organizations fighting under the higher committee added, "We will not stop our struggle."

A source in the Jewish army Hagana said of the United States stand: "This in no way changes our plans. We must fight on to establish and hold Jewish sovereignty in whatever parts of Palestine we can."

Another authoritative Jewish source referred to a temporary draft constitution now being written for a transitory Jewish state to function between the planned end of the British mandate May 15 and the constitutional assembly meeting next October. He said:

"It will continue to be based on the United Nations partition recommendation of Nov. 29."

CLAIMED TRADE MINISTER BROKE FAITH WITH HOUSE

Shouts of Double-Cross Echo Across the Floor

Ottawa, March 20 — (CP) — Progressive Conservative shouts of "double-cross" and "broken faith" echoed in the Commons last night in the wake of a fantastic vote in which Liberals and C.C.F. members combined to defeat a government motion.

The "double-cross" accusation, hurled by J. A. Ross (PC-Souris), was ruled unparliamentary and he withdrew it. But there was no retraction of a charge by Donald Fleming (PC — Toronto Eglinton) that Trade Minister Howe "broke faith" with the House.

The vote and the charges centred on the government's grain-marketing legislation — finally approved at the night sitting.

In the afternoon, the House had approved second reading of the bill, 113 to 40. Mr. Howe then recalled his promise eight days previously to move that it be split in two, with a controversial proposal for state marketing of oats and barley going to a special committee.

There now was no purpose in fulfilling his promise — given in an unsuccessful attempt to save time, he said. But he would make the motion, knowing its defeat was "obvious." The count against was 94 to 58.

Mr. Howe and Justice Minister Ilsley supported the motion. Agriculture Minister Gardiner and all other cabinet ministers present voted against it. Prime Minister King, who had been in the Chamber earlier, left without voting.

Conservative Joins

One Progressive Conservative—H. H. Hatfield, Victoria-Carleton — joined with the majority of Liberals and C. C. F. members to defeat the motion.

"We were double-crossed by the C. C. F. and members of the government," he shouted.

Eaton's to Build Vancouver Store

Toronto, March 20. (CP)—The T. Eaton Co., Ltd., have bought the old hotel Vancouver and the York hotel in Vancouver and will demolish them and build a department store on the site.

This was announced yesterday by John D. Eaton, president.

At Vancouver, it was announced that veterans with families now living in the hotel will move into new low-rental homes expected to be completed by July 1 but single men and women will be on their own after that date.

Today there are 188 couples with 304 children, 104 couples with no children and 219 single men and women—a total of 1,001 residents. The accommodation scheme is directed by the Citizens' Rehabilitation Council.

Weather Synopsis

Toronto, March 20 —(CP)—Synopsis: The storm centre which caused tornadoes in the central United States, and which drenched Ontario with rain, on Friday, is now racing northeastward over northern Quebec. Skies cleared during the night in most sections of the provinve, giving promise of a mild sunny day. This morning a new disturbance appears to be forming in the vicinity of Nebraska. This disturbance is expected to strengthen as it moves eastward towards Ontario. Warm moisture laden air from the Gulf of Mexico should flow into Ontario Sunday ahead of the disturbance, causing overcast skies and showers.

U.S., Britain, France Propose Return Of Trieste to Italy

Major Revision Italian Peace Treaty Also Requested

Washington, March 20 (AP) — United States, Britain and France today proposed the return of the territory of Trieste to Italy through a major revision of the Italian peace treaty.

The proposal was made on behalf of the United States government to the Russian and Italian embassies here at 10 a.m. E.S.T. Trieste is an important port city and ship building centre on the Adriatic Sea between Italy and Yugoslavia.

Under the Italian peace treaty, Trieste was established as a free territory under the protection of the United Nations.

Today's joint announcement of the western powers said this plan for an independent Trieste is not working out well.

It said Yugoslavia already has virtually incorporated that area of the territory occupied by Yugoslav troops.

The proposal to "place the free territory of Trieste once more under Italian sovereignty" apparently is a major move by the western powers in Italian political strategy. The Italians are to hold a national election April 18 with a Communist bid for power the big issue.

Two Main Causes

The western powers' decision to propose return of Trieste to Italy was attributed to two main causes:

1. "Discussions in the Security Council have already shown that agreement of the selection of a governor (for Trieste) is impossible." The peace treaty provides that a governor for the new free territory should be chosen by the U.N. Security Council.

2. The three powers "have received abundant evidence to show that the Yugoslav zone has been completely transformed in character and has been virtually incorporated into Yugoslavia by procedures which do not respect the desire expressed by the powers to give an independent and democratic status to the territory."

Best Solution

The joint statement reviewed the compromise agreement between the Western Powers and Russia more than a year ago by which the free territory of Trieste was created and then concluded:

"The governments of the United States, United Kingdom and France have therefore decided to recommend the return of the free territory of Trieste to Italian sovereignty as the best solution to meet the Democratic aspirations of the people and make possible the re-establishment of peace and stability in the area."

The free territory is an area of 430 square miles with an estimated population of 330,000, including both Italians and Slavs. Italians mainly inhabit the city of Trieste and Slavs the country area.

The territory is bounded on the east and south by Yugoslavia, and on the north by Italy, with an arm of the Adriatic Sea to the west.

Fatal Clash Occurs Near Naples As Reds Try to Break up Parade

By JOHN McKNIGHT

Rome, March 20 (AP)—One person was reported killed and 10 wounded near Naples yesterday when Communists fought young government party members.

Violence also broke out in Rome and other parts of Italy as parties speeded up their campaigning for the April 18 election. Communism is the prime issue.

The fatal clash occurred as Communists were reported to have tried to break up a St. Joseph's Day parade of Christian Democratic party youths at Castellamaire Di Stabia, south of Naples.

In Rome fighting started yesterday but riot squads restored order. Leftists who had just heard a speech by Communist leader Luigi Longo clashed with moderate Socialists homeward bound from a meeting. There were no casualties.

Political orators took advantage of the holiday yesterday to address their followers. In many Italian cities crowds packed theatres, auditoriums and public squares to hear speeches.

Leftist orators accused Premier Alcide De Gasperi of subservience to the United States and said President Truman was "war-mongering." Followers of De Gasperi acclaimed United States aid to Italy and called attention to Russian expansion in eastern Europe.

SHEILA'S COTTAGE WINS GRUELLING GRAND NATIONAL

50 to 1 Shot Gains Length Lead Through Stretch on First of the Dandies

Aintree, Lancs., England, March 20 (AP) —Sheila's Cottage won the 102nd running of the Grand National Steeplechase today.

First of The Dandies, a leader through most of the race, was second. Cromwell, owned and ridden by Lord Mildway, was third.

Silver Fame, the 8 to 1 betting favorite owned by Lord Bicester, fell the first time around at Becher's Brook, the treacherous water jump and hedge.

Sheila's Cottage, a 50 to 1 shot owned by J. Proctor, won by a length over First of The Dandies.

Happy Home was fourth and Platypus was fifth.

Canadian Wins $40,000

At least one Canadian will become considerably richer as a result of the 102nd running of the Grand National Steeplechase today — F. Hampshire of 1220 Fort Street, Montreal. He held an Army and Navy sweepstake ticket on Sheila's Cottage, winner of the most testing event ever devised for jumping horses, and it is reported that his winning will be about $40,000.

Only numbers of ticket holders in the larger Irish Hospital Sweepstakes were published and to date no Canadian holders on the winners in the overseas draw have made their identities known. No Canadians have come forward as holders of tickets in either sweep on the second and third horses respectively, first of the Dandies and Cromwell.

At least two Canadians — Mrs. Margaret Dunton of Hamilton and R. Somerville of Winnipeg—were disappointed when Brighter Sandy was scratched before post time. Mrs. Dunton held a ticket on the horse in the Irish Sweep and stood to win $100,000 if he finished first. Mr. Somerville's ticket was in the Army and Navy Sweep.

Should Canadians hold tickets on second and third horses in the Irish Sweep they are in line for prizes of $40,000 and $20,000, while ticket holders of any horse which went to the post receive $500. In the Army and Navy Sweep, operated from Quebec, prize money will be determined on the basis of the total number of tickets sold, with details of division yet to be announced.

COLEMAN STREET RESIDENT WORRIED ABOUT FLOODING

Fortunately there seems to be little possibility of there being anything much of a flood this year, but the situation really looked serious to one Coleman Street resident last night.

In fact, this person was so sure of the imminence of the water flowing through her house that she telephoned the "Ship Quinte" last night where the Truckers' Association was holding a meeting. She explained that she had read of the meeting and felt that the house was in danger of being flooded. Could someone with a truck and a couple of men come up and help her move the furniture.

The woman didn't seem to be in such dire straits as she thought, so the men decided that the weather was not so good for furniture moving and continued the meeting in the more snug quarters of the ward room.

SPRING IS HERE

With all the hints and harbingers and What-nots that herald the coming of Spring, it seems that it is just about time it got around to arriving.

Yesterday's weather may have been intended to serve as the regal flourish of trumpets to announce the official entry, for Spring took her bow this morning at 11:57. The weather is so undecided of late that all one can do is wait and see what sort of weather she has brought with her.

DEFECTIVE FIXTURE CAUSE OF BLACKOUT

The street light blackout last night of the street lights was attributed to a defective fixture. The power went off shortly after eleven o'clock, but the house lighting remained undisturbed.

Power lines, possibly due to the heavy winds, were reported to be down at the Dundas and Ann, Bleecker and Bridge intersections.

Brother Rebekahs Conduct Meeting

The Quintena Rebekah Lodge No. 133 met recently but instead of the regular officers taking charge the Brother Rebekahs took over in a very capable manner.

Brother Gordon Millar acted as Noble Grand in the place of Brother Charles Frost, who was unable to attend on account of illness. Brother Frost was the first Noble Grand of the Belleville Lodge and it was regrettable that he was unable to attend.

Brother Alf Cooper acted as Vice Grand and other Brothers holding officers were Bros. Geo. Kerr, Brooks, Nesbitt, Mills, Duke Smith and Larry Pollitt.

Brother Geo. Kerr presented District Deputy President Sister Eva Turvey who was duly welcomed.

Sister Dorothy Harwood, Noble Grand, complimented the Brothers on the manner in which they filled their offices and invited them to make it an annual event.

After lodge, the brothers assisted by the girls of the Pink and Green Club served dainty refreshments and all agreed it was a very successful evening.

Moira River Ice Field Moves To C.P.R. Bridge With Little Flooding Caused in Area

From an ideal vantage point along the rails of the lower bridge dozens of Belleville residents with a more or less personal interest in the vagaries of the Moira River, last evening watched the annual ice "push" which cleared the river of its winter mantle to a point just north of the C.P.R. bridge.

Only in isolated instances were there any evidence of flooding, although residents living along the west bank of the river north of Bridge Street reported cellars flooded nearly to floor joists as the river current overflowed its confining wall just before the final shove. Also in the parking area to the rear of Kresge's store there was several inches of water as the current sought an avenue of escape.

The big "shove" took place exactly at 9.40 when the ice field was carried down from the footbridge to halt again just north of the railroad bridge. Ice in the Bay still remained solid but the heavy volume of water as result of yesterday's rain and melting snows, seemed to be getting freely away.

Cannifton Ice Field Holds

Today only the isolated cake of ice was seen floating down with the river current with reports indicating that the ice field above the Cannifton dam was still holding solid.

Officials at the water filtration plant, Trent Road, reported one inch of rainfall on Friday. Back in 1936 when this city experienced its last disastrous flood, it was a two-inch rainfall which shoved the ice out of the river.

With the river ice north of the city to Cannifton having been out for a week or more, experienced residents this year expected no great danger from flooding but neverthless several merchants along Front Street yesterday took no chances and merchandise was removed from basements.

One or two residents on Coleman Street just north of Bridge Street, also were taking no chances of a repetition of the 1936 flood and articles of furniture were removed to safety. However, even at its highest point the water failed to reach floor joists.

Blind Publisher Helps Sightless Have Good Life

Hollywood, (AP)—Big, placid Bob Atkinson heads one of the world's unusual publishing houses. Its books and periodicals are produced without ink. It's proofreaders can't see. Neither can Atkinson.

This, of course, could only be a printing plant for the blind. Atkinson developed it, in 28 years from a one-man operation in his garage to a vast philanthropic enterprise, the Braille Institute of America.

The Institute's publications (ranging from the Bible to western stories), its welfare program and the products of its research department are known as far away as India and China. Scientifically it is noted for perfection of double-plate Braille embossing machinery and the new Braille portable typewriter.

All this began with the backfire of a cowboy's six-shooter on a Montana ranch 35 years ago. The cowboy was Atkinson—J. Robert Atkinson—then 25. As he puts it, "in a twinkling of an eye, I was blind."

Weeks in the hospital followed the accident. Then friends put him on the train for Southern California, where he had relatives in El Centro and Los Angeles. Seven harrowing years passed before he conquered despondency.

"Rehabilitation," he says now, "is nothing more than learning how to be blind. I learned the hard way. Much that I learned was wrong—and unlearning these things was even more difficult."

Walks With Certainty

Now 59, Atkinson looks 45. He is six feet tall, weighs 210 pounds and speaks with a homey, western twang. His step is solid and sure; there is nothing in his carriage that indicates he cannot see. His wife drives him to the office every morning. They have been married for 27 years.

In 1912 five kinds of Braille were in use. Atkinson learned four of them. He also learned Moon. Braille, a system of raised dots on paper, is based on the Braille cell—two vertical rows of three dots each. In the Braille alphabet various combinations of these dots form 63 distinctive characters. Moon, also a raised type, is a modification of Roman characters. Persons whose sense of touch is less sensitive often prefer Moon because the characters are larger.

In 1918, books for the blind were scarce. Atkinson set out to remedy this situation. With an old Braille writer, he laboriously transcribed by hand the books his mother read aloud to him. He bound them in the garage of his Los Angeles home.

A wealthy Brookline, Mass., couple, Mr. and Mrs. John M. Longyear, who spent their Winters in California, learned of Atkinson's activities in 1919 and gave him $25,000, at the rate of $5,000 a year, to supervise a new printing plant. From this developed the Braille Institute, supported wholly by public subscription. Now one of four plants in the United States producing raised print literature, it is the only institute combining printing with a social welfare program which includes job placement, handicrafts, home teaching of Braille, an extensive free library, research and organized recreation.

Picture Restorer Laments Neglect of Old Paintings

By KAY REX
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, March 19 — (CP) — The man waved a long, sensitive finger accusingly toward the battered old painting on the table before him.

"Just look at that," he said angrily. "Another valuable picture falling to pieces from sheer neglect."

One of the few fully qualified picture restorers in Canada, George Harbour has plenty to say about Mr. and Mrs. John Public and their callous abuse of the paintings they own.

The tall, greying restorer, who retired a few months ago after more than 30 years of looking after pictures at the National Gallery, claims that Canadians generally don't know how to take care of their paintings.

Many a housewife believes in the soap-and-water method of cleaning pictures.

"And if that soap gets into the crackles, a fungus probably will form, which spells ruin for any good oil," he grimaced.

Crackles, he said, are caused from the texture of the canvas. A picture more than 100 years old seldom escapes crackles. "They're the same as wrinkles that come in the face of an old person, and they add character."

Shouldn't Prize Dullness

Then there are the "experts," who prize the dullness of a picture as a patina. "Nothing of the sort," commented Mr. Harbour. "It's sheer atmospheric dirt and should be removed."

Cleaning an oil involves removal of the varnish with which every painting is coated, Once off, with all the grease and dirt it has gathered, the picture's true colors are seen in all their former brightness.

But taking off the old varnish isn't the simple job some may think. The solvents used range from alcohol to chloroform and ether. Where one may be right for removing the varnish from an 18th century work, on a 19th century piece it may end up by taking away the paint as well.

That's why Mr. Harbour maintains only experts should be allowed to go to work on a painting of value.

The skilled restorer has behind him a general knowledge of the history of the art, and this, combined with the chemical "know how," makes it possible for him to look at a picture, recall the artist, and remember immediately what type of oils he was in the habit of using.

Modern artists and their techniques may cause students enough worry but Mr. Harbour would like to know how many grey hairs present-day painters are going to give the restorers of tomorrow.

"While canvas has long been known as the universal medium, nowadays artists are putting their pictures on anything — even plywood," he said. "How a restorer is going to work with that, I've no idea."

VOTE IN FAVOR OF STRIKE

Toronto, March 20 (CP) — A 665-220 vote in favor of strike action to enforce wage demands was registered by members of the United Rubber Workers of America (C.I.O.) at the Gutta Percha Rubber Company plant here, it was announced last night.

A spokesman for the union's local 136 said the union, which originally sought a boost of 22 cents an hour, would consider any "reasonable" company offer. The union several days ago rejected the firm's offer of a general wage increase of 6 2-3 cents an hour

Farmers Will be Forced To Produce Better Quality, Fairs' Supt. Tells Meeting

With production costs increasing and Ontario farmers due to face keener competition in the future, farmers in this province will be forced to produce better quality products if the family-sized farm is to retain its identity.

This was stated here Friday afternoon by J. A. Carroll, fairs superintendent, as he addressed delegates of the Central Fairs Association at their annual convention held in the Y.M.C.A. New officers were elected at the meeting while fair dates for the coming summer and autumn were set.

To assist in encouraging the production of better quality farm products the Ontario Department of Agriculture was prepared to make special grants to agricultural societies as prize money for exhibits in commercial production, according to Mr. Carroll. In keeping with this thought fair presidents present at the meeting were asked to state the products from which farmers in their district made the most money.

200 Fairs Receive Grants

The fairs superintendent questioned whether there was need for all of the number of small fairs which are held each autumn. "Over 200 fairs received grants in the province last year," he said.

"One thing is definitely certain," he said. "We do not need all of these small fairs if the same exhibits are being shown at a number of district fairs and if the fairs are all of the same type. But the people themselves will determine whether these small fairs are to continue.

"Last year some fairs reported record crowds while others went down, and went down badly. An interesting program will decide the success or failure of a fair."

The speaker noted that a sure test if a fair is successful is whether the number of exhibitors is going up or down. If the number of local exhibitors is increasing then the fair is successful.

Reported on Features

Presidents or delegates from each of the fairs in the Central district reported on the features of their fairs last year.

The Napanee delegate stated that next year the service clubs of that centre will supply the midway. In this way fair officials would be certain the society would not be "gypped" and that the money spent would remain in the district. Mr. Carroll stated that the trend in the province was to "clean up" the midways, but in this much of the responsibility lay with the fair board of directors.

The Picton representative noted that canning factory companies in their district had promised next year to have canning exhibits at the fair. The Belleville representative stated this fair would celebrate its 100th anniversary this year.

In a discussion period it was brought out that the only way agricultural societies could take advantage of the provincial recreational and community park grants was for the title of the fair grounds to be vested with the community and the grounds operated by a commission appointed by council.

Planning Improvements

Arthur Wartman of Warkworth stated their agricultural society had adopted this procedure and were accordingly planning extensive improvements to grounds and equipment.

Harry Coulter, Hungerford township was named president of the association with Harold McColl of Napanee and Art Wartman of Warkworth as vice presidents. Secretary is C. W. Varcoe of Roseneath and district treasurer Fred Rutherford of Campbellford. Mayor D. L. Storey tendered an official welcome to the delegates and wished each of the fair boards success for the coming year. Brian Dodds of Picton acted as chairman.

District representative for the women's association Mrs. W. A. Hume of Campbellford, reported 28 present at the women's meeting in the morning. "An effort would be made to have executive officers representative of the various counties in the district," she said. Mrs. Hume this year will serve her second term as district representative while Mrs. Norris Rogers of Denbigh will act as secretary.

Fair Dates Set

Following are the fair dates set:

Belleville, Aug. 16-17-18-19; Napanee, Aug. 30-31, Sept. 1; Brighton, Aug. 30, Sept. 1; Wooler, Sept. 7-8; Centreville, Sept. 8; Denbigh, Sept. 9; Shannonville, Sept. 10-11; Tweed, Sept. 14-15; Marmora, Sept. 15-16; Odessa, Sept. 14-15; Stirling, Sept. 16-17; or 21-22; Campbellford, Sept. 22-23; Picton, Sept. 28-29; Warkworth, Sept. 30, Oct. 1; Madoc Oct. 5-6; Roseneath, Oct. 7-8 and Norwood, Oct. 9-10.

Father on the Farm:

He Had a Strong Sense of Loyalty to Community

By KENNETH C. CRAGG

Father, who was old-fashioned about sex, leaned to the theory that Eve had caused most of the world's sorrows and that women took after her.

He never expressed this openly because he had a good idea what mother would say. Mother, who in her way was just as prim as father, had definite views about man.

"Men," she would say, with a side glance at father, "why, the best man on earth couldn't...."

She never finished what the best man on earth couldn't do, but anybody who heard her had an inkling.

Father, who took most of the problems he wanted to discuss without interruption to his horses, had several interesting talks about women. These were heard to advantage by squatting at the feed chute door, up in the barn above the feed passage that ran in front of the horses' stalls.

Mother Seldom Included

One thing, he seldom talked much about mother during these sessions unless he was laboring under extreme provocation, such as when she blew off about the kitchen stove wood, and one thing led to another along a well-worn rut that included no cistern pump, other husbands getting places on time and other men showing their wives appreciation.

"Blamed woman," he had been known to say on these occasions, with a bang of the curry-comb on the side of the stall in the way of emphasis.

In speaking of women in general father was apt to be more liberal with details and on one occasion worked himself up to such an extent that he came right out and described women in terms that he would have shrunk from applying to lady dogs if he thought he were being overheard.

You could tell by the way the horses were pounding their feet that he was laying the comb and brush hard on their hides. "Women," he said on one occasion, "Women are all alike—stand still, Maude, Jezebels, that's what they are. They were the same in the Bible and they are the same today (bang, bang with the curry-comb on the stall and a lighter clack to knock the dandruff out of the brush). Get over, you big dirty awkward thing. Eve started it and women are still the same. Dang Eve, look at all the — get over, you brute — misery she caused."

Strong Sense of Loyalty

With this attitude, passed down to him by a mother of more than Victorian prudishness, father preferred to ignore sex and probably lived out his life believing sex was not a nice word.

Unlike most of the men he knew and with whom he exchanged work at thrashing and woodcutting, he was completely without interest in the time elapsing between a marriage in the community and the arrival of the first-born. But, like them, he had no particular sense of courage when a child came with indiscreet haste following the wedding ceremony.

For one thing father had a strong sense of loyalty to the community and the misdeed he would regard with a grim and unforgiving sense of justice when it happened in the city, could be passed off with a shake of the head and a "boys will be boys" if the principals happened to be connected with some one he knew.

He had a tendency to judge such persons not by what they had done but rather on the basis of "her father is a fine man," or "I went to school with her mother, a fine woman." If the evidence were particularly damning he might go so far as to say, "A shame. It will be hard on her parents."

Mother had no patience with such a viewpoint. To her sin was sin and was not made a whit more savory by a local performance. Back in the days when branding was in fashion for a girl who had carelessly thrown her cap over the mill, mother would have been right there, father claimed, fanning the fire that heated the iron.

Father, on the other hand, while believing in the virtue of punishment, would have been thinking of how the hot iron was going to hurt and wandering about the outskirts of the crowd, being thoroughly miserable.

Propagation Was Necessary

Father never had one of those man-to-man talks that are advocated as being in the best interest of the growing boy. For one thing he would not have known what to say, and for another he would never have brought himself to pronounce some of the necessary words if he had.

He was an extremely modest man and was celebrated in a small way within the family circle for his ability to both dress and undress beneath the covering folds of his night-shirt.

He was never critical of the Lord's work, even in time of drought or of flood, or even when shingles were flying from the windward side of the barn roof. But, if pushed to it, father would never have quite approved of his plan for continuing the species.

He never spoke of such matters and, quite unlike the frank and open reference of the union of blood lines and all that goes with it, heard in the livestock show ring and among the horsey set of both sexes, father would never permit himself a comment other than a delicate reference to its being about time for Rosie, the red cow, to have her calf.

No one saw his records pertaining to the getting and begetting on the farm. He kept them in a little book, about two inches long, that he always carried in the pocket opposite the watch pocket in his work vest.

The "little book" as he called it, was never brought out except at night when all the chores were done and he was washed and ready for bed. At such times he would lay down his paper, hunch closer to the lamp, and with an almost furtive air produce the "little book" and with a stub of carpenter's pencil, add another name and date.

Mother Made Distinctions

Mother, who knew her duties, tried hard, but she was almost as handicapped as father in outlining what a young boy should know. She was not acquainted with the birds and bees school that had quite a following in later years, particularly in the urban sections, and was too much of a lady to work on the stuff she had on hand in the stables.

She got around it by carefully designating a certain man or woman as a "good" man or a "bad" woman, and by associating the names with events of current gossip, she managed fairly successfully to get across the idea of sin as she saw it.

While father just disliked sex on principle and probably made little or no effort to understand it, mother was motivated deep down by a militant conviction that men were no good. In later years it colored deeply her attitude to divorce, so that, to the amazement of some, she had the conviction that grounds for divorce should be broadened to include anything that would give good and sound reason for a legal separation.

"Why not," she would argue with simple clarity, "get rid of them once and for all? There isn't a man alive worth what women have to go through."

No one thought for a moment she was including father in this sweeping denunciation. Both were a product of a time and a place where men and women married and expected to stay that way. Husbands and wives sometimes went back home to mother but separations were rarely permanent. Once there was a couple reputed not to have spoken to each other for two years, but they didn't get divorced.

For Better or Worse

On the whole father's and mother's friends seemed capable of deep affection but shied from love as touching on the carnal. Like their friends neither had been brought up on the romantic principles that are considered in some circles essential to the successful marriage.

Father in one of his horse-stable soliloquies, narrowed the really important things required in a wife to two, a reasonable ability to set a good table and a willingness never to speak unless spoken to. His was, admittedly, a Spartan view and given probably while in an unfortunate mood.

But men and women in father's experience took each other for better or for worse and if it turned out for worse the women usually became more and more engrossed in church affairs, while the men turned to drink, fraternal organizations or sometimes to municipal politics.

Infrequently a man or woman, unhappy in this rigid tradition, up and ran off with somebody else. Father, although both shocked, and angered by these defections was never malicious in his comments. In fact he could get as much wrought up about the community's real and natural interest, if not downright pleasure, in a local scandal as he could about the scandal itself.

Mother took sides; father scarcely ever, and as a result mother always got the most out of either a marital or extra-marital fracas.

"He was wicked to her," she would nearly always explain when pressed for detail.

"Did he beat her?" she was asked on one occasion.

"He was a bad man," she replied, somehow leaving the impression that the badness was connected in a sinister way with original sin.

Bible Genealogy Tired Him

In a vague way it was sex that was responsible for father substituting a short prayer in the morning for the lengthier Bible reading on which he had been raised.

While the hired help was not required to wait for family prayers, on this occasion there were not only the hired man, but two barn farmers working on the strawshed extension, and a neighbor girl helping mother. In such a large gathering father's natural delicacy, on matters he did not think should even be mentioned, was outraged when he stumbled onto a long begat chapter in First Chronicles.

His face flamed. He was terribly embarrassed, but he was game to the end. "Blamed women" he was overheard later over the clatter of harness hames falling in their places and the jangle of the trace chains. There was a pause while he rammed his thumb in the horse's stomach and quickly buckled the bellyband before she took a new breath. "Eve caused it."

THE END

'St. John Passion' Will Be Presented by Choir

The "St. John Passion" is to be presented by the male choir of Christ Church at the evening service on Good Friday. This composition by Handel is the choir's choice for its annual presentation.

The "St. John Passion" is the story of the trial and crucifixion of Jesus Christ set to music. The speeches of the main characters, Jesus, Pilate, the Evangelist, are interpreted in musical solos, excellently sung by members of the choir. The full choir, men and boys, render the beauteous story in form befitting its importance in the Christian way of life. The background and accompaniment for this service is supplied by the expert mastery of the organist, Kaye Martin. The choir is under the direction of A. W. Simpson.

The service is to be held in the church at eight o'clock Good Friday evening. A large congregational attendance is expected at this annual pre-Easter service.

Passion Play Film Here on Tuesday

"The Passion Play" or "Life of Christ" is veritably a treasured heritage of the ages, to all Christian people, whose faith is anchored in the resurrection of Jesus of Nazareth. The dramatic versions given periodically, in Europe at Oberammergau, and Freiburg, have been visited by hundreds of thousands of Christian people, from all sections of the world, at enormous expense.

The public of Belleville and district is to be given the opportunity of seeing the world-famous "Passion Play" motion picture, based upon both Freiburg and Oberammergau productions, and actually produced in Europe, with English dialogue and sound track music, depicting many famous scenes in the Life, Crucifixion, and Resurrection of Jesus, at the Belleville Collegiate Auditorium on Tuesday, March 23rd at 8 p.m. Everybody is invited, and admission tickets are not necessary. A silver offering will be taken to assist in paying expenses. A special showing for the Collegiate students and older girls and boys of the public schools will be given in the Collegiate Auditorium at 4 p.m.

Five-Nation Treaty

The Five-Power Treaty of Brussels signed on March 17 has the general object of preserving by united action in every field the common heritage of democracy of Britain, France and the Benelux countries and other democracies and nations. Besides the five nations, there will undoubtedly be many accessions to the membership from among other like-minded peoples of Europe. Economic, social and cultural improvements will be sought. Policies associated with economy will be very closely coordinated, there will be combined efforts towards improvement of social conditions by raising the standard of living and cultural exchanges will be intensified.

The agreement is for unity in collective self-defence in the event of an armed attack against a member of the United Nations until the Security Council has taken the measures necessary to maintain international peace and security. One of the clauses of the new treaty recapitulates the terms of article 51 of the Charter. The five governments will set up a consultative council to function continuously.

The treaty purposes to re-affirm fundamental human rights and dignity, to fortify and preserve the principles of democracy, personal freedom and political liberty, the constitutional traditions and rule of law which are their common heritage, to strengthen with these aims in view the economic, social and cultural ties by which they are already united, to co-operate locally and to co-ordinate their efforts to create in Western Europe, a firm basis for European recovery, to afford assistance to each other under the Charter in maintaining international peace and security and in resisting any policy of aggression and to associate progressively in these aims other states with the same ideals and determination.

Democracy has realized that it is the most precious development of the ages and must be preserved at all cost of effort. It is the goal which not only the democracies must seek but it is the goal towards which all nations should be tending. So this is a treaty for fifty years which has been signed, not for a mere few years. Democracy has its duty to perform to help the world to the best fruit of human effort, which is democracy itself.

Nature's Annual Miracle

As inevitable as the march of the seasons and as the rising and setting of the sun is heard the magic phrase, "sap's running." Never was there a year when these words did not conjure up the coming of the rich syrupy fluid and the sweetness of the sugar that has its origin in the sugar bush of maples.

Canadians are responsive to the appeal of those delicacies and no spring comes but the harvest is garnered and enjoyed, or put away for the coming days, for the sweetness of the syrup and the sugar and the flavor of the maple have a universal appeal.

Sap's running in a great many parts of Canada. It is a time of intense activity on the farms and in the sugar bush. And in a short time the products will appear on the markets and in the shops.

The wealth in this harvest is nothing small. Last year the Canadian harvest was the greatest in history. Nature of cource has much to do with the amount of syrup and sugar for the weather must be kindly. Last year it was. What will the harvest season be like this year? The future days will unfold this secret.

For some time the maple buds have been showing signs of swelling, an emblem of the great spring harvest.

A writer in the New York Times has a very fine description of the maple buds. "Take one of the blossom buds, slice it with a thin blade and study it. . . . There is a rainbow arc of warm deep colors beneath the outer protecting scales. There are shades of reds, purples, violets and orange. In the heart of the bud is an area of pale soft green, promise of the leaves that will make a Corot painting of hardwood ridges a few weeks hence. You hold spring in your hand when you pluck a bud. . . . The beauty of the buds is a promise that is always fulfilled, for when they begin to swell a man can hold spring in his hand."

Spring is the time of the year when man is very receptive to the moods and sights and sounds of nature and especially the miracle of the season with the coming from what seemed as if it were dead but what has not been dead but dormant and resting for the awakening of the chorus of the life in everything man can behold. Facing the evidences of the new life any doubting man is brought sharply back to his faith in the spirit of life which he sees on all sides.

Nature has wrought wonderfully and her ways are ways that give inspiration to life. A kindly Providence that has wrought such developments as man can see in life about him has a lesson which man cannot overlook. The magic of life reviving and planning such sweetness of sounds and such glory of color never loses its appeal. Man has grown up in this world of beauty and he never quite wanders away from the richness of appeal he finds around him in the field and garden and orchard and the woodlands.

Spring is here. Not even the most violent storms or heavy falls of snow, if such should come in these latter days of March, can hide the fact that the annual miracle is taking place, that spring has come and soon will be in full sweep, and that winter which this year many have felt was very severe, has ended its reign, yielding to the gentler rule of the budding spring time.

Regular Sailings by Radar

To be the first ship in the world to make regular sailings by radar is claimed by a 1,076-ton steamet, the Topaz, crossing the North Sea to Antwerp. The story of the freighter's achievement began with a fog which blanketed out not only the Channel but the Ostend harbor. The captain decided to attempt crossing "blind." But the fog was so thick it was impossible to see even the Ostend pier as the vessel left. Outside the harbor conditions were worse. Until the Topaz tied up at Tilbury nothing could be seen except the dots on the radar screen. The steamer made her way up the Thames passing dozens of fog-bound ships at anchor and arrived at her normal berth just after midnight. By noon, dockers had cleared her cargo. The Topaz then rounded off her triumph by taking on a fresh cargo intended for another ship which, without radar, remained fog-bound.

Export Expansion

Britain's exports in January showed the largest volume since the end of the war—28% above 1938 compared with 20% in December. Many of Britain's leading exports hit new records. The tonnage of machinery sent overseas for example, was over 60% greater than in 1938 and was the highest ever recorded The total value of Britain's exports was $478 million compared with $647.2 million for imports. The adverse balance has therefore been reduced to $147.2 million, the lowest monthly figure —apart from last November—since February, 1947.

BUILD ALPINE VILLAGE

The New South Wales Agent-General's office in London is recruiting a group of Scottish stonemasons to build an alpine village on the Kosciusko snowfields to accommodate skiers at cheap rates.

The New South Wales Minister for Tourist Activities and Immigration, Mr. Finnan, said the village would be at Smiggin Holes which is a centre of excellent cross country and downhill snow fields, from 5,000 to 7,000 feet.

THE OLD EXCUSES

"Could have done better," and, "Might have done more,"
"Wish I had thought of it then!"
Millions have uttered these phrases before.
Millions will say them again.

"Sorry I said it!" "Regret that I did,"
"Hope they'll forgive and forget."
Millions behind such excuses have hid.
Millions are using them yet.

Millions have uttered these phrases of old.
Millions continue to wait,
Until with excuses regret must be told—
Always a minute too late.

30 YEARS AGO

March 20th., 1918

Ice shoves cause great damage along the banks of the Moira. Another shove started this afternoon and the footbridge was smashed and carried away. At the lower bridge the shove was halted by firm ice and the resistance of the bridge, which although badly twisted still stood. The wate rose so quickly that some people were rescued from houses and stores in boats. Two women marooned on a pile of snow were forced to climb a tree to escape the rushing water. Buildings along the river banks were smashed and basements of stores were flooded to an unprecedented depth causing thousands of dollars of damage to merchandise. Merchants who had goods in basements had placed them on shelves which were considered to be out of reach of water, but the water rose several feet above the old marks This flood is said to have no equal here in destructiveness, although the water has been higher at times. The residents on James, Mary, Colborne, King, Water and Willard Streets are victims of water which flooded their premises; in some cases the water was three to four feet in depth on the first floors of houses. People were removed from the houses in boats. Coleman St., of course was flooded and water poured over the portion of that street just south of the footbridge in torrents and it was of such a depth as to carry large cakes of ice along with it. These were carried as far west as Everett Street and found an outlet on Jane Street.

Tenders are being called for alterations and improvements to John Street Church Sunday School building.

Lawrence Welsh, who is employed as a driver at the C. P. The horse started to run near Bridge Street Church and ran at a terrific pace down Bridge Street to Coleman Street where Welsh succeeded in bringing it under control.

INFORMATION ROUNDUP

Who was the first President to be photographed?

John Tyler was the first President to be photographed while in office, and John Quincy Adams was the first man who was President to be photographed.

Washington, the elder Adams, Jefferson, Madison and Monroe all died before the invention of photography. Louis Daguerre, French scene-painter and physicist, announced the discovery of his process of photography early in 1839. Within a year or two Prof. J. W. Draper of New York University Medical College made the first photograph of a living person in America. His sister, Miss Dorothy Catherine Draper, had to sit rigid for 10 minutes to get a good "daguerreotype likeness."

In 1842 Matthew B. Brady, then only 20, established a portrait studio in New York City and went into the photographic business. When daguerreotypes were first made in the United States they were popularly called "chemical pictures."

Under date of Nov. 13, 1843, Ex-President John Quincy Adams, then in Cincinnati, wrote in his diary:

"Before returning to the Henry House, we stopped at a daguerreotype office, where three attempts were made to take my likeness. I believe neither of them were successful."

On April 12, 1844, Adams wrote at Washington:

"At the request of J. M. Edwards and Anthony, I sat also in their room while they took three larger daguerreotype likenesses of me than those they had taken before. While I was there President Tyler and his son John came in; but I did not notice them."

Three daguerreotypes of Andrew Jackson were made after he was President. The best of these was made April 15, 1845, by Brady, who took his cumbersome equipment to Tennessee and "shot" Old Hickory in the Hermitage two months before he died.

In 1846 Congress voted Zachary Taylor a gold medal for his exploits in Mexico, and on October 5 of that year Secretary of War Marcy asked Old Rough and Ready to send a portrait miniature of daguerreotype for the use of the artist. General Taylor replied that he had no such likeness of himself and that there were no photographers in his army, but that he would have his picture taken as soon as possible.

Under date of February 14, 1849, shortly before his retirement from the White House, President James K. Polk wrote in his diary:

"I yielded to the request of an artist named Brady, of New York, by sitting for my daguerreotype today. I sat in the large dining-room."

Every President after Polk was photographed.

Toronto Star Bitterly Assailed In Legislature

Toronto, March 20 (CP) — The Toronto Daily Star was assailed in the Ontario legislature by Premier Drew yesterday for what he described as a story designed to convey a "false" and "malicious" impression.

The story, bearing the headline —"politically, we don't fear labor, Blackwell declares"—dealt with a provincial cabinet meeting earlier yesterday at which the Ontario Federation of Labor presented a brief outlining recommend for legislation.

"Anything more dishonest and more remote from the truth it would be difficult to imagine even in the case of the Toronto Daily Star," the Premier said. "And I grant you it is difficult to imagine any form of dishonesty that they would not employ."

"This," he declared, "seeks to create a feeling of prejudice in the mind of organized labor in relation to the government of the day, no matter what that government may be, which has the responsibility for dealing with labor relations in this province."

The Premier quoted a court reporter's record regarding what the Attorney General had said:

"If you want to carry on that political action as the arm of a political party, I would make this statement to you, that it is against the public interest, but as far as the present government of Ontario is concerned, politically we do not fear it, because the people of the province want law and order and you may be sure that the opposition party (C.C.F.) you represent will remain in opposition until the end of time. Politically, if that is what you want to do, I welcome it."

RIVERS

Worst in History

Listowel, in North Perth County, had the worst flood in its 96-year history as the Maitland River sent five feet of water down business streets. The flood split the town into two sections linked only by a C.N.R. bridge. The town hospital was reported without heat after electric motors in the basement became soaked.

On the Listowel-Gowanstown railway line a washout forced indefinite suspension of service.

Residents of lower Wingham left their homes after water lapped first-storey windows. A large section of a bridge was torn loose and carried away at Mitchell by the ice-and-debris-laden upper tributary of the Thames. Workmen piled sandbags on the river banks as officials reported the stream more than two feet higher than at any time in recent years.

Houses, Barns Flooded

On the northern outskirts of London, the Thames flooded houses and barns. Main streets in Clinton and Exeter also were flooded. Grand River flood waters lay several feet deep over low-lying sections of Grand Valley in Dufferin County.

A mighty heave by a five-mile-long ice jam wrecked docks, pilings and a fish house at Port Maitland. A huge ice field which spilled from the mouth of the Maitland River at Goderich damaged harbor installations and small boats.

For the second time this week streams in the Toronto area rose. Etobicoke Creek, the Humber River and Highland Creek ran high and caused flood troubles.

T. J. Bentley (CCF — Swift Current) denied his party at any time agreed to support the bill-splitting motion. The C.C.F. two weeks ago had believed the move would be wise but it no longer thought that.

"He double-crossed nobody!"

G. H. Castleden (CCF—Yorkton) asked that Mr. Ross withdraw the word "double-cross." W. Ross Macdonald (L — Brantford City), the committee chairman, ruled the word unparliamentary.

The marketing legislation, eventually passed without amendment, provides for an unspecified boost in the $1.35 initial wheat payment, pensions for Wheat Board employees, and the state-controlled marketing of oats and barley.

WILL THE SEASON CATCH YOU WITH YOUR CALCIUM DOWN?

Interesting note on hay fever. Medical textbook published in England discusses desensitization against the grass pollens generally respnosible for spring and erally responsible for spring and nothing about desensitization against dwarf and giant ragweeds, which are responsible for most of the autumnal hay fever in North America. The apparent oversight is explained by the statement of an authority that the British Isles have no ragweed and in fact the ragweeds are of no practical consequence anywhere in Europe. Oh, to be in England, from, say, June 12 until the first frosts of late autumn!

Although not subject to hay fever, from ragweed, grass or any other pollen, the chief of this long distance diagnostic clinic, has decided not to go to England this summer to play on the famous bowling greens, particularly on the hoe at Plymouth, where Sir Francis finished his game before he went out to take care of the Armada. You know, folks, I might have spent a couple months beating the tar out of some of those admirable bowlers who were over here last winter beating it out of us.

Not today. It's a good deal harder to grind it out today than it used to be. Moreover, in the old days I had not earned the malevolence of the big interests that sell parboiled milk; the brass specialists, the dentists, the la-di-da and saireygamp nurses, the hospitals that keep the expectant father in the monkey cage where he belongs, the health department politicians who hand out quaint advice about "exposure" to cold and damp and the eminent "clinic" racketeers who seize on any little morsel in this column which they hope will warrant a dignified letter to the editor telling you misguided lay men how wrong my teaching is about tonsil surgery, hernia treatment, digitalis etc.

For a sentence like that I know I should be sentenced to twenty years at private life—but there is another reason why I'm stuck here on the job 365 days in the year when, by all American standards I should spend at least two months throwing my weight about those famous bowling greens in the British Isles this summer. It's the space limitation. Short sentences are fine if you have (a) thorough knowledge of what you wish to say, (b) plenty of time to write and rewrite the piece before the printer snatches it, and (c) reasonable assurance of a certain minimum available for your stuff.

What ever kind of pollen the hay fever sufferer may be allergic or sensitized to, and no matter whether his or her reaction may be hyperesthetic rhinitis, sneeze-sneeze-drip-drip, persistent coryza and malaise, or the most distressing asthma, he or she should commence at least three weeks or better six or eight weeks in advance of the hay fever season taking a daily ration of calcium and vitamin D to supplement the regular diet. This is food, not medicine, and one should continue it through the season. On written request (no clipping, please) if you provide a stamped envelope bearing your address, I'll send you a pamphlet on hay fever which contains details about this and other prophylactics or remedies for hay fever.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

What, No Shirt?

Son wears no undershirt the year around and his wife and I feel that in this zero weather we have had this winter he is risking his health. (Mrs. F. H. W.)

Answer—As long as he finds it comfortable that way, you should worry. Chill, my eye. Is your son an imbecile? Well, then, he knows enough to put on more clothes if he feels chilly.

Bronchial Cough

Nothing in your column about bronchial cough. Have you any pamphlet. (W. K.)

Answer—Chapters on chronic emphysema, bronchiectasis, winter cough, fool proof home made cough medicine, etc., in booklet Call it Cri. Ask for it in writing (not with clipping) and inclose twenty-five cents and stamped self addressed envelope.—

BROCKVILLE RATE UP

Brockville, March 20 (CP) — It's getting tough to run a municipality these days.

On the heels of Ottawa's announced 1948 tax rate—the highest in its history—Brockville declared its rate—another all-time high.

Cause of the 4½ mill jump to 52½ mills in Brockville was attributed by the town council to increases in salaries to municipal workers, costs of the hospital and Children's Aid Society and an increased share in the upkeep of the counties jail.

THREE KILLED IN CRASH

Somerset, Pa., March 20 (AP) —A two-motored airplane crashed into a mountainside today and first reports said three were killed.

The guard at the Laurel Hill Tunnel on the Pennsylvania Turnpike said he saw the plane ram the wooded hillside.

State police received a report that three bodies had been found, two women and a man.

Soo Greyhounds Defeat McIntyre Macmen by 6-5

(By The Canadian Press)

The Northern Ontario Hockey Association senior finals moved one step closer to decision last night as Sault Ste. Marie Greyhounds edged McIntyre Macmen 6-5 at McIntyre. Sault Greyhounds now hold a 2-1 lead in the best-of-five final series and have a chance of copping the title with a victory tonight.

No game was scheduled in the Ontario Hockey Association junior finals but tonight Windsor Spitfires invade Barrie for the 6th match of the best-of-seven finals with a Barrie victory meaning championship honors.

A four-goal splurge in the middle session with only one reply from Macmen gave Greyhounds their victory. The first period ended in a 1-1 tie as both teams played cosy hockey, but in the second Greyhounds took over and rapped in four goals to Macmen's one to go into a 6-2 lead as the frame ended. Style of play reversed in the final stanza as Macmen drove in for three markers without a reply.

Macmen played desperately in that third frame and had six men in the Sault zone in the last 25 seconds when they yanked goalie Alex Brownlee in an attempt to produce the tying marker. They held a two-man advantage over the Sault crew who had a player in the penalty box, but Muzz Murray in the Greyhound nets was unbeatable.

Ray Mantha put on a sparkling display of goal - getting in the second period with a hat - trick performance. He had previously scored the first - period Greyhound goal. Rangy Ron Lay potted the other two goals for the winners.

Bummer Doran sparked the Macmen's offensive by figuring in all five McIntyre goals. He scored twice and set up the plays for the other three markers scored by Ted Lister.

Frank Boucher Doing His Best To Belie Prediction

New York, March 20 (CP) — Frank Boucher is doing his best to belie his pre-season prediction of how the National Hockey League race would wind up this year.

The New York Rangers manager said last September that his team would finish in the fourth and last playoff position. That's just where they are today, with two days of the regular schedule remaining.

He prognosticated that Toronto Maple Leafs would finish first, and second place would be a toss-up between Detroit Red Wings and Boston. Boston hasn't a chance to overtake Detroit, now one point behind the league leading Leafs.

Rangers are in a playoff for the first time since 1942, the year Boucher ended his 21-year playing career in professional hockey.

Stirling Held To 5-5 Tie By Port Dalhousie

The hockey moppets of the Ontario Minor Hockey Association Midget "C's" lived up to all advance notices here last night.

The starry Port Dalhousie kids were held to a 5-5 tie by the still undefeated classy kid crew from Stirling. And 1,600 fans howled their approval of two teams that went out there and battled for the victory alone.

It may have been a touch of stage fright, although the Stirling kids, dear knows, have had enough experience. But they couldn't get clicking until the starry Port Dalhousie youngsters had rammed home two goals in the first ten minutes of the opening period.

Then they flashed to life. Young Mason led the Stirling offensive and assisted by Robson and Don Wanamaker, the starry young centre flashed the red light twice to even the score while hundreds of Stirling supporters howled their approval.

It was a nip-and-tuck battle all the way with two grand teams of kids out there giving all they had to cop the coveted nod in their first meeting. They flashed lots of speed and they gave the crowded arena a finished display. The second game will be played in St. Catharines on Saturday.

It was a see-saw battle until the third period when the Stirling kids were two goals down. Wanamaker and Mason, led a fiery Stirling offensive and both crashed the goal gate to tie up the score.

Bob Daniels, Jim Turner, Eddie Cadot and Bob Humphries were the pick of the visitors with Ross Mason, Doug Wanamaker, Roger Robson and Ted Dobson starring for Stirling.

PLA - MORS HAVE CHANCE

(By The Associated Press)

Kansas City Pla-Mors retained a chance today of winning or tying for first place in the United States Hockey League's northern division.

Bert Olmstead fired in four goals at Houston last night as the Pla-Mors won 7-4 to raise their season's total in the standings to 72. Minneapolis, with one game remaining on its schedule, has 74 points. The Pla-Mors have two games left.

Houston plays at Dallas, Kansas City at Tulsa and Omaha at Minneapolis tonight.

If both Minneapolis and Kansas City win tonight, or if both lose tonight, the outcome of the race hinges on Sunday's game at St. Paul between the Pla-Mors and the Saints.

BONY EXTREMITIES

The human hand contains 28 bones — eight in the wrist, five in the centre or palm of the hand and three in each finger and the thumb.

YOUTHFUL COUPLE

Leap year had nothing to do with the marriage of 12-year-old Cozette Morris Boyd, right, a seventh grade student at a public school in Ashland City, Tenn. According to her husband, Elmer Boyd, 20, a farm worker, he proposed marriage before Leap year and was virtually accepted. The youthful pair eloped to Kentucky. Both families approved the wedding.

The Smelt Are Coming Back

Toronto — The smelt are coming back! This is the good word passed along by officials of the Department of Lands and Forests who state that the popular little fish should again be found in large numbers when the spring run starts in April.

With their return, the mystery of the smelt becomes more complicated. Three questions are involved; Where did the smelt come from? Why did they disappear so completely a few years ago? What is the explanation for this sudden re-appearance?

There are many stories told of the first appearance of the fish in the Great Lakes and it is commonly understood a few from New England waters were first planted in Crystal Lake, Michigan. From there, they escaped into Lake Michigan and increased to enormous numbers. The story is that a farm lad, crossing a small bridge late at night heard a mysterious "whispering" on the surface of a creek, dipped a milk pail into the water, and pulled it out full of fish.

Swarmed in Creeks

That may not be entirely true, but it is certainly true that from that day on, for some years, practically every creek entering the lake carried its load of the fish. They spread from Lake Michigan into Lake Huron, the St. Clair River, Lake Erie and Lake Ontario. Stragglers turned up in Lake Superior.

Residents of Ontario living along the Great Lakes caught them in buckets, handnets and seines. Some Michigan communities staged smelt weeks, smelt days, and even elected smelt queens.

Around the Ontario creeks there was no trouble in catching the fish. All you had to do was walk down to the creek on a dark night, dip blindly into the water, and pull up a dipnet containing anything from one to a dozen of the little fish.

Then almost overnight, the smelt began to disappear. Large numbers of them were found strewn along lake shores and beaches, leaving no doubt that they had died off. The spawning runs ceased almost completely, and the creeks, which literally teemed with life for a few days during the run, knew them no more. Biologists and commercial fishermen were uncertain whether to be happy or sad as they pondered this mysterious disappearance. It is true that lake trout feed on smelt, but there is also some question as to the destructive effects of smelt on the fry of lake trout and other commercially valuable fish. This question has not yet been satisfactorily answered.

In Increasing Numbers

Last year, the Department of Lands and Forests began to receive reports of smelt being retaken at various points along the Great Lakes. More of them were being caught in Lake Superior than had ever been the case before. Gradually they showed up again in ever - increasing numbers. Now they are on record as having been caught in northern Lake Superior and as far south and east as Kingston, in the St. Lawrence River.

If they follow the customary pattern and nature does not interfere with their normal procedure, smelt-dipping should be as popular as ever this year. Rubber waders are handy, because the best dipping is usually in the middle of a fast-running stream. You don't require a lot of fancy equipment to catch smelt.

Best Way to Cook

Most sportsmen are aware of the fact that rangers and overseers who have to cook their own meals on patrol trips or in the general course of their daily travel, are no slouches with a frying pan. With the reports that smelt are coming back in their teeming millions this spring, four overseers attending the Sportsmen's Show in Toronto agreed that the following is the proper way to cook smelt:

The fish average about 10 inches long. They need not be scaled but it is probably better to do so. Cleaning is simple. Cut through the back of the neck and bend the head forward. Pull on the head and the intestines will come out attached thereto. Roll the fish in flour or cracker crumbs and drop them in deep fat. Cook until brown and crisp. Once the fish is cooked to a crisp, the backbone can easily be removed and the rest of the bones are so small and tender they can all be eaten without harm.

NO NEED FOR PANIC

Toronto, March 20 — (CP) — C. E. Lackner, director of the dairy branch of the Ontario Department of Agriculture, said last night consumers should not "get into a panic" over the present butter shortage.

Mrs. Urena Pinner Celebrates Her 94th Birthday

Marmora. — On Thursday, March 18, Mrs. Urena Pinner, Marmora's grand old lady, celebrated her ninety-fourth birthday quietly in her home on Burstall Street, where she has resided for fifty years. For eighty-two years she has been a resident of Marmora. Claiming Springbrook as her birthplace, she came to Marmora at the age of twelve with her parents, the late Wellington McWilliams and Maria Hollister as her father became proprietor of the establishment known in those days as McWilliams' Tavern and later as the Pringle House. Today the site is occupied by the residence of Cecil Neal, whose dairy is adjacent.

Mrs. Pinner has excellent preservation of her faculties and does her own housework, caring for herself and son, Fred, unaided. She stated that she felt no older than a year ago. She does less reading than formerly and regretted that she had to give up crocheting which she enjoyed for so great a part of her life.

Besides her son, Fred, she has two daughters, Mrs. T. J. Butler (Pearl), Toronto, and Mrs. G. R. Hartley (Nina), Marmora. Her husband, the late George Pinner, died in 1915 and of seven children born of the marriage, four are deceased.

Mrs. Pinner is the oldest member of St. Paul's Anglican Church, "across the way", and was for many years an active member of its Ladies' Guild. She is also an orginal member of Marmora Women's Institute. In all generations and walks of life locally she possesses many friends who appreciate another opportunity to congratulate her on having passed another milestone of her life.

Popular Melody Not Maori Song

By J. C. GRAHAM
(Canadian Press Correspondent)

Auckland, N.Z., (CP)—Although the popular song "Now is the Hour" now sweeping North America as it has done in many other countries is generally supposed to be a Maori folk-song, it is that by adoption only.

Its origin is disputed but it is generally thought to have been written in Australia about 35 years ago by a Clement Scott under the title "Swiss Cradle Song".

The song came to New Zealand before the First World War and immediately became popular with the Maoris. Under the name "Haere Ra" ("Farewell") it has been sung by Maori concert parties ever since. It was taken up by the Maori prophet Ratana who instructed that it should be sung as the closing hymn at all services of the Ratana religious sect which still flourishes.

During the Second World War the song swept into popularity in Egypt, Italy and most other countries where New Zealand forces served. As sung by the famous Maori battalion it had a quality which instantly appealed. The Maori altered the original "Swiss Cradle Song" slightly to conform with their rhythms and music and they gave it a haunting quality which seems to have found a universal appeal. It proved one of the song hits of the year in Italy in 1945.

When Gracie Fields, noted English comedienne, visited New Zealand early in 1946 she heard the song at a Maori welcome in Rotorua. She was captivated by the lilting melody and the driver of the government car in which she travelled in New Zealand, Nat Mounsey, taught it to her as they travelled along New Zealand roads

Gracie Fields sang "Now is the Hour" on a BBC program in England after her return from New Zealand and the instant acclaim it received led to it spreading in an even wider wave of popularity.

EARLY LUNACY TEST

In early times the test for lunacy was for a patient to count to 20, tell his age, and name his mother and father, although in some cases of lunacy the patient has an extraordinary memory and great powers of calculation.

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

BY WINIFRED E. WILSON

HIGH FLIERS

"At what height birds can fly we do not know, for no systematic attempt has been made to collect data."

Since this statement was made by a scientist in 1912 there have been many discoveries, making it now possible to give accurate figures. Amateur bird watchers report seeing Eagles "at an incredible height". But the naked eye cannot see very far. Binoculars help us considerably, and before airplanes became common an instrument, still used in Europe, was invented for computing height. Air pilots, however, can give exact information on bird flight.

There is an enormous difference in the altitude at which various species fly. Sanderlings sometimes almost touch the water in migration just off the coast, whereas a scientist photographing the sun estimated that geese coming into his picture must have been almost 5 1-2 miles above the earth. The higher we go, the more rarefied the atmosphere; there is a reduction in oxygen, and this air is less buoyant. Therefore it is impossible for small birds with short wings to fly high. Large birds with great expense of wing in comparison to weight of body manage best, as Vultures, Pelicans, Cranes, and some Hawks.

Bad weather forces all birds to fly low, and the majority, say aviators, never go above 3,000 feet. Nevertheless, they have identified a Lark at 6,175 feet, an Eagle at 9,750 feet, and a Plover at 12,000 feet. From a point in the Andes a Condor was once estimated to be 19,834 feet high, while Godwits and Curlews have been seen at 20,000 feet.

Human beings carry up oxygen, but how do birds manage at these altitudes? Perhaps it is possible both because of their instinct and their construction. Astronomers report that birds seen through the telescope crossing the moon are invariably found to be travelling with the air currents, even though this may take them temporarily out of their course. Birds know too how to make the best use of ascending currents. Also, their hollow, air-filled bones make the ideal combination of strength and lightness. At great heights their breathing may be difficult; but their very spongy lungs are twice as well equipped for breathing as ours: the air goes through them both on the way in and on the way out. Since feathers make the lightest and toughest covering of anything, and at the same time can be moved for steering purposes, birds are capable of aerial feats.

The Experts Say . . .

By KAY REX
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, March 18 (CP)—Whether it's a "company" meal, or just a family affair, here is a New Look dinner calculated to do any housewife proud.

Beef Saute—ingredients: 1 1-2 pounds beef steak; salt and pepper; flour; 1 1-2 teaspoons dry mustard; three tablespoons cooking oil; one-quarter cup red currant jelly; four tablespoons lemon juice; one tablespoon Worcestershire sauce.

Cut steak into one-inch cubes and roll in flour seasoned with salt and pepper. Fry in oil until brown and then cover and cook slowly 20 minutes turning frequently. Add mustard, sauce, jelly, and lemon juice and continue cooking, stirring constantly until beef is coated with a glaze of jelly.

The dessert accompanying this main course should be something light and easily digested such as fresh fruit, or prune whip.

Ingredient: one pint prune pulp; one quart whipped cream; 1 1-2 cups sugar; one teaspoon vanilla; one cup chopped nuts.

Fold the prune pulp and nuts into the whipped cream, and chill before serving.

Saint Patrick's day may be over, but the spirit of that Irish holiday lingers providing a good excuse for parties and special "green" dishes.

Home economists of the consumer section, Dominion department of agriculture, suggest a spinach salad with the flavor of spring and the color of old Erin.

St. Patrick's Salad—ingredients: two tablespoons gelatine one quarter cup cold water: 1 3-4 cups boiling water; one tablespoon salt; one eighth teaspoon pepper; three tablespoons vinegar; two teaspoons grated onion; one tablespoon sugar; one-half teaspoon spicy meat sauce; 1 3-4 cups pureed cooked spinach; one hard cooked egg.

Soak gelatine in cold water for five minutes. Add boiling water and stir until dissolved. Add salt, pepper, vinegar, onion, sugar, and sauce. Cool until partially set. Fold in pureed spinach. In the bottom of each of eight individual moulds place a slice of hard-cooked egg and pour in spinach mixture. Chill until firm and unmould to serve. Eight servings.

Household hints: The problem of quick icings for plain cakes is solved if the housewife keeps on hand a mixture of brown sugar and cinnamon, and a second mixture of grated maple sugar and chopped walnuts. A generous sprinkling of either on top of cake batter melts into icing as the cake bakes.

Educational Notes:

Finding Beauty In the Commonplace

(Contributed by Belleville Teachers' Council).

Education, like our civilization, has become increasingly complex. New subjects have been added to the curriculum and certain other subjects removed. New methods and techniques have been evolved and put into practice.

Regardless of all these new developments, there is one fundamental factor that we must keep in mind. We must help children to understand and be interested in the life around them. They must be taught to recognize and appreciate the wonder and beauty of our everyday world.

How often we ourselves walk blindly to work without noticing the life about us, so engrossed are we in our problems. We might be more successful if we could cast them from our minds temporarily, observe the beauty and the wonder of the world. Do we notice the brilliant colors of the Baltimore oriole as he perches on his swinging nest? Do we appreciate the play of sunlight on crust-covered snow—or recognize the swinging cocoon of a Polyphemus moth? How many of us consciously appreciate the interplay of colors as the sun sinks below the horizon?

I will never forget seeing my first orchid on the way home from school one night. We had nearly two miles to walk and consequently took as many shortcuts as possible. It was while resting on the top of the last rail fence that I saw growing by the side of the swamp, my first orchid, a pink lady's slipper. Never at any time since have I experienced the thrill I did then, of seeing a real, live, growing orchid. Many times I had passed that spot and seen nothing. Now my eyes were open. I began to look for things. A few days later I almost stepped on a meadow lark's nest just a few yards from where I had found the orchid.

I have made many happy discoveries since then. This winter one rather tickled my fancy—the winter call of our friend (?) the starling, as a lady passes by, or under his tree. It is a perfect imitation of a wolf howl. With signs of spring showing he has changed it to "Sweet! sweet! sweet!"

It is up to us to develop in our children a workable philosophy of life. Such a philosophy together with a sound educational background would do much to lower our rate of juvenile delinquency and would help to give our country a citizenry well versed in democratic living.

As David Swing so ably put it, "Let us be content with what we have. Let us get rid of false estimates and set up the higher ideals. A quiet home; vines of our own planting; a few books full of the inspiring of genius; a few friends worthy of being loved and able to love in return; a hundred innocent pleasures that bring no pain or remorse; a devotion to do the right that will never swerve. And to such a philosophy the world will give up all the empty joy it has."

There are many ways in which we can develop such a philosophy in children. We should strive to instill in their minds and hearts an appreciation of the simple things of life. If we teach them to think outward instead of inward and to realize that there is real beauty in little things, we have done the best we can in giving them a workable philosophy that may bring them much happiness.

Happiness is largely the art of finding joy and satisfaction in the small privileges of life. A quiet hour in the sun, instead of a faraway journey; a little outing in the nearby woods, instead of a trip abroad are our crumbs of happiness. An hour with a friend, instead of a long visitation, a flash of sunlight, a single beautiful flower are within the reach of us all.

If you can make these a part of your daily life, then you will find contentment whatever the burdens of the day have been. It is this sort of contentment that we must make possible for our children in a world in which there is so little peace because men have not yet learned to find their happiness in the simple things of life.

Apples for Appetite

Legends associated with apples are many. The Turks of early ages believed that apples were the true fountain of youth. They ate them to keep or regain the vitality of adolescent days. Another of the old customs was the eating of apples on Easter morning to be assured of good health for the remaining part of the year. With so many of these legends relating to health it is no wonder that the slogan 'An apple a day keeps the doctor away" lives on year after year.

In this country, Easter never was the right season for luscious apples. The best time to bite into a crisp apple was when the first snow was falling. Modern cold storage facilities have changed the situation so that some varieties of apples are still firm and juicy at Eastern time. In any case there are plenty of good apples ready for delicious apple dishes.

The home economists of the Consumer Section, Dominion Department of Agriculture say that some of the general rules for cooking apples are often ignored.

General Rules For Cooking Apples

1. The natural flavor of apples should be developed. This means little added spice or flavoring.
2. Whenever possible, cook apples without peeling.
3. When peeling apples drop in cold water to prevent discoloration.
4. Cover saucepan closely when making apple sauce.
5. Sugar toughens cellulose. If sauce is desired, cook without sugar, adding it when apples are cooked. Less sugar will be required. If whole pieces are preferred, make a syrup and cook apples in it.
6. Bake apples in a moderate oven 350 degrees F. to prevent the skin breaking.

On Wednesday evening, the Fellowship Club of Holloway St. United Church met in the ladies' parlor, the president, Miss Barnum presiding and conducting the business period during which various business matters were discussed.

The Worship Service in charge of Mrs. McFarlane was opened with soft music played by Mrs. Anderson. The Scripture Lesson from the 16th chapter of St. Mark's Gospel was read in unison, and Mrs. Dilts contributed "The Old Rugged Cross" as a solo.

The meeting was dismissed with the Mizpah benediction. A social hour followed with contests and the serving of refreshments by Mrs. Dilts and Mrs. Anderson.

WOMENS ACTIVITIES the ST. ANDREW'S W.M.S.

Marmora.—The March meeting of St. Andrew's W.M.S. was held recently at the home of Mrs. Frank Sweet with a good attendance of members and the President, Mrs. Burwash, in the chair. Following routine business Mrs. H. C. Barlow had charge of the devotional period with Mrs. Haacke and Mrs. Trennum assisting. Mrs. James Sproul was in charge of the Study Period which was presented in an interesting manner and dealt with the difficulties met and overcome in translating the Bible into the different dialects of the Indians in Central America and Guatemala. Mrs. Sweet, Mrs. Jarvis, Mrs. Cadigan and Mrs. Sabine read the different parts.

Mrs. Burwash closed the meeting with the doxology.

Belleville Cage Girl Entries In Senior, Junior Division Of O.S.S.A. Win Semi-Finals

Toronto, March 20 (CP)—Belleville girl entries in the senior and junior division of the Central Ontario Secondary School Association basketball playoffs here last night came out on the top end of the semi-final round as did the Orillia boys entered in the senior and junior series of the same play.

In all, eight semi-final games were contested, winners meeting in the finals today. The scores were:

Junior boys: Peterborough 43, Niagara Falls 39; Orillia 28, Belleville 11.

Junior girls: Niagara Falls 37, Bowmanville 11; Belleville 35, Owen Sound 23.

The Belleville quintets, which were given close battles in each game, stole the show in the girls competition while the Georgian Bay district champs from Orillia had an easy time in winning their encounters.

Probably the highlight of the evening was the Fort Erie-Peterborough senior boys game which was close all the way. The Forts held a one-point lead at the half with Peterborough coming through to knot the count at the three-quarter mark. Both teams played a zone defence style of play.

Jack Logan, who topped both teams with 13 points, showed the way in the final period, however, as he hit the basket from all angles to give the Forts a nine point lead with less than three minutes remaining.

Tight Defensive

Belleville and Barrie senior girls, playing a tight defensive game, went the limit before the Belleville lassies were able to walk off the floor with a 14-12 decision. In the other senior girls contest, between Burlington and Bowmanville, the former made it a rout, running up 22 points while holding the Bay of Quinte district champs to four field goals.

Trenton seniors proved no match for the taller Orillia boys who went into a lead they never relinquished, winning 35-20 going away. Lieth led the Orillia marksmen with seven points while teammates Johnston, MacTaggart and Page garnered six apiece. Doug Plunkett scored six points for the losing cagers.

In winning their engagement, 28-11, over Belleville, Orillia junior boys scored almost at will. Hamilton, of the victorious team, was high man on both squads with 13 points.

It was the Belleville girls who held up the junior name of the town, however, as they whipped Owen Sound 35-23 to enter the finals against Niagara Falls today.

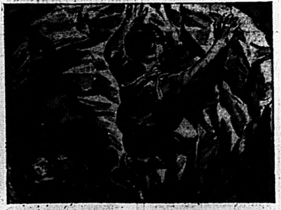
Boy Scout Rescues Youngster from Well

WINS DOW AWARD



ALAN LAKING

OF KEARNEY, ONT.

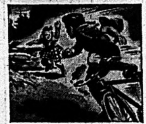
earns praise of whole community

A little girl's screams caused 15-year-old Alan Laking to jam on the brakes of his bicycle and investigate. Seeing him, the girl screamed again . . . and, in spite of her excitement, Alan made out the words "Kenneth's fallen in the well . . . Kenneth's in the well!" Racing to the scene, Alan found that a small boy of four had indeed fallen about 16 feet into a well . . . and was floundering, semi-conscious, in 8 feet of water.

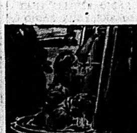
LOWERS SELF INTO WELL

The young Scout acted quickly. Gripping the side walls as well as he could, he let himself down into the water. Diving beneath the surface he grasped the boy's clothing and brought his head up. Then he tread water, holding the inert form of the little victim until help came and a ladder could be lowered into the well. The youngster recovered after artificial respiration had been given.

This Boy Scout's good deed for the day included a display of cool courage and presence of mind unusual in one so young. We are proud to pay tribute to Alan Laking of Kearney, Ontario, through the presentation of The Dow Award.



Hearing the little girl's desperate cries, Alan leaped from his bicycle and raced to the well at full speed.



Holding the boy's head above the surface, Laking tread water until a ladder was lowered and he was able to carry the lad up to safety.

THE DOW AWARD is a citation for outstanding heroism and includes, as a tangible expression of appreciation, a $100 Canada Savings Bond. Winners are selected by the Dow Award Committee, a group of editors of leading Canadian newspapers.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

BY GEORGE H. CARVER, Sports Editor.

What promises to be one of the most rugged hockey battles of the current season takes place in Memorial Arena Monday night, when Hank Goldup's Toronto Q and L Flyers cross rapiers with the Peterborough Legion in the third and final game of their Senior "B" playdown round.

The two teams have met twice and each have chalked up a win, with both games being played on ice in Lindsay that is said to have been anything but conducive to the wide-open style of hockey favored by both teams. Flyers edged the Petes 5-4 in the first tilt and the Legionnaires reversed the procedure on Thursday night, nudging the Goldup gang 4-3 to tie up the goals-to-count series at 8-all.

Thursday night's tilt was a slam-bang affair, or was as far as the ice would permit, with Referees St. Louis and Walsh dishing out fourteen misdemeanor sentences. Flyers had the Pétes on the short end of a 4-0 score at the end of the second period and appeared to have the tilt in the container. But Ned Vitarelli's crew flashed a flock of reserve power and slung home three goals to even the series.

Which all points to a razzle-dazzle slam-bang affair here on Monday night. The Peterborough supporters will arrive in special trains and have ordered 1,000 reserved seats. Another reminder of the good old days when the Petes and Belleville tore at each other in hockey combat. Seats for the game go on sale at Bill Cook's cigar emporium immediately and you'd better grab yours now.

Hank Goldup, who master-minds the Flyers, is a former Toronto Maple Leaf star, and is still with an American Hockey League team. He injured an ankle last fall chasing a mushball aronud the diamond and has not fully recovered from the hurt. He'll be here with Flyers, and will be additional color to a joust that has all the shades of fiery combat.

The Darts 'as it, mates. The old English game that caused more mental anguish to sturdy Londoners in the days of the Blitz than did Goering's Luftwaffe, has sunk its roots deeply into service men of this village. Every weekend, old and young sweats congregate at the Church Street Armouries, or the sergeant's mess of the 9th Anti Tank Regiment, and battle in league combat for the honor of their respective teams.

The Service Darts League here has grown from a toddling moppet to a man-size organization within the space of a few months. Veterans of Loos and "Wipers", Arras and Vimy, argue more or less fiercely with ruddy-faced youngsters who saw battle flame at Caen, Faluise, the Channel, the beaches and in flak-strewn skies over Europe, anent the abilities of their darts companions.

Four teams, the Hasty Pees, 9th Anti Tank Regt., CNR Veterans and the Army, Navy, Air Force Veterans are at the moment in the throes of league competition. Topping the list is the A. and N. Vets, with 30 points, followed by the Hasty Pees with 25. Then comes the CNR crew with 21 and tied with them for third slot is the 9th Regt. Games are played each weekend and upwards of 100 spectators, including ladies, view the matches.

Added incentive was given the other day when the Guildford and Church Company, an English insurance firm, presented the League with a handsome silver challenge, emblematic of the championship of the loop, through its local agent, Jack Lee. The trophy will be presented to the winning team at the end of the present schedule at a special ceremony.

Local players, practically all of whom learned the game while overseas, are becoming expert 'dartists.' They heave the overgrown pins with an uncanny accuracy, and the ability of some of the lads will compare favorably with the habitues of the Elephant and Castle. The Load of Hay; The Pig and Whistle, The Cock and Bull and other well-known London pubs, where 'alf-and-'alf, a pint 'o mild-and-bitter, a snort of gin-and-cloves, or the milder porter-and?sugar, is secondary when the darts champions take over for their evening pastime.

The Hasty Pees team clashes with the Army and Navy league leaders in games scheduled for this weekend. In the second series of three singles, two doubles and one triple, the Anti Tanks will meet the CNR in a match which will decide third and fourth places.

CANADIAN SPORT SNAPSHOTS

By H. DENT HODGSON
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, March 20 — (CP)—In one of the country's few remaining strictly - competitor sports, the word is simply the new-world proverb: 'Go west, young man."

It showed up at Switzerland, where Canadian skiers, fresh from one of the world's snowiest countries, finished ignominously, leaving the Olympic honors to the Dominion's ice artists, figure-skating Barbara Ann Scott, and the hockey-playing R.C.A.F. Flyers.

Even allowing for the injury plague which riddled the Canadian hickory contingent, there was little to be proud of in the showing. And the answer didn't lie with the Canadian ski team, which was just as sound athletically as any of the others.

Reidar Andersen, Norway's leading ski jumper, in an interview with Bill (Ottawa Journal) Westwick, had at least half the reply to the question of why other countries continue to dominate the skiing world.

"I think the best answer," he said, "is to ask you why Canadians are the greatest hockey players in the world.

"There are many countries in the world with lots of snow, an ideal climate for the game, plenty of rinks; but Canadians are still the greatest hockey players in the world. The answer, I'm sure, is the competition. In Norway the boys start out to become ski jumpers in the same way Canadian boys start in at hockey. But to be good they have to beat hundreds and hundreds of other boys with talent — all striving for the same end.

"It is competition in any sport that brings improvement."

Think of the number of kids in your particular alley who are comers in the skijumping game at the age of 10 and compare them with the number of fledgling hockey stars, and you see why Andersen, in the Central Canada ski championships here last weekend, emerged as easy winner with a record hop of 168 feet on the local death-run.

The other half of the answer comes from a Canadian — Ottawa's Harvey Clifford who was one of the leading lights on the Dominion's Olympic ski team at St. Moritz. Harvey plugs a ski-tow in the Rockies as the eventual solution.

"If the Canadian boys had a chance to spend part of the time in the Rockies with means to transport them to the top of the mountains, in addition to competing against outstanding skiers, they would soon place near the top in the international meets," Clifford says.

The downhill runs in the Alps drop 5,000 feet in eight minutes. Try to get a run in the Laurentians, where the bulk of young Canadian skiers are concentrated by population, that takes more than two minutes. Canadian skiers can be just as good as those of other lands, but legs trained for a two-minute course can't be expected to stand up for a gruelling five to eight minutes of split-second schuss and swish.

SHOULD BATHE FREQUENTLY

There was an excuse for only the "Saturday night bath" years ago when water had to be heated on top of the kitchen stove. But, say health authorities, with modern conveniences we should try to bathe every day.

Sports Shorts from Britain

By SHAUN McQUILLAN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, March 20 — (CP) — What makes a great athlete? Sir Adolphe Abrahams, honorary medical officer to the British Olympic teams, says good physiques are usual but not necessarily good health.

Writing in the London Evening Standard, Sir Adolphe said Britain, the Dominions, Colonies and the United States will always be prominent in the sport world, but every nation and even every race may produce examples to prove those countries have no monopoly.

"The marathon race, for example, has been won by a Greek, an Argentine, a Japanese, and an Algerian. And in all probability as the vogue of athleticism spreads exceptional athletes will appear from even more remote parts of the world."

Athleticism, Sir Adolphe asserts is a special attribute, but an athlete may be delicate and even unhealthy. On the whole the essential feature is co-ordination — "and possibly an elusive chemical substance."

Soccer tours between the United Kingdom and the dominions, like present cricket and rugby trips, may result from an Empire conference to be held in London during the lympic Games.

The British Football Association is awaiting replies to invitation letters sent recently to Canada. Australia, New Zealand, South Africa and the West Indies.

Besides tours, questions of common policy between Empire countries and methods of encouraging soccer in the Commonwealth, are likely to be discussed.

Tommy McGovern, well known British lightweight boxer. who began his professional career in the United States after the British Board of Boxing Control refused him a licence to box in the United Kingdom, now has permission to box in Britain.

Administrative stewards of the board, after interviewing McGovern reprimanded him for boxing outside their jurisdiction. But the rebuke is a nominal one.

Several fight offers have already been made. Tommy will bar nobody so long as he eventually gets a crack at the British and European title.

London, March 18 (CP) — All Olympic boxing bouts this August will be strictly in the tank — no matter how hard competitors are trying to win.

The fistic encounters will be staged on an "island" in the middle of 750,000 gallons of water — where Olympic swimmers will have raced the previous week. Officials won't have time, in the single day's grace allowed them by the crowded Games time-table, to have Wembley Pool drained and a more orthodox ring erected.

The island will support a ring with apron space for seconds and officials. Two bridges will connect it with the "mainland."

Golf enthusiasts all around the world will shed a quiet tear at the news that the Grand Hotel at St. Andrews—spectators' paradise overlooking the 18th green—is to be converted into a seminary.

The hotel's facade has for many years been the backcloth of the most photographed scene in golf and through its windows fans have watched enough drama and tragedy to line a library.

They saw Ted Blackwell's Homeric drive with a "gutty" that travelled 366 yards clean to the clubhouse steps in 1892 and has the natives still talking.

Only two years ago they saw Bobby Locke, Henry Cotton and Johnny Bulla come to the last green all square in the open. Each lay within a yard of the cup, on the slippery, sloping turf. Each played his putt with utmost concentration. Each missed.

"It is intriguing to wonder," wondered golfer-turned-sportswriter Henry Longhurst, "if all the short putts that have been missed on the 18th green at St. Andrews were laid end to end, how many times round the links they would stretch."

Realization of Irish Michael O'Flanagan's ambition to equal the sporting fame of his elder brother, Kevin, made football history when Michael was selected for the Ireland-Scotland rugby international.

Kevin and Michael now can claim the distinction of being the only brothers to gain soccer and rugger international honors. But the day they play rugby in the same international team—as they did in the 1946 Ireland-England soccer clash—has yet to come.

This is Michael's first season in the rugby world. As a Lansdowne winger he was just another rugby player, but when tried in the centre was an immediate success, feinting at speed in many a dazzling run.

The Coming Trout Season

With trout season just around the corner so to speak, the blood pressure of most anglers tends to step up a few points about this time of the year. Calendars are marked with a big, red X, indicating Emancipation Day, which is what we have christened the opening day of trout season. Probably you have the days counted—I know we have. Twenty-five days more, but it seems like twenty-five weeks.

Of course, if you happen to be a fly tyer, there is no problem with you about what to do with those unoccupied hours. Just the same, we'll bet that you haven't finished all the preseason chores. Sure, you have taken down your reels, scrubbed out the old grease, and put them in good shape—at least, you should have by this time. No doubt your lines are freshly dressed with rubbed-in applications of line dressing. Your rods are varnished anew, closing up those chipped places that are bound to occur each year. But what about your leader box?

Maybe you use Nylon leaders and don't carry a leader box. Well, we used to do that until we learned that a soaked Nylon leader will fish better and sink more readily than a dry one. Then we went back to carrying leader boxes. Each year the pads in your leader box can stand some inspection. Old pads are apt to rot and develop a fungus growth that raises hob with gut leaders and, unless it is checked with a solution of sodium bicarbonate, gives the box an unpleasant odor. We like new leader pads each year—one pair of heavy ones that fit exactly the shape of the box, between which we keep our leaders ready for use, and a sheaf of four light pads, slightly smaller, in which we carry leader points in sizes 2-x, 3-x, and 4-x. These lighter pads are fastened at one side so that they stay together.

And what about your leader supply? Believe me, it is false economy to use last year's leaders for this year's fishing. We are pretty ruthless about old leaders, throwing all the used ones away and starting fresh each Spring.

No doubt you have gone over your hook points to see that they are needle-sharp, but what about those dry flies you used last season? A few seconds in the steam from the spout of a tea kettle will work wonders in restoring their original, tackle-shop fluffiness. Just set the kettle to boiling and then, with a pair of tweezers, pick up the fly by the bend of the hook and hold it right next to the spout in the hot steam for a moment. Then stand it on its nose to dry.

And here's a trick that will make flies last a long, long time. Hackles are apt to grow "tired" after you have used flies for a while. Even though you steam them out, they lose some of their stiffness and mat down rather easily. Dip a stiletto or a long needle into some clear lacquer so that a small drop adheres to its point. Now, carefully, hold the fly so that the hook shank is perpendicular and deposit that small drop of lacquer at the base of the hackles, just behind the head of the fly. Hold the fly erect for a second until the locquer has had time to flow down and distribute itself. Then set it aside to dry. Don't put in too much lacquer or it will spread too far and make the hackles and wings too stiff.

Do you carry a "leadersink" button on your fishing coat? That is one handy little gadget. Whether you are fishing wet fly or dry fly, it is always better to have your leader under the surface. If it floats, it puts a dent in the surface tension of the water that makes a 4-x leader look like a cable. A leadersink button pins on like a licence button, and you have a quick, soapy lather with which to scrub your leader so that it will sink without any trouble.

And how do you carry your dry-fly oil? There are all sorts of ways, of course, and I guess I've tried most of them. Carrying a bottle in your pocket is a nuisance. Every time you want it you have to dig for it. Nine out of ten of the special oil carriers leak. The watch-case type and the atomizer type put on too much oil and they leak, too. In desperation, I make my own oil carrier. Here's how—

In every five-and-dime there is a cosmetic counter covered with little bottles of finger-nail lacquer. Explain your problem to the saleslady—ten to one she has a father or a brother or a boy friend who is a fisherman and she'll enter into the spirit of the thing. What you want is a small bottle with a screw top and a little brush fastened to the cork. She'll find it for you. Take it home, clean it out with solvent (she'll sell you that, too. It's called "Polish Remover,") and let it dry thoroughly. Make sure all the lacquer is out of the brush so that it stays soft.

Now, get a strip of soft leather—buckskin is fine, or part of an old glove or an old wallet and cut it about six inches long and as wide as the wider side of the bottle. Next, about an inch from one end, cut a longitudinal slit in the leather just large enough to go over the top of the bottle. Wrap the long end of the leather down around the bottom of the bottle and back up again so that it extends up from the cork. Fasten this harness in place with a wrapping of stout cord around the neck of the bottle. Round off the end of the flap and cut a slit in it for a button hole. Then button it over one of the buttons of your fishing coat. Even better, sew a button to the left outside breast of your coat and carry the bottle there. Now you have an oil bottle that won't leak and which is always handy. You don't have to drown your fly in oil—the brush lets you oil only the parts of the fly that you want oiled.

And what about a stiletto? A big one is a nuisance and most of them are too long and too blunt. Make your own in ten minutes from a piece of pine, about half the diameter of a lead-pencil and an inch and a quarter long, with the eye of a medium-sized needle shoved into the end of the pine handle. That's all the stiletto you need, and you can carry it in your fly box without even knowing it's there. Mighty handy when you need it and you'll need it often.

Oh, yes—your Solunar Tables! Get the habbit of clipping out the weekly schedules and slipping the clippings into your fishing coat or one of your fly boxes. That, when you come right down to it, is the handiest item on the list.

Copper Cliff C.I. Too Classy An Aggregation for Lighter Belleville Squad, Win 11-2

Kingston, March 20 (CP)—The Copper Cliff High School and the Kingston Collegiate gained the right to enter the final round of the Ontario Secondary Schools Association senior hockey playoffs in the semi-final round played here last night.

Copper Cliff, northern Ontario representatives, easily whipped Belleville of the central division 11-2 while Kingston Collegiate, eastern winners, blanked Windsor Lowe, western representatives 3-0 in the second contest.

The final game will be played here Saturday night.

The Copper Cliff C.I. proved too classy an aggregation for a lighter Belleville squad as they counted three goals in the opening period with Jerry Toppazzini counting twice on assists from Gord Bennett and Lou Core scored a singleton before Belleville's Harry Brown beat Morris Farrell just before the period ended.

The winners added another four counters in the second frame as they swarmed around the Belleville net for minutes at a time and only the sparkling goal tending of Don Barclay in the Belleville cage kept the losers from suffering a much worse defeat.

Brief Spark of Life

Belleville showed a brief spark of life early in the third period to test Morris Farrell seriously with Pat Gilmour finally scoring on a pass from Bill Strahan.

However Copper Cliff took over again with the Bennett-Toppazzani-Bellay line dominating proceedings. Gord Bennett whipped home two counters in a minute and Lou Core sandwiched in a neat solo effort before Bennett scored his third goal of the period.

In the other game after a scoreless first period which almost ended in a brawl the Kingston Collegiate scored all three of their counters in the middle period to give them the game.

Lineups:

Belleville: Goal, Barclay; defence, Taylor, Green; centre, Brown; wings, Gilmour, Strahan; subs, Stewart, Thompson, Rivett, Carmichael, Arnott, Scrymgeour, Milligan, Bradshaw.

Inkerman Rockets One Step Closer To Junior Title

Ottawa, March 20 — (CP)—Inkerman Rockets last night were a step closer to the Ottawa District Hockey Association junior championship and the right to meet the Maritime champions in the Memorial Cup playoffs by downing Ottawa Senators 3-1 in the second game of their best-of-five series. Inkerman won the first game 8-5.

A crowd of 8,000 saw Lloyd LaPorte's Rockets put the game away early in the middle frame with two quick counters and another late in the period after limiting the city champions to one goal early in the initial period. There was no scoring in the final frame.

Ottawa's star centreman, Toby Defalco, gave the Senators a fast lead at the 56 second mark of the first period on a pass from Archie Richardson and Mike Strelbisky. But that was all for Senators.

In the second period Erwin Duncan tallied two goals for the small but punchy Rockets. He hooked up with brother Edwin Duncan for his first counter while his second was scored on an unassisted effort. Bob Lunny scor- the payoff goal at the 4:55 mark of the period on assists by Frank Whittaker and Gordie Brown.

The third and perhops final game of the series will be played here this afternoon.

TWO-CAR FAMILIES

More than 1,000,000 United States families make daily use of two automobiles a survey shows, indicating that 90 per cent of the second cars are not only smaller and more economical but also help to lengthen the life of the family's No. 1 car.

Leafs Go Into Final Series With One-Point Lead

Now comes the wind-up, the dough blows in the National Hockey League, the last weekend of the 60-game schedule.

Either Toronto Maple Leafs or Detroit Red Wings will win the League title and the Prince of Wales Cup. The two top teams battle tonight at Toronto, and again at Detroit Sunday in the final league game.

The Toronto Leafs go into the climactic series with a one-point edge. If they beat Detroit tonight they're league champions. If Detroit wins, then the Leafs will be down one point when they face Wings on their own ice at Detroit Sunday.

Regardless of who wins, Detroit and Toronto will be the two top teams going into the Stanley Cup playoffs against Boston Bruins and New York Rangers But the play-off schedule can't be settled until after Sunday night, because apart from the leaders, New York Rangers have a chance to tie the Boston Bruins for third place.

Playoffs Arranged

The Stanley Cup playoffs have the first team against the third, and the second team against the fourth. Ain't nobody who can tell which is which until Sunday's results are in. It's only a few days since it was known that Toronto, Detroit, New York and Boston would be the Stanley Cup teams. Montreal Canadiens were eliminated at virtually the last minute, and Chicago's tail-end Black Hawks, a fighting team since Charley Conacher took over the coaching at the start of the year, still threatened to upset the applecart until about a week ago.

Anyway, it's the league title which occupies attention at the moment. Detroit Wings have been working out on the spacious ice at Toronto's Maple Leaf Gardens, and the only fly in their ointment is that Bill Quakenbush, their very effective defenceman, has a thumb injury. On their side the Leafs may be without Joe Kulkay, defenceman famous for his work in killing off penalties to his team. Kulkay, iron man when a Leaf is in the cage, has a gimpy knee, hurt in practice at St. Catharines.

Big Crowds at Toronto

With standing room jammed it will be a crowd of better than 13,000 tonight when the Wings and Leafs skate out at Toronto.

Tonight's other game has the two tail-enders battling at Montreal, where the Black Hawks may make things hot for the Canadiens.

On Sunday, beside the Toronto-Detroit game, the schedule winds up with Montreal at Boston and Chicago at New York.

Those other games have an important bearing on the league scoring championship. At the moment Buddy O'Connor of New York has a four-point edge on Elmer Lach of Montreal.

Montreal Royals Will Not Make Trip to Britain

(By The Canadian Press)

Frank Selke, general manager of the Montreal forum, said yesterday the proposed trip of Montreal Royals to England for a series of games with British hockey teams is all off and the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association is planning to send an intermediate team instead. Royals, won the Allan Cup last year but quickly faded out of the playoff picture this season at the hands of Quebec Aces.

Edith Skitch, Edmonton's all-round track and field performer, has arrived in Montreal where she will train for the Dominion championships and the Olympic trials.

At West Palm Beach, Fla., Toronto Maple Leafs of the International League yesterday held the American League Philadelphia Athletics to four hits to edge them out 3-2, in an exhibition baseball game.

Billy Talbert of New York blasted his way into the finals of the United States indoor tennis championships at New York last night by outlasting the veteran Frank Shields of New York, 6-4, 6-3, 6-2. Now the only man who stands between Talbert and the singles title vacated by Jack Kramer when he turned professional, is young Sid Swartz of Brooklyn, a freshman at Miami (Fla.) University.

Halifax St. Mary's won the Maritime Junior Hockey Championship last night when Charlottetown Abegweits forfeited their final series with the defending champions.

Frank Selke, president of Montreal forum, said yesterday he will leave Sunday night for Western Canada to look over amateur hockey material with an eye to bolstering the Montreal Canadiens.

Orchestra leader Guy Lombardo will make an attempt at the United States motor boat record for a measured mile on Indian Creek, Fla., next Wednesday, it was announced yesterday.

Eaton Griffith of England was elected president of the International Federation of Tennis yesterday at Paris.

CELEBRATES A QUARTER CENTURY OF SERVICE TO THE MOTORING PUBLIC
Twenty-Five Years of Service
SUPERTEST
1923 1948
Twenty-five years ago "SUPERTEST" started business with one service station in London, Ontario. It was a crowded field where competition even then was tremendous. However, the business was founded with some very definite ideas embodied in a new conception of service to motorists. The central theme in the minds of the founders of the business was, and still is; "Be sincerely interested in the customer and his car—be really anxious to do all possible to make his motoring safe and carefree—do all we can to save him trouble." Simple enough, isn't it? Yet that formula, with quality products, developed a tremendous customer following that grew by leaps and bounds. It built a business from one pump in 1923 to over 10,000 pumps in 1948.
In celebration of the Quarter Century Anniversary, tenants and dealers of Belleville Branch held a social evening in the Quinte Hotel last night at which Long Association Awards were presented to the following:

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

We have fun at our stag club. No women are allowed. So, we can bawl heck out of each other without anybody taking offence. And each can try out his pet bridge theory on some dog.

It is every man for himself. No holds are barred. Some of the boys like poker bridge. Here is where they let go with the bluffing they have stored up in their customary conservative pursuits.

To each his own preference in system. Some mix several into an unrecognizable intrigue. This brings out weird results. But it is an outlet for their pent up restrictions in other circles.

Each bid is given the Oats treatment. It sounds like this: "Oh, it's an opening in the cumbersome system," or "Oh, it's a responding bid according to the Four Asels," or "Oh, it's a pass by Moron."

One is likely to bid four no-trump without an ace in his hand. He is reaching for a slam. A disastrous result is inevitable. So, he defends it with: "Oh, it's permissible under Blackhead."

Another bounces in with four clubs. Partner takes it to mean a biddable suit or the ace of it. But he hears: "Oh, it's that new ace and king asking convention."

Take a hand like this:

♠A 6
♥A Q 7 4 2
♣8 4 3 2

It is not a sound opening bid, being shy a high card. But no man likes to be found passing such a hand. So, he starts one heart.

Those who fancy this opening usually fall flat on their fancies. Forced by their partners, they bid again. The pair winds up in a three no-trump contract that is short of high cards. Down they go.

But bridge cuts some odd capers. A contract that should fall in defeat is sometimes salvaged by a lucky lead or freak play. This puts spice into the game. Men like that.

Three Indians Believed Drowned Reported Safe

London, Ont., March 20 (CP)—Three Indians believed drowned last night after they were swept on a raft down the rampaging Thames River from Muncey village, 25 miles southwest of here, were found this morning wandering near the banks of the river.

Police at London reported they received a telephone call from Muncey about 10.30 a.m. that the trio was safe. No further details were immediately available.

DIED NATURAL DEATH

Sudbury, March 19 — (CP)—A loney Sudbury district trapper, Peter Meri, 75, was found dead in his cabin on Nepawassi Lake, in Burwash township on Thursday. Matti Volpin, a guard of the Burwash industrial farm discovered Meri's body in the cabin, some 5½ miles east of Estaire. Police said today that Meri appeared to have died a natural death.

The Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, March 20 (AP) — "Yes, sir," said the old-timer, "tonight's will be the 20th academy awards, and I've seen 'em all.

"I can remember when Doug and Mary and D. W. (Griffiths) were in on the start of the academy a couple of decades ago. The first actor to get an award was Emil Jennings for "The Way of All Flesh." I bet that's one Oscar the academy would like to get back.

"Then there was the night that Vice-President Curtis came from Washington to give the award address. He talked for a couple of hours. Roscoe Ates had most of the crowd out in the lobby watching him put on an act while Curtis talked. Will Hays used to talk at those early ones, and that was something, too.

Enough Drama

"There's been enough drama at the awards for a number of pictures. Like when J. L. Warner and Hal Wallis had almost a running race to see which would receive the 'Casablanca' award. J. L. won, and Wallis left Warners soon afterward. And when Sam Goldwyn and Willie Wyler exchanged compliments over 'Best Years'—and and then went back to their feud.

"And when Olivia Dehavilland and Joan Fontaine tossed unsisterly words backstage last year.

"There have been nice moments, too. Like Bob Hope's giving an Oscar to his pal Bing for 'Going My Way' — and then clowning while Bing made his speech.... Jimmy Stewart in his army uniform, getting his for 'Philadelphia Story.' When he got home, Burgess Meredith looked at the Oscar and said, 'where did you get that — Ocean Park pier?'

Sickbed Award

"Then there was the night Joan Crawford got her 'Mildred Pierce' award at home in a sickbed....when "It Happened one Night" swept nearly every Oscar in the book....when Jimmy Dunn heard he was getting one and let out a "whoop!" that echoed through Grauman's Chinese....

"Unforgettable Faces' Luise Rainer, who won two years in a row, then faded from the Hollywood scene... Harold Russell, who proudly held an Oscar in each artificial hand....

"Yes, the academy awards are sentimental and pompous and over-glamorized. But I'm darned if I don't get a kick out of them."

In Manhattan

By PAT USSHER
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

New York, March 20 — (CP)—George Bernard Shaw moved into close proximity with farce in "You Never Can Tell" and gives every indication of enjoying it.

The Theatre Guild production of this comedy, first shown here in 1905, is enjoyable too and if the Shavian plot is a thin one, the script still sparkles with the author's pungent comments on manners and morals at the turn of the century.

This is a portrait of a lady of the 1890s who has brought up her 3 children in advanced fashion, shunning sentiment, indoctrinating modernism and keeping them in ignorance of a father and husband she detests.

It is a handsome period piece, with brilliant settings and costumes by Stewart Chaney and nimble, well-timed direction by Peter Ashmore. Leo G. Carroll gives a thoroughly satisfying performance as a waiter who discreetly guides the remainder of the rather temperamental cast. The entire company is excellent. Walter Hudd makes a nicely-polished solicitor, William Devlin mingles pompousness with acid comments and Ralph Forbes is fine as the choleric, frustrated father and husband. On the distaff side, Frieda Inescort plays the modern mama, Faith Brook—a daughter of actor Clive Brook — her elder daughter and Patricia Kirkland her younger laughter with just the right verve.

It is not the best of Shaw but it is good entertainment.

"Oklahoma!" Anniversary

Special festivities are planned for the St. James Theatre on the night of March 31 when "Oklahoma!" celebrates its fifth anniversary at that showcase. The longest-running musical in American history has attracted nearly 4,500,000 customers there during its performances, which will reach 2,134 that night. Among the stage celebrities who have appeared in the Richard Rodgers - Oscar Hammerstein success are Aldred Drake, Celeste Holm, Howard Da Silva, Joan Roberts, Joan McCracken, Bambi Linn, John Baiti and Pamela Britton.

ARMY CORPORAL KILLED

Kingston, March 19 —(CP)— Cpl. Joseph Dornstauder, Vibank, Sask., of the Canadian Army, was killed and George Treneer, local truck driver, is in hospital with serious injuries as a result of a collision seven miles east of this city last night.

The mishap occurred when a transport truck stalled on the highway and a second truck stopped to haul the first vehicle into Kingston. Treneer's truck plowed into one of the other vehicles, killing Dornstauder instantly.

NEW AUSTRALIAN DAM

The proposed Eildon dam in Victoria, Australia, will be 244 feet high, 2,960 feet long and contain 10,740,000 cubic yards of water.

George Sanders as Bel Ami, the suave heartbreaker, and five of his favorites in Loew-Lewin's production of Guy Maupassant's "The Private Affairs of Bel Ami". The film is a United Artists release and opens on Monday at the McCarthy Theatre. The lovely ladies are Susan Douglas, Marie Wilson, Angela Lansbury, Ann Dvorak and Frances Dee.

AT THE CAPITOL — Two of the greatest westerns ever filmed—"Jesse James" and "The Return of Frank James" — come to the screen of the Capitol Theatre on Monday to thrill audiences anew with their exciting adventure, pulse-pounding action and thrilling romance. The two 20th. Century-Fox encore triumphs, presented on one program bring Tyrone Power, Gene Tierney and Henry Fonda to the screen with brilliant supporting players.

AT THE BELLE—Lovely Noreen Nash and leading man Robert Paige let a horse come between them—but only temporary—in this scene from the Eagle-Lion Cinecolor (Hollywood) production, "Red Stallion" opening today at the Belle Theatre. Ted Donaldson is cast as the youngster in this poignant and heart-warming story, featuring Jane Darwell and Guy Kibbee.

Egypt to Purchase Latest Planes for Her Air Force

By HAIG NICHOLSON

Cairo— (Reuters)— When the question of the building up of Egypt's armed forces came under review in the Senate recently, it was revealed that the most modern planes are being obtained for the Egyptian Air Force, that arms and munitions factories are to be established and—that the cost of an Egyptian soldier's uniform is $280 compared with $100 in other countries.

"Egypt is determined to build up an army on modern lines as soon as possible," declared Ferik Mohamed Haidar Pasha, minister of defence.

"Every effort, too, is being made to strengthen the Royal Egyptian Air Force and to raise its efficiency to enable it to undertake its important task of defending the country against any foreign aggressor.

"Planes of the most modern type will be imported and assembly plants will be established in the country.

"No less important is that steps have been taken to revive the ancient glory of the Egyptian Navy. A number of officers have been sent abroad—some of them are serving with the Royal Navy—for specialization, and a marine college has already been opened in Alexandria.

"In addition, steps are being taken to establish arms and ammunition factories which are of vital importance to the army. Meantime, an Egyptian mission is visiting Czechoslovakia to purchase arms and ammunition."

Recall Victories

Battles won by the Egyptian Army in the days of King Farouk's great-great-grandfather, Mohamed Aly the Great, were recalled by Maitre Maurice Fakhry Abdul Nur, whose speech contained certain points of criticism.

"It is deplorable," he said, "that the Egyptian Army which in the days of Mohamed Aly was 276,000 strong, should number only 50,000 today—although the population has increased more than seven times.

"Egypt should be free to buy arms and ammunition from any country—not necessarily from Britain which has supplied us with arms at unreasonably high prices. Britain, for instance, supplied us with tommy-guns at $192 each. They could have been obtained from America at half the price."

Continuing to discuss the financial aspect of the army, Maitre Abdul Nur said: "I suggest we set up a committee to find out why the uniform of the private in the Egyptian Army costs $280 compared with $100 for the soldier in Britain, France, America and other countries.

"I also suggest that the 180,000 men who are liable to be called up for military service each year under the new compulsory military service law should be employed in canal digging, road building and other public works."

Fikry Abaza Bey (Nationalist) declared: "Without a strong army, Egypt cannot be expected to enjoy full independence."

Little Benny's Note Book

The telefone rang during dinner and ma went to answer it on account of expecting it, and I said, Can I have some more sliced beets, pop?

Help yourself, pop said.

Which I did, reetching over and putting some in my saucer, the result being I made a big beet stain in the middle of the table cloth, saying, Heck, pop, my sawcer wiggled.

I've always told your mother that those sawcers wiggle, and now maybe she'll believe it, pop said, and I said, Well G, pop, are you going to tell her I did it?

Do you take me for an informer? pop said.

Meening he wouldn't, and I said Maybe she wont even notice it.

Maybe she'll rather injoy it, pop said.

Which just then ma came back, saying, Now isn't that awful, isn't that gassly? Who made that stain? she said.

What stain? pop said, and I said Do you meen the old leek stain on the ceeling, ma?

Now never mind trying to cover up your father's gilty tracks, ma said. My nice cleen table cloth! William, how can you be so careless? she said, and pop said, I'm at a loss for words. All I can say is but almost anything tastes better, so why do we have to have beets? he said.

How can you look at that table cloth and talk so debonairly? ma said and pop said, An honest confession is good for the sole.

Probably meening mine, and I said, Well gosh, ma, maybe pop didn't go it.

How can there be any maybe about it? ma said, and I said, There cant.

Then why didn't you say so for land sakes? ma said, and I said, Because nobody accused me.

Not being quite the end of the subject, but ma feeling partly better for pop's sake.

BURGLAR TOOLS

Philadelphia, March 19 —(AP) —Ralph Seddon, 38, pleaded guilty to charges that he robbed coin-operated washing machines in apartment houses — but the burglar tools police introduced in evidence were another matter.

"I didn't use them tools on any of the jobs," Seddon told the judge. "I used a key on every one of the slot machines."

"Then what were you carrying the tools for?" asked the prosecution.

"I just stole them out of that place where I got arrested," Sed-

HANDFUL OF STARS

By Margaret Gorman Nichols

The next evening Bonnie went to spend the night with a friend and took Mike with her. Alone Lyle waited for Jeff to come. Suppose he said "I'm not in love with you any more. I'm in love with Troy." To think it was to feel a blade in her heart. Suppose he had found a position in Boston and asked her to marry him immediately. Should she be gay and not mention that she knew he had been with Troy? Lyle thought, "All my life I preferred to face the truth even when it was painful. But not with Jeff."

He was late. Several times she went to the window and looked out. She was angry, then worried. Perhaps there had been an accident. And saw herself hurrying to him in a hospital. . . .

The bell rang. Her heart seemed to stop and tears gathered in her eyes.

And when she opened the door and saw him with flowers in his hand, anger and worry left her. Here was Jeff, smiling down at her. Here was Jeff as he had been the first night he came—with flowers for her. She did not want to cry now except in joy to see him because she loved him so.

Jeff embraced her and kissed her, laughing between kisses.

"Crying?" he asked. "Hey, stop that! And let me look at you! Hair as red as ever, lips still kissable."

Lyle said, "It seems you've been gone forever."

"To me, too."

"I'll find a vase for the flowers while you take your coat off. They're lovely, Jeff."

"I'm sorry I'm late. Missed the train I planned to take."

You mean, she thought, that Troy left later than she had planned.

When she walked away with the flowers in her hand, his eyes followed her guiltily. He was ashamed again. Funny, how she shamed him, made him feel second rate. It was because she was so first-rate herself, so honest, and innocent.

But there really hadn't been anything wrong in his driving to Boston with Troy, he was thinking. And Troy had been sweet, had said, "I'm terribly sorry about that day at Stephen's, Jeff. I can't look any of the people who were there in the face. I'm terribly sorry about the letters incident, too. There isn't any reason why we can't be friends, is there? I haven't told anybody you were driving up with me. I didn't think you'd want Lyle to know." He had been skeptical of her sudden sweetness. Maybe it was a pose. But if it were, she had kept the pose during his entire stay at home. They had gone around a great deal together, almost every night in fact, and he had kissed her more times than he liked to admit even to himself.

Lyle came back into the room and sat beside him. Looking at him beneath the white light, she knew he had played hard and slept little. She thought, "He's like a little boy whose mother hasn't the heart to spank him. It's funny I feel older than Jeff when he's several years older than I."

After a time he said, "Tell me about you. Give an account of yourself. What have you been doing?"

Thinking of you, missing you, hating you a little at times but loving you more than I hated you.

She said, "I've a confession to make."

"Confession?"

She nodded. "I spent the holiday at Stephen's. Bonnie and the baby went to Baltimore and I was alone."

He looked solemn. But his own guilt wouldn't permit him to be angry with her. She was being honest with him but he could not tell her of the places he had been with Troy and of the parties that had lasted until morning.

He said, "That's all right. I'm glad you had fun."

"It was quiet fun. I missed you terribly."

He smiled. "Happy now?"

She nodded, thinking, "Part of me is happy and part of me is unhappy."

"Well, the holidays are over," Jeff said, "I've got to get down to brass tacks about finding a job."

The hand that held Lyle's relaxed. Why did the fun have to be over? That was the only time he really lived or cared to live — when there was music and lovely girls. Why wasn't he born rich? How could people like work? Stephen liked his, Lyle liked hers. He couldn't understand anybody's liking to work. But there was the money he owed Lyle, the money she had given him to put in their joint bank account. . . .

Lyle said, "I heard some men talking at Stephen's about a company." She named the company, hating the lie she had been rehearsing before he came. "They are reorganizing. If you haven't been there, I think it would be worth looking into."

He brightened instantly. "First thing tomorrow morning."

She went to sleep happy that night, thinking, "Jeff will be different when we are married. We'll always be together then. Troy will know it isn't any use—that Jeff loves me. He'll settle down and work hard and make Stephen glad he helped him."

And although less than a week later Jeff was working, he seemed neither to be glad to be busy again nor pleased with a position that paid considerably less than his former one. And Lyle knew that his pride was suffering because in the new position he had neither authority nor friends.

One evening when Bonnie was out, Mrs. Ryan came from the kitchen and knocked at the door of Lyle's room. Lyle told her to come in and paused at her drawing.

Mrs. Ryan looked troubled. "I haven't said anything to Mrs. Hill about this. I guess I should have. But Mr. Hill has been here a couple of times during the day to see the baby. I didn't know whether to let him in. . . ."

Now Lyle looked troubled. "Are you certain it was Mr. Hill?"

"Oh, yes. He identified himself." She shook her head. "Mike was glad to see him. Remembered him. I didn't know what to do, Miss Lyle. He was here again today. He offered me money not to tell Mrs. Hill but I wouldn't take it."

After a moment Lyle said, "Don't worry. I'll tell Mrs. Hill about it. I'll have to, of course."

So Michael had come back to see his son! Lyle felt a wave of sympathy for him in spite of what he had done.

She waited for Bonnie and told her.

Bonnie said, "I told him in a letter that he could see Mike. He doesn't have to bribe Mrs. Ryan to see him. Lyle, call him tomorrow and tell him I don't mind his coming here—when I'm not here."

She called Michael the next day at his office.

When she told him, he said, "Thank you, Lyle. I didn't think I had any right to see him. He's—he's grown. Tell Bonnie I won't come often. How is she?"

She's fine. And working, Michael. . . ."

"There's nothing more to say. Thanks again."

Often of late she had wondered at Stephen's silence. Occasionally they passed in the store and he would nod and smile and pass on. That he who had been both a staunch and an amusing friend had elected to step out of her life hurt Lyle. Would there be no more weekends at the lovely Connecticut place with his attractive friends, no more going to sleep, feeling safe and protected, against his tweed shoulder? She thought, "I suppose he feels that Jeff and I no longer need him."

Lyle and Suzanne had been discussing work in the latter's office for more than an hour.

Finally Lyle said, "I never see Stephen any more. Have I done something to offend him?"

Suzanne put down her pencil, folded her hands, and looked across her desk at Lyle, remembering what Stephen had said the last weekend in Connecticut: "Don't you feel Lyle's absence, Suzanne? I do—very keenly. Everything is pretty dull to me these days. I don't think I'm ever going to enjoy anything again — without her. I want her with me."

Now Lyle was inquiring earnestly about Stephen.

"Of course you haven't done anything to offend him," she said. Suddenly she didn't know what to say for wanting to say, "He's in love with you, child. He adores you. And he's staying away because he can't bear to see what he wants more than anything in the world belong to somebody else." But she said "It's too bad about him and Jeff. We miss you on weekends."

At the sound of a door opening, both turned their heads, seeing Suzanne's secretary and behind her a tall, scholarly looking man with gray mixed prominently in the brown of his hair.

"Mr. Harris," the secretary said and went out.

Lyle looked from Suzanne to Walter Harris. Suzanne had risen and he was walking toward her, his intelligent brown eyes searching her face. When he reached her, he took her hand and held it. They did not say anything. And never, never for as long as she lived did Lyle forget the meeting after seven years of two people who could speak to each other without words.

And seeing them, Lyle knew that years before the deep and rich experience of loving this man had given Suzanne her wisdom and tolerance and experience. He had come back. Simply, without drama, he had come back.

At last Suzanne smiled and said, "Walter. . . ."

And he nodded and said, "Yes, Suzanne."

She turned to Lyle and introduced him. Her dark eyes were glistening and Lyle thought it was the first time she had ever seen Suzanne look truly happy.

She left them and went back to work. When he came out, Suzanne was with him and they left together.

She told Jeff that night when they were at dinner.

Jeff said, "I've always suspected that there was a man in her life, one man, and that's why she never went out with any other men. The store will lose a valuable woman if it loses her." He grinned. "You seem pretty excited about it."

She laughed. "I am! You should have seen her face. There were lights behind it and behind her eyes." Then, "Don't you like your job any better, Jeff?"

"No. And I can't see very much ahead for me there. Let's not talk about it. When I walk out of that place at five, I want to put it out of my mind until the next day."

Butter Price Rise Studied by Probe

Ottawa, March 20 — (CP) — Roch Pinard (L — Chambly-Rouville) suggested before the Commons price committee today that Canada Packers, Ltd., "led" this winter's bull market in butter.

He made the statement during questioning of Arthur Child of Toronto, assistant treasurer of the company, as the committee investigated the causes of higher butter prices.

William Irvine (CCF — Cariboo) had asked the witness why his firm "raised" the price of its butter after making a "substantial profit" in December.

"We didn't raise the price—we followed the market," Mr. Child said.

"Or led it," Mr. Pinard interjected. "I'm inclined to think you led it."

In response to further questions by Mr. Irvine as to the "justification" for a five-cent increase at the time, Mr. Child said his company merely had sold at the market price. Also, its costs were going up . . . .

Jean LeSage (L — Montmagny - L'Islet) wanted information on $1,250,000 in bonuses paid Canada Packers' 11,000 employees in the fiscal year ended Mar. 1, 1947.

The assistant treasurer said it did not affect the price of butter, since the company had lost money on butter operations that year and therefore had no butter funds available for bonuses. These came from revenue from other operations.

Robert McCubbin, parliamentary assistant to Agriculture Minister Gardiner, wanted to know if the company was going to distribute to its butterfat suppliers some of its butter profits of the last 11 months.

Mr. Wiggins said it was not. "Eventually, there will be a drop in price," he said, "in which case we'll take a loss."

When the market was going up, he declared, Canada Packers was selling and reducing its stocks.

"We had no part in the advance in price through buying," Mr. Wiggins said.

Under questioning by Mr. Pinard, he said the company did not sell butter to speculators.

Man Asphyxiated As Woollen Mill Is Destroyed

Waterville, Que., March 20. — (CP)—This community's only industry, the Aviv Textile Woollens Mill, was razed by a $500,000 fire last night that took the life of Denis Levasseur, a 45-year-old invalid who was trapped in the plant.

Levasseur was one of about 12 persons in the newly opened building when the fire broke out in a room where cotton refuse was kept. Within minutes the building was a raging inferno.

Shortly after the blaze was discovered, lights in the three-storey building went out and Levasseur apparently tripped on a chair and failed to get up.

He was asphyxiated.

A companion, H. Bureau, braved the flames and thick smoke to carry Levasseur out but artificial respiration failed to revive him.

Fanned by high winds, the flames leaped high in the sky and for a time threatened to spread to other buildings of this town, located 12 miles from Sherbrooke.

Firemen from Sherbrooke and North Hatley were called to help the local brigade but a six-hour battle proved fruitless and the building was a complete loss.

M. Alexander, mill manager said today that the plant was a total loss and that damage would amount to more than $500,000. The mill was the town's chief industry and it employed about 150 persons.

Use it to save time and money when you mow, plow, cultivate, disc, harrow, or plow snow.

Wild Animals Road Hazards In National Parks

(By The Canadian Press)

"Animals cross here—drive carefully". So read signs beside the roadways running through provincial and national parks from Prince Edward Island to British Columbia.

Deer and moose, like men, are creatures of habit, and have their own favorite trails and short-cuts. It is at such places leading across highways that park authorities erect the warning signs.

On a motor trip through the Banff and Kootenay Parks of the Rocky Mountains recently, an Easterner laughed derisively at these signs: "Haven't seen any sort of an animal, not even a dog, at any of these crossings yet," he said to a companion.

A gentle rebuke came in response: "That is true—but it is also true that we've crossed several railroads without seeing a train. But almost any day's newspaper will tell you that trains and automobiles have unhappy meetings."

Had he known, he might have added that scores of deer in particular, with an occasional moose and bear, are killed in collision with fast cars in Canadian wildlife sanctuaries every year. On a single stretch of road in Ontario's Algonquin Park last year, 11 deer were killed in this way within a few weeks.

The Ice Age

Popular ideas about the Ice Age pictures some gigantic glacier originating at the North Pole and moving with crushing force southward. Geologists say no.

Labrador, 2,500 miles south of the Pole, was the site of the Big Ice, a mountain of blue ice two miles high, (some estimates give five miles) created when the snows of centuries became compressed to ice by their own enormous weight. A weight so incredible, this snow-created ice became, that the mountain sides were pushed forward to gouge the earth into hollows for the mighty lakes of North America, to create hills and valleys, and leave this northern country's topography as we find it today.

We are still living in the Ice Age, scientists tell us, for Greenland and the Arctic tundra were once covered with immense forests, where now a cold desolation reigns for the greater part of that area.

Four times during millions of years past, the invasion of ice has occurred, and there are signs that a fifth visitation may be shaping up; probably some thousands of years hence, however, before it happens.

The ingenious suggestion is made that man in that far off day will use atomic energy to break up the ice invader.

Proper Names

So-called English sparrows are neither English nor sparrows. They are finches of a species common to continental Europe. European Weaver Finch is a more accurate name for this bird, much less common on the streets of cities now that the automobile has largely displaced the horse. And the common street pigeon is also wrongly labelled —it is a Rock Dove.

Says Russia Will Not Renounce Share Italy's Fleet

Rome, March 20 (AP)— Russia has no intention of renouncing her right to a share of Italy's wartime fleet, a highly-placed naval source said Friday.

The informant, close to the commission of British American French and Russian naval experts meetings here to dispose of the Italian war fleet, said:

"The Soviet policy is to say nothing, do nothing and delay everything until after the election."

Italy's first parliament under the new republic will be elected April 18.

The fleet was divided among the allies by the Italian Peace Treaty.

The Independent, rightist newspaper Giornale Della Serra said yesterday Italian Communists had information from Moscow that Russia is preparing to follow the lead of Britain and the united States warships given her.

The report said Moscow's decision probably would be announced just zbefore the elections.

Labor Federation Charges Govt. Failed to Live up to Program

Toronto, March 20. (CP)—The provincial government was strongly criticized Friday in a brief from the Ontario Federation of Labor charging that it has failed to live up to the 22-point program on which it was elected.

Presented to the Ontario Cabinet, the brief said the 150,000 workers represented by the Fderation demand "that their interests receive some consideration" and added that "they are still waiting for the 'best Labor legislation in the world'."

It further "condemns the government for its failure to even consider the legislative proposals put before it last year."

Replying to the submission, Premier Drew said it is the "most remarkable" brief ever presented by the Federation.

He said the method of presenting it made him wonder whether it was a political document rather than a submission strictly on the part of labor.

Recommendations included in the brief asked:

1. Certification of trade unions rather than bargaining representatives.

2. Union security provisions effective from the date on which they are requested whether an agreement has been reached or not.

3. Provision for a vote on request of 25 per cent of the employees in a bargaining unit and certification when a majority of those voting have cast ballots in favor.

4. That onus for proving an employee has not been discharged for union activity be placed on the employer.

5. Provision for disestablishment of company-sponsored or company aided unions.

The brief, read by Cleve Kidd, secretary-treasurer of the Federation, criticized the government for sending provincial police in to the recent Rogers-Majestic strike in Leaside.

Police Called in

Attorney General Blackwell replied that the police had been called in to maintain the law which could not be enforced by the small Leaside force.

He said the Rogers-Majestic strike was the first time since the Windsor-Chrysler strike of four years ago when a union has been "stupid enough" to attempt to stop maintenance workers from entering the plant.

Following the meeting, Joseph Mackenzie, president of the Federation said:

"Premier Drew's cutting off of discussions. . . is a political stunt."

The brief condemned the government for what it called political interference in the affairs of hydro. It said hydro was being used as a pawn and political football.

Rural electrification should take precedence over the proposed cycle conversion in Southern Ontario, it declared.

Premier Drew said the statements regarding political interference in hydro were untrue.

"We are doing all that was suggested by the Commission" he declared, in defending the government's program.

He added that the figure of $200,000,000 was far from the facts. The total expenditure for conversion would be $191,000,000 and far from all of this sum would come from the Commission reserves.

Part would be borne by the municipalities, industries and another part by financing over a period of years.

As for the brief itself, other recommendations were:

1. Provincial government subsidization of costs of home building and consideration of the federal proposals to build 4,000 low rental homes in Toronto if the province would supply land and services.

2. Provision of compensation covering workers who contract silicosis, complicated with tuberculosis, bronchitis and arthritis from industrial condtons.

3. Higher salaries for teachers, a minimum of $2,000 a year, assurance that a teacher could run for public office without fear of dismissal, free education including university, increase in the school-leaving age to 18, consideration of a university for Northern Ontario, and 50 per cent reduction in university fees.

4. Government subsidy on milk so that the cost to users will not be more than 10 cents a quart, repeal of any provision which prohibits organization of Co-op Dairies, long-range program to encourage municipal-milk distribution and appointment of a labor member to the Milk Control of Ontario.

5. Requirement of a medical certificate before marriage.

6. Provision of proper facilities for medical treatment of sex perverts and if necessary, permanent incarceration.

7. Repeal of laws permitting municipalities to levy poll tax on single men and married couples living in premises assessed at less than $400.

8. Extension of municipal franchise to all allowed to vote in provincial elections.

9. Non-political Civil Service Commission to hire employees on merit only.

10. Permission for brewing concerns to advertise in labor programs in same manners as permitted in newspapers and magazines.

11. Removal of tax on gasoline.

12. Amendment of taxation laws to provide mining municipalities with a fair share of the taxes collected from mines.

13. Increase in Old Age Pensions to $80 a month, with free medical, hospital services, free drugs and medicines.

CARDINAL WELCOMES 90 DISPLACED GIRLS

Toronto, March 19 — (CP) — James Cardinal McGuigan extended a welcome to Canada to 90 displaced girls from Europe last night at a supper party given by the Catholic Women's League.

His Eminence took the opportunity of congratulating the Ukranian people upon the recent appointment of two new prelates and said that he hoped the new Canadians would enjoy the freedom and religious liberty for which their countrymen had suffered in their homelands.

12 Are Injured As Windstorm Strikes Windsor

Windsor, March 20 (CP)— Its business section ripped by a 57-mile-an hour storm which left at least 12 persons injured, this city today set about estimating damage expected to run to several thousand dollars.

The city's worst windstorm since the tornado of June, 1946, yesterday shattered plate glass windows, toppled chimneys and punched in the front of an apartment building. Heavy rain lashed terrified citizens as they picked their way to shelter.

As residents hurried out to inspect damage left by this whiplash of an Illinois tornado's wake, they were warned a second storm was on its way. However, the later disturbance swung away from this Essex County community although strong winds blew for several hours.

"It sounded like a thousand express trains," Jack Hooper, Canadian National Railways inspector, said of the roaring fury that ripped away a section of the C. N. R. freight shed.

A freakish gust knifed through a house occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Hyttenrauch who were out at the time. It levelled the dwelling but left adjacent buildings unscathed. Six restaurant customers went to hospital after two plate glass windows were blown in on them.

Several sections of the city were left without power when hydro lines were torn down.

Flood Waters Rage Unchecked as Mild Spell Continues

Millions of Dollars Damage Reported in Ont., Quebec

By The Canadian Press

A trail of destruction with damage that may reach millions of dollars was left today by preceding streams in Southern Ontario and Quebec as heavy rains and continued mild temperatures caused other streams to continue heavy flooding.

Swollen rivers dislocated business by flooding towns and isolated communities by cutting off rail and road communications. Four deaths could be attributed to flood conditions.

At Chatham the Thames River reached its highest level of the year, 14 feet, nine inches, while at some points the Grand River reached its highest levels since 1883.

Deaths included three-year-old Betty Irene Byer, drowned in a swollen creek near her Stouffville, Ont., home and Andy Ernest Larose, seven, who lost his life in a field at Lindsay, Ont.

A spectacular flood and ice jam which surged up from the St. Francis River ripped through Bromptonville, Que., a town of 2,000 population five miles north of Sherbrooke. It caused damage estimated at more than $500,000 in damaged houses alone, ripped up a half mile of Canadian National Railways' track and demolished the railway station.

The sight of giant ice floes creeping down the main street and knocking buildings aside like bowling pins gave Wilfrid Martin, 50, a fatal heart seizure.

The other death was at Port Hope, Ont., where the roaring Ganaraska River swept away Jimmy Lindsay, 5. Dragging operations were started.

A sudden rise of the St. Lawrence River at Montreal gave residents of St. Lambert suburb a scare. Within an hour, the water receded and people who had evacuated their homes moved back.

Some Thundershowers

Thundershowers in some regions added to flood difficulties.

After flood waters pouring through the town caused damage estimated at more than $1,000,000, the Maitland River last night isolated Wingham, Ont. Railway officials condemned the battered C. N. R. bridge which formed Wingham's last link with outside points.

Civic officials said the town of about 2,500 persons might be cut off for days. Even pedestrians were warned away from the bridge as ice blocks continued to pound against abutments.

Rampaging St. Francis River in Qubeec Slowly Recedes After Disastrous Flood

Bromptonville, Que., March 22 (CP)—Thirty-foot high mountains of ice and lebris still littered the streets of this eastern townships town today as the rampaging St. Francis River slowly receded after causing one death, damage estimated at $1,000,000 and rendernig hundreds homeless Saturday night.

The rampaging flood waters which sent huge blocks of ice crashing through this town of 2,700, located five miles from Sherbrooke, destroyed 18 or 20 homes, damaged many others beyond repair, destroyed a bridge, uprooted telephone and telegraph poles and ripped up half a mile of railway track on the Canadian National Railway main line.

Many rseidents were stranded by the sudden upsurge of waters and scores were rescued by rowboats. More than 200 persons waited in a church for the water to stop rising.

Many other communities located on the banks of the St. Francis suffered damage but Bromptonville took the brunt of the disaster as the break-up occurred just below the town.

Wilfrid Martin, 50, in ill health for some time, died of a heart attack believed to have been brought on by shock as he watched heavy ice floes snapping telephone and telegraph poles and tearing up houses from the foundations.

The ice crashed through buildings which it did not carry away.

C.N.R. Suffers Loss

The C.N.R. suffered heavy loss. The station was almost entirely demolished and one half mile of railway track was torn up along the main line.

Eight Fatalities During Weekend

By The Canadian Press

Drowning took the lives of three children in Eastern Canada during the weekend and another child was killed in a sewer cave-in at Picton, Ont., a Canadian Press survey showed today. In all, eight fatalities were reported.

Six of the deaths, all violent, occurred in Ontario while the other two which included a fatal burning were reported in Quebec.

Five-year-old Glendon Hook of Picton was buried under three feet of heavy clay when a sewer excavation caved-in on him while he was with three other children.

At Stouffville, Ont., three-year-old Betty Irene Byer drowned in a creek opposite her home. The little girl was playing alongside of the swollen creek when her feet slipped, throwing her into the icy water. Although rescued within minutes by her father, Lorne Byer, artificial respiration failed to revive the child.

Andy Ernest Larose, seven, lost his life in a large field pond at Lindsay, Ont. He was accompanied by his brother, Larry, eight, whose efforts to rescue Andy proved futile.

Searchers were still seeking the body of five-year-old Jack Lindsay who fell through the ice at Port Hope while playing on the Ganaraska River.

- A 20-months-old baby, John Stanley Gardhouse, was instantly killed when a chain snapped from a machine at his father's farm at Weston, Ont.

- Leslie Wood, a farmer, was killed instantly when struck on the head by a piece of frozen ensilage while working in his silo at Schomberg, Ont.

The over-flowing St. Francis River at Bromptonville, Que., was believed to have caused 62-year-old Wilfrid Martin to suffer a fatal heart attack.

At Hull, Que., J. Omer Paquin, 63, was fatally burned when a cigaret lighter set his bedclothes on fire.

Seeks to Give Money Under 1828 Will

London, March 22 —(CP)— Councillor Edward Pribble's problem: he has money to give away and can find nobody qualified to receive it.

Under the terms of an 1828 will he is seeking "poor spinsters of good character who are not less than 60 years of age and who are constant, when able, in their attendance at some place of public worship on Sundays." If the Kinsington borough official could find any he'd give them a five-shilling ($1) a week pension.

Although several women in neighboring Chelsea are drawing the pension, Pribble can't find a single applicant in Kensington. "Perhaps leap year has something to do with it," says he.

LINDEN HOOK, 5, PICTON, KILLED IN DITCH CAVE-IN Three Other Children Escape With Bruises

Picton, March 22—An inquest has been ordered into the death of five-year-old Linden Hook, who lost his life Saturday afternoon as a result of a cave-in. The young son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hook, Ferguson Street, was caught in an avalanche of rock and earth while playing in a nine-foot deep excavation where sewerage tiles are being laid.

Nancy Wright, 12, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Wright, was also caught in the avalanche and though completely buried for some minutes, escaped with bruises and shock and a strained back.

Mary Young, 12, daughter of Major and Mrs. Ray Young, was buried up to her knees in the same cave-in, while Linda Prior, 5, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Prior, was able to get out of the deep trench unassisted.

Details Not Clear

Details surrounding the tragedy are not completely clear and await evidence to be given at the inquest. It appears that the Hook boy and Prior girl had gone into the trench during the noon hour when members of the construction company were absent. They were playing there when the Young and Wright girls came along. They attempted to persuade the youngsters to leave the trench, knowing that cave-ins are frequent during the excavation work. They went into the trench and all were filing out when the edge of the excavation gave way.

Dense Fog Rolls Off Bay, Halts Road Traffic

Traffic along county roads and highways bordering the Bay of Quinte was slowed almost to a snail's pace Sunday afternoon as fog apparently caused by a queer quirk of nature rolled off the bay to completely envelop everything in its path.

Commencing just at the noon hour the dense fog raised from the ice of the bay and hung at a low level for most of the afternoon while in places it was swept across the highway to make driving difficult.

Cause of the fog was stated to be the unseasonably high temperature experienced during the afternoon. Warm air sweeping in across the bay came into contact with the cold expanse of ice with result that the air was turned into dense fog.

Motorists travelling between Belleville and Toronto found that the mist was unbroken for the entirety of the route and that, for the larger part of the journey, visibility was practically nil. With vitally cautious driving, the trip of about 120 miles took an average of four to four and one-half hours. Pelting rain and wet pavements increased the danger along with the fog obscuring the vision.

Many motorists attempting to leave the city were forced to turn back due to the unfavorable weather.

Severe Tests Facing UN This Week Include Czech and Palestine Issues

(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Lake Success, N. Y., March 22—(CP) — Against a background of bitter ideological strife between Russia and the western powers, the United Nations today enters a week of tests which may prove to be more severe than any it has faced in its 2½ years of existence.

The 57-country organization must grapple with such controversial issues as Czechoslovakia, Palestine, Kashmir, atomic energy control, the veto and possibly Trieste.

Another major clash between Russia and the west was in the making as the security council returned to the Czechoslovak question. The council was called (at 2:30 p. m. EST) to begin hearing evidence in support of Chile's demands for an investigation of Russia's role in the Feb. 25 communist coup in Czechoslovakia.

Chile has charged that the Soviet Union engineered the coup and thereby endangered the peace of the world.

Today's clash is expected to develop over Chile's request that the council hear testimony from Jan Papanek, Czechoslovakia's anti-communist chief delegate, who has been fired by the new Prague government. Papanek contends that he still is his country's delegate.

Russia's attitude on hearing Papanek was indicated Wednesday when Russian delegate An-

Power Blackouts End, Other Restraints Stay Says Hydro Chairman

Toronto, March 22 (CP)—Power blackouts imposed on Ontario cities to conserve power no longer are compulsory, although lighting restrictions imposed last November remain in force, Hydro Chairman Robert Saunders announced today.

The Hydro - Electric Power Commission of Ontario had pulled switches at different periods during the day in Ontario cities since mid-February in an effort to save power lost because of low water conditions at plants of Quebec suppliers.

One typical centre was Toronto, where the half-hour periods began the cut. This was later cut down to one 40-minute period a day and finally to 20 minutes' duration.

Improved Water Conditions

Mr. Saunders said improved water conditions and assurance from Quebec power companies that power supply will be restored to the amounts called for in contracts were the reasons for removing blackouts.

The order had imposed a 10 per cent curtailment on use of power. It was left to each municipality to decide how to conserve the 10 per cent. Many used periodic blackouts —of power on week days.

While announcing lifting of the 10 per cent order, Mr. Saunders said it does not mean there is plenty of power. He tempered the statement by asking voluntary conservation to be continued.

Further, he warned that if water conditions become worse or an emergency arises the restrictions will be reimposed.

Restrictions on power came into effect more than a month ago.

Ontario Moves to Consolidate Bargaining Plan for Federal Wartime Housing Grants

Toronto, March 22 (CP)—Directed at the scores of Wartime Housing districts within borders, Ontario is taking steps to give itself a strong bargaining position when negotiations open with the Dominion on the question of grants to municipalities in lieu of taxation.

First action of this kind taken in Canada, it is contained in a bill brought down in the Ontario Legislature by Premier Drew.

The legislation deals broadly with any area in Ontario which may be taken over by the Dominion, such as when it builds rental housing. In this case, the land on which the homes are built becomes crown territory, thus is not taxable.

At the same time, however, the city in which the housing district is located supplies all regular services like fire and police, roads, sewers and sewage disposal, garbage disposal, public health, welfare, public utilities and education.

Normally, occupants of the home would pay for these services by taxes to the municipality.

Agreements to be Negotiated

But when the Dominion government is the landlord, taxation is out. Thus, agreements are negotiated between the Dominion and municipality to decide how much the Federal government will pay in the form of a flat annual sum per home to make up for lost taxation.

In almost all of Ontario's 65 odd Wartime Housing areas agreements were signed during the war. They were to be on a temporary basis, to last as long as the war.

The bill will provide the province with authority to cut off all public services to a community unless a "suitable" agreement is reached for the grants.

Cut-Off in Event of Stalemate

What it means is that if a stalemate is reached in negotiations with the Dominion and any municipality then the housing district in question could be cut off from all services.

Should this happen, the Dominion would be in the position of either having to agree to giving more money or else making provision for installing the services itself. The latter step of course would be costly.

Many municipalities have expressed dissatisfaction with the grants they receive from the Dominion.

Some for example receive from $22 to $30 a year for each home, ranging in size from four to six rooms. Rent for these homes, paid to the Dominion, is from $24 to $30 a month.

As long as the wartime agreements remain in effect the only way the municipality can get more money is to arrange with the Dominion to raise the rents.

In any agreements being signed this year the grants are considerably higher, due mainly to higher construction costs and thus higher rents.

The rents are from $29 to $38 for four to six-room houses. The annual grants are $70, $75 and $80 yearly, more than three times as much as under wartime agreements.

Million Damage Estimate in Flood On Maitland R.

Wingham, March 22 (CP)— Police Chief T. W. Platt said today that receding waters of the Maitland River, whose flooding isolated this town of 2,000, had caused damage estimated at $1,000,000.

Carried away in the roaring rampage was the Canadian Pacific Railway bridge, part of a grist mill, an abutment of the Canadian National Railways bridge and part of the town's water dam. Railway traffic, the last link of the town with the outside world, was cancelled. But during the night the water dropped almost five feet.

One family, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon MacGregor, awakened during the night by the barking of their dog, found water to a considerable depth on their first floor.

Minor Washout

Hamilton, March 22 (CP)—Traffic over the main line of Canadian National Railways through Dundas has been slowed down owing to a minor washout which occurred on the eastbound main line on Sunday, just east of the station.

Trains were being routed over the westbound track until repairs are completed.

Toronto, March 22 (CP)—Eighteen points on 16 Ontario highways are blocked by floods, the Ontario Department of Highways reported today, with a serious break in No. 2 highway. Detours of more than 25 miles are necessary on this main route to Windsor because of flooding between Thamesville and Lambeth.

R.C.A.F. Veteran Banished From Canadian Legion

Kirkland Lake, March 22 — (CP) — Bernard Breland, 34-year-old R.C.A.F. veteran and prominent local businessman was banished from the Local Branch 87 of the Canadian Legion yesterday for admitted Communistic affiliations. Breland had been active in the Labor Progressive party here ever since his return to civilian life.

Members were advised of Breland's Red sympathies by President Neil O'Connor who said "we shall fight Communism here in this branch as we did our enemies a few years ago.

Mr. O'Connor was backed by Sandy Cowan, zone commander who said he had questioned Breland about his re-affiliation some time ago when he appeared before an official of the Department of Veterans Affairs. Mr. Cowan, said Breland readily admitted he was a Communist supporter.

Efforts to contact Breland today proved fruitless as his father said he had left for Toornto.

A resolution, strongly supporting the president was passed unanimously.

Stratford, March 22 —(CP)— Charged with firing a loaded rifle at Mr. and Mrs. Elroy Bender, R. R. 3, Tavistock, with intent to do bodily harm, Wilfred Weitzel, also of R. R. 3, Tavistock, entered a not guilty plea before Magistrate A. F. Cook today. Hearing was adjourned until March 30, with bail set at $1,000. Weitzel told court he had fired in air to scare off persons he saw near his car at 1:30 a.m. Sunday.

JEWS EXPECTED TO PROCLAIM HEBREW STATE

Will be Defended With Jewish Arms

Tel Aviv, March 22 (AP) — A Jewish state to be defended by Jewish arms is expected to be proclaimed in Palestine today or tomorrow.

A reliable informant said a formal order proclaiming the existance of such a state will be made by Vaad Leumi—the Jewish National Council. No official announcement has yet been made by the council itself.

David Ben Gurion, chairman of the Jewish Agency for Palestine, said Saturday a Jewish state already has come into being— prepared to defend itself.

Such a proclamation by the National Council would repudiate in advance any United Nations trusteeship, defy Arab arms and be a step towards appeal for international recognition.

Tel Aviv—only all-Jewish city in the world—is the administrative centre of the new state.

Government of the state would be in the hands of a provisional committee of 32 already appointed under authority of the Jewish Agency by Vaad Leumi.

The United States' reversal on partition caught the potential Jewish state still in the formative stage of evolving its own constitutional form.

Peaceful Partition Fails

Most Jews here realize peaceful partition had already failed, with nearly 2,00 killed in civil war since Nov. 29.

The potential state already has its army in Hagana, with more than 25,000 paid combat troops.

(In Beyrouth, Lebanon, the Arab League yesterday demanded disarmament of Hagana as a step toward achieving a truce in the Holy Land.)

The potential state has an initial population of more than 500,000. This excludes about 100,000 Jews in Jerusalem and slightly over 10,000 in various settlements inside Arab-held lines.

Continued Jewish-Arab violence throughout the Holy Land marked Palm Sunday.

Six Jews were killed and 26 injured when a truck, laden with explosives, blew up before a building in Haifa occupied by a Jewish Building Workers' Co-operative. Police said an Arab was seen leaving the truck shortly before the blast.

Sixten Arabs, seven Jews and a British officer were slain in other Palm Sunday violence.

ARABS WOULD DISARM HAGANA

Beyrouth, Lebanon, March 22—(AP) — The Arab League called yesterday for dissolution and disarmament of Hagana, the Jewish militia, as a step toward achieving a truce in the Holy Land. "If this is done we'll disarm the Arabs," said Abdel Rahman Azzam Pasha, secretary general of the league.

Pembroke, Ont., March 22 — (CP) — Quick-witted 13-year-old Garwin O'Brien of Pembroke today averted a possible train wreck when he sighted a broken rail inside the town and flagged a westbound C.P.R. train before it reached the spot.

Representative Says Possibility Of Third World War 'Not Very Remote'

Washington, March 22 —(AP) —Chairman Charles Eaton (Rep. N. J.) of the House of Representatives Foreign Affairs Committee said today the possibility of a third world war "is not very remote."

Eaton was asking the House Rules Committee to send to the House floor quickly legislation for $6,205,000,000 worth of economic and military aid to Western Europe, China, Greece and Turkey.

Earlier, the Foreign Affairs Committee had formally reported the bill. It said in a report to the House that "the very survival of the United States" is at stake in the present program to stop Communism and help Europe recover economically.

In other foreign aid actions:

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee recommended $463,00,000 for aid to China for 12 months. Of this, $100,000,000 could be used for military supplies. The administration had asked $570,000,000 economic aid for China for 15 months.

The House Appropriations Committee recommended an emergency grant of $55,000,000 to Austria, France and Italy.

The way the House operates, its Rules Committee has the job of deciding when a bill is to be considered in the House.

Eaton told the Rules Committee members the wrold is coming to a cross-roads. He said he did not know whether the decision as to which road it will take will be made through armed conflict, "but the possbility is not very remote."

"Sooner, or later, slavery and freedom will stand face to face in this world for a decision of who will rule," he said.

The committee said the program "is necessary to prevent the United States from being confronted with a world so unbalanced and hostile as to present almost unsuperable burdens to the people of the United States in the future . . ."

The same considerations which require aid to Europe make it necessary to strengthen China "as a barrier in the Far East against the further encroachments of Communism and the domination of the world by Moscow," it said, adding:

"Faced with this prospect, there can be but one choice: to extend the aid necessary in both economic and military spheres."

Blast Wrecks Street in Haifa, 17 Arabs Victims

Buildings Are Damaged For Blocks, Fires Spring Up

Jerusalem, March 22 (AP)—An explosion wrecked the thickly populated Iraq street in the centre of the Arab section of Haifa today.

Police said a Jewish truck loaded with explosives penetrated the Arab section and was blown up.

Witnesses said buildings and houses were damaged "for blocks around."

Many Arabs were believed buried in the wreckage.

First unconfirmed reports said 17 Arabs were known dead and 50 injured. At least eight houses were destroyed.

Arab mortars immediately started bombarding the neighboring Jewish business centre. A British constable was killed and another injured.

Observers expressed belief the attack was the "Jewish answer" to the truck bombing last month of busy Ben Yehuda Street in the centre of Jerusalem's business district.

Arabs and British Fight Fires

Arab volunteers and British troops were fighting fires which sprang up in Haifa after the explosion.

The official announcement said the truck was a three-ton military vehicle, occupied by two uniformed men, and led by a military jeep carrying two other men in uniforms. The truck was parked and the four men drove away in the jeep. A few minutes later, the truck blew up. Jewish sources said the Stern group made the attack.

The deaths in Haifa sent beyond the 2,000 mark the number of violent deaths in Palestine since the United Nations voted partition last Nov. 29.

There was no official confirmation since all telephone communication with southern Palestine has been cut.

Fatal Skirmishes

Police had unconfirmed reports that 16 Jews and 10 Arabs were killed in skirmishes in the same area.

Their report said the 16 Jews were killed when two armored cars hit a mine on Khassa-Isdud Road between Jaffa and Gaza and the occupants were attacked by an Arab band.

Six Arabs were killed when the Jews tried to fight their way out, this report said. It added that two more Arabs were killed when a Hagana relief party reached the scene.

The police report said Hagana also attacked an Arab party motoring along the Jaffa-Gaza Road, killing two and wounding three.

Shooting and explosions were heard in southern and eastern Jerusalem this morning. Police said a mortar shell grazed the Belgium Consulate. No casualties were reported.

ITALIAN PREMIER, FRENCH FOREIGN MINISTER CONFER

Anti - Communist Leaders Discuss Trieste Issue and Effect on Election

Rome, March 22 (AP)—Premier Alcide De Gasperi conferred for three hours today with French Foreign Minister Georges Bidault and said afterward:

"We are going, I think, toward a United States of Europe."

Bidault announced Saturday Britain the United States and France proposed to give Trieste, now international territory, back to Italy. He met the Italian leader at tiny Crea, in the Piedmont region about 50 miles from Turin.

De Gasperi told a press conference that the Bidault announcement was a thing "bigger than we are, bigger than Italy and France, bigger than the Italian elections."

May Influence Elections

The proposal was expected to influence the Italian elections April 18. The Communists, bidding for power, were said by Italian sources to be annoyed because the western powers had beaten Moscow to the punch on the Trieste issue.

De Gasperi said Bidault's utterance on Trieste is one of the things that can guarantee peace.

"Here is a will to construct a base of moral unity which will really come from the masses," Bidault said. "We are pursuing this despite great difficulties."

The French Foreign Minister went on:

"Peace is possible. I think that peace is probable and I think if we do what we should, peace is certain."

He indicated one thing necessary to peace is the return to Italy of the Trieste free territory.

De Gasperi said his talk with Bidault was a "family encounter." The meeting was in the 15th century Franciscan sanctuary of the Madonna of Crea. The village has 13 inhabitants, six of them Franciscan Monks.

Foreign Minister Carlo Sforza said in Turin the Italian government has sent notes to Britain, the United States and France accepting the proposal to return Trieste to Italy.

(The Yugoslav government made the point in its protest note today that the western powers' proposal "speaks of the need of Italy's agreement and makes no mention of the need of agreement on the part of the most directly affected state—Yugoslavia.")

PARKING METER DISAPPEARS

It may have been someone wishing a few extra pennies to pay admission to a movie or then again possibly it was a motorist who had a grudge but the fact remains a parking meter disappeared Friday night from its standard on Bridge Street.

The parking meter, together with the box in which the pennies are contained, was unfastened from the standard and taken away by the unknown thief.

PROWLER TURNS OUT TO BE GIRL TRYING TO GET INTO HOME

Reports of prowlers being seen in the various residential sections of the city have been numerous of late but it isn't often that an alarm of this nature turns out to be as innocent as one on Cedar Street over the weekend.

At approximately four o'clock in the morning the telephone at the sergeant's desk in the police station jangled with the voice at the other end of the wire reporting prowlers in the neighborhood. The police cruiser was promptly routed to the district and the cause of the disturbance was just as quickly discovered.

The daughter of a Cedar Street household had found herself locked out and the disturbance was the girl tossing pebbles at her mother's bedroom window in an effort to waken her and gain entrance to the home.

Two County Roads Closed And Others Call for Slow Driving Due to High Water

High water conditions have closed two county roads and driving conditions on several other roads in the county system are precarious and call for slow driving, it was announced today by County Engineer Larry Langlois.

Closed completely to traffic is county road No. 5 or better known as "Mudcat Lane" running between Foxboro and Dunning's Corners south of Plainfield, and also county road No. 20 connecting King's Highway 62 north of Eldorado with county road No. 12 south of Cooper. However residents of both roads can get in and out by travelling the one way.

Although there are still no bad washouts on any of the county road system, high water conditions have caused parts of roads to flood and the engineer advised that all people travelling such roads, particularly gravelled sections, to proceed with caution. This is particularly necessary where six to eight inches of water cover the road as at several such spots there are trenches or holes that have been washed out and are not visible to the driver.

Repairing Damage

Patrolmen and maintenance crews are exerting every effort to repair damage but during the past week it has been impossible to keep up with the changing water conditions. Wherever necessary "drive slowly" signs are being erected but new flooded areas are appearing so rapidly that it has not been able to post signs in every instance.

No frost boils have yet appeared in the county road system but if the mild weather continues these will begin to appear soon.

Snow in the southern part of the county has now almost completely disappeared with the exception of that in swamps and in wooded areas. There are patches of snow still remaining north of Ivanhoe and on north to Madoc, while while north of that the snow still covers the ground.

This means there is still much water to come down and depending on ice conditions in the rivers and creeks new flooded areas in parts of the county road system are still apt to appear.

Burglars Foiled in Efforts To Steal 1,500-Pound Safe

Balked in their nefarious efforts only by a stroke of fate, burglars were foiled in their efforts to stead a 1,500-pound safe from the Percival Furniture Store early Sunday morning.

The safe apparently tumbled from the truck in which they intended to transport it from the premises and unable again to load it the burglars were forced to leave it in the loading yard at the rear of the store.

Police Constable Warring discovered the safe lying on its back in the yard at the rear of the store when he made his rounds shortly after nine o'clock Sunday morning.

Investigation by Inspector Hayes revealed that the burglars had entered the premises by way of a skylight and had wheeled the heavy safe over 100 feet from the store office to the rear of the building. The rear doors were then opened and the safe apparently loaded onto a waiting truck.

Police then believe the burglars neglected to securely fasten the safe onto the truck and when the vehicle was started the sudden jolt jarred the safe so it tumbled to the ground. Having no means to load the safe from the ground the burglars were forced to abandon the strong box. The safe was undamaged and a local derrick truck was hired by the store management to return the safe to the store.

Rotary Club Sponsors Easter Seal Drive

Fifty million Easter Seals are now in the hands of residents of Ontario mailed by the Ontario Society for Crippled Children to raise funds for their work. Aiding the drive are ninety-six service clubs in leading Ontario centres which are participating by selling the seals in their respective areas. Heading the drive here is the Rotary Club with Rotarian Fred Yealland in charge of the work.

"Money raised this way last year gave direct result with more nurses and orthopaedic consultants being placed on a full time basis in the field", said Reg. W. Hopper, Executive Director and a veteran of twenty-five years social work. "Every crippled child, regardless of race, color or creed deserves a chance. The Society is pledged to eliminate crippling conditions and to this effect is backed by 180 Ontario service clubs, who find cases, and follow through to help alleviate the suffering of afflicted youngsters. The Society acts as a central organization with a staff of field nurses. It operates the special summer camps adapted to the needs of crippled children and arranges hospitalization, provides appliances and transportation among other things."

With the money raised from this year's Easter Seals further expansion of the Society's work will take place. Plans this summer include a more complete nursing coverage in Northern Ontario and the building of a new summer camp in the eastern part of the province similar to those operated on Georgian Bay and near London, where about three hundred and fifty crippled children spend a portion of the summer under expert care.

Founded twenty-six years ago by a group of Service Clubs, the movement has grown until there is hardly a community which has not felt its direct influence. Rotary, Kiwanis, Lions, Kinsmen, Shrine and others join in the work.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, March 22 (CP) — Industrials continued to lead the field as key issues moved up fractions to a point and more. Base metals remained firm but golds wavered after a strong opening while western oils eased to give up most of early session gains.

The exchange's noon index showed industrials up 1.63 at 157.58, golds .14 at 95.58, base metals .70 at 82.28, western oils .06 at 32.61. Volume for the first three hours was 496,000 shares about 29,000 less than Friday's similar period.

Abitibi Common and Preferred were active traders on good gains in a rising newsprint list with International and Moore the best gainers. Other leading stocks ahead were Argus, Bell, Brazilian, Canadian Breweries, Canadian Celanese, C.P.R., Distillers, Fanny Farmer, Walkers, Imperial Oil, International Petroleum, Massey Harris and Toronto Elevators.

FATAL FLASH FIRE

Lynn, Mass., March 22 (AP)— Fireman Samuel Naimo was killed and four others injured Saturday in an flash fire and explosion in the River Works Plant of the General Electric Company.

Action Promised To End Shutdown

Washington, March 22. (AP) —Court action to end the soft coal shut-down was promised by federal officials today unless:

1. John L. Lewis sends his United Mine Workers back to the pits voluntarily to end the week-old pension "vacation".

2. A meeting of miners and coal operators, called today by conciliation director Cyrus S. Ching, produces some progress toward a settlement.

Neither of these possibilities was regarded as likely.

One staunch Lewis lieutenant said in the field: "the miners won't go back to work until they are ordered—not until this dispute is settled."

However, some industry representatives, thought Lewis might suddenly call off the pension demonstration today or next Monday to avert a direct showdown under the Taft-Hartley Labor Act.

The legal club which officials say the government has poised for use is provided by the Taft-Hartley act. It permits a court injunction after a fact-finding board has reported the issues to President Truman. That procedure, however, would require at least ten days.

Should the court grant an injunction, and should Lewis refuse to comply, he would face another contempt of court fine like that imposed by Justice T. Alan Goldsborough in the strike of November-December, 1946. The Supreme Court finally fixed the fines no Lewis and the Union at $710,000. Goldsborough had proposed $3,510,000.

The current dispute is over Lewis' demand for a $100 monthly pension for miners over 60 with 20 years' service.

The operators say Lewis wants to include so many U.M.W. members they do not consider eligible that the present fund of $30,000,000 would be quickly exhausted.

CRASHES A FOG-SHROUDED PEAK

Somerset, Pa., March 22 (AP)— A single-engine plane crashed on a fog-shrouded Pennsylvania mountain top Saturday, killing eight persons, including a year-old baby girl. The bodies were so badly mangled by the crash which drove an eight-foot hole into the mountain that the victims were not counted until hours afterward.

Sentence Deck Steward to Hang

Winchester, Hampshire, England, March 22 — (AP) — James Camb, 50-year-old deck steward, was sentenced tonight to be hanged for the murder at sea of Eileen Gibson, pretty London actress.

The court rejected a plea by Camb's counsel that the actress died of natural causes during a lover's rendezvous in her ship's cabin last October off Africa. The lawyer, J. D. Caswell, pleaded with the jury for 35 minutes today.

Camb admitted he tossed Miss Gibson's body into the shark-infested sea 90 miles off the West African coast during a voyage to England from South Africa.

He said she died in his arms during an intimate love scene and that, terrified) he crammed her body through the port hole, hoping to leave the impression that she had fallen overboard.

"Was there anything to prevent this girl calling out and preventing this man from coming into the cabin?" Caswell asked the jury.

"If he was someone expected, why did she expect him? What does a man go to a woman's cabin for at 2 a.m.? — not to bring food or refreshment.

"Don't you think she must have known why he came?— and if she did, why resist? Do you believe she resisted? What reason should there be for violence if he is not a sadist?

"Where is the evidence she was unwilling?"

Only Fortnight's Holidays All Winner Desires

Prescott, March 22 (CP)—A fortnight's holiday to straighten up his affairs is the only immediate luxury planned by A. D. (Andy) Leclair, whose horse, first of the dandies, brought him $40,000 at Aintree Saturday.

At 56 this father of seven children figures he's "too young" to give up his job of engineer on the Prescott-Ogdensburg ferry, which bringsh im $140 a month.

A resident of Prescott for 30 years, Mr. Leclair said I'm just going to keep on as if nothing has happened until the family gets its bearings."

See No Possibility of Flood Damage Due to Moira River Being Open to Railway Bridge

The Moira River shook its winter ice shackles loose on Saturday and ice fields in the low stretches of the river broke up under the steady pounding of surface waters from the northern areas.

Today, city officials stated that the danger of a general flood here has been minimized to a great extent and with the continuance of milder weather, and the gradual breaking up of ice fields north of the Cannifton and Corbyville dams, there is little possibility of flood damage.

Water in the river near Cannifton raised nearly a foot this morning, but gradually subsided. Ice to the north of the Corbyville dam broke and swept over the barrier in a sweeping flood.

Solid ice fields remain south of Fairfield's Bridge and flood waters have broken over the roads in the vicinity. Water is lapping at the edge of the Belleville Madoc highway a few miles north of the city, but no dangerous rise is anticipated unless heavy rains come.

Water Pours Over Dams

Water is pouring in heavy volumes over the Cannifton and Corbyville dams, but there is open water from the river mouth to a point south of the Fairfield Bridge.

Saturday's ice movement reduced the piles of earth, rock and ice debris piled up south of the lower city bridge by pipe-laying operations. The high mounds took the full force of the floe ice and pounding water and by nightfall practically two-thirds of the mounds of debris had been swept down stream.

Surface water is pouring into the river from its northern feeding streams, but unless something of an untoward nature occurs, there is little or no danger of flooding in the city area.

ThamesMayReach 17-Foot Level At Chatham

Chatham, March 22 (CP)— The Thames River reached its highest level of the year today when a figure of 14 feet 9 inches was recorded here.

New figures show a three-foot rise since Sunday but officials feel the river may reach 17 feet before subsiding.

Merchants whose stores suffered stock damage in the thousands of dollars last year, have clerks working moving their merchandise to safer levels.

Thames Street Valley Road, Highway Number two, east of Thamesville was inundated yesterday as the crest flood swept down towards Wardsville. In Thamesville water is rising but no immediate danger was reported this morning.

Low-lying farm lands of Dover and Tilbury East townships, lying east of Prairie Siding are still inundated on either side of the river.

Reports Indicate Bucks Killing The Late Fawns

An unusual activity among the big bucks in the Apsley area has been reported from several sources, all indicating that the bucks have been killing the late fawns, according to a Peterborough story.

OPP Bert Howden is now nursing a small fawn at his home in Apsley. He found it lying beside the highway with injured legs and hindquarters, seeming to indicate that it has been severely kicked.

Even more definite information is provided by Archie Wilson, who lives a couple of miles south of Apsley. He has been feeding a number of deer on cedar trees during the winter. Two small fawns have been found dead by him with the same signs of a beating.

Recently he witnessed one of these woodland murders. A heavy buck was killing a small fawn, rearing on its hind legs and plunging viciously at it. By the time Mr. Wilson could reach it, the fawn was dead.

Veteran woodsmen report this is not too unusual as the bucks are noted for their mean dispositions, and even in captivity gamekeepers are careful not to let the old boys get at the fawns. During the early winter and spring months when the bucks lose their horns and the new ones start to come in, the males are rough characters with saw-edge tempers.

Horse Runs Out Of Money, Ticket Holder Nods

Toronto, March 22 (CP)—William Saychik, Toronto chef who held a sweepstakes ticket on Prince Regent, a 40-1 entry in the Grand National Saturday, said today he fell asleep at his radio while his horse ran out of the money.

When his head began to nod, Prince Regent was well up in the pack and he stood to win $100,000 if the horse crossed the line first. But when he awoke the fortune had gone with the wind.

Saychik says he hasn't slept so well since, because heturned down a $2,500 offer for his ticekt before post time.

BullBlocks Traffic But 13-Year Girl Makes Him 'Scat'

Barnstable, Mass., March 22— (AP)— Thirteen-year-old Dolly Van Duzen caused considerable blushing among full grown men yesterday when a belligerent long-horned, Texas steer, accompanied by a cow and a calf, tied up traffic on a highway for a half hour.

The bull and his family strolled onto the heavily-travelled road and refused to move despite the shouts and honkings by irate motorists.

Some drivers attempted to start a roundup, but they quickly returned to their automobiles when the bull began snorting and raising his hoof .

Cars were lined up a mile in each direction before little Miss Van Duzen came to the rescue.

She rode her horse up to the bull and dismounted. Waving her arms in the bull's face, she yelled "scat".

The bull, the cow and the calf marched off and bewildered motorists continued on their way.

DR. BOBBY BELL DIES

Montreal, March 22 — (CP) — Dr. Robert B. (Bobby) Bell, 47, of McGill athletic fame, died suddenly yesterday. A Montreal dentist for 20 years, he had been associated with university sport, particularly hockey and football, since he entered McGill in 1923.

SEVERE TESTS

drei Gromyko attacked him bitterly as a "traitor." Informed quarter said the United States would vote to hear both Papanek and his successor, Dr. Vladimir Houdek.

It was indicated the necessary seven votes would be obtained to override Russian objections.

Meanwhile, the delegates prepared to resume the Palestine debate Wednesday.

Official Canadian sources privately emphasize that the U. N. trusteeship proposal for Palestine does not, however, preclude partition. Trusteeship would not be a permanent solution, these sources said, and eventually there probably would be some form of partition.

Observers expect Canada to back the American suggestion that the security council instruct the special U. N. Commission on Palestine to cease its efforts to carry out partition as directed by the Assembly.

Tomorrow the council will continue discussion of the India-Pakistan dispute.

Informed quarters expect that the Anglo-American-French proposal that Trieste be handed over to Italy also will be dumped into the lap of the U. N. late this week.

Meanwhile, the Arabs were reported planning a new effort to get U. N. approval for an independent unified government in the Holy Land.

A number of the small U. N. powers are reported to be planning a campaign against the American Palestine trusteeship proposal, unless the big powers give assurance that such a plan will be enforced.

While the smaller powers leading the opposition movement—reported to be New Zealand, the Philippines, Bolivia, Brazil and Panama — have no voice in the council, they would have a chance to express their views in the General Assembly.

Increases Amply Justified Says Butter Dealer

Ottawa, March 22 — (CP) — Increases in butter prices since last June were "amply justified," an executive of a firm of butter dealers told the Commons price committee today.

This opinion was given by John Freeman, manager of the Montreal firm of Lovell and Christmas (Canada). Ltd., as the committee entered its second week of investigation into high butter prices.

Mr. Freeman, whose firm deals in butter and cheese, said the chief causes of the butter price rise were:

1. Continued heavier consumption and increased consumer demand.

2. Reduced production in the second half of the 1947 production season, as compared with the previous season.

Mr. Freeman expressed the view, in response to questioning by committee counsel Fabio Monet, that operations of the Montreal commodity exchange, were not responsible for the rise.

Further transactions in butter on the exchange were opened last June 17, following removal of butter price ceilings.

Asked who had benefited most from the price rises between last June and January, Mr. Freeman said that "the industry benefited at every level as the result of the advance."

This would include farmers, manufacturers, wholesalers, jobbers and retailers.

Gordon McLean, secretary-treasurer of the company, on the stand with Mr. Freeman, told the committee that during the period the company never refused to supply butter to its regular customers.

It did refuse bids from some firms that had not been regular customers, since its stocks did not permit it to supply all buyers.

Approves Plan Of French Language Radio Station

Ottawa, March 22—(CP)—The Canadian Broadcasting Corporation today announced that it had recommended approval of plans to establish a French language broadcasting station at Edmonton.

The CBC's recommendations went to the transport department, which must make the final decision.

Approval of applications by the Hamilton Spectator to establish an FM station at Hamilton, and by the Pierce Publishing Co. Ltd. to establish one at Simcoe, Ont., was also recommended.

The CBC governors noted, in connection with the application for a French-language station at Edmonton, that they felt it would have no detrimental affect on the service of other stations covering the area.

INDIA'S EXPORTS UP

India's exports to the United States now are almost 100 per cent greater than they were between 1935 and 1938.

85 Received Into Holloway Street Church

Impressive Palm Sunday services in Holloway Street United Church were attended by large congregations both morning and evening, when the evening service was specialized by the reception of eighty-five new members. Rev. C. A. Perkins delivered a challenging message on the theme "Inside Religion," and the choir contributed an appropriate anthem, under the direction of Mr. L. F. Addison, and Mr. Jas. Cordes as soloist.

Following the service an hour of fellowship was enjoyed in the Sunday School Rooms, when a varied program was presented, with Rev. O. Wager as chairman. Vocal solos were contributed by Susanne Cavers and Ronald Elmy, and a piano solo by Mr. William Connor was much appreciated. Allan Lennox led in a spirit sing song, and leaders in the several church organizations extended a cordial welcome to the new members at the same time presenting the particular activities of each group.

Members of the Woman's Association served delicious refreshments, and the evening closed with the benediction pronounced by the minister.

U.N. Temporary Trusteeship Only Basis for Action —Marshall

Los Angeles, March 22 (AP)— State Secretary Marshall Saturday night said that the United States proposal for a temporary United Nations trusteeship for Palestine "is the only suggestion thus far presented which appears to offer any basis for action by the United Nations to meet the existing situation in Palestine."

In a statement released here, Marshall said:

"I recommended it to the president and he approved my recommendation."

The U.N. was faced with the prospect that no successor government will be in position to maintain law and order on May 15 when Britain abandons her mandate.

"A truce is essential," said the secretary. "A military truce can not be achieved under existing circumstances without a parallel truce in the political field. A political truce, however, would bring us up to May 15 without elementary arrangements for keeping order."

The secretary said the United States suggestion is that a temporary trusteeship should be established to maintain the peace while a settlement is being reached.

Marshall reaffirmed "the United States is not going to act unilaterally in the matter," but will seek a solution for Palestine within the framework of the U. N.

The United States had "explored every possibility of a peaceful implementation" of the Palestine partition plan which was set up last autumn in the U.N. General Assembly.

Security Council Refuses

"We sought to have the Security Council accept the plan," but this it refused to do on March 5th."

Consultations among the five principal powers also failed to develop any agreement on how the partitioning plan might proceed. Marshall said that informal consultations with other members of the Security Council made it clear that the Council would not now pass a resolution to put the plan into effect.

Several hundred person carrying placards protesting the United States' reversal of its Palestine policy sought admission to the University of California at Los Angeles while Marshall was speaking a few hours before his statement on Palestine was released. They were denied access by police.

Marshall told a U.C.L.A. audience of 7,500 that "the decisive factor for good in the present circumstances of Europe will be the action of the United States."

"In the world-wide struggle now taking place the United States cannot stand aloof and see the other free nations destroyed one by one.

FERRY BOAT PULLED OFF SANDBAR

Ogdensburg, N.Y., March 22 — (AP)—A St. Lawrence river ferry boat was pulled loose today from a sandbar outside Ogdensburg harbor after several passengers had spent the night aboard.

The boat, dislodged by a United States Coast Guard cutter, resumed normal runs this morning.

Sixty two passengers were removed last night by Coast Guardsmen and city firemen after the ferry hit a sand bar on a trip from Prescott, Ont., to Ogdensburg.

Other passengers chose to remain aboard, the Coast Guard said.

ITALIAN PREMIER

The two anti-Communist leaders met on the steps leading to the hill-top sanctuary and went inside for devotions. Apriest blessed "this visit in the face of the ancient heresies."

A small crowd of villagers cried, "viva Bidault"—viva Trieste — viva France." De Gasperi waved his hands and shouted some "vivas" too.

Both men head Roman Catholic parties. De Gasperi's Italian Christian Democrats are comparable to Bidault's French Popular Republicans.

Italians were deprived of newspaper accounts today of Trieste and the Italian political campaign. More than 1,000 dailies throughout the country were shut down last midnight by a 24-hour printers' strike for higher pay. Upward of 100,000 men were called out by their Communist-led union.

The Frenchman disclosed in Turin Saturday that the United States, Britain and France propose to give the Adriatic seaport of Trieste back to Italy. A three-power announcement on Trieste was made later in Washington.

The western powers invited Russia and Italy to talk about changing the six-month-old Italian peace treaty, which made Trieste and environs a free territory. Italy and Communist Yugoslavia both want the port. The territory now is occupied by British, American and Yugoslav troops.

Proposal Leads to Fights

(The Moscow radio said last night "the United States, Britain and France are acting behind the back of the Soviet Union in proposing to revise the peace treaty with Italy.")

News of the proposal led to fist fights yesterday in Trieste and Milan. It brought approval from many Italians, criticism in Communist eastern Europe and a doubtful response from some Triestinos.

Some Italian sources said the west rushed the Trieste idea through because it believed Russia had the same plan.

Bidault smiled and said, "no answer," when a reporter asked him in Turin yesterday if the declaration had been timed to influence the election.

The Communist-led union of typographers, in the big general Confederation of Labor, called out Italy's newspaper and government printers last night to back a bid for a wage boost in small private shops. The news agency Ansa was struck too. A few of Rome's some 20 papers printed before the midnight deadline.

The strike is to run longer than the scheduled 24 hours unless employers and employees settle their dispute.

The base pay for most Italian printers now is 100 lire (about 15 cents) hourly. With extra benefit payments they get about twice that. Their demands for an increase of about 34 lire (some five cents) an hour have been accepted by all employers except the small shop owners.

In Trieste, an estimated 30,000 pro-Italians paraded three miles in celebration of the western allies' declaration. A few fist fights broke out.

The fighting in Milan was between marching Communist Partisans and onlookers whistling at them and shouting, "long live Trieste." Police broke it up.

Three One-Act Plays Being Staged By Repertory Theatre

By GUY GAGNON
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Montreal, March 22 (CP) — Three one-act comedies by Robertson Davies, editor of the Peterborough, Ont., Examiner, are being staged here by the Montreal Repertory Theatre, runner-up to Les Compagnons in the 1948 western Quebec Drama Festival.

It is the first time the plays have been produced in Montreal, although they are already well-known in Ontario.

"Overlaid," a rural comedy, and "Eros at Breakfast," a psychosomatic interlude, have both won the Ottawa little play-writing contest. Besides, "Eros" won the one-act play award in the 1948 eastern Ontario Drama Festival.

Mr. Davies, a former member of the "Old Vic," of London, attended the Friday and Saturday performances.

M.R.T. members were "very capable" actors who deserved merit for the success of his plays. And he believed it a mistake for an author to appear before audiences after a performance "because the man himself may deceive them."

Pat (Montreal Herald) Pearce said of "Eros" that it was "the brightest light-comedy production" of the season. Staging and customs were "brilliantly in line," and the play was "a very evident success."

Both "Eros" and "Overlaid" were directed by Reta Wheatley, while Dorothy Pfeiffer produced "Hope Deferred" the third play which Pearce described as "a bitter but not biting satire on Canada's attitude to art."

More than 120 students from 29 countries attended the International Student Conference to plan a program of world student relief for 1947-48.

Four Are Burned To Death At Port Huron, Mich.

Port Huron, Mich., March 22— (AP) — Three-year-old George Meldrum alone survived a fire which swept a makeshift second-floor apartment home Sunday, taking the lives of his parents and two small sisters.

A stove explosion started the blaze. It was made fiercer, police and firemen said, when the father accidentally kicked over an oil can in desperate rescue attempts.

Burned fatally were Charles H. Belbrum, 37; his wife Eliza, 34; and two daughters, Mary Ellen, 2, and Shirley, 4. Baby George was rescued by a neighbor.

When firemen arrived at the scene, they said they found Mrs. Meldrum unconscious on the sidewalk and her husband on the porch, muttering dazedly:

"I done all I could. I done all I could."

Police said Meldrum was carrying his two daughters out of the burning kitchen when he knocked over an oil can, which burst into flames.

With their parents the girls died in hospital.

Bread Rationing In U.K. Soon to End Says London Star

London, March 22 (CP)—Bread rationing is "likely to end shortly" and rice virtually unobtainable now may be placed on points, the Star said today in a front page story.

The newspaper said that the supply position has improved in rice-growing countries to such an extent that wheat sent to them will be diverted to Britain.

The basic bread ration now is nine ounces daily.

ICE AND DEBRIS

Eyewitnesses said the scene Saturday night was one of terror as the swollen waters and great pieces of ice swept over the helpless town uprooting trees and houses.

Power failed during the evening adding to the confusion and only one telephone was in operation, that of the mayor which was reserved for emergency calls.

Mayor J. P. Mullins estimated the damage at more than $500,000 for residential property alone. A butter factory suffered damage of $150,000, and more than 300 large cases of hard-to-get butter were swept away.

Scores of automobiles are still buried beneath ice packs 25 to 30 feet high and many will be a total loss.

A few hours after the disaster, the water had receded 18 feet, about one foot below flood level and it was expected to go down further to the normal average depth of six feet for that part of the St. Francis. It was estimated that the water reached a record height of 26 feet at one time Saturday night.

Elsewhere along the St. Francis, the water rose causing some damage. At Warden, about two miles from Waterloo, 20 feet of a 60 foot-wooden bridge was swept away.

Coaticook was practically isolated because of muddy ice-clogged roads as the Coaticook River, a St. Francis tributary, was kept within its banks by frequent dynamiting of ice-jams.

Police Blotter

Two break-ins, one at the Percival Furniture Store where the heavy office safe was trundled to the rear of the store, and the other at Mott's Lumber Yard on Front Street, were reported over the weekend.

Burglars were unsuccessful at the Percival Store when the safe tipped off the truck in which they apparently intended to transport it away, while at Mott's nothing was reported taken.

Maxwell Grant of McArthur's Mills reported the lock on his truck door had been broken and a box of tools stolen while Superior Cleaners downtown office on Pinnacle Street reported $20 had been taken from their till, apparently when the office girl was waiting on another customer.

Hospital authorities reported injuries to a Carrying Place man, they considering the injury had been due to a motor accident. Investigation revealed the man had attempted to throw a cigarette out through a partially opened car window and had cut his hand on a jagged piece of glass. Four stitches were required to close the gash in the man's hand.

Street lights were out on Front Street between Victoria Ave. and the Belvedere Hotel on Sunday night. Public Utilities employees stated the trouble was due to a short circuit in the wiring system which could not be immediately located.

COBOURG WORLD SOLD

Cobourg, March 22 (CP)—The Cobourg World, weekly newspaper founded in 1884, has been sold to Foster Russell, proprietor of the weekly Cobourg Sentinel-Star. It will be combined with the Sentinel-Star. Frank W. Lapp who announced the sale, is retiring after 36 years' association with the paper.

Last Week of Lent

The last week of the solemn period of Lent has come with its devout solemnity and the Christian world is marking the celebration of the Passion of Christ and preparing for the culmination of the religious observances for the past weeks in the celebration of Easter, marking the Resurrection. The impressive character of the season is seen in the celebration of the events of nearly two thousand years ago, events which by their impact upon humanity have changed the course of history and civilization. The time is marked with an intensity at this time of the celebration of the events which took place nearly two thousand years ago marks the occasion with deepened emotions. This week has been variously called the Great Week, Silent Week, Penitential Week, and Passion and Holy Week. Activities are more subdued than usual as the time of Good Friday approaches when the observance of the Passion reaches its height.

Lent, marked during the latter weeks of winter and ending shortly after the advent of spring, finds humanity in a receptive and meditative mood when the outer world's changes symbolize in the revival of life in nature the assurance and faith of man in the hereafter and in the resurrection. It is a time when man ponders over the mysteries and problems of the life of nature and of human nature. No other season is so impressive as it lays stress upon the spirit life and the evidence of the sacrificial spirit which is necessary in all creation.

This season has been set apart for the enrichment of the lives of human beings and for the deepening of the religious life and all that this means to them. With the lessons of the life in nature and of the Passion of Christ the spirit of humanity is exalted and enters into the spirit of the Passion season and the Festival of the Resurrection. The culmination of the devotions of the Lenten period and of the religious services comes in the note of joy and faith in the immortality of the human spirit and of the individual being.

Annual Break-Up

Another break-up of the Moira River is history. Nature which had been harsh in the severity of the cold was at the same time kindly disposed as far as the area of the Moira watershed is concerned. The rain of a few days ago which speeded up the freshet however was not sufficient to set the gigantic forces of water and ice loose to the damage of property. Several weeks ago there was a mild spell which helped to weaken thte ice in the river and at the same time dispose of a considerable amount of snow which had it lingered "in the lap of spring" might have precipitated an onrush of water with ice which in a flash flood could have caused some damage. City Engineer Mott after a survey of the river at that time expressed the opinion that the danger of a flood was past and events have proven the correctness of his view.

Floods in the Moira River are really rare. There have been severe ones such as that of 1918 and 1936. In both these instances there were unfavorable conditions present. In 1936 the flood was precipitated by an untimely heavy rainfall which caused a break-up considerably earlier in the season than this year's freshet.

Crossings and Safety

It is an odd but explainbale fact that in proportion to their numbers there were more accidents at protected railroad crossings in Canada last year than at crossings which have nothing more than the ordinary warning signs.

The Transport Board reports 75 involving trains and motor vehicles at crossings guarded either by automatic signals or by gates and watchmen. As there are only about 1,500 such crossings in all Canada the accident ratio was five per hundred crossings.

On the other hand there are some 30,000 unprotected crossings where there occurred 367 accidents or about one and one-fifth per hundred of them.

The explanation is found, of course, in the fact that gates and watchmen and electrical warning devices are confined to urban communities and their outskirts, which means they are found only on streets and roads carrying a heavy volume of traffic. As heavy traffic invariably includes a percentage of reckless fellows who like to race with trains or butt railway locomotives the existence of the most elaborate safety devices is, for such drivers, no assurance of a safe crossing.

And those who think the solution of the level-crossing peril is in making them foolproof by bridges or tunnels should note the immensity of the task — the colossal cost of dealing with 30,000 of them. — Ottawa Journal.

Studio Methods Differ

Robert Adam has recently been in Italy taking past in a film. He spoke about his experiences in a BBC Overseas broadcast and compared Italian studio methods with British ones. The first thing he noticed was the terrific amount of noise that went on. They record sound at the time of photography merely as a guide, and later on add the pure sound for public showing by a process called 'dubbing.' For this the actors, not necessarily the ones who were photographed previously, assemble in a small projection room and speak the words into a microphone to match the lip movement of the picture that is being shown to them. Italians are very expert at this dubbing but it's most disconcerting to other people. "When the picture is being photographed in the studio," said Adam, "trains whistle as they go along the nearby railway, aircraft hum overhead, people have chats in corners, and to ask an Italian crowd of film extras to keep quiet for longer than thirty seconds is to put an impossible strain on their volubility. During one scene being photographed, with the actors speaking their parts in the brave hope that they would be intelligible on the sound guide-recording, I saw an empty wine flask descending on a rope from an electrician up on the roof, and a discussion took place between him and the man below as to whether red or white wine would be better for his stomach at that hour. Every now and then arguments started, working up a crescendo of excitement, with more and more joining in. It made an English film studio seem like a cathedral."

They still work on the set till all hours in Italy, though overtime is paid, a bad system which stopped in Britain before the war. Adam found that trying to muster intelligence and vitality at 2 a.m. after starting at 7 a.m. the day before, was rather a strain. He noticed that when sound dubbing sessions began at 8:30 p.m. chaos and confusion reigned till midnight, after which double time was paid and things went more smoothly. Another noticeable difference was in the behaviour of crowd artists. British film extras usually hate their faces to be recognized, because they may lose a chance of a job in a shot taken a month later if their faces are identifiable in the original crowd scenes. "But in Italy," continued Adam, "they want to be right smack in the focus. They jostle and nearly fight each other for position. And when they are told to react to some situation, they fairly let fly. But they are treated roughly — which is another difference — and they don't seem to mind—another difference again." After his screen experiences in Italy Adam decided that life in British film studios is infinitely preferable.

FRIENDS FROM HOME

Nothing, wheresoe'er I roam,
More delights than friends from home.

When among the throng appears
Those I'd known in happier years

Who had quietly slipped away
On some by-gone yesterday;

Wondered where they were, and I
Chance the old time smiles to spy,

Then this voice of mine lets go
With a rapturous: "Hello!

"How are you?" and "Where've you been?
Tell me all you've done and seen!"

North or south or east or west
Good old friends from home are best.

INFORMATION ROUNDUP

What was the wealth of Washington?

George Washington is sometimes referred to as the first American millionaire. Measured by the standards of his time, he was a wealthy man, but there is reason to believe that the size of his fortune has generally been exaggerated.

His wealth was chiefly in land, buildings, slaves and other physical property and its value is hard to estimate in terms of dollars. Estimates of the value of his estate at the time of his death range all the way from $300,000 to more than $500,000.

His farming on his Mount Vernon plantations was not very profitable and he was usually hard up for ready cash. The 60,000 or 70,000 acres of Western lands that he owned were held for speculation and did not represent certain wealth. It had potential value but much of it at that time could not have been sold for more than a few cents an acre.

Washington was land and slave poor. When he learned he would be the first President under the new Constitution in 1789 he borrowed six hundred pounds on interest from Captain Richard Conway, of Alexandria, because he did not wish to leave Virginia without paying certain debts to individuals.

Shortly before his death Washington estimated his estate at $530,000, which some authorities regarded as too high.

Undoubtedly Washington's wealth was considerably reduced by his refusal to accept a salary during the Revolution and by the neglect of private business due to long absence from home while in the public service.

Few of the large fortunes in America during the 18th century amounted to more than three or four hundred thousand dollars. John Hancock and Charles Carroll of Carrollton may have been wealthier than Washington.

Insecurity, Worry Depression Seen Over Living Costs

Ottawa, March 22 (CP)—Insecurity.... depression.... worry. That's the substance of a report the Family Welfare Division, Canadian Welfare Council, issued today on the results of Canada's rising cost of living.

"The battle of the dollar is weakening family life in this country," said Miss K. M. Jackson, secretary of the division, in announcing the findings of a survey the council has taken of present-day living conditions in Canada.

"Reports of 20 of the member agencies of the Family Division in major cities from the east to the west coast of Canada indicate that not only are families having a hard time to make ends meet, but insecurity, fear of depression, and general worry, are increasing family tensions, affecting health, and in some cases endangering the security of children, and of aged people who depend on relatives to assist them."

The agencies reported a "substantial" increase over last year in the number of families applying for assistance.

Our agency reported that an increasing number of families had gone into debt for furniture or clothing on instalment accounts.

Miss Jackson said that 50 per cent of the agencies had reported requests to supplement relief, old age pensions and other fixed low incomes.

Several agencies reported mothers going back to work to supplement the family income, with the "inevitable" decrease in care for their children.

Miss Jackson said however, that despite the obvious problems, the agencies did feel the Canadian family of moderate income was on the whole better off than its American counterpart.

Guards Attacked And Stabbed By Convicts

Kingston, March 22 —(CP)— The Kingston Whig-Standard says in a newspage story today that two guards were attacked and stabbed by convicts in Kingston penitentiary Saturday.

The paper said that penitentiary officials declined to comment on the report.

The story named the guards as George Wilson and E. F. Fuller It said it was understood the two were attacked by 14 convicts in the shoemaking department of the penitentiary. The men were beaten up and reported to be stabbed by knives which apparently were made by the convicts.

Fuller was said to have received a stab wound in the chest, near the heart.

Other guards came to the assistance of the two men and subdued the convicts, reported now to be in solitary confinement.

'MR. STONE' A BOY AGE 9

Rye, Sussex, England, March 22 (CP)— Peter Stone, nine, wrote a sample business letter at his teacher's request, posted it without telling anybody — and the repercussions reached into Whitehall.

The letter, addressed to the Board of Trade, was passed to the supply ministry, then to the education department.

Ultimately, said headmaster M. Beevers, Whitehall wanted to know who "Mr. Stone" was and precisely what information he wanted.

Pupils at Peter's school no longer are asked to write business letters.

BEFORE YOU PASS THE PEAK

A chemist assures me it is now customary to spell it as it is pronounced, iodin, the first eye long, the second short, as in pin. A lot of people who should know better pronounce it iodine, both eyes long—the same people who pronounce adult with the accent on the a and abdomen with the accent on the ab and respiratory with the accent on the first syllable.

If iodin is the preferred spelling, my attempt to spell the food or nutritional substance iodin and the medicinal preparation iodine seems futile but I thought it might prove useful.

In his illuminating book The National Malnutrition, published by the Lee Foundation for Nutritional Research, Milwaukee, Dr. D. T. Quigley calls attention to numerous everyday ailments in which iodin deficiency plays a contributing part and which do not respond satisfactorily to ordinary treatment, such as iron for anemia, until the iodin deficiency is corrected too. He has elsewhere pointed out that "the quanities" (of iodin) 'needed for optimum health have been very much underrated . . . must be increased to ten times or a hundred times the maintenance requirement when severe deficiency has existed over a relatively long period of time."

The maintenance dose means the minimum amount of iodine every one requires daily to maintain good nutrition, good health.

Nutrition authorities estimate that this minimum daily requirement is equivalent to one-tenth of a milligram of pure iodin.

The minimum daily requirement means the least the child, youth or adult can receive and still develop no manifectations of iodin deficiency—of which manifestations goitre is only one. The optimum daily requirement, as Dr. Quigley is from ten to a hundred times as much — which would still be from one milligram to 10 milligrams of iodin daily—or in other words from 1/65th to 1/6th of a grain a day.

Most people who need iodin need the optimum daily ration rather than the minimum daily requirement, for their nutritional condition has suffered because of a severe deficiency that has existed over a relatively long period of time. A period of from a year to a lifetime, perhaps. This applies especially, I believe, to adults who have reached the peak and—well, you take it from there, old timers. I'd rather not even imply that you have passed your peak. I do advise you, however, to begin long before you reach the peak doing what you can to get into optimal nutritional condition—it will soften the cold gradations of decay.

As described in the pamphlet Young folks and Old Folks, mailed on written request (no clipping) if you provide stamped self addressed envelope, the refined modern diet of most Americans must be supplemented not only with iodin but laso, with phosphorus, calcium, vitamin D and the thiamine and riboflavin components of the B complex, in order to maintain anything like optimal nutrition. You see, most of our calories are derived from cheat foods—foods from which the manufacturers have carefully removed the vitamins and minerals in the process of refining, purifying, sterilizing, pasteurizing, decorticating, polishing, degerminating, masticating, predigesting—the nice kind manufacturers do everything but swallow the food for us.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Quantity

Our health class is having a contest to see which member can bring in the most books, pamphlets, etc, on health subjects.

(R. S.)

Answer—Why not ask your Congressman to send you a bundle of government health publications?

Nighthawks

People out here seem to disregard the early to bed maxim—children are playing around until 9 or 9:30 nights, whereas our seven-year-old goes to bed at 7:30 and our ten-year-old regularly hits the hay at 8 p.m. Are we protecting the children's health or denying them the privilege.

(E. T. B.)

Answer—You are giving your children a break. The parents of those youngsters who are out playing so late are robbing their childhren of health and vitality. Children 4 years old require 12 hours of sleep, children 8 years old require 11 hours of sleep, children 12 years old require 10 hours of sleep.

Breakfast Food

Which is best for the family, cooked or ready to serve breakfast food? The children are very fond of . . . (various namby-pamby cereal products.)

(Mrs. K. C.)

Answer—Plain wheat, cooked as you prefer, whole or cracked in your coffee grinder. Send stamped envelope bearing your address and ask in writing for pamphlet "Wheat to Eat" which suggests how to use this real health food in the everyday family dietary.

CAN'T BURY SISTER — FIND THEY HAVE $20,000

Two recluse spinster sisters, Frieda Stein, 72 (left) and Mary Stein, 75, shown with their paralyzed 15-year-old dog "Junior," who were living in a junk-littered Warren township, Mich., cottage for five years, learned they have $20,000 and possibly more. The sisters, who never left the four-room cottage, did not know where the money was but thought they had some, an official learned when he visited them after the death of a sister, Mrs. Caroline Ledyard. They had no funds to bury the sister until the official, going through the house, discovered $13,000 in government bonds, an insurance policy on their mother worth about $1,000 and records of interest in copper mines and other property. The other sister, Mrs. Ledyard, had apparently known of the wealth but kept it from them.

W. J. Morrison Addresses Club Of University Women

Members of the University Women's Club, meeting at the home of Mrs. E. M. Carefoot, heard an interesting and informative address by Mr. W. J. Morrison, superintendent of O.S.D.

Introducing the speaker, Mrs. R. H. Martin pointed out the importance of Mr. Morrison's work, and of its inestimable value to those who are benefiting by it.

The speaker traced the history of Education for the Deaf, pointing out that the oral education which is the only method in use at O.S.D., originated in Germany and Italy shortly after organized education for the masses had been established in the 18th century. Similar schools were soon organized in England, and the first to be endowed in America was the Clarke school at Northampton, Mass., in which Alexander G. Bell taught. In these schools the sign language is completely abandoned for the oral method which so much better fits the handicapped for a normal successful life. It is interesting to learn that it was the young Mabel Hubbard, for whose benefit the Clarke School was opened, with whom Alexandra G. Bell fell in love and married.

Mr. Morrison then drew a comparison between the different manual and oral methods of speech, showing in particular the advantages of the latter.

The compensating results acquired through this scientific oral training of the deaf, especially if begun at a very early age, are outstanding indications of the remarkable fact that these handicapped children are just as capable of becoming fully educated, useful citizens as any person equipped with a full measure of normal faculties. The devotion of the teachers, to whom Mr. Morrison paid a very high tribute, is no small factor in the school's record of which it may well be proud.

The keen interest aroused by Mr. Morrison's address was obvious in the many questions which followed.

A vote of thanks was returned by Mrs. A. E. May, and a pleasant social time brought the meeting to a close. Preparations for a Spring tea-sale are well under way, and tickets for the Manley Macdonald masterpiece will soon be available.

Hillis presented the heed of a Good Friday service to be held at 2.30 p.m. The sum of $2.00 was voted to be sent to the Dominion Women's Association Council.

W. C.T.U. Sponsors Successful Tea In Y.M.C.A.

Friday afternoon in the lounge of the Y.M.C.A. members of the Women's Christian Temperance Union held a very successful tea, when the inclemency of the out-of-doors was forgotten in warm glow of candlelight and the cordiality of the welcome extended. Mrs. E. Farnsworth and Mrs. J. E. Shortt received the guests.

The tea table was very attractive with its cream lace cover, centred with an artistic glass bowl holding sweetpeas in shades of pink and rose, contrasting pleasantly with the tall green tapers in crystal holders. Presiding over the silver tea services were Mrs. Bruein, Mrs. F. Gordon, Mrs. Cooke and Mrs. Bennett, while the guests were served by Mrs. Hart, Mrs. Little, Mrs. Gilbert and Mrs. Graham.

Plates and tea pots were replenished by Mrs. Hitchon and Mrs. Bennett.

An array of home cooked products was temptingly displayed on a nearby table, convened by Mrs. G. Gorsline, with Miss Anderson and Mrs. A. H. Fisher assisting.

Miss Reeves was treasurer for the afternoon, the proceeds of which were entirely satisfactory to the ladies in charge.

Two Mad Killers Believed Hiding Near Penetang

Penetanguishene, Ont., March 22. (CP)—Two mad killers, fugitives from a mental hospital here, were believed hiding today in the snow-covered countryside within a few miles of this Georgian Bay town.

Melville Wilkie, 37, of Owen Sound, who confessed to burning his wife and baby daughter to death, and Henry Leo Cada, 29, of River Rouge, Mich., adjudged unfit to stand trial in the knife slaying last June of his 21-year-old sister Ida, fled Saturday night after slugging a guard and lifting his keys.

The escape was Wilkie's fourth since he was committed to the Ontario Mental hospital in 1933. He was ruled insane after he said in a statement that he sprinkled coal oil around a bedroom in which his wife and child were sleeping and set fire to it.

Wilkie, a dark-haired, slightly bow-legged man of medium height and weight, hid 12 days on the hospital grounds after his first break Aug. 1, 1946, but a coughing fit gave him away. The following November he beat his way to Winnipeg, took pneumonia and was recognized by a hospital doctor. He scaled a 16-foot wall last August but was captured at Wasaga Beach by police who pursued him in a motorboat after he waded out into the bay.

Killed Sister

Cada, six feet two inches tall and weighing about 220 pounds, was accused of knifing his sister in a barn near Chatham. Three psychiatrists testified at his trial that he suffered from delusions of persecution.

Wearing hospital garb of brown sweater coats, dark trousers and oxfords but no hats, coats or overshoes, the men used a home-made key to pass through two doors which held them in a ward. They slugged guard Howard Cadeau, took his keys and let themselves out. Heavy fog which hung over the area until Sunday noon helped them in their flight. So did a mild spell which made tracks hazy and baffled police who sought to establish the direction the fugitives had taken. By noon, when the fog lifted, the men apparently had vanished without a trace.

However, police expressed belief they had not gone far and the chase settled down to a tedious yard-by-yard beating of the bush to drive out and corner the fugitives.

Americans Plan To Stay in Berlin, Despite Russia

By RICHARD KASISCHKE

Berlin, March 22 — (AP)—Despite Russia's boycott of four-power government machinery for Germany, Gen. Loucius Clay, United States occupation commander, said today the Americans intend to stay in Berlin.

"We are in Berlin by agreement, just as the Russians are in Saxony and Thuringia (territory conquered by Allied Troops) by agreement," said Clay. "We intend to stay."

The Russians' boycott, which followed their walkout on a meeting of the Allied Control council Saturday, spread paralysis today through the whole control authority.

In quick succession, acting as chairmen for this month, they cancelled meetings of four-power committees which had been scheduled for today. They merely said they were too busy to attend.

By noon they had taken part in only one session with the western allies. That was a secretaries' meeting at which the Russians announced there will be no meeting of the Allied co-ordinating committee tomorrow.

The co-ordinating committee, made up of the four deputy military governors, is the second highest Allied governing body for Germany. Ranking just under the control council, it prepares the council's agenda, or program of work.

The Russian boycott did not extend to the Allied Kommandantur, the four-power governing body for the city of Berlin.

Clay's statement was made in an interview. It replied to a request that he comment on the Russian boycott and on renewed suggestions in Russian-controlled newspapers here that the western powers get out of Berlin.

He was not prepared to say what course the United States would pursue if the Russian boycott went on.

Russians Can Call Off Meetings

The Russian chairman can call off all remaining control authority meetings this month if they want.

Next month, however, chairmanships in all groups rotate to the Americans and they can call meetings.

Lt.-Gen. Sir Brian Robertson, British military governor, had scheduled a press conference for this afternoon, but it was cancelled at noon without explanation.

The western occupation chiefs apparently were waiting to see how far the Russians intended to go.

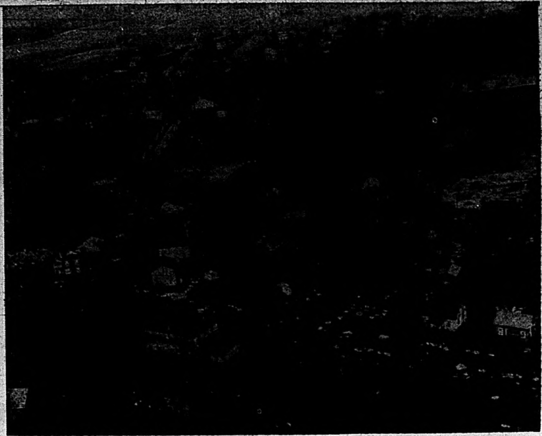
The Russian - sponsored Socialist unity party last week engineered establishment of a so-called German people's council. The council has the announced intention of drafting an all-Germany constitution and eventually replacing the Allied control council.

The Russians cancelled four meetings set for this morning. Shortly before noon they began calling off afternoon meetings, too.

Marshal Vassily D. Sokolovsky, Russian military governor for Germany and this month's chairman of the Allied Control Council, adjourned Saturday's meeting abruptly and led his delegation out.

He said he did so because the United States, British and French delegations would not give him information on the recent three-power London conference on Western Germany.

Western officials called the move "obviously planned and staged."



Forty homes in Bridgeport, near Kitchener, were marooned as the Grand River rose 10 feet Saturday. It was the village's worst flood in years and destruction was added to high total all down the Grand Valley.

Czechs Worked Sunday For Nothing In 'Victory Shifts'

Prague, March 22 — (AP) — More than 4,000,000 Czechs worked for nothing yesterday, the government announced today.

They worked in the country's factories and mines and in building projects. Their gratis labor was the first of a series of government "victory shifts."

The money they would have earned will go to an international children's relief fund and to the guerrilla cause in Greece.

The government did not say which will get the biggest share.

More than 250,000 hours were put in at the Bata Shoes and Allied Industry Works alone, an announcement said.

Actors from the National Theatre helped on a house building project. Children helped clean rubbish from homes and office buildings.

The Czech parliament worked yesterday, too.

It voted to confiscate land holdings in excess of 125 acres. Landless peasants will get a chance to acquire this excess land at favorable terms.

Some of the land will be taken from the church under the measure. It was announced that the church will be compensated.

Kingston Vics Lose to Upper Canada College

Toronto, March 22, (CP)—Toronto Upper Canada College, led by Johnny Murphy with four goals, swamped the Kingston Victorias 10-4 at Maple Leaf Gardens Saturday afternoon to go one up in their best of three O.H.A. Junior 'B' playoff series. Second game will be played Thursday in Kingston.

Grabbing a five-goal lead in the first 10 minutes of play the hustling-hosts were never threatened as they ran rough-shod over the Kingston squad.

Milt Cork started the Upper Canada off at the two-minute mark with a hard, close-in shot that caught the corner. Murphy scored twice within seconds for the hosts, that was lengthened when Bobby Baros and Bill Hewitt nabbed one apiece.

Charlie Flint opened for Kingston at the 13-minute mark only to have Dave Kent score for the hosts minutes later. Seconds before the ball, Bud Aitken tallied for Kingston.

Corb nabbed the only goal in the second period, taking a short pass from Bill Hewitt to beat Goaler Jack Stone.

In a rough third period, that saw 10 penalties handed out by Referee Ed Morris, Upper Canada scored three times, Murphy counted two and Fred Hadden one.

Dave Dugan and Jack McKeown scored for the Vics.

Ottawa Senators Edge Inkerman Rockets by 4-3

Ottawa, March 22. (CP)—Ottawa Senators, City Champions, yesterday kept their district hockey association junior championship and their right to meet the Maritime Champions in the Memorial Cup Playdowns alive, by egding Inkerman Rockets 4-3 in the third game of their best-of-five series. Inkerman took the first and second games, 8-5 and 3-1, respectively.

A crowd of 7,000 saw the Senators, facing elimination, clinch the game at the 12:12 mark of the final period on a goal by Bill Russell.

Alf Menchini started Senators off to a fast lead in the initial period scoring on assists by Billy Goold and Leo Fletcher. Less than three minutes later, however, Inkerman's star left winger Gordie Brown banged home the equalizer.

In the second period Ottawa's Bill Lynn put the Senators out in front for the second time, but Cliff Baldwin squared the count less than a minute later. Toby Defalco drew Bert Feltham out of the net, and then scored from close in for Ottawa's third counter.

Inkerman's Leo Boivin scored the other goal for Lloyd Laporte's Rockets early in the final frame to tie the count. Then Russell scored the pay-off goal for Senators at the 12:12 mark of the period.

The fourth game of the series will be played here Monday night.

Playoffs Open Tuesday In U.S. Hockey Loop

By The Associated Press

Playoffs for the championship of the United States Hockey League will open tomorrow night at Houston between Kansas City, leader of the Northern Division, and Houston, top team of the Southern Division.

The battle-worn Kansas City Pla-Mors last night climaxed a long uphill fight by defeating St. Paul 7-4, to barely nudge Minneapolis out of the leadership.

Kansas City and Minneapolis each had 74 points in the standings, but the division crown went to the Pla-Mors because they won one more game than the Millers.

Minneapolis had ruled the Northern Section all season, while Kansas City slowly struggled up from fourth place.

Omaha helped by bumping the Millers 4-2 Saturday while Kansas City was dropping a 5-4 overtime decision to Tulsa.

Houston, already firmly established in the Southern Division lead, trounced Dallas 7-4 Saturday and 9-4 last night. Fort Worth won a wild 9-8 game from Tulsa last night.

Providence Reds, eastern loop leaders, also came up with a pair of triumphs, dumping Springfield 7-2 on Saturday and Washington 12-8 Sunday.

Pittsburgh Hornets clinched second place in the west with a pair of victories over the hapless St. Louis Flyers. The Wasps won 7-1 yesterday after blanking Flyers 2-0 the night before.

Buddy O'Connor Nosed Out By Lach in Last Game

Montreal, March 22 (CP) — Elmer Lach climaxed a brilliant uphill battle to snatch the National Hockey League scoring title from Buddy O'Connor of New York on the last night of the regular league schedule.

Smooth-spoken Buddy a Montreal boy who spent the whole of his big league career with Canadiens before being traded to the Rangers this season, had topped the marksmen for the last 12 consecutive weeks. He held a four-point edge going into the final weekend and looked a top heavy favorite to win the points title and the $1,000 bonus that goes with it for the first time in his seven years under hockey's big top.

Lach had two weekend games, O'Connor one. The Habitant ace closed the gap to one point by picking up three assists against Chicago Saturday night when O'Connor was idle. He fired two goals in Boston last night while Buddy went pointless to clinch the crown for the second time in his N.H.L. career.

As a consolation prize, O'Connor earns $500 for the runner-up spot.

The "luck of the Irish" certainly wasn't following O'Connor last night. The one time he did net the puck the play was called back for an offside. The marker would have earned him a tie for top spot and $750 in the split of the payoff money.

NO BULBS LEFT

FLOOD WATERS

Residents of Southwestern Ontario where the Grand and Thames Rivers as well as the Maitland were on the rampage reckoned flood damage at close to $10,000,000 — but the crisis appeared past, especially in the streams' upper reaches.

Three Wharves Crushed

The Saugeen overflowed in Bruce county and caused damage in Walkerton and Paisley. At Goderich in Huron county damage caused by ice and flood to harbor installations was expected to reach $600,000. An ice heave there crushed wharves.

Citizens' clean-up groups in Listowel's business section cleared away debris left by a $100,000 surge of the Maitland. The river spilled five feet deep into the downtown section.

Galt, New Hamburg, Paris and other Grand River valley centres estimated damage at more than $650,000 after a record surge of the Grand pounded flood waters into business sections and forced the evacuation of hundreds of persons.

Three Washouts Reported

C. N. R. officials reported three washouts in the Palmerston division, weakened roadbeds in the Stratford division and a washout at Dundas.

Spotted throughout Southwestern Ontario were smashed bridges, burst dams, railway and highway washouts, wrecked barns and mounds of tangled debris.

Two men staged a Little Eva rescue of a telephone operator at Fordwich, north of Wingham. They worked their way across floating cakes of ice and carried Louise Hambly to safety scant minutes before the telephone office filled with water.

In North London late Saturday a girl was dragged from the Thames and revived. Earlier, three Indian brothers, previously reported missing and believed drowned, were rescued from a tiny island near the Middlesex county village of Melbourne.

Unleashed from frozen bounds, rampaging rivers Saturday thrashed over their banks forcing 225 persons from homes in the Ottawa area and marooning another 25 families. Damage is estimated at $700,000.

Worst to suffer was the new residential Kingsview Park in Ottawa's suburban Eastview where the crashing Rideau River Saturday forced 225 persons from their homes, flooded ground storeys of 35 houses and caused damage of $500,000.

At Rouyn, Que., 35 miles north of the capital, the tiny Rouyn River burst through the Mill bridge dam to flood the heart of the village.

LINDEN HOOK

Nancy Wright was completely covered while Mary Young was held fast by the feet. She was able to extricate herself by pulling her feet out of her shoes. She noticed fingers of one hand of her friend Nancy just above the earth and began digging frantically until she had uncovered sufficient earth to permit some breathing. There was no sign of the boy.

Alarm Raised

She dashed to the nearest house which happened to be that of Mrs. Hook. An alarm was raised by Mrs. Hook and Mary Young rushed back to the scene to do further digging around her friend's head. Her cool-headed action is credited with preventing a double tragedy. Jack Scott and others were quickly on the scene and began digging. After Miss Wright's head was completely freed, they turned to locating the Hook lad, and were directed in their efforts by Miss Young whose actions were termed heroic by rescuers.

The boy was buried beneath nearly two feet of heavily-packed earth and obstructing the work was a huge chunk of concrete, part of the street pavement. It was necessary to use the steam shovel to break this before picks and shovels could be used. When the boy was rescued, after about 15 minutes, he was still breathing but unconscious, and artificial respiration applied by Dr. Gerald Allison and Dr. C. R. Richmond failed.

The Wright girl was removed to the home of Jack Scott and Dr. G. C. Caughey attended her.

The Prior girl escaped the slide as she was at the head of the procession filing out of the trench and the sliding earth missed her.

No Others in Trench

It was not clear as to whether there had been other children playing in the trench, which was nine feet deep, and workmen dug for nearly two hours before it was ascertained that no one else was there. There was a tense moment when workmen uncovered the toe of a shoe but this turned out to belong to the Young girl.

Miss Young credits the fact that she was a little ahead of Miss Wright when the cave-in occurred, with her escaping from being completely buried, as she was not caught in the heaviest part of the slide. Had that happened an immediate alarm would not have been raised.

The trench was about 25 feet long and it is filled in as tile is laid. The street is blocked to traffic.

Those who assisted in the rescue were Jack Scott, Pat Hodgson, Vernon Wheeler who were first on the scene; Fred Forshee, William Goodham, Bill Claus, Arthur Weaver, Clifford Huff and Harry Grimmon.

Inquest Ordered

Coroner Dr. R. A. Thompson and Crown Attorney G. T. Walmsley were called and ordered an inquest, the date to be set Monday. The jury is composed of Lavergne Minaker, Frank Dunning, Harold Kelson, Wilfred Scott, Hilton Whattam.

The funeral of Linden Hook was held this Monday afternoon at Cherry Valley United Church, Rev. E. V. C. Lewis officiating. Survivors are the parents and grand-parents. Mrs. Hook was formerly Ruth Clapp, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Clapp, Picton. Born in Picton, the boy had been attending kindergarten and was a bright, cheerful child, whose death is deeply regretted.

Copper Cliff H.S. Wins Second Straight Title

Kingston, March 22 — (CP) — Copper Cliff high school won its second straight Ontario Secondary School Hockey Association senior title Saturday night, defeating Kingston Collegiate Institute 3-1 in a gruelling final game.

Windsor Lowe Vocational Institute won the consolation series by default from Belleville Collegite Institute.

In the senior final after a scoreless first period, George Pollesel of Copper Cliff stickhandled his way through the whole Kingston team to score unassisted early in the second frame and then Harry Bellay made it 2-0 on a combination scoring play with linemates Gord Bennett and Jerry Toppazzini. Jerry Weese scored Kingston's only goal before the middle period ended.

Toppazzini's second goal for Copper Cliff ended the scoring in the final frame. The heavier Copper Cliff team dominated play throughout that session but Toppazzini, best player on the ice, was the only man able to beat Bob Holland who turned in a great game in the Kingston nets.

Hamilton Tigers Leave Big Four After 42 Years

Ottawa, March 22. (CP)— If the Hamilton Wildcats crack the Big Four, there'll be no fear of them going in the red, E. K. (Eddie) Emerson, new Big Four president, said today.

On the heels of the Hamilton Tigers walkout Saturday, Mr. Emerson disclosed the decision of the "Big Three" of the Big Four toe stablish a "Share-the-Loss Fund" in excess of $10,000.

"Any of the clubs going in the red will be reimbursed to the amount of their loss," he said. "That is, providing it doesn't exceed $10,000."

Reiterating his previous "surprised and sorry that the Tigers are severing a 42-year-playing connection," he said he was certain the severance was complete and the Wildcats would step in to mend the gap.

Going over the high-tension Interprovincial Rugby Football Union meeting Saturday, the new Big Four president and president of the Ottawa Rough Riders said the Montreal Alouettes demand for increased import allowances had been met satisfactorily.

The Alouttes wrangled an extra two imports for league and league-playoff matches and remained in the Union. Other teams are restricted to five imports.

"But Hamilton wanted a 33 1-3 per cent cut of gate receipts in out-of-town games. We couldn't agree to that."

According to Mr. Emerson, J. G. Langs, Tigers Club president told the Big Four Hamilton's returns were not on an equal footing with the high investment required to meet football competition.

"But Hamilton made $1,000 last year," said Mr. Emerson. "On the other hand, Ottawa Rough Riders lost just about that amount."

He said he had approached Mr. Langs on the league plan to contribute a "Share-the-Loss" Fund at Saturday's I.R.F.U. meeting, but the idea failed to sway Hamilton's Chief.

As the Tigers decision became public through press and radio, bewildered football fans at Hamilton swamped newspaper offices with calls demanding the "low down".

Plenty of clean-ups over the hectic weekend....Leafs won their first National League title in ten years defeating the Detroit Red Wings 5-3 in a dizzy battle.... Elmer Lach punched home a point over the weekend that was worth a cool thousand simoleons....And with it went the N. H. L. scoring title Barrie turned itself inside out with a frenzied celebration as the Flyer kids took the Ontario junior "A" title from Windsor Spits....Won it the hard way, too, knocking off the Border Cities crew four straight after dropping a pair....Syl Apps, scored his 201st goal with Watson tobying him a perfect pass to allow his captain to pot No. 200.... Could have scored himself, but instead flipped it to the skipper.

There's more excitement in these weekend darts games than you can shake a stick at....The boys, sweats of two wars call off all friendship deals when they go into action and there's plenty to enthuse about....Rivalry is exceptionally keen between the Hasty Pees and the Army, Navy crew and there'll be quite a tussle before the time comes to announce the league winners and the owners of the new J. J. Lee trophy....Going to be quite a do at the end of the season, and the boys have already a neat sum in the biscuit and cheese fund....President Art Hobb, Secretary Jack Lee and their executive have done a neat job building up this new addition to city sports circles, and with the present rate of expansion, there's not telling to what heights the loop will go next year....The boys are mooting a provincial organization, or at least an Eastern Ontario group in which Kingston, Oshawa, Peterborough and other towns in the district would be invited....It's a good idea, and the local association is keyed up about it....

Lots of comment along the sports rialto anent the prices being charged at the Peterborough Legion, Toronto Flyers game tonight in Memorial Arena....Seems as though the boys do not agree with the $1 and 75 cents tab for seats....It is brought to their attention however, that the Memorial Arena Committee did not set the prices .... That chore was done by the rival teams managements ...However it should be a right nifty brawl as Hank Goldup's Flyers figure they can take the measure of the fast-travelling Pets Legionnaires on fast ice, and vice versa.... Twill be a battle to the hockey death, and a winner must be declared tonight....

Fans Stage Parade For Barrie Flyers After Winning Title

(By The Canadian Press)

Hockey fans turned out Saturday night for a parade in honer of Barrie Flyers, winners of the first Junior A Ontario Hockey Association championship to come to this Lake Simcoe town. Coach Hap Emms marched the winners through town after they had whipped Windsor Spitfires 6-3 for their fourth straight victory that gave them the group title four games to two.

Leafs Take N.H.L. Title, Broda Gets Vezina Trophy, Lach Wins Scoring Race

By HARRY ECCLES
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

When it really counted — in the vital final series of the National Hockey League schedule — Toronto Maple Leafs beat Detroit Red Wings twice in a row.

The league schedule of 60 games per team was over today, with these results: Toronto winner of the N. H. L. title for the third time in history, the first time in a decade; goalie Turk Broda of Toronto winner of the Vezina Trophy; Elmer Lach of Montreal Canadiens winner of the N. H. L. scoring championship by a single point over New York Rangers' Buddy O'Connor.

On Saturday the Leafs beat Wings 5-3, clinching the title by a point, while Canadiens at Montreal walloped the last-place Chicago Black Hawks 7-4. On Sunday the Leafs at Detroit beat Wings 5-2, Boston edged Canadiens 4-3 and Chicago beat Rangers 4-3 at New York.

Toronto wound up the schedule with 77 points, Detroit 72, Boston 59, New York 55, Montreal 51 and Chicago 46.

Canadiens and Hawks had been eliminated from Stanley Cup play some games back, but it was only last night that the exact Stanley Cup line-up became settled.

In the Cup semi-finals starting Wednesday Toronto will go against Boston Bruins and Detroit will face the New York Rangers.

Even Saturday Night

Broda, the fabulous fat man who's a mighty tough man to beat when the chips are down, started out even with Lumley in the Vezina race Saturday night. Each had 138 goals against him before that game. They were both jittery in the early stages. Ted Kennedy scored two of the Leaf goals, Harry Watson, Syl Apps and Vic Lynn the others. Ted Lindsay, Marty Pavelich and rookie Enio Sclisizzi scored for Detroit.

The title was already won but the pressure was still there for the goalies in the second game at Detroit. Harry Watson of Toronto scored the first and Roy Conacher tied it up. Syl Apps cracked through for two goals in the second period and another in the third, when Don Metz of Toronto and rookie Don Morrison of Detroit also scored.

The usually hostile Detroit fans stood up and cheered when Apps reached the magic N. H. L. 200-goal total with his second counter. His linemate Watson set up the second and had a perfect scoring chance, but he gave the puck to the team captain and Apps made no mistake on No. 200. The additional one was a bonus for Sylvanus, who has said he's definitely out of hockey after this season is finished.

And the Detroit fans gave out with an ovation too for Broda, who finished with a five - goal margin to win the Vezina Trophy and put himself in line for about $4,000 in bonuses. That will come from $1,000 with the Vezina, plus $1,000 from the Leafs, and $1,000 for the all-star goalie plus another equal bonus from the team.

Free-Scoring Game

Neither Canadiens nor Hawks had anything to lose at Montreal Saturday and it was a wild, free-scoring game to wind up N.H.L. play for the season there.

Elmer Lach scored three assists, but no goals. Maurice Richard scored three times, Bobby Fillion twice, and Butch Bouchard and Doug Harvey got one apiece. Bill Mosienko scored two for the Hawks, and Gus Bodnar and Bill Gadsby each got one.

At Boston Sunday Lach rapped in two goals to win the league scoring title with 61 points, earning the league's $1,000 bonus, one slim point ahead of Buddy O'Connor who got nary a point at New York.

The Bruins' 4-3 win over Canadiens clinched third place, putting them against Leafs in the Stanley Cup. Lach got the only goal of the opening frame, and Kenny Smith of Boston scored the only goal of the second period.. Lach's second goal came just after the third period started, but it was followed by three Boston counters, from Pat Egan, Jimmy Peters and Ed Harrison, before Rip Riopelle wound up Montreal scoring..

At New York Sunday Red Hamill, Metro Prystai, Gus Bodnar and Doug Bentley did the Chicago scoring. Tony Leswick got two for New York, Ed Kullman the other. Rangers were feeding frequent passes to Buddy O'Connor in that last period, when one goal would have given him the scoring title, but Emile Francis in the Chicago nets had no sympathy.

CANADIAN SPORT SNAPSHOTS

By W. R. WHEATLEY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Montreal, March 22 (CP)—There were no calls for either sympathy or crying towels around the Montreal Forum when Canadiens passed out of the 1948 Stanley Cup picture.

Everybody took things philosophically. The great team that for seven consecutive years had made the playoffs had finally collapsed —in fifth place. But twice during that span Canadiens won the Stanley Cup and walked off with the National League championship four years in a row.

All sorts of reasons have been advanced for the team's failure—over-confidence, lack of team spirit, injuries.

And it is of injuries that Elmer (Montreal Herald) Ferguson writes, revealing a bit of drama that was all set but now will never be seen.

"Not many people knew it, but if Canadiens had made the grade 'Toe' Blake was coming back from Houston, Texas, to take his place on the old punch line along with Elmer Lach and Rocket Richard.

"That might have provided one of the really great dramatic incidents of a series which generally teams with such things, for Blake is a great fighter and would have risen to such a situation."

Fergy then recalled the night of Jan. 10 when Blake crashed to the ice in a game against New York Rangers and was carried off with a broken leg. When he was able to hobble around the Canadien management offered to send him to the Houston farm club to take over as manager. Blake went.

"The Houston team was third then, but despite lack of managerial experience the old lamplighter hustled his club along and they now are leading the entire United States League. Blake himself has been on skates for a few weeks, showing no ill effects of the injury.

"He was prepared to get back to Montreal if Canadiens had made the playoffs and don the old uniform once more for the phychological, if not the athletic, effect."

B.C.I. Senior Cage Girls And O.S.D. Juniors Beaten In C.O.S.S.A. Toronto Series

Toronto, March 22 (CP)— A two-day basketball tournament ended here Saturday with the crowning of four 1948 champions of the Central Ontario Secondary School Association. Fort Erie won the senior boys crown, Burlington the senior girls, Peterborough the boys junior, for the second consecutive year, and Niagara Falls the junior girls.

Orillia and Belleville, the only centres represented in two series, failed to win a championship.

Each contest was one-sided. Fort Erie senior boys defeated Orillia 47-23; Peterborough junior boys downed Orillia 52-12; Burlington senior girls stopped Belleville, 22-7; and Niagar aFalls junior girls beat the Ontario School for the Deaf from Belleville 23-13.

Fort Erie, which was forced the limit by Peterborough in the semi-finals, had an easy time with Orillia, taking a first period lead and adding to it in each session.

Jack Logan starred for the winners, his shooting and defensive play the best of the day. He scored 10 points as did teammate McReynolds. Graves was next in line with eight.

Page and Leith, with eight and six points apiece, were best for the losers who were outplayed in each quarter. The Fort quintet led 22-13 at the half.

Bell Tops Losers

The Burlington senior girls ran roughshod over Belleville in winning 22-7, their passing and checking superior to that of the Bay of Quinte district winners. Wyaminshewski, star of the semi-finals, again showed the way, scoring with 11 points. Bell, with five points, was tops for the losing team.

Don Griffin, tallying 15 points, paced the Peterborough junior boys to their title over the Orillia team. The Petes, in control at all times, led the Georgian Bay district champions 22-6 at the half way mark. The Wilde brothers, Jim and Bud, came through with five and three points respectively for the losing team.

The taller Niagara Falls junior girls five jumped to an early lead over the Belleville lassies, only to have the O.S.D. quintet revert from a wide-open to a close-checking game and hold the victors to a 10-point win. Lundberg sank 12 points for the winners with Vorvis counting nine markers for Belleville.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.

New York, March 22. (AP)—After the first Spring training clash between the Yankees and Red Sox, Yankee Manager Bucky Harris commented in aggrieved tones: "Those fellows really were trying to beat me. . .Bucky's idea of training seems to be to try out his younger players while the older ones are leisurely getting themselves into condition. But Joe McCarthy never could see the point of playing any game without going all out to win and besides, he's trying to weld a lot of high class material into one winning team. . .The result of this clash of opposite viewpoints may be a "feud" that will keep things lively throughout the American League season, unless the Indians and Tigers prove strong enough to gum up the two-way pennant struggle.

Don Campbell, Colorado University sprinter who suffered a severe leg injury during the war, appears to be the real hard-luck guy of the track world—and that takes in Gil Dodds' case of mumps, too. . .Last Spring, Don went on a tour of Australia. . . .On his return, he tried to demonstrate the Australian "Flying finish" and pulled a leg muscle. . .Later in the trials of the National Collegiate meet, Campbell ran a 9.5 hundred yards, then pulled the same muscle in the 220-yard heat . . . Last month, Don pulled the same muscle once more in the big seven indoor met, costing Colorado a chance for the team title. . . . Now he's hoping the leg will hold up for the outdoor season and the Olympic trials.

Charley Jones, manager of Sammy Angott, is booking fights for heavyweight Sid Peake and Walter Jimmy Sanders, both reported to be slightly sensational.

Barrie Flyers Defeat Windsor To Win Crown

(By The Canadian Press)

Barrie Flyers advanced into the Memorial Cup playoffs when they won their fourth straight game from Windsor Spitfires 6-3 Saturday night in Barrie to take the Ontario Hockey Association junior "A" crown. The Flyers dropped the first two games of the best-of-seven series but pulled a quick reversal of form to whip Windsor.

McIntyre Macmen squared the best-of-five Northern Ontario Hockey Association senior finals at two games each when they eked out a 6-5 win over Sault Ste. Marie Greyhounds at Timmins Saturday. The fifth and deciding game is tonight at Schumacher, Ont.

Down three goals at the end of the first frame, Barrie Flyers made a brilliant comeback to rack up four quick goals in the second period and another two counters in the final session while holding Windsor scoreless.

Bert Giesebrecht, Jack Taylor and Busch tallied within the first six minutes of play for Spitfires but were soon stopped to end the frame at 3-0.

Flyers began to roll half-way through the second session as Paul Meger, Whit Mousseau, Jerry Reid and Stan Long counted to pull Barrie ahead 4-3. The hard-fighting Windsor squad couldn't score after the initial frame while Gariepy and Long tallied in the final period for the Flyers to end the game at 6-3 and bring the first junior 'A' crown to Barrie since the team was formed three years ago.

Rough in Final Session

The game roughened up in the final session when Mousseau and Wilson tangled.

McIntyre Macmen jumped into a two-goal lead when Bill Walker and Dusty Baker tallied but were down 3-2 before the session ended as Shep Mayer, Ron Lay and Bill Zuke counted for Greyhounds while McIntyre were shorthanded.

The visiting McIntyre squad put the game away in the second frame with four quick goals after being down 5-2 after Mello Bumbaco and Andy Mantha had counted for the Sault.

Tallies by Walker, Doran and Doug Glaister for Macmen knotted the score at 5-5. Then a boarding penalty to Bailey of Greyhounds gave McIntyre their chance. Before he returned to the ice, Jackie Ladds beat goalie Muzz Murray with the game's deciding goal.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

The Kibitzer P-R-E-S-S rule is the simplest guide to a squeeze. It reminds you of the items to look for and the order in which you should look for them.

P reminds you of promotion cards. R is reduction cards. E is entries. S is squeezee (the player to be squeezed). S is squeeze card. The letters in that order spell the word press. Appropriate.

South is declarer at seven no-trump in this deal:

NORTH
♥A J
♦5 4 3 2
♣6 5 4 3 2

WEST
♠K Q 10 9
♥K Q 10 9
♦8 7 6
♣8 7

EAST
♠8 7 6 5 4 3
♥8 7 6 5 4
♦10 9
♣None

♦A K Q J
♣A K Q J 10 9

The opening lead from west is spade king. There is a loser in spades or hearts. One dummy jack can be sluffed on south clubs. But not both. No normal play will save the other loser.

How do you know there is no ordinary play that will help save a loser. By mentally studying each possible normal play. Do this as soon as the opening lead is made. Before touching a dummy card.

When no simple play will answer your purpose, how do you know it may be saved by a squeeze? Look to see if you can discover the five needed items indicated in the word press.

Two major jacks are two promotion cards. They are possible losers, one of which may be promoted into a winner.

Spade ace, four diamonds, five of the clubs are ten reduction cards. These are enough to reduce all hands to the squeeze position.

Heart ace is an entry to north. And south retains the entry at the end of the tenth trick.

West is assumed to be the squeeze. His lead says he has the other outstanding high spade. He may also have the unseen high hearts. You are not sure of this. But it is possible to assume.

The last south club is a 13er of the suit. This, when led, becomes the squeeze card. The other hands must play to it.

This is enough to hold you for one day.

CANCER RESEARCH CONTINUES

Today cancer research goes along steadily in the medical laboratories. But outside the labs, the crusade against cancer takes the form of fighting the disease with facts. More and more information about the symptoms of the disease and the advantages of early treatment must be made available to the public. For this vital educational service, the Canadian Cancer Society opens its campaign for $150,000-or-more memberships in Ontario, April 1.

The Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, March 22—(AP)—Approaching his 60th birthday anniversary, Irving Berlin looks back on 40 years of song writing without regret. That's reasonable, since he's the United States' most successful and no doubt richest writer.

Have you ever yearned to write a more serious and lasting work? I asked.

"A long time ago when I was first writing ragtime, a lot of people told me I should write a ragtime opera. I thought about it—for five minutes. Then I decided I knew how to do one thing—and could do it damn well—and I'd better stick to it. I think it's just as important to write a hit song as it is to paint a beautiful picture."

The black-haired little guy reflected:

"Some people are born with an initial talent for writing songs. Then it's a matter of how they apply that talent. Some write songs that are brittle and satirical. I write songs with heart."

Debunks Common Notion

Berlin debunks the common notice that tunesmiths jot down some ideas they get while strolling down the street.

"I never 'jot down' ideas. Writing songs is hard work. There is usually a reason that I have to write one, and I sit down at the piano and work at it."

May 11 will mark Berlin's 60th birthday, but he shows no signs of slowing down. "Annie Get Your Gun," which he terms his best score, is playing tonight in New York, Pittsburgh, London and Australia, "and within six months it will open in Sweden and Paris."

Prefers Stage

Berlin prefers to compose for the stage, partly because of the ham in him, partly because of time. "Parade" occupied more than a year of his time; most of "Annie's" songs were written to order in three weeks and the show was on the board within 3½ months.

Will he ever retire? This is his answer:

"Here's all I can tell you about that — some day I expect people to say: 'Berlin's slipping . . . he's falling . . . he fell . . . no, he's dead!'"

"THE COUNTESS" RETURNS TO CANADA

Mystery shrouded the whereabouts of "Countess Grace Buchanan-Dineen, Toronto-born glamour girl of the '30s, who allegedly strayed from society's select path into Hitler's foreign service. Miss Dineen, shown above with a border official, should have been in Toronto, but there was no evidence she had boarded the train headed for Toronto. For three and a half years she occupied a cell in the federal penitentiary for women at Alderson, West Virginia, before President Truman ordered her 12-year sentence reduced. The "Countess" said early in 1942 F.B.I. agents offered her the alternative of facing a penitentiary sentence or working as a counter-spy for the U. S. government. She agreed to the latter and her claim of two years' success ended in the cracking of a U. S. nation-wide espionage ring.

Four-Month Search By Father Finds Body Of Drowned Man

Linesville, Pa., March 22 (AP)—For four months Ira Huff refused to give up the search for the body of his son, Kenneth, 40, who was drowned while duck hunting last November. Yesterday as Huff and another son, Albert, walked along the shore of Pymatuning Lake, they discovered Kenneth's body. Several hours later the body of John Aber of Sharpsville, Pa., was rocevered at the opposite end of the lake. Aber and Huff were drowned when their boat capsized.

100 Passengers Taken from Ferry In Small Boats

Ogdensburg, N. Y., March 22 — (AP) — Nearly 100 passengers were removed in small boats last night from a ferry which ran aground in the St. Lawrence River outside Ogdensburg Harbor.

The ferry, Joseph Dubrule, en route from Prescott, Ont., to Ogdensburg, hit a sandbar about 1,000 feet from shore during a dense fog.

Passengers remained on the boat several hours. They were taken off in two small power boats, one operated by Coast Guardsmen and the other by George Dupey. About 15 automobiles were on the steam ferry.

Rivermen said removal of the ferry from the sand bar would be delayed until the fog lifted.

Many wise 'middle-age' women take Pinkham's Compound regularly to help build up resistance against this distress.

Hospital Plan Working Well In Saskatchewan

Regina, March 20 —(CP)— More than 140,000 people — nearly one-sixth of the province's population — had their basic hospital bills paid last year under Saskatchewan's government-operated hospital plan, it was shown in the legislature yesterday by Premier T. C. Douglas.

A report showed it cost $7,338,000 to provide basic hospital services — which include public-ward care, nursing and all but the most expensive drugs and medicine — for the 142,366 patients discharged from hospitals after treatment during 1947.

Under the plan all residents pay an annual $5 tax, with a maximum of $30 a family, which entitles them to free hospital care as long as their doctor deems it necessary.

Annual cost of the plan was estimated at $9.40 per capita. Individual tax collections totalled $3,771,000 with the rest of the cost — approximately $3,549,000 —paid by the provincial government.

HANDFUL OF STARS

By Margaret Gorman Nichols

They went to a picture and he left her at the apartment. Coming out, he felt that he could not go home. All through the evening with Lyle he had been thinking that Troy was having a party tonight. She had called and said, "Why not stop in late, Jeff? Everybody'll be awfully glad to see you." Troy's party was what he needed tonight. It wasn't that Lyle had bored him. She had been sweet and happy tonight. But in the gayety of Troy's party he could briefly forget how much he loathed his job and the ever-increasing shadow across his path that he owed Lyle money....

And while Lyle was putting on a paint-smeared smock and going to work, Jeff was driving in the direction of the apartment that Troy shared with her young and attractive aunt.

Suzanne called Lyle to her office the next morning and asked her to go to luncheon with her.

And about noon in a secluded corner in a restaurant she smiled at Lyle and said, "You know! You knew yesterday. It's a very long story of two people who fell in love a little more than seven years ago and quarreled and separated. Walter married hastily but it wasn't an unhappy marriage. I'm glad it wasn't. His wife died recently. And he's come back. And we're going to be married two weeks from today and go to California where his work is. I've spent most of the morning in Stephen's office telling him. He insists that we be married at his apartment. We'll have only a few people and I want you to be there. I want Jeff, too, of course, but I doubt that he'll come to Stephen's. Don't let that keep you away."

Lyle said, "Jeff won't mind. He likes you tremendously." She laughed. "All last night I could scarcely think of anything else! I'm going to miss you. I know Stephen will miss you terribly, too."

"We'll keep in contact, all of us. We'll be coming east at least once a year. You see, Lyle, we had so much that seven years, his marriage, and my so-called success didn't alter it. We took up where we left off seven years ago. We haven't outgrown each other. And my so-called business success," she shook her head and smiled, "you see how little that means now."

Suzanne smiled at Lyle.

"I'd rather a thousand times be the wife of a poor scientist who will spend days and nights in a laboratory," Suzanne said, "than have my success and my beautiful clothes." She laughed. "Here I am talking all about myself while you look at me with that intense, earnest expression that got you your job!"

Lyle said, "You've taught me more than how to sketch fashions. You've taught me that love can endure with everything against it. Everything seems to be against Jeff and me."

Suzanne put her hand over Lyle's. "It can endure if two people put into it equal ingredients and the foundation is very strong. Lyle, don't ever think that men don't love as deeply and as strongly as women. Because they do. They don't talk as much about it and they don't live their love all day as women do and they probably don't think as much about it, but it is just as strong and just as true." The way Stephen loves you, my dear, and you will never know of that great love unless one day you come to the end of loving Jeff....

Other than the clergyman and the attendants, Stephen and Mrs. Hunt, only six people saw Suzanne married to Walter Harris that rainy February afternoon. And the guests were, with the exception of two distant cousins, people whom Lyle had met at Stephen's country house.

Standing between one of the distant cousins and Lettice Powers, Lyle glanced at Suzanne in a dark green suit and matching small hat, then at Walter's graying head, and then at Stephen's distinguished blond head. Would she be the next to hear the words she was hearing now, words that would make her Jeff's wife? Jeff had agreed to her coming today with a bored shrug. But Stephen would not be there when she and Jeff were married. Nor would Suzanne.

As soon as the ceremony was over, Lyle went to Suzanne who slipped her arm through Walter's and said, "Will you be next, Lyle? Please do let me know. Your gift was lovely. It will occupy a prominent place in our home and I'll tell everybody about the little auburn-haired artist who gave it to us. Wasn't Stephen a darling to give us this lovely wedding? Champagne and everything. You will write, won't you?"

Walter said, smiling. "It will be some time, I'm afraid, before Suzanne will feel relieved of the responsibilities of the advertising department."

"But managing a home and a scientist frightens me more than managing an advertising department." She looked at Lyle again. "I know you'll like Miss Penniman who is taking my place. Stephen thinks she's quite human and when he thinks women executives are human, they must be."

Stephen joined them. Suzanne said, "I was just telling Lyle that I think she'll like Lois Penniman."

For the first time that afternoon, he looked at Lyle. Not indifferently but with much of what he felt for her in his eyes. He liked her small black silk dress with a touch of white at the neck and her small black hat.

"Yes," he said. "But then I suppose I'll be losing Lyle soon, too." Not the store losing her only but he, Stephen, losing her to Jeff.. "You haven't any Champagne, Lyle. That won't do at all. You must have some."

Lyle said, smiling, "My first champagne is a toast to Suzanne and Dr. Harris."

But Walter said, "Walter — to you."

She and Stephen went to the other end of the room. And Suzanne had time to say before Lettice came to speak to her, "Do you see them, Walter Don't they look very 'right' together, Lyle and Stephen? She's so tiny and feminine and he's so big and masculine. And he adores her and she doesn't know it and probably never will. It makes you feel that there is something terribly wrong with the scheme of things when two people who could have a beautiful life together — can't get together."

He smiled down at her and said, low. "We did my darling."

Stephen said to Lyle, "I'm driving Walter and Suzanne to the airport. Won't you come along? Then we could have dinner. That is, if you aren't meeting Jeff?"

"I'm not meeting him tonight." Stephen, friendly again. She was glad. And once more, she thought, she would ride in the maroon-colored car next to Stephen's tweed coat.

He smiled. "You're willing to take a chance that I won't go to sleep again?"

"I'll take that chance," he said and left her and went to tell Suzanne and Walter that they had just about enough time to get to the airport.

Driving back from the airport, Lyle felt again the particular kind of happiness that being with Stephen gave her. It was a steadying though stimulating happiness combined with a feeling of protection. She thought, "If we'd have a cloudburst or an accident, I wouldn't be afraid because Stephen would know what to do. He wouldn't lose his temper or get excited."

Stephen said, "You look lovely today Lyle. I've just decided what I like about your clothes. You wear solid colors. I hat splashy prints. They hit me in the eyes. Where would you like to go to dinner? You know, I've never danced with you."

"No, we've never danced together."

"Don't be optimistic. I'm pretty bad."

She looked up. "You're honest even with yourself, aren't you? That's one of the first things I thought about you—that you knew people through and through. You seem to be standing apart and smiling at the crazy things people do."

"But smiling mostly—at me. You aren't born with the ability to laugh at yourself. That comes later."

It had stopped raining when he parked the car two blocks from a hotel. But they had walked only a short distance when it began to rain heavily.

He asked, "Are you good at running?"

He heard her say, "I used to be!" as she started to run. Laughing, he kept a little behind her flying heels until she came to the hotel entrance. Then she stopped, lifted a wet, glowing face to his, and cried, "Look at me! I can't go in like this!"

He put his hand firmly on her arm. "Why not? If you think I'm going to let a slightly damp dress keep me from my dinner...."

On the roof there were soft lights and soft music. When the floor show was over, he asked her to dance, saying, "My feet may not be very graceful but I've a wicked elbow for people who don't look where they're going."

He was happy, almost ridiculously happy. But tonight was time borrowed from Jeff who was with her every night, Jeff who possessed her. Had Jeff ever run after her black heels through a downpour and loved her face and hair with rain in it? Did he thrill to her warm laughter and had he ever noticed how childish was her smile? Did he want more than he wanted anything else to spend his life with her, loving her, laughing with her, protecting her, giving himself and everything he possessed?

When the music stopped and they went back to the table, Lyle said, "You dance the way you do everything, Stephen."

"How? I can take it."

"Well."

He grinned. "I know you, flattering the vice-president."

She smiled. "I've never had the least respect for you as a vice-president because I never think of you as being that. I think of you as my friend. That's how I feel about Suzanne, too." And because she was curious to know and because she felt close to him, she asked, "Stephen, do I know you well enough to ask you why you haven't married?"

He flicked the ash from his cigarette and then looked down at the cigarette as it burned between his fingers. He said, "Well, I'll tell you. I've sent out several bids but the qualifications weren't good enough. You see, she'd have to be small and slim. Not beautiful but lovely. The market is flooded with beauty. It's very cheap. She'd have to have a sense of humor and know when to be quiet...."

"And never wear print dresses."

He laughed. "Right. And she must prefer the country to the city, plays to movies, and ships to any other form of travel."

"And she must love you as completely as you love her. Can't you find her?"

Again he flicked the ash from his cigarette. "There is one bid I haven't sent out—yet."

"Will you tell me when you do?"

He nodded. "I'll tell you. Now tell me about Jeff." Tell me the worst, he thought.

Lyle had not thought of Jeff while she was with Stephen.

"He doesn't like his new job, she said. "He feels that it's beneath him."

Stephen could have laughed at Jeff's feeling the job was beneath him. He said. "Lyle, Jeff is no captain of industry. Production and not personal charm counts in business. Jeff has got to be a little better than the person next in line and work a little harder." It was not the job but work that Jeff hated...."

Restoration Westminster Abbey As Quiet Sanctuary Urged By Architectural Review Editor

By NORMAN CRIBBENS
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, March 22 — (CP) — Restoration of the Westminster area as a quiet sanctuary where pedestrians may escape from the roar of London traffic is urged in an exhibition presented at the Tate Art Gallery by the Architectural Review.

Linked with the restoration plan is a proposal that the flagstones in the paved court of the Abbey should be inscribed with the names of all Commonwealth citizens who died in the two world wars.

"In support of the plan it is stated that until Queen Victoria's Day the area immediately surrounding Westminster Abbey, and the Houses of Parliament "was completely free of Whitehall traffic."

"Before then traffic either turned left across Westminster Bridge or right down Birdcage Walk," said Gordon Cullen, editor of the Architectural Review.

"With no through traffic . . . the precinct was essentially for people on foot and among its squares and courts they went about their business or leisure in an atmosphere that enabled them to enjoy the surrounding beauty."

With the building of Victoria Street, a stream of traffic flooded past the steps of the Abbey's west front while another poured between the Houses of Parliament and the Abbey.

"Today," Cullen said, "the pleasant backwaters of Smith Square and Queen Anne's Gate are stagnant with makeshift car parks."

No Official Backing

Although the plan to restore Westminster's "precinctual" character was first suggested by Sir Patrick Abercrombie, the town planning expert, so far it has received no official backing from the government which endorses his plan for satellite towns.

The Architectural Review is presenting small-scale models of the proposed New Westminster in the hope that it will catch the public imagination and enlist support.

"Such a memorial," Cullen said "would make Westminster what it should be — a symbol of the unity of a number of widely scattered communities of British and other stock who want to live together rather than apart, in mind if not in body.

"The functional changes necessary to bring Westminster precinct back to pedestrian use are not sweeping and relatively small alterations, if well considered, could succeed in recreating the conference it possessed before Victarian engineers cracked it wide open with the construction of Victoria Street and the Embankment."

"It is extraordinary that Westminster which is the physical centre of the Empire should have nothing but a couple of municipal seats and a few geranhums to express it."

UNION REJECTS GOVT. PLAN TO END WALKOUT

Trieste for Gorizia Yugoslavia's Offer Rejected by Italy

Spokesman Says Italy Will Not Barter Italian Flesh

Rome, March 23 (AP)—A foreign ministry spokesman said today Italy has flatly rejected Yugoslavia's offer to trade Trieste for the Italian city of Gorizia.

The western Allies proposed the return of the free territory of Trieste to Italy last Saturday. Yugoslavia countered yesterday with an offer to relinquish her claims on Trieste if Italy will give up Gorizia, to the north.

The spokesman said:

"It is clear that Italy cannot accept the separation of a part of Italian flesh bartered for another part of Italian flesh."

The Italian answer came only a few hours after great throngs roaring "viva Trieste" welcomed Premier Alcide De Gasperi and Foreign Minister Count Carlo Sforza back to Rome.

No Official Word

The spokesman emphasized that the Italian government had received no official word of the reported proposal regarding Gorizia. He said he was speaking entirely on the basis of press reports.

Asked what other hopes — of treaty revision there was in regard to the Italian colonies, the spokesman said:

"On the part of France, the thesis has been confirmed in the most absolute manner that she wishes to give Italy administration of Eritrea, Somaliland and Libia."

The spokesman stressed the importance of the Trieste development to Italy's hopes for general revision of the peace treaty.

He hoped Russia would go along with the western powers' Trieste proposal.

Revision of the treaty by restoration of Trieste to Italy could be the "guarantee of peace and that sincere collaboration which Italy desires with neighboring people."

FIREMEN GIVEN CONCESSIONS BY GOVERNMENT BILL

Would Force Municipalities to Abide by Decision of Arbitration Board

Toronto, March 23 (CP)—Firefighters are placed in a special category regarding collective bargaining as a result of a bill now before the Ontario legislature.

The measure, sponsored by the government, will force any municipality to abide by the decision of an arbitration board on wage increase for the firemen in the community.

The provisions are that requests for wage boosts be entered before Nov. 30 of any year. If no agreement is reached by negotiation the matter goes before an arbitration board. The decision is binding on the municipal council. The government reserves the right to cut off grants to the municipality if it refuses to abide by the decision.

The bill was one of five government measures given second reading yesterday at a busy but quiet sitting. Sixty-nine bills were dealt with, 36 given final reading while 12 private and 12 government bills were approved in committee. Four were read for the first time.

Second reading was given to the Crown Lands bill which permits the province to cut off services to any wartime housing area where the municipality and Dominion do not reach suitable terms for money to make up for lost taxation. Crown lands are not taxable and where the Dominion has taken over an area provision is usually made to give the municipality money to make up for the taxes which would normally be received.

Drug Addicts Sent to Jail

Windsor, March 23. (CP)—Adolph Abrams, no fixed abode, and Ray Bengle alias Bangles, of Windsor, were sentenced in Magistrate's Court today to 10 months in reformatory and $200 and costs or an additional three months, each on charges of illegal possession of narcotics.

"I hope some day the powerful voice of the medical profession is raised in behalf of legislation permitting confirmed alcoholics, drug addicts and sexual psychopaths to be committed to specially designated institutions of healing rather than institutions of punishment, Magistrate J. A. Hanrahan said as he sentenced the two confessed drug addicts.

Abrams conducted his own defence and assisted Bengle with his cross-examination. Both men pleaded innocent.

Attempted Murder Charge is Laid

Halifax, March 23 (CP)—Raymond Flemming of suburban Fairview was charged with attempted murder today following a shooting yesterday in Nova Scotia's legislative buildings when a clerk, Alexander Fraser was wounded.

No plea was taken from Flemming and he was remanded a week without bail.

Meanwhile, Fraser was reported resting comfortably from a hip wound.

No motive for the shooting was advanced by police.

EXPORT TRADE DROPS

Ottawa, March 23 — (CP) — Canada's merchandise export trade dropped to $208,300,000 in February from January's total of $235,400,000, but were still 16 per cent above the February, 1947, figure of $179,500,000, the Bureau of Statistics reported yesterday.

Debate on Atomic Warfare Described As "Appalling" by Woman Member

London March 23 (CP)—Tears in her eyes, a woman member of Parliament last night interrupted a debate on atomic warfare by describing the discussion as "appalling."

After Sir John Anderson, National member for Scottish Universities had analyzed the possible safeguards against atomic bomb explosions, Mrs. Leah Manning rose in the House of Commons to plead with the government "not to frighten the people for nothing" about the horrors of a new war.

"If you men can discuss this coldly and scientifically here, the women cannot," said Mrs. Manning, Labor member for Epping.

"It is a shocking commentary on our times that after drawing breath from one war we should be getting ready for the next."

Earlier, Mrs. Manning and Mrs. Florence Patton, Labor member for Rushcliffe, the only two women members of parliament present, looked shocked when their male colleagues talked of gas masks, flash burns, deep shelters and dispersal of population among the Dominions.

About 25 members participated in the debate.

Speaking in impassioned tones and twice stamping her foot, Mrs. Manning said:

"This Iron Curtain we are told exists has given place to a kind of sheet in a shadow play, on which we see a phantasmagoria of horrible grotesque people passing across ... somebody has got to tear it down to show that on both sides of it are ordinary human beings."

Mrs. Manning is the wife of William Manning who was a member of an atomic research unit in Canada during the war.

There were frequent interruptions during the debate in which Sir John said that atomic flash burns caused many fatalities in Japan. He added that the very flimsiest protection is sufficient —a sheet of brown paper will do."

Sir John, former chairman of the British advisory committee on atomic energy urged the devising of a policy of — shelter against atomic bombs — a policy which could be put into effect at short notice.

ABBOTT APPEALS VOTE ON GROUNDS OF PROCEDURE

Adverse Vote Recorded In Committee Stage

Ottawa, March 23 (CP)— The Commons yesterday saw the government out-manoeuvre the manoeuvrers.

What the Chamber saw was a minor but delicate crisis in which a vital section of a government taxation resolution was defeated by a standing count of 43 to 39 in a tricky snap vote while the motion was going through committee of ways and means.

While adverse votes in committee stage, even on such important measures as those imposing taxes, do not spell defeat for the administration, the government thus was manoeuvred into an embarrassing position until Finance Minister Abbott appealed against the vote on the grounds the procedure had been in error. In a formal division, he was supported by a vote of 79 to 72.

The manoeuvrers in the case were a handful of C.C.F. members who apparently quietly counting heads and finding the government side deficient in strength, called for an on-the-spot standing vote as committee chairman W. H. Golding, (L—Huron-Perth) was putting the first clause of the resolution.

Struggle to Feet

The 82 members in the chamber truggled to their feet and were counted. A victorious clamor rose from the opposition benches as the assistant clerk reported the vote to be 43 to 39 against the section and chairman Golding declared it lost.

Dewey Demands Frank Disclosure Of European Crisis

Albany, N.Y., March 23 —(AP) —Governor Thomas E. Dewey of New York demanded today that President Truman's administration give a "full and frank disclosure" of the international crisis.

Calling for a "hard-boiled" program to halt Russian Communist expansion, Dewey said:

"I'm perfectly convinced that we can only preserve the peace through strength and that war is the last failure of bankrupt diplomacy."

The Governor, a contender for the Republican presidential nomination, said the Truman administration's foreign policy was "both vacillating and inadequate."

War of Words Over Red Grab In Czechoslovakia Develops, Russia Counter-Charges

Lake Success, March 23. (AP) —Security Council debate on the Communist coup in Czechoslovakia is developing today into a full-blown war of words between Russia and the western powers.

Beaten back in all efforts to block discussion of the case, the Soviet Union apparently intends to make the most of the opportunity to fling counter-charges at the west, principally the United States.

Debate resumes today with the United States delegate, Warren R. Austin, and Russia's Andrei A. Gromyko as probable speakers. The government of Chile started the argument by calling for an inquiry into Russia's role in last month's Communist coup in Prague.

Ukrainian delegate Vassily A. Tarasenko said the United States —not the Soviet Union—was interfering in the internal affairs of other countries. He said Greece and Italy were good examples.

Dr. Vladimir Houdek, new U.N delegate of the Czechoslovak Communist regime, said his government would not participate in the debate because the council had no business taking up the case.

Houdek issued a sweeping denial of charges made by Dr. Jan Papanek, the Czechoslovak delegate who was fired by the Communists. He said Papanek was spurred into giving "cheap lies by the instigators of a new war."

Houdek promised to hold frequent press conferences while sitting on the council sidelines. In his first meeting with reporters last night, he repeated many of the Soviet accusations against the western powers.

Sir Alexander Cadogan of Britain blamed Russia for the Communist grab.

The Council overrode Russian and Ukrainian opposition and voted 9 to 2 to hear Papanek, whom Gromyko calls a traitor to the Czechoslovak people. Declaring he had direct evidence that Moscow engineered the coup, Papanek said:

"God help me, I shall prove this to you."

British Use Tanks, Guns To Smash Savage War Of Jews, Arabs in Judea

By CARTER L. DAVIDSON

Jerusalem, March 23 (AP) — British authorities rushed more tanks and artillery into the Judean hills today to smash the fiercest Arab-Jewish battle in Palestines recent history. The fight has raged for days.

An hour after dawn British headquarters said the battlefield was quiet.

Tanks on Dirt Roads

Tanks ranged the dirt roads leading to Jewish Hartuv and Arab Ishwa, main points in the battle, part of fierce fighting which claimed 140 lives yesterday alone.

Army chiefs denied reports that the British reinforcements were sent on a "punitive raid. This rumor spread when it was learned reinforcements were heading towards Ishwa, where the mutilated bodies of two British soldiers were found a few hours before.

British officials said thousands of Arab fighters of Abdul Khader Bey Husseinis irregulars, which besieged Hartuv yesterday, had withdrawn into the hills with the appearance of the British forces.

Police said Geoffrey Bradbury, British official of the Palestine railways, died of wounds received four days ago in Haifa.

The unofficial death toll since the United Nations decision on partition Nov. 29 now stands at 2,018. This includes 858 Jews, 1,013 Arabs, 120 British, four Americans and 23 others.

The Palestine government gave assurance today that Palestine will have supplies sufficient for two months after the British mandate ends May 15.

New Policy Blueprint

In Tel Aviv last night, the Jewish Agency decided to convene the action committee of the World Zionist organization in special session April 4 to draft a blueprint of a new policy, in view of the United States action in proposing that partition be shelved.

"Although members of the Jewish Agency are unanimously for rejecting other schemes than independence, there are differences of opinion on timing, an agency member commented.

Part of the members want to proclaim a Jewish state at once, under provincial government. Others want to wait for United Nations developments and crystallization of United States policy on Palestine.

Kelley Promises Full Inquiry Into Men's Escape

Owen Sound, March 23—(CP) — An investigation is to be made of the fourth escape by Melville Wilkie of Owen Sound from the Ontario mental hospital at Penetanguishene, it was announced yesterday. Henry Cada of River Rouge, Mich., escaped Saturday night with Wilkie.

Dr. MacKinnon Phillips, Progressive Conservative member of the Ontario Legislature for North Grey, said Ontario Health Minister Kelley promised a full inquiry. Dr. Phillips told the Minister Owen Sound residents were alarmed and indignant over the frequency with which Wilkie, who killed his wife and baby daughter here, has escaped from the hospital.

Mayor E. C. Sargent of Owen Sound commented:

"It is getting to be a joke. If they haven't competent supervision at the Penetanguishene institution, they ought to take steps to get it. People in this city are getting fed up with this kind of thing. It is bad publicity for Owen Sound."

KINGSTON'S RATE UPPED

Kingston, March 23 —(CP)— Tax rate for the fiscal year has been set here at 47.50 mills, an increase of 6.15 mills over 1947. The mill rate equals that of 1936 which was the highest on record.

Britain, U.S. Counter-Boycott Russia's Moves

Berlin, March 23 (AP)—Britain and the United States tonight started a counter-boycott to Russia's moves in Germany's four-power government.

The Russians called on four-power "subcommittees on taxation, currency reform and currency printing late today to meet later this week, thus ending, temporarily at least their two-day boycott of the Allied Control Council government.

Two hours later, Gen. Lucius D. Clay the United States military governor, notified Russian officials, the British and American representatives would not attend any sub-committee meeting until the Russians set a date for another meeting of the Allied Control Council itself.

"We are tired of being pushed around," a ranking United States official said. "The Soviets think they can cancel meetings on subjects they did not want to discuss and call meetings on subjects they want to discuss.

This official said the action was taken to find out whether the Russians intend to continue four power negotiations, or whether the Russians are calling just specific meetings of certain committees to suit their own ends or propaganda means.

MATTER OF RENT CONTROLS TO GET CONSIDERATION

Sen. Haig Suggests Removal Next Year

Ottawa, March 23 — (CP) — The question of rent controls must be given careful consideration in the "very near future," Finance Minister Abbott told a Senate Committee today.

Mr. Abbott refused to commit himself on Senator J. T. Haig's (Cons.-Manitoba) suggestion that all rent controls should end on June 30, 1949. He agreed, however, that it was essential that full advance notice should be given of their end.

"This question of rent controls is one to which I have given consideration with my officials and to which I shall have to give more in the very near future," Mr. Abbott said. He was appearing before the Senate committee on banking and commerce which had before it his conservation of Canadian foreign exchange resources bill.

Difficulties Would Arise

Senator Haig told the minister that serious rental difficulties would arise if, provided rent controls were lifted in 1949 at all, action was taken later than June.

Mr. Abbott told the committee the import restrictions introduced in November had turned the $70,000,000 monthly drain on Canada's gold and American dollar reserves into a small net gain but warned that this might not be maintained. Canada had already drawn $30,000,000 of the American loan negotiatad last autumn and intended to draw a similar amount next month. It was intended to draw on the loan, rather than further reduce the country's reserves, he explained.

Two Escaped Insane Prisoners Are Recaptured

Penetanguishene, Ont., March 23. (CP)—Henry Leo Cada and Melville Wilkie, two escaped criminally insane prisoners, were recaptured at Lafontaine, a few miles west of here by Provincial Police early this afternoon.

Neither of the men, both accused of murder, were armed and they did not offer resistance. Dr. C. S. Tennant, superintendent of the Ontario Hospital for Criminally Insane, from where the pair escaped Saturday night after slugging a guard, said both of them were readmitted to the hospital.

Search for the men concentrated in the Lafontaine area last night, following reports that the home of Tom Desroches, at nearby Thunder Bay, had been entered and articles, including a rifle, ammunition, an overcoat and foodstuffs were stolen.

Wilkie, who confessed to burning his wife and baby to death in their Owen Sound home, has escaped four times. Cada was charged with murder in the knife-slaying of his sister, Ida, in a barn near Chatham last June.

U.K. Will Make Every Effort to Keep Up Canadian Food Imports--Strachey

London, March 23 —(CP)— Food Minister Strachey said today at a press conference that the United Kingdom "will make every effort" to prevent reduction in food imports from Canada despite the dollar shortage.

Future financing of food purchases from Canada now was under discussion with the Dominion and the ability to maintain the import rate "depends in part on what the Canadian government can see its way to do."

Last week Strachey said that Britain would be unable to maintain the present level of dollar food purchases. He noted that buying in the United States had ended and buying in the dollar area was confined to Canada.

Asked today by The Canadian Press if the dollar shortage meant an immediate reduction in purchases in Canada which supplies four-fifths of the wheat and other essential foods, he said:

"We will make every effort to prevent a reduction in imports from Canada."

"We have hope that when the Marshall Plan is in operation we will be able to maintain the present level of imports. But the matter is under discussion now and it depends in part on what the Canadian government can see its way to do."

The minister reviewed the development of European sources of food supply and said that during 1947 Europe was able to send to Britain 11.8 per cent of its total food imports. In the first six months of 1948 it was hoped this figure would rise to 20 per cent with continued further increase.

"But do not let us ever wish to buy all our food in Europe even if we could."

Conciliator Visits White House To Report on Action

Taft-Hartley Labor Law May be Invoked by Truman

Washington, March 23 —(AP) —The United Mine Workers (Ind.) today rejected a government plan for ending the soft coal walkout in the United States. Cyrus Ching, Canadian-born Federal conciliation chief, promptly went to the White House to report the union action.

Chings's move apparently was the first step toward invoking the Federal Taft-Hartley Labor Law to halt the nine-day-old strike centring on pension demands which has crippled railroad and steel mill operations.

Under that law, President Truman is empowered to set up a board of inquiry. After the board reports, the Attorney General could ask for the injunction.

The government settlement proposal was turned down in a letter sent to Ching by a three-man U.M.W. committee which received the offer yesterday.

John L. Lewis, U.M.W. president, did not sign the rejection personally.

The committee termed the government proposal "grotesque."

Fact-Finding Board

Ching's proposal, which was accepted "reluctantly" by the mine operators yesterday, called for creation of a fact-finding board to investigate the dispute over miners' pensions that touched off the walkouts.

However, Lewis would have to send the miners back to work before the plan would go into effect.

The U.M.W. committee advised Ching it felt the 'proposal was made to "aid the coal operators, who have dishonored their (work) agreement and to further defraud the beneficiaries of the welfare fund."

Therefore, they said, they could not recommend its acceptance by the mine workers.

The welfare fund to which the committee referred was set up in the work contract signed by Lewis and the operators last year.

Lewis wanted to use the fund to pay the miners a $100-a-month pension. The operators balked at his plan, saying the union chief wanted to give pensions to miners who were not entitled to them.

Says Contract Dishonored

Lewis charged the operators by their stand had "dishonored" the contract.

The letter went to Ching, less than an hour before a noon deadline set by the conciliation chief.

Ching had told reporters after the offer was made that a formal rejection by the U.M.W. would force him to turn the dispute over to President Truman.

That would open up the emergency steps available to the President under the Taft-Hartley Labor Act. That law provides first for appointment of a board of inquiry — which Mr. Truman could announce today. After the board makes its study—a matter of a week or 10 days—a court injunction could be sought by Attorney General Clark to halt the strike. A heavy fine could be imposed on Lewis and his United Mine Workers if they did not obey the court order.

Britain's Policy In Palestine Unchanged--Bevin

London, March 23 — (AP) — Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin said today Britain cannot change her Palestine policy because of the latest of "a number of propositions" by the United States regarding the Holy Land."

"The government has not changed its policy and cannot change its policy because some other state makes a proposition," Bevin told the House of Commons, referring to the recent United States proposal to shelve partition of Palestine.

"That same state has made a number of propositions," he added.

The foreign secretary intervened in a debate in which Colonial Secretary Arthur Creech Jones had reiterated Britain's determination to give up her mandate by May 15 and get out of Palestine by Aug. 1.

The foreign office reported earlier the cabinet had confirmed these decisions.

Left too Soon

Baker, Ore., March 23 (AP) —William Fitzgerald, 61-year-old three-time convict who escaped the county jail yesterday, probably wishes now he'd listened to that sermon after all.

Fitzgerald slipped, unnoticed, from his cell Sunday while a priest was talking to his cellmate. In another part of the jail he made a rope of sheets and skidded down the elevator shaft to freedom.

That would classify as a successful escape, except that:

Fitzgerald would have been free today, anyhow. He'd served half his sentence and—unknown to him—there was an order out for his release this morning.

Now, of course, he's on the "wanted" list again.

Weather Synopsis

Toronto, March 23 (CP)—Synopsis: Over Northern Ontario skies are generally clear this morning and southwesterly winds will bring mild air from the mid-western states this afternoon. Over southern Ontario skies are cloudy due mainly to a weak disturbance presently situated near Louisville, Kentucky. This disturbance is moving eastward and will not affect the Lower Lakes except for an occasional light sprinkle over Lake Erie region. Tonight colder air from the Canadian Prairies will enter northwestern Ontario and gradually spread southward over the central portions of the province on Wednesday. Thus Wednesday promises to be a fair day becoming considerably cooler over the northern portions but continuing mild over the southern portions of the province.

HANDICRAFT CLASS BUILDS NEW TABLE

That class members of the boys' handicraft classes at the Queen Alexandra School are taking every advantage of the instruction offered is indicated by the fine example of workmanship shown in a new table which was built by the boys for the Board of Education business office.

In the words of Public School Inspector L. A. Kells the table is a "very presentable piece of work" and "will very satisfactorily accomplish the purposes for which it was designed."

At the last meeting of the public school management committee it was recommended that a letter be forwarded to Principal Anderson of Queen Alexandra School and to Instructor Milton Fowler and the handicraft boys for their work on the new table at the Board office.

ORGAN DEDICATION WILL BE IN APRIL

Dedication of the new Hammond Electric Organ and the Memorial Plaque which is to be installed in the Memorial Arch at the Collegiate is expected to take place near the end of April, members of the Board of Education were informed at their March meeting.

The Students' Council has completed its project of paying for the Hammond organ and three loud speakers, as well as the bronze plaque. The Junior Red Cross of the school is undertaking the compilation of a roll of honor to commemorate the ex-students of the school who served in the Second Great War. The Roll of Honor will have names added as they come in and it is expected that within a two-year period the list should be complete and correct. When the list is complete the plaque will be erected in the Memorial Arch.

CATCHES ALBINO "RAT"

Running his muskrat traps along the waterfront bordering the Trent Road on Monday, George Woodhouse, ex-navy veteran was surprised to find a near pure-white muskrat in one of his traps.

Woodhouse apparently runs to extremes in his catches for last year he caught a pure black rat in his lines. Prices, he said, were no higher than the average kind.

Trapping, generally, he said, has been good thus far this season with mild weather favoring trappers. The quality of the fur compares favorably with that of other years.

BOYS USE AIR GUNS ON LIGHT BULBS

Youths in the South John St. district are using street light bulbs as targets for testing their prowess with air guns, local police were informed yesterday. An investigation in the area proved the report to be quite true with all the light bulbs in one block being broken. However, officers were unable to determine the boys responsible for the damage.

PETERBOROUGH FANS TREATED LENIENTLY

Peterborough hockey fans who last evening became dispirited over the hockey game at the local arena and tossed liquor bottles on the ice when their team seemed to be coming out second best, were treated leniently by local police.

No less than three fans were taken to the police station when their actions at the arena were causing too much disturbance. Two of them tossed liquor bottles over the boards with the broken glass scattering over the ice, while the third started fistic combat with his neighbors.

The men were given time to sober up in the local police cell and at the conclusion of the game were permitted their freedom in time to board the special train for home.

Tourist Booth Resulted in Much Good Publicity

The city of Belleville as well as tourist spots in the county of Hastings received some wo[illegible] while advertising through the booth sponsored at the Sportsmen's Show at the C.N.E. Coliseum last week, members of council were told last evening by Alderman Claude Tice, chairman of tourist and publicity, who attended at the booth.

"The booth certainly justified its creation and it is hoped that the same arrangements can be carried out another year as both the city and county will derive a great deal of advertising through the booth," stated the alderman.

Textile Firm Interested

Mr. Tice went on to say there had been many inquiries made at the booth and many pamphlets were distributed. The booth may also have been an advantage from an industrial standpoint as representatives of a textile firm indicated their interest in the city. The information has been turned over to Alderman Allin, chairman of industry.

If the booth were continued another year Mr. Tice suggested more extensive decorations and display of maps showing roads leading to the various lakes in the county. It was noted that the majority of the visitors at the show were Canadians who already were fairly familiar with the Hastings district. For greater results from a tourist standpoint it was recommended that the publicity committee arrange for attendance at the Cleveland Sports Show from where a considerable amount of tourist trade to this district is drawn.

Catherine Street Residents Promised Relief From Flooding By Construction of New Sewer

Residents of the Catherine Street district formally protested to city council last evening in respect to the flooding conditions experienced in their neighborhood during the past week and asking that something be done to prevent a recurrence of the trouble.

Spokesmen for the delegation claimed that flooding resulted in basements being filled with water and that furnace fires had been put out by the water. When they sought relief from the public works department they got no service. Certain catch basins in the area were still not opened, it was stated.

The delegation presented a petition to council bearing approximately 38, this being turned over to the city clerk for checking on names.

Ex-Mayor Glencoe Thompson was the first to complain of flooding conditions in the West Hill area, he claiming that sewers in the district were inadequate and that sewage was backing up. Mr. Thompson also spoke of "disgraceful" conditions in the city welfare office. He was informed by Welfare Chairman Alderman Brown that this room was being taken care of.

Recommend Bigger Sewer

Alderman Armstrong noted that the engineering firm of Gore and Storrie had recommended a 30-inch storm sewer for Catherine Street, while Mayor D. L. Storey noted that he would bring in a recommendation that this work be commenced as quickly as possible. "If the council will back me up then we will get action this summer," he said.

"I think the residents in the Catherine Street district have a legitimate complaint," stated Alderman Allin. "I don't like to criticize a city department but some of the catch basins in this area are still not opened up. On Saturday I saw eight men chopping ice at a public building, and yet these taxpayers cannot get service."

"That is wrong," interjected Alderman Charles Hyde, chairman of public works. "The basins have all been opened up and have frozen up again. I have instructed that the men work day and night if necessary."

Alderman Lummiss noted that the people in Catherine Street area should be looked after. "After all," he said, "city council are the servants of the people."

When Mayor Storey later brought in the recommendation for installation of the 30-inch storm sewer along Catherine St., Alderman Allin and Alderman Armstrong felt council should wait for a report from Gore and Storrie. "That is all right," returned Mayor Storey. "I am only trying to get some action."

Will Seek Information

Alderman Lummiss agreed that all damage for this year was over but noted that the city must get action. The recommendation tabled by Mayor Storey will be forwarded to Gore and Storrie for an immediate report on the sewer requirements for the Catherine St. district.

Mr. William Brown and Mr. Jack Bonn also appeared before council with regard to flooding conditions in the Dufferin Avenue area claiming there was an open four-foot ditch running across their property which was a hazard to neighborhood children. They asked that the open ditch be filled in and after Alderman Tice spoke briefly on the matter a committee was appointed to investigate conditions in the area.

Ex-Mayor W. C. Mikel appeared before council in respect to damages and injury he had suffered last week when he fell into an excavation at the corner of Bridge and Church Streets. The excavation made by Bell Telephone has been back-filled but had sunken with the disappearance of the frost. Damages amounting to $12.75 were ordered paid by the council, the bill to be turned over to the Bell Telephone for payment.

116 Members Received Into Bridge St. Church

Services on Palm Sunday at Bridge Street United Church were of special significance with the reception of new members and the administration of the Sacrament of Holy Communion at the morning service and a reception by the congregation of the new members at the close of the evening service.

One hundred and sixteen new members were received into fellowship in the presence of a large congregation, the officers of the church and the elders, the minister the Rev. D.C. Amos officiating at the service. Of the number received into fellowship 64 were received into church fellowship for the first time. Among these latter were twelve pupils of the Ontario School for the Deaf who had been prepared under the direction of one of the elders and of the minister. The very large number joining the church grew out of the success of the visitation evangelism campaign carried out during the preceding months in co-operation with other churches of the city and district.

Communion Service

Following the reception into fellowship of new members into the church, the sacrament of the Holy Communion began with the largest number of members partaking in recent years. The choir rendered an anthem "And It was the Third Hour" the solo parts being taken by Mr. J. D. Bankier and Mr. George Wishart. Preparatory service for the communion had been held on the previous Friday evening.

The Palm Sunday message, delivered by the minister, Mr. Amos, was directed primarily to the new members and centred about the text, "The Lord hath need of him."

In the evening a congregational reception for the new members was held at the close of the service of worship, two piano numbers being given by Miss Leona Riggs and Mr. Alec Gordon. Light refreshments were served by the wives of the elders under direction of Mrs. Ray Grant. The committee of elders for the reception was composed of Messrs. Ray Grant, James Musgrove and J.M. Wood.

On Easter Day the services will be featured by special festal music and in the evening, the combined junior and senior choirs will take part. At the close of this service there will be a brief reception, for additional new members and a communion service will be held.

Say Red Action Groups Attend Sabotage Schools

Vienna, March 23 — (AP) — Communist action committees are attending sabotage schools in a Russian - occupied suburb of Vienna, a highly placed Austrian source said today.

Austrian Interior Ministry officials said they knew there was a school but did not know what was being taught there. It has been common knowledge here for some time that Austrian communists, aided by Russian officers, have been conducting schools in the Soviet zone. Earlier reports said the instruction was limited to Communist ideology.

Action committees were the instruments used by communists in their coup in Czechoslovakia last month.

The Australia informant said the sabotage school is situated in what was a boys' reform school before the war in Kalksburg. Large stocks of explosives and some ammunition were being built up there.

High - ranking Austrian communists and Russian officers are teaching courses lasting from four to six weeks, the informant said.

One Austrian official said whole families are being required to attend special evening lectures in the Soviet zone.

Strike Closes N.Y. Print Shops

New York, March 23 (AP)—Composing rooms were idle today in most of New York City's commercial print shops in a work stoppage that directly affected nearly one-quarter of all such printing done in the United States.

It was the first work stoppage in 29 years in Manhattan's $300,000,000-a-year industry, which normally handles about 22 per cent of all the country's commercial printing, including books magazines and job work. Newspapers are not affected.

The employer association said the union had asked for an hourly pay increase of 53 cents, and double pay for overtime. The employer association listed present wage scales as $80.71 weekly for day work and $87 for night work. The union was silent on the negotiations.

Evening Classes at B.C.I. Close for Season Thursday

Evening classes at the Belleville Collegiate will close for the season on Thursday evening of this week, members of the Board of Education were informed at their regular monthly meeting held in the board room at Queen Alexandra School on Friday night.

Refunds and certificates to those students with at least 80 per cent attendance will be issued this week. The two auto mechanics classes and the two typing classes were combined for the month of March because of the falling off in attendance. At the request of the Department of Education and with the approval of the local board members the evening classes in basic English and Citizenship will continue until June.

Attendance at the Vocational School for the month of February was 335 or 40.6 per cent of the total composite school enrolment. Collegiate enrolment for the month was 490.

Public School Inspector L. A. Kells reported the public school noted a steady increase in enrolment to 1759 with an unusually good attendance efficiency. Twenty-five out of 53 classes were reported with over 95 per cent efficiency. The Inspector reported that religious instruction was being given in the public schools in accordance with school regulations. This instruction, in part, was being conducted by representative members of the Belleville Ministerial Association.

Board Will Co-operate

The local board of education will co-operate with the Ontario Farm Service Force as in former years, with granting of leave to students to be at the discretion of the Collegiate principal.

The public school management committee recommended that a committee of the chairman of the management committee, the chairman of the board, and the Inspector be a special committee with power to make any adjustments or transfers in the public school staff for school organization in September.

The business administrator was authorized to attend the Ontario Association of School Business Officials convention to be held at Ottawa May 9 to 12. Leave of absence from the public school staff for the school year 1948-49 was granted to Miss C. Morton and Miss Marion Rafuse for attendance at University and Normal School the year to count as a year of service.

The advisory vocational committee recommended that permission be granted to certain senior vocational school pupils as selected by the school principal, to take positions in industry and commerce. This has been the custom in other years.

Will Buy New Range

In preparation for the time when gas service will be discontinued the committee recommended the sale of the old gas range in the home economics department and the purchase of a new four burner apartment size electric range from Tucker and Company at a cost of $229.

At Friday evening's meeting approval was given for Major Hall, representing the Eastern Ontario district of the Department of National Defence, to speak to collegiate students from a standpoint of guidance in pointing out the features of the army as a career. A membership was taken out in the Ontario School Trustees and Ratepayers' Association at a cost of $5.

Art teacher at the Collegiate, Mr. A. E. Johnson, has resigned his position in Belleville and will go to the Danforth Technical School in Toronto. Mrs. Raymond Arnott has been offered the position as replacement to Mr. Johnson. Mrs. Arnott is a former teacher at the collegiate having been on the staff from 1937 to 1942 and again for the teaching year of 1946-47.

Health Nurse Report

Mrs. B. Watt, public health nurse, reported that class room inspections in Grade Four in all schools have been completed. TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, March 23. (CP)—Industrials maintained rising trends but in a much slower tempo as the other groups eased. The upward trend continues in Canadian industrial expansion and earnings.

Reports presented in the House of Commons yesterday forecast capital expenditure of 2,800,000,000 in 1948, an all-time high and $400,000,000 ahead of 1947.

At the same time a report from the Dominion Bureau of Statistics stated that Canada's exports to the United States in February were 37 per cent greater than in February last year, following a January increase of 32 per cent. Total Canadian exports to all countries in January and February were up 14.3 per cent.

In the field of earnings, dividend payments by Canadian corporations for the first three months of 1948 were $104,081,668, an increase of $18,651,305 over the same period last year, it is reported by J. R. Timmins and Co., brokers. For March they were $2,797,974, up $2,066,010 from March, 1947.

Markets Active

Security markets continued active ysterday and New York had its heaviest trading in almost a year.

Toronto industrials were more consistent with gains general, and the exchange industrial index was up nearly two points to 157.91, highest since Feb. 25. Base metals, favored because of rearmament talk, also gained nearly a point, but golds and western oils were off. Montreal was somewhat irregular.

Grain prices turned higher yesterday with closing prices at the day's peaks, and brokers holding that the market was oversold last week. Cotton futures also turned strong with gains of 70 cents to $3.25 a bale, rapid congressional action on foreign aid legislation apparently providing the spark. The New York bond market had its highest volume since Feb. 11, with rails leading an advance.

Council Takes No Action On P.U.C. Offer of $14,125.99 For Local Gas Plant Property

Council took no action Monday evening at their regular meeting on an offer from the Belleville Public Utilities Commission to purchase the local gas plant at a price of $14,125.99.

Original offer of the P.U.C. for the gas plant property was $10,000, but this figure was upped to the above amount at the request of Mayor D. L. Storey when it was learned this amount was owed by the city to the commission as operational loss on the operation of the gas plant. Plans are to officially close the gas plant on March 31st.

"The original offer was $10,000 but we owe the Commission $14,100, so I made them increase their offer. I think it was good business," noted Mayor Storey.

Alderman Allin thought however that the gas plant should be sold by tender and this was also the feeling of Alderman Armstrong who declared the gas plant property was well situated and in all fairness the plant should be advertised.

Recommendation Referred Back

Council referred to committee a recommendation tabled by Alderman Allin directing that when the gas plant property was officially returned to the city the comptroller be authorized to offer for sale all buildings and equipment by advertised tender. For the time being the corporation would retain possession of the land.

Council carried a recommendation from Alderman Duffy asking that all purchases by the city exceeding $50 be made by tender wherever possible and then with local merchants being given the preference.

A special committee of Aldermen Clarke, Tice and Hyde tabled a recommendation advocating that city land adjoining the Alliance Tabernacle on Moira Street not be sold.

Ladies' Auxiliary Thanked

Alderman Lattimer as chairman of the special committee appointed to arrange for the transfer of the Belleville General Hospital to the city, brought in a recommendation pointing out the great service rendered the hospital by the Hospital Ladies' Auxiliary and asking that this organization be requested to continue their splendid service to the hospital after the city takes it over. The recommendation was carried.

A recommendation calling for the awarding of a contract for the installation of a concrete floor with plastic top in the arena was referred to committee for further consideration as was a communication from the S. J. Collacutt bus company noting that this firm had purchased property at 260 Coleman Street with the intention of erecting a bus terminal. The communication asked if there were building restrictions in the area.

A committee of Aldermen Wilbur, Armstrong and Tice was appointed to investigate the request of the local Parks Board with respect to consideration being given to an area for a park site in the west end of the city. The Parks Board in their letter pointed out that in view of the recent industrial expansion suitable park site was needed in the area.

Granted Permission

The Upper Canada News, Moira Street, was granted permission to erect a gas pump at their new location. The firm already has a gas pump but it is needed to be transferred to the new site.

Under inquiries Alderman Follwell wanted to know when the special committee appointed to consider tag day dates was going to report to council. He claimed that many of the organizations requesting tag day dates had not even received an acknowledgment of their inquiry. Mayor Storey replied that the committee was waiting on the Chamber of Commerce to decide whether a combined community chest drive would be attempted in the city.

400 Applications Claimed

Alderman Duffy asked whether council permission would be granted to a local man for the privilege of placing old street car bodies at a location at the rear of the Round Spot on Dundas Street, the street car bodies to be used as living accommodation. The alderman also urged that further consideration be given to the possibility of additional land being made available for the erection of low-rental housing. He doubted if the provision for only 150 such houses in the annexation area to the east of the city would be sufficient. "There were 400 applications for low rental housing," he said.

Alderman Follwell asked why tenders had not been asked for the supply of new firemen's uniforms. In reply Alderman Duffy stated that measurement requirements were difficult to specify in asking for formal tenders and therefore custom had been for local merchants to be contacted by the fire chief asking for prices.

A number of by-laws were passed including that for purchasing the Docter property east of the city, and also for taking over of the hospital by the city.

The by-law regarding the purchase of the Docter property saw a brief discussion before it was ultimately passed. Alderman Follwell wanted to know if the city had authority to spend money out of the general fund for the purchase of the property when it was not in the estimates. He was informed by the city solicitor that under the circumstances the city had this authority.

Housing was also briefly discussed with Alderman Armstrong briefly outlining the different plans for mass erection of housing, making special reference to the latest Wartime Housing plan. Alderman Allin pointed out that despite the limited taxes paid by Wartime Housing this plan still came under subsidized housing.

Cooler Weather Causes Drop In Water Flow

(By The Canadian Press)

Flood waters continued to recede today as cool aid settled over Southwestern Ontario, the Ottawa valley and Quebec's eastern townships where rampant rivers since Friday have taken four lives and caused millions of dollars' damage.

In many sections rich topsoil whirled away on the wild waters. Almost everywhere in the flood zones, waterlogged fields spelled delay in starting spring farm tasks.

The Huron county town of Wingham, one of the hardest hit in the district, still was digging itself out of debris after it was struck by the unruly Maitland River. Waters receded another 2 feet over night.

It was reported that a major aftermath in Wingham is a new course which the flood cut through the northwest section of the town and which is lower than the original river bed. Engineers were to be called to survey the situation.

London and suburbs suffered only minor damage.

Red Cross representatives and civic authorities met to plan relief and reconstruction work at Bromptonville, five miles north of Sherbrooke, Que. In that eastern townships community subsiding waters left one man dead and damage estimated at more than $500,000.

Ice Damage High

Ice jams which caused flooding of the Rideau River in the Ottawa area were blamed for loss estimated at $500,000 to $650,000. Thirty miles up the Ottawa River from the capital, residents of Quyon, Que., dug ice chunks and debris from their main street.

A report of a preliminary survey of flood control possibilities in the Upper Thames Valley in southwestern Ontario was issued yesterday in Toronto. It estimated cost of diverting flood waters directly to Lake Erie at $25,565,600 and said flood control in that area was unlikely in the near future except by construction of dams.

Merchandise Moved

Thames water poured over coal yards at Chatham. As a precautionary measure, merchants in low lying sections moved merchandise from basements to upper floors.

A state of emergency was lifted at the Huron County town of Wingham after Maitland River flood waters ebbed. Merchants and residents estimated damage at several thousand dollars. A break in a water pipe brought warnings to north end citizens to boil drinking water before using it.

The town still was isolated by flood damage to a railway bridge which halted train traffic.

Sections of the business area of Wallaceburg, Ont., were under water as the Sydenham River overflowed.

7 Private Bills Given Approval

Toronto, March 23 (CP) — The Ontario Legislature Committee on Private Bills gave approval to seven measures today and laid another one over.

Passed were bills respecting St. Catharines, Ottawa, Hamilton, Kingston, Port Arthur, Simcoe and Forest Hill village.

Laid over was a bill which would have made the Ottawa Ladies College—at present under the United Church—a non-denominational institution.

A bill for granting money to the Port Arthur General Hospital was approved.

Also carried was a bill changing the name of the Hamilton Orphan Asylum to the Aged Women's Home of Hamilton and to extend the powers of the board of trustees.

The City of St. Catharines can annex parts of the township of Grantham under another bill approved without opposition.

The committee passed a bill permitting the Kingston Utilities Commission, which is exempt from taxation, to pay for any municipal services rendered by the city. There was no opposition.

The bill was proposed by H. A. Stewart (P.C.—Kingston).

Reeve James Moore of Woodhouse township appeard in opposition to a bill to annex part of the township to the town of Simcoe.

However, it was found that the ratepayers—about 20—in the area to be annexed were in favor of it, and the bill was approved.

Reeve Moore said the township would lose $24,000 assessment on schools in the area through annexation.

The residents were in favor because of sewage promised them by the town. The bill was sponsored by C. H. Martin, (P.C.—Haldimand Norfolk).

TOBY FINDS GETTING IN AND OUT OF BUILDING A WET BUSINESS

Toby, mascot at a Walkerton, Ont., plant finds it's a cold and wet business getting back and forth to the building as flood waters from the Saugeen River cover the ground floor and factory yard. Holding the door open for Toby is Norman Geisler, engineer. Floods across Ontario are causing much damage to property and forcing many to flee from their homes as heavy rains add to the already swollen rivers and streams.

Three Municipalities Vote In Favor High School Districts

Ratepayers of Thurlow township, Marmora Village and the Township of Marmora and Lake, at separate meetings yesterday voted almost unanimously in favor of high school districts.

Thurlow ratepayers held their meeting in Cannifton with Reeve Harry Harrison in the chair while those of Marmora Village and Marmora and Lake Township held a joint meeting in Marmora. Reeves V. Lynch of Marmora and John Bell of Marmora and Lake, and members of the various councils were in attendance.

Speaking at both meetings and outlining the advantages of a high school district was Mr. S.D. Rendall, high school inspector of Toronto.

At the Thurlow meeting, Mr. Rendall stated that an assessment of between $7,000,000 and $8,000,000 was necessary and the actual cost of the district on an assessment of 8 millions would be approximately 2 1-2 mills. 'You get the benefit of 40 per cent of Belleville's academic grant but under a high school district you would get 75 percent. Grants to vocational schools will remain the same."

U.S. Uses Three Methods

Cost of transportation of pupils, Mr. Rendall said would be approximately 50 cents per pupil per day or $60 a year. The United States high school districts use three methods of transportation the cheapest being franchised buses. Next cheapest is board-owned conveyances while the most expensive method is operator-contracted vehicles.

"The High School Board," he said, "would be formed of a representative from the councils of the municipalities in the district, one from the largest separate school in the area, and one from the county council. Nine members in all would form the board."

"Cost of new buildings," he said "would now be $1,200 per pupil or $12 per square foot."

Reeve Harrison of Thurlow also spoke at the meetings as did Reeve Lynch of Marmora. Upwards of 150 were present at the Marmora meeting including Reeve Charles Buskard of Deloro village and various council representatives.

Similar meetings were held in Madoc and Tweed today while others will be held in Deseronto, and Stirling on Wednesday and at Frankford on Thursday.

The three-power proposal was given the Soviet embassy, the Italian embassy and the Yugoslav embassy in a U. S. state department communication.

150 German Girls Will Be Brought to Canada

Kitchener, March 23 — (CP)— Some 150 German girls, fiancees of Canadian soldiers in the Canadian occupation force, will be brought to Canada next month it was announced here today.

The Canadian Christian Council arranges immigration to Canada of refugees from European countries who have been asked for by relatives in the Dominion. Nearly 12,000 have been named so far of whom about 430 have arrived. The remainder will come at a rate of about 400 every five weeks.

These people are not German nationals, he pointed out but in almost every instance are residents of countries such as Romania, Poland, and many more, who have fled westwards to the Allied zone of Germany to escape the onslaught of Communism.

Brewers Raise Bottle Refund

Toronto, March 23 — (CP) — An increase of 11 cents on each carton of 24 pint beer bottles was announced today by Toronto glass companies. The present refund of 72 cents for returning 24 bottles would then be increased to 83 cents.

The Ontario Liquor Control Board confirmed the decision of the glass companies but so far it has not received a request from brewers to pass on the added cost to consumers. Increased labor and material costs are given as reasons for the price boost.

Steps will be taken by the breweries to ensure that only those cartons sold after prices are adjusted to cover the increase for bottles, will be picked up on the basis of a refund of 83 cents.

Power Blackouts End

Ending of the Hydro blackouts recently imposed to ease the power shortage has come with the improvement in the water conditions through the recent rains and the opening of spring. The other restrictions imposed last November for saving power remain.

News of the ending of the blackouts was welcome to the people everywhere, in the homes and in the factories and in the stores.

Many users of power as individuals did their utmost to conserve power in a spirit of co-operation and in many places this eased the situation noticeably. That electricity has come to take a very prominent place in the lives of the people is clear enough from the effect which blackouts caused. However they were not very severe.

In the announcement yesterday it was made clear that if water conditions should become worse or emergency arise these restrictions will be imposed.

It would be in the interest of everyone if every effort is made in view of the fact that power is not plentiful to conserve power. Any saving will mean that much in reserve. "Hydro" is so easy to handle and has become so much in the public attention that there is a heavy demand for energy. Users should keep this thought in mind for their own sake and for that of others.

Food for Hungry Peoples

Completion of the Red Cross shipments of $1,000,000 worth of bulk food for the hungry peoples of Great Britain and Europe is announced by Dr. F. W. Routley, national commissioner for the Canadian Society.

Nearly four million pounds of food have crossed the ocean within the last four months. "While concentrating on the peacetime needs for the health and welfare of the people in Canada with the national campaign for $3,000,000 this month, we cannot ignore the terrible suffering and great need of our fellow-beings in other lands," states the commissioner.

Advice received from the overseas commissioner, Col. R. W. Frost, in London, shows that letters by the hundreds are pouring into the overseas office thanking the Canadian Society for their kindness in sending food. Meat and meat preparations, corn syrup, fruit juices, dried milk powder, grain foods such as macaroni, rolled oats and corn and bran flakes, as well as large consignments of vitamin preparations, were the main foods requested.

The million dollar gift, made last October, was allocated from the surplus war funds of the Society. Shipments were consigned for distribution to the Canadian Red Cross representative in Britain, and, in Europe, to the Red Cross Societies of the respective countries concerned. All goods were labelled "Gift from the People of Canada through the Canadian Red Cross Society."

Protecting Children

Traffic accidents killed 132 children under the age of 15 in Ontario last year. This is a public shame and a great pity. And it should needle the conscience of any driver who has ever neglected to watch closely for children playing or crossing streets. For a great many of the deaths and crippling injuries result from the car-hits-child type of accident. We all know how often this happens. We all know, too, that quite often the child did something rash and the car driver could not stop or swerve in time. The Ontario Department of Highways urges us to remember these things. We must watch for the youngsters all the time when we're driving. We should be prepared for their sudden rash actions by driving slowly in residential neighborhoods. Let's all help protect Canada's child life.

Bird Song

Robins have come back with the springtime. Just as springtime has never failed, robins have never failed to make their long journey from winter quarters down south to their happy summer homes with us in the north.

The sound of their calls and singing is one of the most welcome in the northern world. The chirrup of this bird is music one would welcome in any part of the earth for it has the ring of friendship and acquaintance. The bird's volubility is welcome too for a few of these songsters can fill the whole atmosphere with the melody of bird song, the very sky thrilling with the vocal performance of these friends of man.

They are here for what seems from the present time a long stay but summer passes all too soon and the robins' visit is over. But in that interim they will fill many hearts with joy by the thrill of their music.

The birds which will follow the robins have each their own peculiar appeal. One of these, the song sparrow, which is already back north, has music which is exquisite in its sweetness. Soon the full choir of the feathered musicians will have arrived.

Grim Records

How goes the battle against traffic accidents? Figures from the Department of Highways show that 734 people were killed on the streets and highways of Ontario in 1947 and more than 13,000 were injured! That is a casualty list which should make all of us do some sober thinking. These grim records should impress upon everybody the need for being always alert and careful — to keep out of the 1948 statistics.

Communism

Unhappily the attraction of communism, as a cult of violent power, is more formidable in one sense than it has ever been, for Europe is in distress and confusion and the hatred between race and race and class and class created by the war has instilled its deadly poison into politics. In the struggle between communism and social democracy these conditions give great advantages to communism. Men and women who have lived through such horrors and are undergoing such sufferings are impatient of the more civilized virtues of tolerance and magnanimity.

Communism offers them the promise of vigorous action and the crude satisfaction of the desire for vengeance. Above all it displays before tired, weary and disillusioned men the prospect of a millenium; it relieves them of the need for thinking; it takes away the burdens of responsibility; and it comforts them with the assurance that it possesses the future. It gives them much of what they seek from religion as well as what they seek from politics.

As Czechoslovakia has learned, the price that Western peoples who accept these offers have to pay is the price of sacrificing their liberal institutions, their principles of justice and of thus slipping down to a lower level of civilized life. For communism seeks to make permanent the conditions caused by war, conditions in which moral standards vanish and all restraints on the use of power disappear. "Today we have to save ourselves; tomorrow we will put justice on the orders of the day," so said the men who organized the terror in the French Revolution.

For the communists there is no tomorrow. The Russian Revolution is thirty years old, but the Russians still live in the atmosphere created by what Cavour called the spirit of a society in a state of siege.—Manchester Guardian.

JUST FOLKS

WONDERING

I wonder if the Lord regrets
The gifts He gave to man,
And left him free on land and sea
To work and dream and plan?
He could have bound us, had He willed,
To instinct's narrow groove—
To eat and drink, but never think
Or fashion or improve.

But there are talents that He gave
Denied to bird and beast.
All else above, the gift of love
To humans He released.
He graced the hands of men with skill.
Allowed them mirth and song,
And then bestowed on all a code
Of conduct, right and wrong.

And now the world is in distress
And torn with greed and hate.
The gifts allowed have made men proud
And power has spoiled the great.
Turned bitter is the human mind
That still to choose is free.
Men use their skill for things to kill
And peace no more can be.

INFORMATION ROUNDUP

Why can't Government officials accept foreign gifts?

The Federal Constitution provides that no person holding any office of profit or trust under the United States "shall, without the consent of Congress, accept any present, emolument, office, or title, of any kind whatever, from any king, prince, or foreign state."

This language was borrowed almost verbatim from the Articles of Confederation and was inserted in the Constitution upon motion of Charles Pinckney of South Carolina, who "urged the necessity of preserving foreign ministers and other offices of the United States of external influence."

At that time several States had similar provisions in their constitutions.

When the Constitution was adopted it was customary for European sovereigns to give valuable presents to foreign ambassadors when they signed a treaty or took their leave. President Washington and Secretary of State Jefferson thought it would be wise to follow this practice rather than to jeopardize diplomatic relations with foreign powers. Under date of April 29, 1790, Washington wrote in his diary:

"Fixed with the Secretary of State on the present which (according to the custom of other Nations) should be made to Diplomatic characters when they return from their employment in this Country — and this was a Gold Medal, suspended to a gold Chain — in ordinary to be of the value of about 120 to 130 Guineas —Upon enquiry into the practice of other Countries, it was found, that France generally gave a gold Snuff-box set with diamonds; and of different costs; to the amount, generally, to a Minister Plenipotentiary of 500 Louisdores—That England usually gave to the same grade 300 guineas in Specie—and Holland a Medal and Chain of the value of in common, 150 or 180 guineas the value of which to be increased by an additional weight in the chain, when they wished to mark a distinguished character. The Reason why a Medal and Chain was fixed upon for the American present, is, that the die being once made the Medals could any time be struck at very little cost and the chain made by our artisans, which (while the first should be retained as a memento) might be converted into Cash."

Secretary of State Jefferson sketched a rough outline of the design for the medal but left the details to Willard Short, American charge d'affaires in Paris, and to the French artists who were to make the die. This plan was soon abandoned because American diplomats abroad could not accept gifts without the consent of Congress, which was opposed to the practice.

When the French King presented a carpet to President Washington he felt compelled to decline the gift because of the Constitutional prohibition.

Pythons Around Neck "Cured" Rheumatism

Johannesburg, —South Africa, (CP)—Because she had a premonition, a woman went to the Snake Park on Durban Beach and obtained permission to wrap a python round her neck for 15 minutes.

Watched by astonished visitors to the park, the 18-foot python wound itself around her body, while she held its head with one hand and stroked it with the other. When it started tightening its grip, she had it dislodged and taken back to its cage.

Later, the woman, Mrs. H. Taylor, of Geduld Extension, Springs, Transvaal, underwent similar "treatment" with a 14-foot python, and again with another 14-foot python.

About three weeks later she said her rheumatism pains began to disappear. Before the treatment she was prevented by rheumatism from doing housework and was in constant pain.

Today she does the housework and washes the clothes. She has a family of four.

Before she was afflicted with rheumatism, Mrs. Taylor was a welder at the munitions factory at Vogelstruisbult Mine, Springs. She has advised many rheumatism sufferers to try her cure, but so far has no desciples.

Mrs. Taylor was 52 on Feb. 29. On that day she also celebrated the fourth anniversary of her cure.

Denmark Cancels Easter Leaves For Part of Military

Copenhagen, March 23 — (AP) — Denmark yesterday cancelled Easter leaves for part of its military, in the wake of widespread thefts of arms from home guard depots.

Defence Minister Rasmus Hansen said the cancellations applied to part of the country's young military officers and non-commissioned officers. He said enlisted men would be given their usual furloughs.

One source said the order applied to all cadets and non-commissioned officers. Another source said the leaves were suspended because of "the internal political situation."

Guards have been doubled at all military and naval establishments since last Saturday.

Danish police have reported thefts of weapons from all over the country. Last night they said seven sub-machine - guns, five rifles and some ammunition were stolen from a depot in Broerup, Jutland.

An official government source said the government is expected soon, possibly today, to start negotiations with British occupation authorities in Germany to have a Danish brigade group moved to Schleswig, just south of the Danish border. The brigade now is stationed on the Aurich peninsula.

Such a transfer would bring trained Danish troops to a position from which they could be sent to any part of Denmark within a day.

Polio Closes N.Z. Schools

Auckland, N.Z. (AP)—Although New Zealand schools have reopened after the long summer vacation, no pupils are attending them. Owing to a poliomyelitis epidemic children are being kept away from school until after Easter, but teachers are attending to correct assignments the children send in by post.

There have been several hundred cases of the disease throughout the country, especially in the north, but its incidence has been greatly reduced by the rigorous precautions which were taken immediately signs of an epidemic were discerned.

Children have been banned from all picture theatres and other places where numbers could congregate. Beaches near cities, where there is a risk of water polution, have been declared unsafe for swimming for the duration of the epidemic.

A ban has been placed on children travelling between the North and South Islands. The remarkable co-operation of parents with the health authorities has resulted in the outbreak having far less serious effects than was thought possible a few months ago.

HEARTIEST THANKS ACCEPTED

Please find inclosed a clean dime and stamped self addressed envelope for your booklet Training for Diabetes. Also accept my heartiest thanks for your Fool Proof Home Made Cough Medicine (described in Call it Cri). Inasmuch as I am diabetic, this is the only cough medicine I can safely take. It has proved most effective. (B.H.L.)

Remember the restaurant man whose sign said only fresh eggs served here? His customers showed him that one word after another was superfluous, until finally the man was reduced to serving eggs without comment of any kind. If your dime is there sir, I'll find it, all right, and if you get the booklet at all the dime must have been clean. So all that malarkey is as necessary as it is to stay I take my pen in hand to write...or I seen your ad...

There are any number of medicines for cough that a diabetic may take—you will find some of them mentioned in Call it Cri, with directions for using them. (For a copy of the booklet, dealing with respiratory infections, chronic bronchitis, catarrah, bronchiectasis, etc., send twenty-five cents and stamped self addressed envelope.

The home made fool proof cough medicine is for children or adults. It is not a cure for anything, —just a simple, safe, soothing if not sedative expectorant, which ainybody can whip up whenever it is needed. Here's how:

Steep or boil slowly for 20 to 30 minutes a heaping teaspoonful of whole flaxseeds in a pint of water. That makes flaxseed tea. Then dissolve in the flaxseed tea one ounce of sodium citrate (citrate of soda), the juice of one lemon, two tablespoonfuls of glycerin and finally a drop or two of peppermint or other flavor if you prefer. Strain. The dose for an adult is a tablespoonful every two hours for two or three days, for a young child a teaspoonful every two hours for a day or two.

Sodium citrate (citrate of soda) was formerly used in modifying milk for infant feeding—so it is perfectly safe for child or adult —and don't let the inept druggist discourage you if your druggist happens to be that kind.

The home made fool proof cough medicine is especially suitable in any case of acute C R I attended with soreness, rawness, hoarseness or huskiness and cough.

I do not advise it in cases of chronic cough, but it can do no harm if you want to try it, and many readers have assured me it gives much relief when the cough is tight and coughing fails to raise anything but the blood pressure.

I do hope that in the event that you cook up a batch of the fool proof cough medicine you will get all of the ingredients in—all six of them (including the flavor). I'm burning yet from the lambasting I receive from a Kentuckian who prepared a mess after the recipe printed in the paper and couldn't dig a spoon into it —the printers had omitted the water.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Clinics

You seem to have a prejudice against clinics—does your feeling extend to such institutions as the ——— clinic and the ———clinic? (A. T. H.)

Answer—No, child, I have no such prejudice. But your stationery is printed with the large bold type heading The "Squedunk Clinic" (let us all it here), and then, as though to display your modesty the names of four physicians are printed in small type at one side. That's what I think is wrong with the medical profession. If a doctor is worthy of public confidence or if he has confidence in himself, why should he practice under any other name than his own?

Bedtime Snack

Is it beneficial or harmful for growing children to eat a light lunch at bedtime? (Hrs. W. M. L.)

Answer—It is beneficial—and don't make it too light, Mom.

Mischievous

Neighbor —gives her two young children turpentine for most any ailment and kerosene when they have sore throat. She says I'm crazy when I express fear that it may do harm. (Mrs. C. T.)

Answer—If they were my children I'd rather give them a little scientific neglect.

Pro-Soviet Moslem Tribesmen Aim At New State on China Border

By HENRY HARTZENBUSCH

Shanghai, —(Reuters) — Pro-Soviet Moslem tribesmen in China's northwestern province of Sinkiang are threatening to break away from central Chinese rule and set up an independent "East Turkestan" state.

According to Gen. Chang Chih-Chung, director of the government's northwest headquarters, Ili (Moslem) tribal leaders, in spite of promises to refrain from subversive activities, are continuing their attempts to create an "East Turkestan" state and stepping up their conscription program.

The separatist movement in Sinkiang generally, however, is reported to have made little progress as it is confined to the three border areas of Ili, Tahcheng and Okosu. "The people of other districts," accoroding to General Chang, "do not want separation from China." General Chang denied that there was any discrimination between Chinese and Moslems, as alleged by the Ili leaders.

General Chang who is at present in Nanking conferring with the central authorities on the Sinkiang problem, said that he had invited the Ili leaders to meet government representatives either at Tihwa, capital of Sinkiang, or Nanking to open negotiations and settle differences peacefully.

Following the appointment of a pro-Chinese official, Masud Sabri as governor of Sinkian last August, the Ili deputy governor Acmadi Jang, left the Sinkiang government and sent these four demands to General Chang: That pro-Chinese Masud Sabri be removed from office; that political prisoners in Sinkiang be released; that no further arrests be made; and that the "joint administrative program be carried out."

Can Grant Three

"While it is comparatively easy for the government to comply with the last three requests," General Chang said, "It will be extremely difficult to relieve Masud of his present duties, since he was made governor only a few months ago."

Masud Sabri is a learned man with a long and fine public record and there is no reason why the Ili leaders should be dissatisfied with his appointment. General Chang said.

The controversy over Masud's appointment would be automatically solved in a popular election as soon as preparation are complete, the general said.

Observers here believe that the Central Chinese authorities are anxious to come to terms with the tribal leaders, fearing that open rebellion in little-known Sinkiang may lead to a general uprising in the whole northwest where some 10,000,000 Moslems half of China's Moslem population — still hope to realize an old aspiration to form an autonomou Mohammedan government.

Although most Moslems in China have Turkish blood, their features are hardly distinguishable from Chinese. They dress like Chinese and speak Chinese, but they still observe Mohammedan customs. Children of mixed Chinese-Moslem marriages regard themselves as Moslems. Their forefathers, early Arab traders, settled along China's northwestern frontier sometime about the sixth century.

Kingsview Park Residents Seek Reimbursement

Ottawa, March 23 (CP) — Angered suburban Kingsview Park residents, suffering a $500,000 weekend flood loss, today sought reimbursement from either Eastview or Ottawa.

A mass meeting in Eastview's town hall last night heard Mayor Donat Grandmaitre blame the Ottawa engineering department for plight of residents, but the 200 flood victims refused to absolve Eastview's town council.

The mayor said that Ottawa's works department had delayed river blasting even after he had made repeated attempts to speed up the ice breakup. Eastview had started its blasting 10 days before Ottawa.

Mr. Grandmaitre promised his council would back every suggestion of an action committee named to go after dyke construction. Financial help, the mayor believed, might come from provincial and federal governments.

But as a motion was made to elect the Eastview mayor to the committee which will also plan means of obtaining a reimbursement for the damage, it was shouted down with the declaration:

"We may want to bring action against the council itself."

Meanwhile, as district waters receded, Kingsview Park was still inundated last night.

Finns Receive Promise Elections Will be Free

Helsinki, March 23 (AP) — The Finns yesterday received a promise from their President that next July's parliamentary elections will be free.

President Juho K. Paasikivi, at 78, Finland's strong man and her oldest active statesman, pledged that the will of the people will be the deciding factor. He said there would be no war in the near future.

For the first time in recent critical weeks, during preliminary discussions on the proposed Russian-Finnish Friendship Act, Paasikivi granted an interview to four American reporters yesterday.

The "old man in the palace" — a term Finns used affectionately— talked with optimism about the future. He thought there might be a long period of cold war, "but peoples are not so likely to be induced to begin a new war."

He seemed relaxed, now that weeks of conferences with his aides over the Russian proposal have ended, and the Finnish delegation is in Moscow. The group got there yesterday, headed by Foreign Minister C. J. A. Enckell.

Of the July elections, he had this to say:

"We will have elections in the legal fashion and there will be no question of postponing them. We are living in a country under legal order and according to our constitution. The elections will be totally free and the will of the people will be the deciding factor."

Of rumors about war, he commented:

"Perhaps I am a little naive, but I do not think there will be any war in the near future."

He thought the United Nations had had a "bad beginning," but expressed hope it would have some effect for peace in the near future.

Greeks Gain Major Victory Over Guerrillas

Athens, March 23. (AP)— Greek Troops have scored a major victory over guerrilla forces around Mount Olympus and Mount Pierria in the past month, War Minister George Stratos said last night.

In announcing the victory, he declared that "charges made by bad friends of Greece that the army is not fighting are flatly refuted." He did not identify the "bad friends".

Speaking of the new successes and of earlier government victories at Konitsa, Stratos said:

"These facts prove the accusations a calummny. This and Konista show the fighting ability of the Greek army."

In its second interim report 10 days ago the United States Aid Mission to Greece said failure of the Greek army to take the offensive had increased the strength of the rebels.

Moscow radio last night quoted the Communist "Free Greece" radio charge that American officers were responsible for the use of poison gas against guerrillas. The broadcast said poison gas was used in the Kastoria area of Macedonia, March 15.

Stratos said that in the month-long fighting in the region of the two mountains 1,000 guerrillas had been killed. Army casualties were 166, and large stores of guerrilla supplies had been seized.

Municipal Act Approved With Few Amendments

Toronto, March 23 — (CP) — Bills to amend the Assessment Act and Municipal Act were approved with a few changes in the sitting of the Ontario Legislature Municipal Law Committee Monday. T. K. Creighton (PC — Ontario) was chairman.

In the Municipal Act, a section which would have required the municipal council in preparing its estimates to consider only the cash surplus at the end of the preceding year, instead of taking into account expected revenue during the current year was withdrawn.

Other amendments broaden the powers of urban municipalities to regulate, control and inspect heating plants and equipment; allow municipal police to deal with the pigeon nuisance; give authority to a municipality to revoke public garage licences and define a public garage to include a car-washing establishment.

Maximum licence fees for hawkers and tourist camps are set. A municipality may not charge more than $2 for a hawker's licence. Fees for tourist camps are $10 maximum and $100 top for the camp or trailer camp.

Provisions of the Assessment Act make it clear that a school board in unorganized territory has authority to assess and collect taxes on the profits of a mine or mineral work in the area for which the board was set up.

Capital Expansion Will be Greatest In Canada's History

Ottawa, March 23 — (CP) — Canada will spend the greatest number of dollars in its history this year for capital expansion of the forecast of the Federal Government is met.

The forecast — an expenditure of $2,800,000,000 on new building, new machinery and repairs to existing equipment — was contained in a report on this year's investment outlook prepared by the Reconstruction Department.

A companion report, surveying probable production of building and other basic materials, was tabled in the Commons at the same time by Trade Minister Howe.

The report on investments notes that periods of heavy capital expenditures, in the past, have accompanied periods when the level of employment and income was also high.

The gloomiest aspect of the entire picture, which sweeps broadly over the country's basic economy, is in steel and iron production. The survey notes that phoduction of both is near the country's capacity, that it is hardly likely to increase muhc this year and that the dollar - saving import restrictions are likely to increase the demands for domestic steel and pig iron.

Lumber production, it notes, will probably be down, but the decrease will likely be more than offset, so far as supplies to domestic consumers are concerned, by a drop in the British demand for Canadian timber. Building supplies are expected, in most ranges, to improve.

Much of the increase in capital expenditure, the survey shows, results from higher prices.

It is estimated that industry of all sorts from mines to retail stores, will spend $1,200,000,000 on new equipment and on repairing and maintaining old installations. Building outranks this expenditure and will probably cost $1,600,000,000 this year. 'Building' covers homes, factories, stores and extensions.

The investment survey is based on information supplied by 13,000 businesses and the programs of federal, provincial and municipal governments. The survey notes that in 1946 only 75 per cent of the forecast was achieved but that in 1947 the estimated expenditure tallied almost exactly with actual outlay.

SPRING IN THE HEART

As we watch the snowbanks melt away
We say to them "Depart!"
What matters if the snow does stay?
If Spring is in the heart.

Then, if the rain comes pouring down
Don't let the teardrops start.
What matters if the rain does fall?
If Spring is in the heart.

Or may it be the wind that blows,
If we are not apart,
What matters if the wind does blow?
If Spring is in the heart.

So let it be just what it may,
It is God's hand at art.
What matters what the weather is
If Spring is in the heart.

Mrs. James Vanderwater and Mrs. Gilbert Thompson were appointed delegates to Belleville Presbyterial to be held in April.

Readings were given by Mrs. Ross Ketcheson, Mrs. W. McInroy and Mrs. Wesley Farrell. A piano solo by Mrs. James Vanderwater and a vocal solo by Mrs. Burton Foster were much enjoyed. The topic "What Women Çan do Towards Christianity" was ably presented by Mrs. Gilbert Thompson. The Mizpah Benediction closed the meeting.

STONE CHURCH W.M.S.-W.A.

4th Sidney—The March meeting of Stone Church W.M.S. met Wednesday in the home of Mrs. E. B. Phillips, with 14 members present. In the absence of the president, Mrs. Walt, Mrs. Detlor conducted opening exercises, with Mrs. H. Gray at the piano.

Scripture was read from the Gospel by St. Mark, by Mrs. Phillips, and Mrs. Detlor read an article describing the Christ Life, left as an example for "all the world". The chapters 9 and ten of the study book were capably reviewed by Mrs. W. Tufts.

During the business period the Temperance Secretary, Mrs. Lloyd, reported for her department, and Mrs. C. Vermilyea read the resignation of Mrs. A. B. Woods, recording secretary, who is moving to Belleville. Mrs. Lloyd accepted the responsibilities of this office for the duration of this year. The appeal for clothing for European relief was discussed. It was decided that the Auxiliary be hostesses to the Mission Band and Baby Band at the April meeting. Delegates were appointed to the Presbyterial to be held in Belleville, next month, in the persons of Mrs. J. Detlor and Mrs. Lloyd.

The W.A. meeting followed immediately, with Mrs. C. W. Neelands presiding. An Easter message following the story of the Crucifixion was given by the president, and Mrs. H. Gray contributed an appropriate solo.

Business was discussed relative to plans for Church Hall supplies, and for Red Cross Funds. Plans were made for a quilting in the near future.

The highlight of the afternoon was the presentation of a pressure cooker to Mrs. A. B. Woods from the members of both societies, made by Mrs. C. Vermilyea, with Mrs. F. Tucker reading a complimentary address, in which regret was expressed for the loss of so faithful and helpful a member. Mrs. Woods feelingly thanked her friends for their kind words and for the very useful gift.

The hostess and her helpers served delicious refreshments during a pleasant social hour.

AIKENS W. A.

Mrs. Stanley Spafford, president of the Aikens' W. A. was in charge of the March meeting held in the home of Mrs. Harleigh Hamilton, with 16 members present to enjoy the splendid program prepared by Mrs. Bailey and Mrs. Schrimshaw. Opening exercises were in keeping with the Easter season and its message.

Scripture lesson from the 12th. chapter of St. John's Gospel was read by Mrs. Hollinger, and Mrs. Keary gave a devotional talk on the subject, "The Message of God", and the words of Jesus, —"I am come a light into the world, that whosoever believeth on Me should not abide in darkness." She said in part,—"In the days preceding the Feast of the Passover, Jesus spoke of the future to all who would listen, that they should not be uncertain as to how they should live, but might walk in the light of God's guidance." The text, "I am the light of the world", gives assurance of all in the words "He that followeth after Me shall not walk in darkness, but shall have the Light of Life".

A piano duet by Mrs. H. Hamilton and Mrs. L. Grills was greatly enjoyed by all present. Readings were given by Mesdames Moon, McMullen and Bailey.

Mrs. Neelands gave the first of a series of talks based on the Jewish law in the first five books of the Old Testament, which was very instructive.

Several business items were discussed. Mrs. Moon reported that two quilts were given to a family which had recently lost household effects by fire. A donation of $20.00 was given to the Red Cross appeal this month. Aiken's W. A., are sending a donation to the Dominion W. A. Council. The next meeting will be held in the home of Mrs. K. Jones, with Mrs. H. and Mrs. E. Hubble as conveners. Mary Lou Pearson received the offering, and Mrs. S. Westover closed this helpful meeting with prayer.

Mrs. Hamilton and her assistants served dainty refreshments.

During a short business period it was decided to make a donation to the Canadian Appeal for Children, and to hold a card party in aid of this fund. A letter of thanks from Mr. and Mrs. Bob Tulloch, for a wedding gift was read, as well as other correspondence. The April meeting will be held in the home of Mrs. O. Gordaneer.

The following interesting program :"The Old Arm Chair" rendered as a duet by Mrs. Meggison and Mrs. Gordaneer. "The Old Rocking Chair" with guitar accompaniment by Mrs. Woodbeck. Readings —"Grandmother's Job" by Mrs. E. Foster; "The Old Fashioned Remedies" by Mrs. Megginson; "Memories of Grandmother and Mother," by Mrs. H. Cooke; and "The Kindly Heart" by Mrs. S. McMurray.

Mrs. W. West conducted an old fashioned contest. The Roll Call was answered by each person exhibiting old photos depicting the styles of former years.

Mrs. Tulloch presented Mrs. E. Cooke and Mrs. B. Woodbeck with prizes, as they were the only mothers present who are not grandmothers.

At the close of the meeting special refreshments were served in honor of the grandmothers present. A vote of thanks was tendered the hostess for the use of her home, and to all who helped to make this meeting a successful and entertaining one.

Miss Jane Parks, Former Resident, Is 104 Years Old

Miss Jane Parks, Toronto, celebrated her 104th birthday recently at the home of her niece, Mrs. Tom Barton, 85 Gilmore Avenue, Toronto.

Miss Parks was born at Conway Wharf, near Bath, of U.E.L. stock and later resided in Belleville. About fifty years ago, she moved to Toronto to look after five nieces and nephews who were orphans. Later she ran a boarding house in Toronto.

Spry and active, Miss Parks enjoys favorable health, having some difficulty with her sight and hearing. She is still able to get much enjoyment out of life and entered into the spirit of her birthday party with much zest. She enjoys candy, especially the home-made variety which she receives from relatives now living in Belleville.

Among Miss Parks' Belleville relatives are Mrs. W. J. Simpson, Burton Street, Miss Marie Parks and Roger Parks, Charlotte Street.

St. Patrick's Day Concert Presented

The Belleville Children of Mary presented their annual St. Patrick's Day concert last week. The program opened with the sodality Glee Club singing "It's a Great Day for the Irish," "Sweet is Tipperary in the Spring," and "The Hat My Father Wore." The soloists were Helen Cooper, Sharon Lucy and Nora Flurey.

Miss Rita Chapelle, mistress of ceremonies, then welcomed the capacity crowd which filled the auditorium of St. Michael's Academy. This was followed by a one act comedy, "Merry Molly Malone." The cast presented their roles with outstanding skill. Outstanding were Barbara Forhan who enacted title role with true Irish vivacity; Mary McDougal surpassed her performance in "You Can't Beat the Irish" to win new honors portraying the haughty Mrs. Barrington. The role of her long-suffering husband Winchell was well done by Gerald Cooper. Gerald Flurey and Joyce Royal were cast in the contrasting roles of the likable son Noel who succumbed to the charms of the pretty Irish lass and the snobbish but beautiful daughter of Ilka. Bob Lucy took the part of Percy Van Lone, Ilka's up-and-coming boyfriend who, in the surprise finish, turned out to be Molly's brother; Mary Dunlop was superb as the Irish housekeeper whose humorous sayings afforded many laughs to the audience.

Variety numbers followed. Mary Dooley delighted the audience with her piano solo "Danny Boy" as did Bob Young with saxaphone numbers "The Last Rose of Summer" and "Rose of Tralee." Eight sodality girls danced their way into everyone's heart with their presentation of "The Irish Washer Woman."

Two other features of the evening were "The Grant Family" and "McBrian and Adair." In the former Mr. Bill Grant, accompanied by Mrs. Grant at the piano, entertained with a xylophone solo "Top of the Morning." Helen Grant sang "Smiling Through" and Mary and Catherine Grant and Katherine Barrett danced an Irish Jig in colorful Irish costume. "McBrian and Adair" was a vaudeville skit starring Mr. Ed. Brown and Miss Ann Lafferty. This number reviewing the hits of those masters Cohan and Herbert was a smash success.

All members of the cast returned to the stage for the grand finale—and on the strains of "It's a Great Day for the Irish" and "Molly," the curtain came down on another St. Patrick's Day.

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMESON

Treatment of Chapped Skin

Chapped skin means that the daily session with the make-up box is no pleasure. Powder goes on in streaks and patches. The rouge compact, moving over a rough surfaces produces a blotchy pattern instead of a soft, enticing blush. All of which incites much wailing and gnashing of teeth among the victims of this affliction.

The human hide is in a continual state of decay and renewal. Dead scales are fluffing away, new ones are forming to replace them. When this process goes on normally, the epidermis is soft and smooth. Waste products come away in such tiny flour-like particles that shedding is imperceptible.

Complexion, hands, even the arms and legs can become so rough and sensitive that the condition is most unpleasant. Sometimes there is an intolerable itching after the bath, in which case the entire body surface should be frictioned lightly with a bath oil.

One cause of the trouble is a dry atmosphere. In the winter season, when steam heat is on, water containers should be placed on every radiator and filled daily. Individuals who live near the sea seldom have dry skins. The cutaneous fabric requires moisture, thrives upon it.

A change of soap may improve conditions. Sometimes soap must not be used at all, in which case cosmetic meal is substituted.

A creamy cosmetic must be applied faithfully, not only after the face-washing at bedtime, but also after the morning rinsing with cold water. The heavier the emollient the better. The more friction employed, the deeper will the oily preparation penetrate the flesh. So, if you are among those who weep bitterly about complexions that have suicidal tendencies use cream lavishly. Let it remain on over night. Don't cherish that silly old idea that cream will grow fuzzers on your face. Nothing to it.

Beauticians are giving more and more thought to diet to help banish beauty griefs. The excessively dry skin can be brought to a normal state if the sebaceous glands will speed up the job of lubrication. This is possible if one will add a little more fat to the daily intake of groceries.

Spread more butter on your bread; put more cream in your coffee. Have two slices of bacon for breakfast.

Drink plenty of water, five or six glasses a day. The complexion may be arid because it is thirsty.

Bride-Elect Guest of Honor At Shower-Party

Miss Margaret Cockell, Burnham St., was guest of honor last evening at a miscellaneous shower party, when Mrs. Al. Marvin, Mrs. Don Alexander, and Mrs. Al. Blondin were co-hostesses in the home of Mrs. J. Darvell, Burnham Street.

Entertainment for the early evening was provided in the making of a "Bride's Book", and later games of euchre were played.

Decorations in the attractive rooms were carried out in shades of pink and blue, and a basket holding gifts wrapped in pastel colored papers was decorated in a combination of pink and white. The basket was presented to the bride-elect by Mrs. Marvin and Mrs. Blondin. After opening the parcels, Miss Cockell graciously expressed her gratitude for the many useful gifts.

The informal serving of buffet refreshments brought an enjoyable evening to a close, and the guests departed expressing wishes for a happy future to Miss Cockell.

Congregational Meetings

The annual congregational meeting of Centenary United Church was held Wednesday evening, March 17th., with a splendid attendance.

Rev. A. C. McCallum presided for devotional exercises. Mr. Elwin Hart was the secretary. Mr. Edgar Ray, treasurer, presented an interesting financial statement, showing a substantial balance on hand. Missionary givings were in excess of last year. The W.M.S. exceeded its allocation, while the W.A. reported a very successful year, raising more than $200 for local expenses and charitable purposes.

Mr. Fred Edmondson gave an interesting account of the Sunday School activities. The attendance report showed a steady increase. The Young People's report was presented by Miss Shirley Hall. The Trustee Board submitted a report on property. The renovation of the church was given favorable consideration, and after some discussion it was again referred to the committee for further action.

The following were elected to the Session: Messrs. George Shortt, Harry Roblin, R. H. Hart, D. H. Thrasher, Edgar Ray, D. H. Holton, and R. Edmondson, Clerk of Session.

The Board of Stewards: Messrs. H. G. McLeod, Ray Hall, G. Sills, Percy Sutherland, Edgar Ray, treasurer, and E. G. Hart, secretary.

A unanimous vote of thanks was extended to the minister and his sister, Mrs. Mooney, for their services. Mr. McCallum, in his reply referred to the splendid loyalty of the people during his four year pastorate.

Following the meeting a social hour was enjoyed as the ladies served delicious refreshments. The meeting closed when the minister pronounced a benediction.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

To Shake Hands with a Man Being Introduced to her?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I'd be much more comfortable if I were absolutely sure whether or not I, a girl (in early twenties), should offer to shake hands with a man when he is being introduced to me! My inclination is to reach out my hand to shake hands when I am saying my "How do you do", but I have noticed that many girls don't shake hands under these circumstances. Is there a definite rule for me to follow?

Elsa

No, there isn't a definite rule about this. . .but customarily girls and women don't make much of a point of shaking hands when a man is introduced to them. It's not necessary or even usual for a girl to offer to shake hands with a man if the introduction is a casual one, or if she is in a group, or the introduction is made on the street, in a movie theatre or other public place. But there are special occasions when it is natural to shake hands when a man is introduced to you . .for example, if you and he are very close friends of the one making the introduction and you have heard much of each other from this mutual friend; or if the man is the fiance of your friend and their engagement has just been announced, or if he is a brother or other relative of the close friend of yours who is making the introduction.

She May Write First to "the Boy Back Home"

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My family has just moved to this town, quite far from where we have always lived. Back home I knew a certain boy very well, both in school and after our graduation, when we both worked. When we moved here, which was very suddenly, he was out of town, and I didn't see him to say good-by or to speak about corresponding. Would it be proper for me to write to him now, that is, write to him first, explaining about our moving and so forth?

Marjorie S.

Yes, entirely proper for you to write first. . .the one who has gone away usually does write first anyway. And, of course, such a good friend of yours will want to know the latest news of you and your new surroundings.

Dinner Seating Arrangements When There Are No Guests of Honor

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When my husband and I give a dinner and there is no special point of considering any of the guests as "guests of honor", who should be given the seat at my husband's right and at my right?

Hostess

You give these places to guests who, for some reason, you might like to honor, even though you don't nominate them as "guests of honor". . .for example, you might give them to two older guests, or to guests whom you have not before had an opportunity of inviting to your home. Or you may place at your right and left two guests whom you are particularly anxious to have "get together", with you as the dea ex machina.

How to Introduce a Boy to One's Father

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

How should I introduce a boy in my class at school to my father? Whose name is mentioned first?

Tom

Mention your father first. . . say, "Father, this is Bob Graham."

An Endearing Person

An endearing person . . . one who rejoices in the good luck or the achievements of others, and who wholeheartedly expresses that delight.

FIVE BURNED IN BLAZE

Omaha, March 23 — (AP) — Fire swept through a rest home here early today, taking the lives of five elderly persons.

A county hospital spokesman tentatively identified the dead as: Tom Ward, Eugene Sullivan, F.H. Welty, R. G. Burman and Harry Wackter.

Identification was handicapped because the casualties were all in night clothes.

Seven other persons were in hospital, some in critical condition.

Firemen said the fire apparently began in a small ante - room on the first floor and scorched several rooms on that floor before sweeping up the staircase.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Should She Marry for Her Children's Sake?

A correspondent who says she asks advice to help a friend, wants to know if a woman divorced from her husband should remarry solely for the sake of her children. I assume that the question would apply equally if the woman had lost her husband through death.

In this case, it happens that the husband walked out on his wife and went away with another woman at the time of the birth of their second child.

"She divorced her husband after trying in every way to make him see reason but to no avail," this friend writes. "For quite a while she never made any effort to become acquainted with any more men, as her children took up most of her time. Lately, however, after five years, she has met a man who knew her former husband and understands her unfortunate situation. He has been very kind to her and her children and has asked her to marry him.

"She wants companionship, but can't seem to bring herself to think of marriage at this time. This man is very thoughtful but much older than she—14 years older—and she is not in love with him. But she doesn't know what to do because of the children. Everyone has told her that she should marry again for the children's sake.

"Is she right? Should a woman sacrifice her life and marry someone for such a reason? Doesn't she deserve some happiness of her own?"

Now I assume that what the friends who are urging this mother to remarry have in mind is that it is too bad for children to grow up without a father in the home, and perhaps they are also thinking of it from an economic point of view.

However, the writer of the letter made no mention of the fact that the woman was finding it financially difficult to bring her two children up, so that perhaps she is doing all right along this line. If so, I think it would be very foolish for her to marry against her own feelings solely to provide a stepfather for her children. Plenty of women who who have been widowed or divorced, as the case may be, have done a very fine job of rearing their children without a man in the house, and there is no reason why this one can't do it, too. Naturally, such a state of affairs is second-best to a complete and happy family circle. But it is infinitely preferable to a family in which the mother doesn't love the father. So how could the woman benefit her children by marrying a man she says she doesn't love?

On the other hand, it must be admitted that many people have married for companionship rather than love and found it a very satisfactory and happy arrangement. They, however, have definitely wanted to do this, whereas the woman in question apparently doesn't.

All this being so, I certainly see no reason why this particular mother should take another husband just because her friends feel it would be a good thing if she did.

THE MAUVE DECADE is here all in one season, judging by the prevalence of mauve tones. To tie in with the vogue for this color there is much real or simulated amethyst jewelry. So, if there are any amethyst pieces in the old jewel box, get 'em out, for they'll be high style once more.

CCF MANOEUVRERS

In the confused clamor that preceded the formal division John Diefenbaker (PC— Lake Centre), reminded the government that with the clause already defeated it could not very well have "two bites from the apple."

The resolution around which the procedural skirmish revolved was one giving statutory authority to the bitterly-contested 25-per-cent excise tax. The tax went into effect in the Nov. 18 austerity program and applies to a long list of consumer goods ranging from motor cars to cameras and toilet articles.

Will Reach All-Time High

In the opening stages, Trade Minister Howe reported that capital expenditure in Canada, covering new building, new machinery and repairs, is expected to reach an all-time high of $2,800,000,000 this year against $2,400,000,000 last year, an increase of 17 per cent in capital outlay.

He also told the chamber he will endeavor to make a statement today on the price for flax during the 1948-49 crop year.

External Affairs Minister St. Laurent said he has been giving "very careful consideration" to the United States reversal of policy on the partition of Palestine.

He said also that the declaration of Britain, France and the United States calling for the return of Trieste to Italy has been communicated to the government here but the government thus far has made no comment.

One, seeking to strike out all tax-levying sections, was ruled out of order.

Second Section Rejected

The second, aimed at skirting this principle, sought again to remove those sections but this time to replace them by an excess profits tax which would make up for the revenue loss. It was rejected 61 to 18.

Donald Fleming (PC-Toronto Eglinton) told Mr. Abbott he would be a "bigger man" in the eyes of the people if he would "admit his mistake" and withdraw the tax entirely.

Harold Timmins (PC-Toronto Parkdale) charged that the plastics industry was being "bludgeoned" out of existence and asked why it was necessary to tax a product which contained only 11 per cent of American-made material.

Mr. Abbott said he saw no reason for the industry to go on the rocks and held that the 11-per-cent content, while admittedly not a large amount, still was appreciable enough to warrant taxation.

To requests by F. S. Zaplitny (CCF-Dauphin) and G. K. Fraser (PC-Hastings-Peterborough) that the tax be lifted from outboard motors when they are used for business, Mr. Abbott replied that this already had been considered and there could be no change.

ENGLISH PAPERS FORECAST

London, March 22 — (Reuters) — The Daily Express, Independent, today forecast in an editorial "the end of the British Empire" if a plan, alleged to be under consideration by the United States State Department, goes through for the United States to take over Britain's economic responsibilities in Australia, India, New Zealand and Egypt.

INVESTIGATE CLAIM

Toronto, March 23 — (CP) — Mayor Hiram McCallum said last night he will investigate a University student's claim that two policemen beat and kicked an unidentified young man in the garage of the Dundas Street police station the night of March 13.

TRIESTE

Pandemonium Reigns

There was pandemonium at the station as Romans, for the first time, bellowed out their satisfaction with the western allies' proposal to return the free territory of Trieste to Italy. De Gasperi and Sforza were in Turin Saturday when the French Foreign Minister, Georges Bidault, first announced the idea.

Amid continued cries of "Viva Trieste Italiana," "Viva De Gasperi" and "Viva Sforza," De Gasperi told the crowd it was too early to make any definite forecast on the future of Trieste, when Italian and Yugoslav border patrols exchanged shots yesterday.

Sforza also spoke, but the shouting of the crowd virtually drowned out his words.

Every indication in the Italian capital is that the government will reject yesterday's Yugoslav proposal to trade Trieste to Italy for Gorizia.

With tension high over the exchange of shots between the border patrols, political observers said they doubted that Italy would accept the Yugoslav suggestion.

Policeman Wounded

As recently as last Sunday, De Gasperi said in a political address "We could not accept it (Trieste) for Gorizia."

The shooting scrape occurred at the border separating the Yugoslav and the United States - British zones of Trieste. An Italian policeman was wounded.

No immediate reason was given for the shooting.

It was the first incident of gunfire since the western powers asked Russia and Yugoslavia Saturday to join in returning Trieste to Italy.

Russia has made no formal reply yet. Moscow radio Sunday night objected that the western allies had acted behind Russia's back in making the suggestion. Italy yesterday sent notes to Britain, France and the United States thanking them for the Trieste proposal.

Later in the day, Yugoslavia's premier, Marshal Tito, replied through his foreign minister with a counter - offer to trade Trieste for Gorizia — a city of 50,000 which commands the northern approaches to the big port of Trieste. Trieste now is a free territory, by the terms of the Italian peace treaty.

The Girizia proposal is not new. It was made before the Italian Peace Treaty was signed and turned down then because it would give Yugoslavia control of the northern approaches to Trieste.

Claimed Political Trick

The Communists claim the western powers' Trieste proposal is a political trick to influence voters to support government parties in the April 18 election.

Sforza in turn has accused Yugoslavia of violating the peace treaty in trying illegally to annex the portion of Trieste free territory now occupied by Yugoslav troops under the treaty.

An emergency session of the Italian cabinet was called, meanwhile, to consider how to deal with a country-wide printers' strike.

Government sources have charged that the strike is a Leftist manoeuvre to obstruct the election. Among the strikers are printers who prepare ballots and other electoral forms.

As the pre-election campaign grew more bitter United States army officials at Trieste said American soldiers will not be permitted passes to Italy for the time being.

Turn Cold Shoulder

Washington, March 23 (AP) — United States officials turned a cold shoulder today on Yugoslav's offer to "trade" Trieste for the nearby Italian city of Gorizia.

Diplomatic authorities pointed out that the free territory of Trieste does not belong to Yugoslavia and therefore is not hers to put up for bargaining.

Thus officials made plain that while the western powers are alert to what the Soviet Union and Italy have to say about the disputed area, they are unlikely to pay much attention to the opinions of Marshal Tito's regime.

That was the reaction to the suggestion by Foreign Minister Stanoje Simic that Yugoslavia would consider surrendering its claims to Trieste if given in return the strategic Italian city of Gorizia which lies to the north.

Simic made the proposal at Belgrade shortly after sending formal notes to the United States, Britain and France protesting their proposal for a chance in the Italian peace treaty to return Trieste to Italy. The Yugoslav notes, however, did not commit Tito's government to acceptance or rejection of the three-power proposal. Trieste now is under United Nations supervision and protection.

Two Notified

Both Russia and Italy were notified formally of the proposal last Saturday. Hailed by anti-Communist forces in Italy, it has been denounced in Moscow as a diplomatic stroke "behind our back" to influence the April 18 Italian elections. Russia's formal reply still is awaited.

Under a big four agreement incorporated into the original peace treaty with Italy, the free territory of Trieste covering 400 square miles was split into two zones. Yugoslav forces patrol one section, British-American troops guard the other. The city of Trieste itself is under British-American control.

Diplomatic officials noted that Yugoslavia was not a party to the compromise agreement establishing the free territory.

Thus the possibility was raised that the western powers would ignore Belgrade's formal protest — as well as its "trading" offer.

Establish Police Schools

Premier Drew, Discussing the measure, said that in a case where the Dominion was to provide services for an area, the province would give grants just as though it were a municipality.

Also given second reading were bills to return taxes on professional sporting events if it is shown that all proceeds are for charity.

A number of police schools will be established in Ontario under an amendment to the Police Act, given second reading.

Premier Drew referred to a newspaper clipping which he said quoted W. J. Grummett, C.C.F. House Leader as giving approval to the Ontario Federation of Labor brief presented to the cabinet last week.

He asked if the report were true, but Mr. Grummett replied: "I'm not prepared to answer that question."

Aurelien Belanger (Lib-Prescott) commended the government on the bill to increase provincial and municipal contributions to training schools by 50 per cent.

Outlines Situation

On the Crown Lands Bill, Thos. K. Creighton (PC—Ontario) outlined the situation in his constituency at Ajax where, he said, there was a large Crown land project but no agreement for payment in lieu of taxes.

Dana Porter, Planning and Development Minister, said that chief responsibility for finding a solution to floods which are plaguing southern Ontario belongs to the people and their own municipalities.

"It is not a good thing to have flood control under a centralized government," he said.

"The government is prepared to give every assistance to municipal authorities and has already agreed to pay part of the cost of carrying out a flood control project.

Big Game Animals Popular On Menus During Stone Age

By MAX BOYD

Cairo, March 23 — (CP)—Discoveries of the University of California's African expedition suggest that the blue plate special of the New Stone Age may have been elephant au natural or hippopotamus on the half acre.

Exploring the ancient shoreline of Fayum Lake southwest of here, where man is believed to have hunted and fished in the New Stone Age some 10,000 years ago, scientists of the expedition found the broken bones of a number of elephants and hippopotami.

The bones of each great animal were scattered over a separate small area. Around them were flints and other stones from which a few chips had been flaked or broken.

Scientists believe these finds are probably the remains of feasts in which the game was killed and eaten on the spot. They think the crude stone instruments were used to break up the bones to get at the marrow inside.

How the huge animals were killed is not clear. The tip of a pointed instrument was found among the bones of one elephant, but expedition members doubt that such large game was killed by spears. Some think hunters may have crept up behind the great beasts and, with sharpened stones, cut tendons in their legs. Then they starved and harassed the crippled creatures to death.

The expedition lists its conclusions as probabilities rather than certainties because many of the bones lay on the surface instead of being imbedded in structures that would help to fix the date when they were deposited. Some were in place, however, and a few pieces of pottery were discovered to help indicate the period.

Resemble Modern Elephants

The elephants that died along the ancient shore were much like those of today. They were far larger than the world's earliest known elephants, fossil remains of which have been found by this and previous expeditions a few miles away.

Remains of these earliest elephants were discovered by the University of California scientists in deposits which geologists say are 40,000,000 years old. The fossils are about the size of a donkey, have many teeth instead of the four big molars of present-day elephants, and only the beginnings of tusks.

Even older are the fossils of primitive whales, some 45 feet long, a school of which the expedition found in an eroded valley below sea level 60 miles west of its camp at Kom Ausheim. These whales are believed to have lived about 45,000,000 years ago, when the valley was ocean floor.

Many of the bones found by the expedition appear to have accumulated in pools in flood plains or the delta of a large stream some 35,000,000 years ago. The fauna included not only fish, crocodiles and turtles which lived in the stream, but also a large variety of mammals, which must have washed downstream, as well as a few sharks and rays which may have lived in the estuary and come upstream at times.

The expedition had one disappointment. Its hopes of finding new and more complete specimens of propliopithious, an early ape which may have been one of the ancestors of man, have not materialized. So far, science has only one small fragment of proplio, found in this region many years ago.

COST OF STRIKE SO FAR

Halifax, March 22 (CP)—A Halifax shipping official last night estimated the strike of Canadian merchant ship officers has cost nearly $250,000 in wages to seamen, officers, stevedores and freight handlers in Halifax alone. Officials of the three striking unions representing radio, engineer and deck officers, said there no sign of a break in the strike which is nearing the end of its third week.

Old Country Letter:

Events in Europe Result In Sharp Change in Thinking

By STUART UNDERHILL

London, March 23 (CP)—Events in Europe in the last few weeks have resulted in a sharp change in British thinking —the people's interest has been dragged off their own problems and focussed on the troubled continent.

Until the Communist coup in Czechoslovakia, it was hard to arouse much public interest in any development not directly affecting Britain. Now, although economic difficulties are as great as ever, there is a new appreciation of the international angle.

There is no desperate feeling that war is inevitable. But there is widespread frustration, worry and fear at the political forces wrestling with one another across the English Channel.

The Englishman who had impassively watched the reorganization of the Empire felt a twinge of concern when reductions in the strength of the armed services were announced recently. A few months before he probably would have agreed with a group that wanted the forces reduced almost to nothing, ostensibly to provide manpower for civilian production.

For years, workers in this country have sizzled every time anyone suggested that the Franco regime in Spain be recognized. But when Portugal suggested Spain as a partner in the European Recovery Program at Paris last week — a suggestion politely ignored by the other countries present — there wasn't a murmur of protest.

Another cause for uneasiness is the insidiousness of the Communist campaign. For example, when somebody urges an immediate reduction in the armed forces, is he doing it because he seriously believes that the country's production effort will benefit by using men so freed, or is it part of an international plot to weaken the country's defences?

John Bull finds it bewildering that in the meantime, while he has been preoccupied with the trade balance, convertibility, inflation and other technical problems, a first-class international crisis has come upon him.

Key Controlled Dams Only Answer Says Engineer

Toronto, March 23 (CP) — The opinion that control of flood water or alleviation of floods in the upper Thames Valley is unlikely in the near future except by construction of key controlled dams was contained in a preliminary report by G. Graham Reid, consulting engineer of the Provincial Planning Department, issued yesterday by Planning Minister Porter.

The estimated cost of diversion of flood waters directly to Lake Erie was listed in the report was $25,565,600 for the "Wardsville cut off."

If constructed in a tunnel across concession 3 to 8 inclusive in the Township of Aldborough the cost would be about $16,495,600. These structures would, it was stated, bring relief from flooding of the lower Thames from London to Lake St. Clair.

The report notes advantages in location of a storage dam at Wardsville.

"The farm area lying between the Thames River and Lake Erie from Delaware to Thamesville comprises much tobacco land. The effect of raising the water table during the summer months in this area and prevention of early frost in the fall by the storage of water would be very great, in addition to the value of flood prevention in the lower reaches of the river by reason of the elimination of property damage.

"The total of the benefits that could be derived from the operation of such a project would easily exceed the amount of $117,000 annually required to retire the capital cost of the project in 20 years at three per cent."

The report concludes that a more intensive survey might suggest additional means of dealing with the whole flood situation.

"It is important to emphasize that the suggested storage dam would only be effective if its operation were related to the scheme that is now under consideration by the upper Thames authority."

Rooming House Operators Free From Business Tax

Toronto, March 23 (CP)—Swayed by the weight of expression by Toronto rooming house operators, the Ontario legislature committee on municipal law Monday changed a section of the municipal act so that rooming house operators throughout the province will be virtually free from business tax.

A large delegation of rooming house operators, almost all women appeared before the committee to object to an amendment to the act which would have required them to occupy 50 per cent of their house in order to avoid business tax.

The second, when changed, read that rooming house operator must occupy 10 per cent of the house in order to avoid paying business tax. The business tax amounts to 25 per cent of the assessment on the house.

Palmer Kent, K.C., member of the Toronto city legal department, said the court had decided a number of years ago that rooming houses are taxable. He said the bill in question was passed for houses where most of the space was rented out and wanted the 50 per cent figure inserted to make it clear.

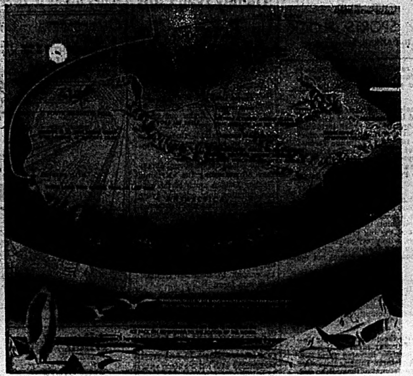
ICE TOLLS BELL FOR "LITTLE AMERICA"



This drawing shows how "Little America," Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd's famous Antarctic base, has been doomed and will soon float off to set as an iceberg. It is estimated that the "Little America" berg will travel from 1,000 to 1,500 miles north before it finally disintegrates. The drawing also shows Bugner's oasis, an ice-free area of red and green colored lakes discovered last year from the air by a navy expedition. A water expedition led by Commander Gerald L. Ketchum is now en route to make further explorations there. This expedition expects to join up with another expedition — the Ronne expedition. Antarctica is very much in the news right now with Britain, Chile and Argentina at odds over territory on or near the icy continent at the bottom of the world. The mountains near the South Pole are the source of the ice movement that is pushing "Little America" to its doom. The dotted line marks probable route when the base becomes a berg.

Calls Atheistic Communism Worst Foe of Religion

Vatican City, March 23 (AP)—The sharpest, most explicit condemnation of Communism to come from any ranking Roman Catholic Prelate in Italy yet was made public here today.

Looking toward Italy's vital parliamentary elections April 18, Eugene Cardinal Tisserant disclosed he had told priests and parishioners in his archdiocese:

"I think that no menace so grave as Atheistic Communism has ever confronted Christian civilization."

Cardinal Tisserant, prelate of Porto and Santa Rufina archdiocese, made his statements in a circular letter sent out some time ago but released publicly only today.

He is the sole non-italian Cardinal of the Vatican Curia. His archdiocese is in the environs of Rome.

As secretary for the congregation for eastern churches the sturdy, French-born Cardinal, who will be 64 tomorrow, is peculiarly concerned over Communist gains.

Eastern Rite of Church

He is responsible to Pope Pius for the spiritual well-being of millions of Catholics of the eastern rite. The bulk of these live in Poland, the Ukraine, Romania, Southern Albania, Greece, Bulgaria, Turkey, Iran, Lebanon, Syria, Palestine, Egypt, Eritrea and Northern Ethiopia.

Cardinal Tisserant's letter put the church viewpoint squarely before his priests and parishioners; That their choice lies between Communism and God. His language was both plainer and stronger than any yet used by the church on this subject.

The social doctrine of Marxist Communism, his letter said, "if not exactly understood and strenuously combated by Catholics, generates equivocation and error, and leads to subversion; to the very ruin of life and of Catholic institutions in Italy."

Catholics who favor or spread Marxist Social-Communism expose themselves to loss of faith and "co-operate in the diffusion of false doctrine..the triumph of immorality, disorder and anarchy of the family, country and state."

Such people, he said, cannot ask of priests to be admitted of the Holy Sacrament or to have the ritual blessings of the church.

"If the church has given such precise directives and has threatened such severe penalties.... it means that it has to do with a very grave danger for religion," the letter said. Communism is "a ruthless enemy of religion," and therefore the church condemns it.

Will Use Taxation From Pro Sport To Help Children

Toronto, March 23 CP)— One of the primary uses of money from professional sport taxation will be to further facilities for instructing crippled children, Premier Drew said in the Ontario Legislature yesterday.

He said there has been a complete survey of crippled children in the province, including where they are located and nature of treatment necessary.

The Premier spoke warmly of Conn Smythe, president of the Ontario Society for Crippled Children, and declared that he has brought to the society the vigorous leadership which produced National Hockey league champions in the Toronto Maple Leafs.

Outlining plans of the society, the Premier said land valued at $150,000 has been set aside on the outskirts of Toronto for a school of instruction. It would be the most modern of its kind on the continent.

A school was already operating in Toronto for Western Ontario. The new school would serve central Ontario and a third school to be built in the eastern part of the province would handle that area.

The Premier said Northern Ontario would come into the program when extended later.

Can Confiscate Motor Car Under New Amendment

Toronto, March 23 (CP)—A person caught driving his own motor vehicle while his licence is either suspended or cancelled will forfeit the machine to the Crown under an amendment to the Highway Traffic Act introduced in the Ontario Legislature yesterday.

Under the amendment, introduced by Hon. George Doucett, Minister of Highways, the same penalty will be imposed if a person whose driving-permit is under suspension or has been cancelled, applies for or obtains a new permit before the suspension is lifted or the permit has officially been restored.

There is also a provision for fines ranging from $25 to $100 and a jail term not exceeding 30 days in addition to the confiscation.

The Ontario Research Commission is established on a permanent basis under another bill given first reading. The Commission will be composed of 12 members, appointed by the Lieutenant Governor in Council.

The Commission was appointed in 1945 to inquire into and report on all matters pertaining to agricultural, industrial and scientific research as they affect Ontario. The government has decided to continue it as a permanent body.

Under an amendment to the Natural Gas Conservation Act the Minister of Mines may designate storage areas and control the drilling operation of gas wells in Ontario.

A bill to encourage construction of community halls and athletic fields in rural areas and small towns and villages was given second reading. The bill increases from $2,000 to $5,000 the amount the province can give a municipality towards establishment of such facilities.

Princess Elizabeth Expects to Become Mother in October

London, March 22 — (AP) — The People, a widely circulated Sunday newspaper, says Princess Elizabeth is expected to become a mother in October.

It was the first such definite prediction by a British newspaper. It drew the same official "no comment" from Buckingham Palace as similar predictions previously published abroad.

The People says an official announcement cancelling the Princess' public engagements may be "expected at any time in the next few weeks."

"This," it adds, "will be necessary in expectation of the Princess becoming a mother in October."

Improved Highways Are Necessity For Tourist Trade

Toronto, March 23 — (CP) — D. Leo Dolan, head of the Canadian Government Travel Bureau, last night told a Board of Trade meeting that improved highways are a necessity if tourists are to be encouraged to visit Canada.

"If 85 or 90 per cent of our tourists come to Canada on rubber tires, isn't it obvious that we have to improve our highways from coast to coast?" he asked.

Toronto Flyers Score 5-2 Win Over Peterborough Legion To Cop Senior 'B' Playoff

In a rousing game before nearly three thousand fans, the Toronto Q and L Flyers defeated the Peterborough Legion team by a 5-2 score here last night to win the third and deciding game of their Senior "B" playdown series. The teams had battled previously to a win each on Lindsay ice.

The loyal Peterborough fans sent down a husky contingent of over 1,000 fans. Others added to the color and a near record crowd packed the Memorial Arena here for the conflict.

It was fast clean hard-checking hockey throughout the three periods. The Goldup-led crew minus their colorful leader who was recalled to the Cleveland Barons the day previous had the edge on the Legion squad, although the gang from Peterborough skated miles in an effort to pull out with a win

Goalie Good

Irons in the Toronto nets played a sensational game. The goalie turned back the charging Petes' forwards time and again after his team had gained a fairly substantial goal-lead. They fired home a trio of goals in the first period after a scoreless fifteen minutes of play. Vipond formerly of Whitby drew first blood, then Delart, flanked by Murphy and Stapleton forced home two more markers while a more or less stunned Peterborough fandom sat in their seats and forgot.

Singleton, taking Kwas' pass midway through the 2nd session put the game on ice. A minute later in a brilliant passing play the same player scored the sixth marker for the ultimate winners.

Led by fiery coach-player Ned Vitarelli, one of the best players on the ice, who was aided and abetted by brother "Dutch" and B. Greenlaw, the Petes flashed back to the attack and sank one marker from the stick of the olive-skinned coach.

Again a Close Game

The third period was again a nip-and-tuck battle with Parnell the Vitarellis again in the starring role. And not to forget M'sieu Godfrey, who lived up to all advance notices as a hockey player. The big boy knocked 'em cold coming and going, and it is no small credit to him his team went down to defeat.

The third period was another nip-and-tuck affair with the Petes driving hard to whottle down the Toronto lead. But the Goldup twins of Odonnell and Kwas, plus the hard-checking Toronto forwards nullified all their efforts but one.

That came when H. Greenlaw took Parnell's pass to fire the pettel past the clever Irons. Singleton was a tower of strength for the winners with Delart, Dylock and Vipond also turned in fine efforts.

The teams:

Toronto: Goal, D: Irons; defence O'Donnell, Kwas; centre, Bradshaw; wings, Dylock, Fournier; subs, Singleton, Rich. Delart, Parks, Clarke, Murphy, Vipond.

Peterborough: Goal, R. Nicholls; defence, Godfrey, N. Vitarelli; centre, Rochetta; wings, Crowley, B. Greenlaw; subs, E. Nicholls, H. Nicholls, Burns, Parnell, Greenlaw, H. D. Vitarelli, Hicks, O'Connell.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.

New York, March 23. (AP)—Peppery Little Mike Peppe, Ohio State swimming coach, predicts that his team will win the United States Collegiate A.A. team title this weekend by at least 10 points if the Bucks' Bill Smith is ready and right . . . .That seems to be a fairly safe prediction, since rival coaches are virtually conceding Ohio State a clean sweep in the fancy diving events. But it still is a radical departure from the tearful tradition of coaching. . . . Amateur Chuck Kocsis and pro skip Alexander have been nominated by a vote of former champions in their fields as the most capable players not previously invited to play in the Augusta Masters golf tournament: . One American Association Ball Club reports it has improved the umpires' quarters by purchasing new chairs—adding pointedly. "Rockers".

It happened during a Spring Football scrimmage at the University of Florida . . . a player failed to get up after a play and the quarterback called across the field, "hey, coach, send us a halfback." . . . CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

BY GEORGE H. CARVER, Sports Editor.

Well, that settled it. And we're sitting on neutral ice so to speak, but if we had our choice this Goldup-Leaf Toronto squad was a bit too finished for our late enemies, the Peterborough Legion.

• • •

Ned Vitarelli and the Nichols played their hearts out. But they lacked the finish as did their team-mates when the chips were down. They lacked the required finish inside the enemy blue line—and that is what counts. And further more a gent by the name of Irons, who filled the gap in the Toronto net was a bulwark of defence for the winners. They should call the guy "Flat" for he "gypped" M'sieu Vitarelli, Nicholls, and Godfrey out of a dozen goals—and brother we're not kidding. We like to give the Peterborough Legion devils their due.

• • •

Hank Goldup was missing last night. Called back to Cleveland so his two-eye-cees told us. But the team did not lack any fire. The game was played before a packed house, the greater part of them from Peterborough, and points nearby. It was slam-bang hockey—typical senior "B" and the big crowd thrilled to every minute of it. It was speed plus, with every player out there battling as though the Stanley Cup was the payoff. The better team won on the night's play, although the score does not indicate that point.

Peterborough brought down a train-load of fans. A lot of others came in cars, others by bus. It was a great night for the ice palace was packed to the rafters. True, some nitwits threw a couple of bottles on the ice which delayed matters but no serious harm was done—and the culprits were promptly escorted to the hoosegow.

• • •

Trenton Flyers went down with their colors flashing defiance at the hockey enemy on Saturday night in Oshawa, when the starry Markham Millionaires defeated them 5-2 in the second game of their best-of-three Intermediate "A" series. The Flyers gave an excellent account of themselves and turned in a fine display against their better-finished opponents. The Millionaires were by far the best-coached squad to show their hockey wares here this winter and it was no disgrace to be beaten by them.

• • •

Flyers were a distinct credit to this district and battled gamely to the last ditch. They carried high the hockey banner of the Royal Canadian Air Force, in the Belleville District Hockey Association, the Intermediate "A" grouping and the subsequent playdowns.

• • •

And now with flood waters inundating various parts of the country, Old Sol rising higher in the sky, and the warm winds of Spring just around the corner, the great winter game enters the home stretch. It should be over this week, or next at the latest, and the boys can hang up their hockey gear for the nonce; dig out the fishing tackle, baseball equipment and other Spring and Summer sports habiliments.

• • •

But while on the subject of hockey, "Bucko" McDonald and his Sundridge Beavers will be here tonight to tackle the Marmora Trent Valley champions. The puck-chasing politician, (he's the federal member for Parry Sound) will lead his team in person, and the tilt should be well worth seeing. The good burghers of Marmora village are naturally agog over the clash and there will be a large exodus from the mid-Hastings community this evening.

• • •

The teams clash in the Intermediate "B" semi-finals and the second game is scheduled for North Bay on Thursday night, according to our Marmora correspondent. That's quite a hop for any team to take, but the rugged Marmorians don't mind a little thing like two or three hundred miles.

Third hockey tidbit of the week will be played here tomorrow night when the Gananoque and Aurora juniors clash in the first game of their junior "C" series. The smooth-working Gan. squad will face its severest test of the season, for this Aurora team which knocked Midland out of the running, is said to be quite some hockey punkins up in their neck-of-the-woods.

• • •

And don't go yet. There might be another hockey brawl here before the dawn breaks on Easter. The Kingston Vics, so we are reliably informed, will play their third and deciding game against Upper Canada College should the Limestone lads defeat the collegians in their second game. The U.C.C'ers hung a 10-4 shellacking on the Max Jackson outfit in their first joust on Saturday, but the Kingston crew is a hard-fighting gang of gallants especially in their won back yard.

Here's a neat but simple way of making yourself a nice piece of the long green. All you have to do is get yourself a major league baseball team, win yourself a pennant and go on to cop the world's series. Just like Cunnel Larry S. McPhail of the Yankee Bombers. The cunnel dropped into the office of the Yanks in St. Petersburg the other day and picked up a check for $193,940, his percentage of the dollar spoils made by the Yanks last season.

Macphail's contract with the Yankees called for a salary of $50,000 and 15 per cent of the profits before taxes. He voluntarily submitted to a revision of the agreement whereby he received 10 per cent of the profits instead of 15. Actually, Larry surrendered only one per cent as the other four would have been taken from him in taxes, anyway. The Yankees earned $1,939,400 in 1947 and it was his 10 per cent slice of this that Larry called at St. Petersburg Sunday to collect from Aaron Lanier, the Yanks' Mr. Money-Bags. Add this to his $50,000 salary and you have a total of almost a quarter of a million, which is what Larry got for producing a world's championship club last season. On top of that, of course, he collected $2,000,000 for his one-third interest when he sold out to his partners, Dan Topping and Del Webb. Macphail's income tax for 1947 was over $600,000. And his father wanted him to be a lawyer!

Soo Greyhounds To Meet Tigers In First Round

(By The Canadian Press)

The path to the all-Ontario senior amateur hockey finals was cleared last night as the Northern Ontario Hockey Association representative was decided. Sault Ste. Marie Greyhounds won the N.O.H.A. senior championship and the right to enter the provincial finals by eking out a 2-1 decision over McIntyre Macmen in the second overtime period of the fifth and deciding game of the best of five finals.

Now the Greyhounds move into the stretch drive for the all-Ontario senior championship against Hamilton Tigers, representing the Ontario Hockey Association.

The tilt was a fitting climax to a great final series, with both teams displaying a hard-checking and fighting brand of hockey, and both goal tenders playing brilliantly to keep the score low.

Defenceman Bill Zuke was the Sault play-off player by scoring the championship-winning goal on a screen shot that McIntye goalie Alex Brownlee didn't see until the puck was in the twine behind him.

The first period went scoreless as play was even and checking hard. At the 14:11-mark of the middle session McIntyre moved into a 1-0 lead as Jackie Ladds scored on a pass from Bummer Doran. Doran, a standout in the series, will join the Sault club in the all-Ontario finals. He drilled a shot across the goal-mouth and Lalls, perched just in front of the crease, slapped the rubber into the net.

Shifty Shep Mayer fired the equalizer for the Greyhounds at 10:24 of the final frame when he took Terry Bicocchi's pass and flipped it over Brownlee.

The first 10 minutes of overtime play also was scoreless. Then at the 2:11-mark of the sudden-death second overtime period, Mayer pushed out a pass from behind the net to Bill Zuke who let go with a driving shot to win the game and the series.

Tommy Ivan Calls Up Reserves To Help Red Wings

Detroit, March 23 — (AP) — Detroit Red Wings' hopes in the Stanley Cup playoffs depend on how well they shake out of a late-season slump when they open the semi-final series against New York Rangers tomorrow night.

The Wings did an abrupt about-face after leading the National Hockey League much of the season, winning only one and tying three of their last eight games.

Seeking corrections, coach Tommy Ivan, who piloted the wings to the runner-up spot in his first N.H.L. season, has called up an array of reserves from the minors. Injection of new players may be enough to snap the regulars back into form.

No change is planned for the prized Abel line of Capt. Sid Abel-Ted Lindsay - Gordon Howe, top line in the loop. This combination scored 63 goals this season, Lindsay counting 33 to head NHL goal scorers, Howe 16 and Abel 14. Lindsay also led the team with 52 points.

Only the centre spots are set on the two other lines. Jim McFadden, who collected 48 points and is regarded as the year's best rookie, will pivot one, and Don Morrison, another first-yearman, will centre the other.

Right wings now available are Pete Horeck, Fern Gauthier and Rod Morrison, and the left wings are Jim Conacher, Enio Sclisizzi, Bep Guidolin and Nelson Podolsky. Fiery Marty Pavelich, who plays any forward position, will see considerable action somewhere, while Pat Lunday is the extra centre.

Jack Stewart and Bill Quackenbush top the club's defence corps, but the latter still is on the doubtful list with a hand injury.

The big problem is Lumley, who faded in the stretch in the goalie duel with Toronto's Walter (Turk) Broda for the Vezina trophy. The team relies heavily on Lumley regaining the form which brought him seven shutouts, tops among the league's netminders.

Montreal March 23 (CP)—The day may not be too far away when Canada's amateur golfers will compete in international matches with Great Britain and the United States teams as a result of the dollar-a-year plan inaugurated by the Royal Canadian Golf Association.

Baz (Montreal Star) O'Meara says the plan means that the governing body of Canadian golf will have a fund at its disposal to pay the expenses of sending team to Britain and across the border for such matches.

"There has always been a feeling in this country," says Baz, "that our amateur golfers for the past 10 years have displayed sufficient strength to compete in international events such as the Walker Cup matches. The only drawback was a lack of funds for such an expensive undertaking."

Up to now, says Baz, the only international event Canadian golfers have taken part in is the Leslie Cup Matches, confined to Eastern Canada players.

Now the R.C.G.A. has come up with the announcement that in future expenses of teams from the eight provincial associations competing in the Willingdon Cup matches will be paid out of the funds of the $1 a year plan provided by members of clubs affiliated with the R.C.G.A.

"This move," says Baz, "is probably the forerunner of Canada's participation in the Walker Cup matches, which would prove a very welcome one."

Carl Liscombe Shows Way In Many Departments

New York, March 23 (AP) — Carl Liscombe of Providence Reds came within a whisker of winning all individual American Hockey League scoring marks in the season that ended Sunday.

The 32-year-old left-winger of the Reds won the scoring crown by collecting 118 points, a professional record. He also took goal-getting honors with 50, Liscombe missed out in the assist department. He tallied 68 assists, second only to Philadelphia Wally Stefaniw's record 72.

By winning the scoring title, Lsicombe will receive $300 from the league.

Cliff Simpson of Indianapolis Capitals finished in second place with 110 points. The Cap centre scored 48 goals and 62 assists. Harvey Fraser and Johnny Chad of Providence finished third and fourth with 97 and 94 points.

Goalie Baz Bastien of Pittsburgh wound up with the best goals-against average, 2.50 and turned in most shutouts, five.

Maple Leafs Bank On Solid Strength 'Down the Centre'

Toronto, March 23 (CP)—Toronto Maple Leafs bank on their solid strength "down the centre" in the Stanley Cup playoffs they open here. Wednesday night against Boston Bruins.

In Syl Apps, Ted Kennedy and Max Bentley, the National Hockey League champions have the strongest centre ice brigade in the league. Behind them is a solid, if not spectacular, defence and the sound goaltending of Walter (Turk) Broda who won the Vezina Trophy with the league's best showing over the 60-game schedule.

Veteran utility forward Nick Metz, at home in almost in any position, and leftwinger Joe Klukay form another reason for Toronto optimism. The hard-checking pair rank as the most effective penalty-killers in the N.H.L.

Managing director Conny Smythe said today his Leafs, seeking their second straight Stanley Cup, may find the Bruins who wound up third in the league race, a tough crew to hurdle in the semi-finals.

"Boston clubs always play a very orthodox brand of hockey and they don't make many mistakes," he said. "They are hard to open up and a hard club to get on top of."

Smythe High on Team

However, Smythe is high on his own team's chances because "our club last year and this year seems to be able to go out and win when they have to win."

Apps, who finished the season at a dazzling pace with six goals in his last four games, heads the most potent Toronto attacking line. Apps himself, finishing off what may be his last season of hockey, tallied 26 goals. Leftwinger Harry Watson got 21 and Ezinicki on the right side 11.

Kennedy led his line with 25 goals, leftwinger Lynn producing 12 and rightwinger Howie Meeker 14. Bentley matched the Apps goal total with 26. Klukay, left wing on Bentley's line had 15. Don Metz, the right wing, was out of action much of the season and scored only four times. He is one of the team's most effective checkers. Nick Metz, the elder of the wheat-farming brothers, also scored four times and Sid Smith the other forward, got six.

Training Camp Notes

New York, March 23. (CP)—Washington Senators, who can't count on pounding out as many hits this season as some other clubs, are planning to make the most out of those they get.

Manager Joe Kuhel has installed at Orlando, Fla., the first sliding pit a Washington Club has seen at Spring training in 13 years. "There's no sense kidding ourselves," says Kuhel. "We are not going to power a lot of runs across the plate. We've got to scramble on the bases to get everything out of what we have."

Leslie O'Connor, vice-president and general manager of Chicago White Sox, is not perturbed by the club's dismal showing in Spring Exhibition games. "We're lucky to get all that bad baseball out of our system before the games start to count," he says. "We still have a lot of time to get in stride for the season opener."

What happens when the regular season starts is an entirely different matter, but so far Johnny Mize is leading Ralph Kiner in home runs.

Mize of New York Giants has smacked two, one against Bob Feller with the bases full, while the only thing the Pittsburgh outfielder has driven out of the park is his shiny new convertible.

The two wound up in a 51-all tie for the 1947 National League home run championship.

Macbeth Trophy For Best Player In the Playoffs

New York, March 23. (AP)—The William J. Macbeth Memorial Trophy will be awarded to the members of New York Rangers considered the "most valuable in the Stanley Cup playoffs which start tomorrow.

The trophy has been returned to competition by the New York Hockey Writers Association and will be awarded each year to the "most valuable Ranger" in the playoffs. In the event the Rangers fail to make a playoff, the trophy will remain idle.

The winner will receive a wrist watch.

The cup originally was a team trophy, presented to the winner of the intra-city series between the Rangers and the defunct New York Americans.

It was first placed in competition in 1937-38 and was awarded annually through the 1941-42 season. The Rangers won the cup every year.

The trophy is in honor of Bill Macbeth, former Herald Tribune sports writer to cover professional hockey in this city. He died while covering a race meeting at Saratoga in 1937.

O'CONNOR TO GET $1,000

New York, March 23 — (AP)—Buddy O'Connor of New York Rangers, will get $1,000 although he finished second in the National Hockey League's scoring race.

O'Connor, who led the league virtually the entire season, was dethroned by Elmer Lach of Montreal Canadiens, Saturday night. Lach finished with 61 points, O'Connor with 60.

Lach will get the $1,000 league prize.

O'Connor will get $500 from the league and another $500 from the Ranger management "because of his unselfish attitude."

Team Winning Finals May Have To Play Doubleheader

(By The Canadian Press)

Alphonse, Therien, president of the Junior Amateur Hockey Association, said yesterday he had been informed the Association's Memorial Cup representatives must be ready to meet Quebec Red Wings March 25, even if the present Montreal Royals-Montreal Nationales series ends on the same date.

Therien said in a statement at Montreal that the order came from Azaire Choquette, president of the Quebec Amateur Hockey Association and produced a "ridiculous situation" whereby either Royals or Nationales might have to play a doubleheader to remain in the Memorial Cup race. Nationales now lead Royals 2-0 in the best-of-five series. The fourth game is scheduled for Tuesday and the fifth, if necessary, Thursday.

Therien described Choquette as "another Avery Brundage", and said that Choquette is "making himself the laughing-stock of Quebec Hockey Circles."

President Ken G. Waters of the Ontario Minor Hockey Association said yesterday the O.M.H.A. honor award will be presented annually to the person or persons making an outstanding contribution to minor hockey. The winner will be decided by the Association executive from recommendations made by club, association and executive members.

The award is a trophy to be held by the winner for one year after which he will receive a replica for permanent possession. No elected officer or executive member of the O.M.H.A. is eligible for the award.

Maurice Podoloff, president of the American Hockey League, yesterday set the playoff dates for his loop. Series A will be a best-of-seven semi-final affair with Providence at Cleveland starting March 23. Series B will be a best-of-three quarter-final with Pittsburgh starting at New Haven, March 23. Series C will also be a best-of-three quarter-final affair starting with Buffalo at Hershey March 23.

Joey Maxim of Cleveland, one of the ranking heavyweight contenders, and Pat Valentino of San Francisco, battled to a 10-round draw at San Francisco last night. Maxim weighed 178 and Valentino 185.

Captain Syl Apps of the N.H.L. Champion Toronto Maple Leafs, who went over the 200-goal mark over the weekend, received the plaudits of Premier Drew and members of the Ontario Legislature yesterday. "He represents the thing we want to develop in sport," the Premier said of Apps who is also Ontario Sports Commissioner. The Premier said Apps had brought to the Commissioner's position an "unsullied reputation for the finest things in sport."

Richard Milchay, 18, candidate for the Hingham, Mass., High School Baseball team, was killed yesterday when struck by a pitched ball during batting practice. The medical examiner said the blow, paralyzed the youth's respiratory organs causing him to smother.

Bill Bell, president of the Canadian Cricket Association, said yesterday at the annual meeting of the Toronto and District Cricket Association that the Canadian touring team, originally scheduled to go overseas in 1949, will not go until 1951. However, the inter-provincial matches, started last year with a view to selecting a team, will be continued this year at Vancouver.

Canada's R.C.A.F. Flyers, Olympic Hockey Champions, played to a 5-5 draw with Dundee Tigers, one of the best clubs in the Scottish Hockey League at Dundee, Scotland last night. It was the first of a six-game series in eight days for the Canadians.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

Many contracts in bridge are unmistakeable by ordinary play. In such cases, if there is any chance at all it is with a squeeze. To decide if a squeeze is possible, you must look for five items.

Look for the five items in the order guided by the word P-r-e-s-s. They are promotion cards, reduction cards, entries, squeezee, squeeze card. Each item is reminded by a letter in press.

Squeezee is the victim to be squeezed. How do you know which of the opponents to squeeze? Sometimes you get a hint that tells you. Sometimes you must guess. Or assume stubbornly.

You are declarer in south at seven no-trump in this deal:

NORTH
♥A J
♦5 4 3 2
♣6 5 4 3 2

WEST
♠K Q 10 9
♥K Q 10 9
♦8 7 6
♣8 7

EAST
♠8 7 6 5 4 3
♥8 7 6 5 4
♦10 9
♣None

♦A K Q J
♣A K Q J 10 9

West leads spade king. No usual play will help take 13 tricks. So, look for squeeze needs. Major jacks are promoteds. Spade ace, four diamonds, five of the clubs are ten promoters. North heart ace is an entry. Your 13er in clubs is the squeeze card.

The squeeze is west. He is the opponent you must try to squeeze. He is the opponent you suspect of holding the outstanding feared cards.

How do you know west is your squeeze victim? His spade king lead says he has the queen. Since he has one of the feared cards, assume he also has the other feared cards; heart king and queen.

If he does not have the other feared cards, nothing you can do about it. Only if he has them can you squeeze. So, assume he has them. Select him as your victim to be squeezed; the squeezee.

With west the intended squeezee, take spade ace, four diamonds, five clubs. This strips west to the bare protection of both majors. Now lead your 13er club as the squeezer.

Whichever suit west unguards, discard from the other in dummy. Nothing west can do to save a trick for his side. He has been given the business.

AT THE CAPITOL — Gene Tierney and Henry Fonda are cast in "The Return of Frank James," which, along with "Jesse James," is presented on the same program of the Capitol Theatre. Tyrone Power is starred with Henry Fonda in the latter film. Both pictures, acclaimed as two of the greatest Westerns ever filmed, are the 20th. Century-Fox encore triumphs.

The Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, March 23 — (AP)—Greer Garson, who is calling herself "The new Garson" these days, will get something new in film schedules. She is scheduled to make three movies this year.

Through most of her career, the Irish actress has averaged one picture a year.

"Now I have to make up for lost time," she said, indicating her last two movies. After "Julia Misbehaves," she will probably do "The Forsyte Saga," and then "The Saintly Miss Peters".—planned after, the "Mrs. Miniver" sequel, which may be made in Britain.

Hollywood Gandhi

J. Carroll Naish told me an interesting project on "The Missing Bandit" set. He has an offer from a British outfit to star in a film biography of Gandhi — if he can shelve 40 pounds. The actor says he'd relish the assignment and is consulting with his doctors to see if he can drop the poundage . . .

Walter Wanger's next film will be "the Bastille," and for a threwd reason. He'll make use of sets made for the expensive Bergman opus, "John of Arc." He also reports he may film "The Ballad and the Source" in Britain.

The Picture Set

But Lancaster was explaining why he broke away from tough guy roles: "I was becoming typed against my will in forceful, lawless parts. I wanted to try something different, but the producers wouldn't listen to me.

"It cost me $50,000 to be able to play a more subdued role in 'All my Sons.' Again I played a weak character in 'Sorry, Wrong Number,' but it took a lot of salesmanship to get the part. I don't believe an actor should wander too far from his basic type, but to stick to it exclusively is jeopardizing his career."

Over Necking

Linda Darnell and Rex Harrison will have some torrid love scenes in "Unfaithfully Yours." A 20th-Fox statistician added up 16 clinches in the script, not to mention various pecks and pats. Said Linda after a clinch: "Amber was never like this" . . .

Frank Sinatra says he'll be doing a lot of dancing with Gene Kelly in their baseball picture. Remember their wonderful routines in "Anchors Aweigh?" The picture is now called "In the Good Old Summertime" but Gene wants it to be "Take Me Out to the Ball Game." He only wrote it.

Russians Boycott Nine Meetings 4-Power Govt.

Berlin, March 23 — (AP)—The Russians continued their boycott of Germany's four-power government today. All seven meetings of Allied control authority agencies scheduled for the day were cancelled by the Soviet chairmain.

The Russians cancelled nine such meetings yesterday. Saturday they angrily walked out of the Allied Control Council itself. The three western powers sat tight, apparently waiting to see if the Russian action means a total and final break in the four-power administration.

One Russian-controlled newspaper, the Berliner Zeitung, indicated that German communists hope soon to replace the control council with their own organizations — a German people's Congress and a people's council.

Anti-communist parties have denounced these agencies as frauds and United Sattes and British occupation authorities have banned them on the same grounds

Other papers in Berlin headlined yesterday's statement by Gen. Lucius D. Clay, United States military governor, that the Americans intend to stay in Berlin despite any pressure to get the western allies out of the city, which is in the heart of the Russian zone.

Four Robberies In One Store By Two Bandits

Los Angeles, March 23—(AP)—Two men walked into W. F. Koehn's shoe store and robbed him of $11. They took him to the rear of the store and tied him up.

They started to leave when in walked Allan Murrell, a salesman. They took him to the rear and tied him up.

The robbers started out again. This time they encountered a custimer, Fred Haber. They held him up and took $109. Haber took the walk and got tied.

Again the robbers started out. They discovered Charles Howard, a delivery man. He was relieved of $50, and although the back room was getting crowded, he joined the rest.

Next time the robbers met no one. They closed the door behind them and walked down the street. Police are still looking for them.

Inkerman Rockets Defeat Ottawa To Win Round

Ottawa, March 23 — (CP)—Inkerman Rockets last night won the Ottawa District Hockey Association junior championship defeating Ottawa Senators 5-3 to win the right to meet the Maritime champions in the first round of the Memorial Cup playoffs.

Outplaying the city champion Senators in the fourth game in a best-of-five series, the Rockets took command from the start and although tied at one stage were never headed. A crowd of 8,000 watched last night's game.

Inkerman's Ed Duncan opened the scoring midway in the initial period and followed with another 15 seconds before the period ended. Norm Armstrong tallied the second counter in the 1st period on assists from Ed and Erwin Duncan.

In the second period Ottawa's Gordie Hudson and Archy Richardson put the Senators in the running with two fast goals. But the Duncan brothers equalled Ottawa's efforts late in the period.

Bill (Buch) Rogers scored the only goal in the final frame on an assist from Toby Defalco.

Besides Ed Duncan's three-goal effort, he was also credited with two assists while brother Erwin tallied one goal and three assists.

Only four penalties were handed out in the close-checking game

Little Benny's Note Book

Ma was looking at the Sunday radio page in the paper yesterday, saying, Now let's see, I think I'll tune in on Shadows of Events and listen to Sigmund Glockhop's impressions of the news.

For Peet sake, why? pop said. That Glockhop fellow is a wind stamp, and if you want to know what that is, it's a cross between a windbag and a rubber stamp, he said, and ma said, But William, he's so sensible, and he speeks with sutch an air of authority.

He speaks with the air inside a toy balloon and he says less to the square werd than any living man before or since, pop said. Yee gods, I can tell you everything he's going to say, and my voice is more musical than his, he said, and ma said, Now William you're just predjudiced. Take the Russian question, for instance. Sigmund Glockhop always has something intristing to say about the Russian question, she said.

All rite, I'll take the Russian question, I'll take it just as far as Sigmund Glockhop ever takes it, pop said.

And he started to talk through his nose like Sigmund Glockhop, saying, And now, friends, let us take a look at Russia, at least as far as the iron curtain will permit. I'm afraid our relations with the Soviet Government are none too good, my friends. But one thing I can assure you, unless they get better, they'll get worse, unless of course there is no immediate change of any kind in the situation. And that, my friends, is today's picture of our relations with Russia.

Why William, that's wonderful, I could of sworn it was Sigmund Glockhop, ma said. With a talent like that, you awt to be on the air, she said, and pop said, Yee gods, I awt to be IN the air. What do you say to a brisk and yet fairly leisurely walk, Benny? he said.

Me saying Yes.

HANDFUL OF STARS

By Margaret Gorman Nichols

After they had danced again, they did not speak of Jeff. Stephen felt that the mention of him put Lyle on the defensive. Lyle felt that Stephen withdrew his friendship when the subject of Jeff came up.

It had stopped raining when they came out and walked to the car. He drove slowly to the apartment house, wanting to keep her with him as long as he could, knowing that when she left him he would get that feeling of utter loneliness again that made him want to fight for her.

Outside the apartment, she lifted her face. "It's been a lovely evening Stephen." There would probably never be another like it....

He said, "Good night, Lyle." Not good night, really, my sweet Lyle, but good-bye....

The next day at luncheon she told Jeff about Suzanne's wedding and where she and Stephen had dined and danced.

"Steve always likes to show off," Jeff said gloomily.

"But he didn't...."

His jaw tightened. He spoke sharply. "I know you couldn't very well get out of yesterday but I don't want you to go out with him again!" Then he said, "I'm sorry. I'm not very good company . I — I don't feel very well."

"Are you ill, Jeff?"

"I'm getting a cold. I've been sneezing all morning."

* * *

Lyle missed Suzanne keenly but Lois Penniman, a small, dynamic, dark-haired woman gave promises of having many of the characteristics that had made Suzanne liked by every one. She did not know that Suzanne had said to Lois, "Be helpful to Lyle Marsh, Lois. Stephen and I are both interested in her. She's going to marry Jeff Conway, by the way." And Lois had asked wearily, "Is Jeff engaged—again?"

Two days later Jeffs cold was worse and when Lyle left him after they had lunch together she told him not to go back to his office but to go home.

That evening Bonnie said, "Mrs. Ryan said Michael was here today. What do you suppose he wants, Lyle? Mrs. Ryan sees too many movies. She thinks Michael wants to kidnap his own son. She was crying about it when I came in."

Lyle took a deep tired breath, feeling problems crowding in upon her like walls moving closer. Jeff was ill, Mrs. Nash was asking for another drawing, she missed Suzanne, Jeff had terminated not only his but her friendship with Stephen, and Bonnie was troubled and perplexed at Michael's daytime visits to the apartment. And the ever-present ugly thought during these days was that Jeff had not returned the bank book and that if she should need money for an emergency, she would have to go to him and ask for it and he would have to tell her that there was no money in their joint account that he had spent not only what they had had on deposit before he lost his job but the money she had been giving to him regularly each week since October to deposit.

Bonnie asked desperately, "Why doesn't Michael do something, say something! We can't go on indefinitely like this. I'm not afraid of his taking Mike away. Helene Kent wouldn't want him." She looked at Lyle, seeing that she was thinner. "You look tired, dear."

"I am. But I've got to get some work done before Jeff comes—if he comes. He's sick."

At nine o'clock when Jeff wasn't there, Lyle called him.

He said hoarsely and weakly, "I can't get up."

"Have you had a doctor?" she asked, and when he said he had not, she said, "I'll ask Mrs. Ryan to stay. Bonnie and I will come to see you. I'll call a doctor, Jeff." And thought as she replaced the telephone that the emergency she had feared had come.

The young physician who attended little Mike was with Jeff when Bonnie and Lyle reached Jeff's apartment.

"Grippe," he said, answering Lyle's troubled face. "He's pretty sick. I'll be back in the morning. See that he gets his medicine regularly through the night."

When he left, they went in the bedroom and Lyle lay her hand on Jeff's hot forehead. He opened his eyes, smiled feebly, and didn't say anything.

"We can't leave him," Bonnie said. "I'll stay with you all night. But what are you going to do, Lyle? He'll have to have a nurse and his family should be notified."

And Lyle was thinking that doctors and nurses have to be paid. The bank book was here, probably in his coat on the back of the chair. But she could not bear to look at it.

Bonnie said, "You must do something. Jeff is very sick, dear."

"Yes, I know."

She felt helpless and—stopped. Then she thought of Stephen. But she couldn't go to him again about Jeff! There must be some limit to his patience and generosity. She thought, "Stephen is the only person in New York to whom I can go tonight. He's the only person who can tell me what to do. But why should he? Why should he?"

She moistened her lips. Bonnie was looking at her appealingly. Jeff was too sick to care....

"I'm going to Stephen, Bonnie. He can tell me if I should call Jeff's mother. He'll know what to do. I'm going to him now."

She cried a little in the taxi, cried because Jeff whom she loved was ill, and because she must turn to the man, once Jeff's best friend, whom he now hated.

Stephen opened the door of his apartment, saw her and frowned.

"Why, Lyle! Come in." How tired and white she looked! Like a whipped child who'd been turned out and who'd come to him for refuge. When she was inside, he said vently, "I'd like to think you were paying a friendly call. But I know you aren't. What can I do for you?"

"Then you know there is something I want you to do for me." Her eyes, gray beneath the upturned brown felt hat, looked up at him. They were eyes recently washed with tears, he knew. The lashes were still wet. "Jeff is sick, Stephen. He can't stay alone and I can't stay with him. Bonnie is with him now. Shall I call his mother?" Her words were running together.... "He'll probably lose his job and I—I don't know what to do."

He nodded, understanding her and her feelings more than she realized. Again he was a shoulder to cry upon or go to sleep upon or lean upon. He was the practical, steady mind that always found a solution. He thought, "Where are Jeff's other friends tonight? The people who get him drunk because he's such good company when he's drunk." And Lyle.... There was no rapture in her face tonight. All the magic, all the beauty in her love was gone. Blind loyalty, Stephen thought, holds her. But that blind loyalty would take her into marriage with Jeff....

He said, "I don't suggest you tell his mother unless he gets worse. Mrs. Conway has a bad heart. I know an excellent male nurse who stuck a thermometer in my mouth for a month last winter." He went to the telephone, dialed a number, looked back at Lyle and said, "Bill Kennedy is great at reading detective stories while you're convalescing. I hope he isn't out on a case." Into the telephone he said, "Bill? This is Stephen Tennant. No, I'm not ill. But a friend of mine is." He told Jeff's name and address. "Go over as soon as you can and look after him." And added after a moment, "I'll take care of that."

Of paying him, Lyle thought.

IN NEWS SPOTLIGHT

It was announced in Prague that Vladimir Clementis (above), Communist deputy foreign minister of Czechoslovakia under the late Jan Masaryk, has been appointed foreign minister. The offices of foreign minister and secretary of state are being combined and Clementis will fill both posts. Trying on a new dress which she will include in her wardrobe on a trip to London is Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt (right) widow of the late F.D.R. It is bouffant style in black lace with high rounded neckline and a yoke of black lace over white net. The former first lady is going to England to attend the unveiling of a statue of her late husband.

Stephen came back and took her by the shoulder. "Cheer up. Bill is going over at once."

"I'm not going to let you pay for it," Lyle said. "I can't let you do that, Stephen."

"You must let me. There is nothing else you can do."

Nothing else she could do....

And Stephen was afraid of words that wanted to cry out, "Don't you know there isn't anything I wouldn't do for you because I'm so much in love with you?" But he said, "Bill will be a better nurse if you'll keep him supplied with detective story magazines and murder mysteries, the bloodier the better."

"I'll remember."

"Let me know how he is in the morning."

Bonnie and Bill Kennedy, a muscular young man with curly red hair, a pleasant face and easy smile, were talking when Lyle returned to Jeff's apartment. Leaving Bill with instructions, she went home with Bonnie. Twice during the night she called and Bill said that Jeff was still asleep.

It was the beginning of a week of sleeplessness, anxiety, and of being with Jeff at every opportunity. But after a week he emerged from an unusually severe case of grippe weak and white.

Lyle left the store promptly with a bouquet of red roses in her hand. Bill had said over the phone that Jeff was sitting up today. For a week she had merely looked at him and each time she had been to see him he had been asleep.

Jeff, wearing a blue dressing gown, was sitting in the big chair in the living room when Lyle came in and went to him and kissed his forehead.

"Hello, darling." Smiling at him but thinking how bad he looked....

Bill grinned. "More flowers! I'll have to put these in a milk bottle!"

He went to the kitchen with the flowers and Lyle pulled up a footstool and sat close to Jeff.

"How do you feel?"

He smiled faintly and said, "My legs won't hold me up. I told Bill they would but they collapsed when I tried to stand up." His dark eyes were calm and tender. "You've been awfully swell to me, Lyle."

"I love you."

He said, "I don't remember much. Bill tells me I've been sick a week. He's great. And you know, I think I've seen him some place before. Can't remember where." And a little later he said, "This has done me up pretty badly, Lyle. The doctor said I ought to get away for a while where it's warm. Miami preferably. I'll probably lose my job anyway and I could use the money in our joint account if you...."

She opened her eyes wide and looked at him. He had not spent their money! And she told herself again that it had not been his spending it that she cared about but his guilty look and his refusal to tell her!

"Of course I don't mind, Jeff. Our money, didn't we say? It's just what you need —, going to Miami."

He said, "I've been meaning to tell you this. I spent part of the money when I was out of work."

"That doesn't matter. You had to live."

"I'll probably lose my job."

"You'll find another. You didn't like it there anyway. And, Jeff, I've a little money that will pay the doctor and Bill. You'll need everything in the bank to take you to Florida." Stephen had told her to send the bills to him. She hated the lie she had told Jeff—about having money. But it was a lie to keep him happy. No matter what it cost her in pride, he had to go away happy. He had to get well.

He grinned. "You're wonderful, Lyle."

Four days later she turned to him in the station.

"You'll have a beautiful sunburn when you get back, Jeff. You look better already at the idea of going. Please don't forget to look up my mother. Good-bye, darling."

His kiss lingered. Standing still and straight, she watched him as he walked away through the gate, hoping he'd glance back once and throw a kiss or smile. But he did not glance back. Was he so eager to be going?

She felt his kiss still on her mouth when she came out of the station into the winter sunshine.

There was affectionate letters from Jeff the first week he was at Miami Beach. His room faced the ocean and already, he wrote, he felt stronger. The warm-hearted, merry Jeff of last October wrote those letters. Were the gray days over, Lyle wondered. You lived through gray days and afterward you wondered how you had endured them. And so it was not of the discouraged, sarcastic, easily incensed Jeff she thought but of the young man with whom she had fallen so impetuously in love the second time she saw him. That Jeff who said sweet, ardent things, whose good-night kiss she could still feel on her lips in the morning, that Jeff who had made her feel as if she had touched the stars.

She knew that her work was better and that she was looking better than she had in weeks. And she liked dynamic little Lois Penniman. If any weight tugged at her heart during the week that followed Jeff's departure it was a small one and it was because she missed Jeff so. But he would come back! His job was waiting. By telephone Stephen assured her of that. Stephen again! And she and Jeff would be married in the autumn, probably. Oh yes, the gray days were gone. Gone for her but not for Bonnie.

She said to Bonnie, "I can see Jeff on the beach down there! I helped him pack. He has brown bathing trunks and he's probably the same color by now. He hasn't said he's been to see my mother. He probably thinks she's old. But she isn't, you know. The way it's worked out, she won't be getting a son-in-law she knows nothing about."

"Not jealous of the girls in Miami?" Bonnie asked.

Lyle lowered her eyes. Each time Jeff had gone away, something had happened to make her miserably unhappy. Each time a little of the polish had worn off her idol....his drinking in Chicago that had cost him his job.. Christmas at home when he had been with Troy....

"THIS IS THE NEWS I'VE BEEN WAITING FOR"

Yes, this is the news all Belleville and district farmers have been waiting to hear. Quality balanced feeds are now available at "direct from manufacturer to you" prices. When you buy your first bag of

"RIGHTWAY" FEED

You can be assured that you are buying results.

OF COURSE YOU KNOW THAT—all balanced feeds contain Vitamins and "Trace Elements", but DO YOU KNOW THAT—in order to get the maximum efficiency out of any Feed—to get the full nutritional value from the various ingredients in that Feed—ALL the essential "Trace Elements" must be included in the Feed formula.

We guarantee that "RIGHTWAY" FEEDS do contain all of the known essential "Trace Elements" and in sufficient amounts to assure your Poultry and Livestock quick, safe growth and full production.

Let scientific discoveries increase your profits. It has been proven that essential vitamins deteriorate in value with age. When you buy "RIGHTWAY" FEEDS you buy a Feed which is manufactured fresh daily and you are thus assured that your stock is getting vitamins at their full value.

START TODAY — FEED "RIGHTWAY"

ALL "RIGHTWAY" POULTRY FEEDS

Contains Fortified Feeding Oils and Iron Oxide so essential for a strong healthy pig.

"RIGHTWAY" HOG GROWER
"RIGHTWAY" HOG FINISHER

Heads of Montreal Firm Testify On Butter Profits

Ottawa, March 23—(CP)—Examination into "unusual" profits made by a firm of butter dealers on the recent price rise in butter continued today before the Commons Price Committee.

In its second week of inquiry into causes of the butter-price rise, the committee scrutinized operations of Lovell and Christmas (Canada), Ltd., of Montreal, which in the last year made about six times as much money on butter as it did in all of the previous nine years.

While two company executives attributed this profit to an unforeseen market rise created by the law of supply and demand, Health Minister Paul Martin, committee chairman, suggested to them yesterday they could have dropped their selling prices to take a more moderate profit.

Not Decisive Factor

The two witnesses — President John Freeman and Secretary-Treasurer Gordon McLean—said such action by their company alone would not have affected the general market price. The firm, they said, handled about two per cent of Canadian butter transactions — not enough to influence the market heavily.

In response to Mr. Martin's suggestion that "there was nothing to prevent you selling at a lower price and making a profit," Mr. Freeman said that if his company had given up its profit, it merely would have been "taken up by someone else."

The Health Minister observed that it would be "very difficult to make a reasonable man understand why it would not have been very easy to reduce the price."

Profit Figures

The company witnesses testified their company had made $113,000 in the 11 months up to Feb. 28 and expected to make $168,000 in the fiscal year ending March 31. This compared with a loss of $10,000 in the previous fiscal year and an over-all profit of about $22,000 on the 1939-47 years.

However, they said the period of high butter profits had "definitely" come to an end with the reimposition of price control on that product in January.

The company president said industry representatives had taken the initiative in proposing the ceiling be replaced.

Seek Nesting Grounds Of Whooping Crane

Washington, March 23 (AP)—Two American biologists are going to search the Arctic coast this Summer for the nesting ground of the whooping crane.

After two years of observing the 37 known survivors of the species in their Texas wintering area, the scientist say they have a clue as to the nesting region.

But they are keeping the location a secret so that hunters or amateur ornihologists can not go into the area and disturb the birds.

Their announced destination is merely the northern rim of Canada's Northwest Territories—a vast wilderness area.

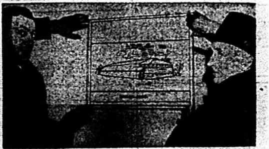
Nobleton, a police village of 175 citizens in northern York County, wants a $20,000 rink, already has $16,000 on hand. Last night, a supper and dance in the community hall raised $500 for the project. Mrs. William Hoover, whose husband is a cousin of Herbert Hoover, former U. S. President, was marshal of these fine pies for the supper.



Murray Kaake (left) and Milton Wellar display an architect's drawing of the proposed rink. Plan calls for 30,000-gallon reservoir to supply water for flooding.

Employee Saved From Death

Toronto, March 23 (CP)—Arthur Robson, 46-year-old distillery employee, was saved from possible flaming death today when fellow workmen ripped away part of the furnace and hopper before he slipped into the furnace after falling into a coal chute.

Buried for an hour and 10 minutes Robson was able to walk to the ambulance which took him to hospital.

Robson was prying loose coal in a conveyor belt which fed a downtown distillery furnace when he tumbled head first into the mouth of the chute.

"All I could see were the soles of his shoes sticking out of the coal," said a fellow worker.

Plant employees tried to free Robson with hands and shovels but the coal slid back faster than they could move it off him.

While two men dug at the mouth of the chute on the second floor police worked desperately to remove a section of tubing near the furnace mouth. Finally a workman freed a section of the chute and stuck his head in.

"I'm here," said a muffled voice from the conveyor.

"Are you all right?"

"Yes, I'm keeping my eyes shut," was Robson's answer.

Hospital attendants said his condition was "fair."

TWO SISTERS DIE

Pittsburgh, March 23 (AP)—Two spinster sisters, one 78 and the other 75, died within 15 hours of each other while sitting in the same rocking chair. The elder, Emily Tate, died yesterday of pneumonia while her sister, Mathilda, nursed her. A deputy coroner calling at the home later for funeral data, found Mathilda slumped in the chair.

Farmers Look For Early Spring

Toronto, March 23 — (CP) — Most farm fields are bare and farmers are looking forward to an early spring, it was indicated in the weekly crop report issued today by the Ontario Department of Agriculture. There is still a good depth of snow in some Northern Ontario centres, however, and about five inches fell last week in Timiskaming county.

Fall and winter wheat appears to have come through the winter in good condition. Southern Ontario farmers are just beginning to tap maples for syrup but with the exception of Leeds county in Eastern Ontario there has been little or no run.

702 Dutch Farmers Arrive in Canada

Halifax, March 23 — (CP) — Seven hundred and two Dutch farmers, first of 10,000 to come to Canada this year, landed here late last night from the Kota Inten, chartered by The Netherlands government.

Shivering in the cold, the group sang The Netherlands national hymn — Wilhelmus Wen Nassauiver — and cheered their new homeland.

The Dutch settlers, most of whom were in large family groups, will settle on farms across the Dominion.

George Reuvekamp, his wife and 11 children are en route to Renfrew, Ont., where they hope to grow tulips.

Plevna Boy Dies in Fire

Kingston, March 23 — (CP) — Reports reaching Kingston from Plevna, rural community 60 miles northwest of here, indicated today that Bobby Ohlmann, four-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Ohlmann, died in a fire at his home eight miles north of Plevna last night.

The body had not been found early today.

Another child, Douglas, three, was seriously burned about the face, neck and arms and was brought to hospital here. Two other children escaped unharmed.

Neighbors are assisting the parents who lost all their possessions in the fire.

Bloomfield Votes $10,000 to Buy Fire Equipment

Picton, (Special.) —Ratepayers of the village of Bloomfield on Monday voted in favor of a by-law to provide for $10,000 in fire fighting equipment. The vote was 86 for and 21 against. Voters also expressed their desire regarding inauguration of garbage collection at an estimated cost of $800 per year. The vote was 61 for and 53 against.

The village's present fire-fighting apparatus is limited to chemical tanks which have proved inadequate. Picton's equipment is not permitted to leave the town limits and a serious fire would endanger the whole village. Council, headed by Reeve H. R. MacDonald, decided to let the ratepayers decide the matter.

U.S. German Zone Kept Indefinitely Under the Army

Puts Russia on Notice, States Means Business

Washington, March 24. (AP)—The decision to keep the United States zone of Germany under army control indefinitely has put Russia on fresh notice that the United States means business in its stop-communism drive.

The move was generally regarded here as a step to strengthen one of the mose important sections of the lines the United States wants to hold against Soviet expansion in Europe.

The White House announced late yesterday that plans to place a civilian governor over the American zone of Germany on July 1 had been abandoned.

"Following a review of the present situation," the announcement said, "it has been decided that it would be inadvisable to make any changes in our present administrative arrangements for Germany."

The statement declared that Gen. Lucius D. Clay "remains as military governor and as commander-in-chief of the United States forces in Europe."

These forces—estimated at 100,000—presently occupy the American zone in Germany, the American zone in Austria, and share with Britain the occupation of Trieste.

Psychological Value

Their psychological value as a symbol to non-Communist countries of the presence of American military power on the continent has always been rated high by State Secretary Marshall and his advisers.

Diplomatic officials privately contend that the presence of these forces in many ways is a better guarantee to Western Europe of American military support than a formal treaty would be. Nevertheless the possibility of having the United States join in a mutual defence pact with the other western powers is under consideration.

Militarily, the weakest sections of the line confronting Russian Europe are its northern and southern ends—the Scandinavian countries and Italy. Hence much of present American foreign policy is designed to strengthen those two sections by political means.

The White House announcement on Germany was obviously part of the same fundamental American policy which last Saturday led the United States government to join with Britain and France in proposing the return of Trieste to Italy.

DREW'S PROGRAM UPHELD IN HOUSE BY WIDE MARGIN

Three Opposition Amendments to the Throne Speech Defeated

Toronto, March 24 — (CP) — The legislative program of Premier Drew was upheld in the Ontario House yesterday when three opposition amendments to the Throne speech were defeatd by wide majorities, and the speech itself was supported by an equally wide margin.

The opposition groups lined up with some solidarity on the Liberal and Labor - Progressive amendments but only the two L.P.P. members were on the supporting side when vote on the C. C. F. amendment was called. The result was 72 to 8 against it.

The Liberal amendment was defeated 61 to 19 and the L. P. P. expression was lost 63 to 17.

A highlight of the voting was the support given by Joseph Meinzinger, heretofore an Independent Liberal,-Labor to Progressive Conservative forces. The member for Waterloo North foresook the opposition to vote with the government all four times.

The last one was in passing the throne speech. The vote was 61 to 19.

Another important move was introduction of a bill to give the province power to continue the amusement tax when the Dominion vacates that field. The money will go toward public hospitals in Ontario.

Many Bills Read

One government bill and four private bills were read for the first time. The House gave third reading to 12 private and 11 government measures, and gave committee approval to the community halls, Crown lands and athletic control acts.

Condemnation of the "government and the Hydro-Electric Power Commission" was expressed in the defeated Liberal amendment which charged failure to provide adequate reserves of electric power."

Former R.C.A.F. Instructor Killed In Plane Crash

Hamilton, March 24 — (CP) — Ralph E. (Cash) North, 35, former R.C.A.F. instructor and a partner in Peninsular Air Services was fatally injured late yesterday when a light plane in which he was flying alone crashed into Hamilton Mountain.

North died a few minutes after he was admitted to hospital. He was removed from the wreckage by city police and ambulance attendants who struggled up the wooded mountainside to the spot.

The aircraft circled low over the city for about 10 minutes before the crash. Shortly after the plane hit the mountain, more than 1,000 people converged on the area to view the wreckage.

North's widow and four children survive.

Weather Synopsis

Toronto March 24 (CP)—Synopsis: Skies are clear throughout most of Ontario this morning. Colder air is plunging southward over northwestern Ontario and will cover the entire province by tonight. On Thursday morning, temperatures over the White River region will be well below zero while over the lower lakes they will be around ten above. Thursday will remain clear throughout the entire province.

COMMONS CLEARS DESK FOR 10-DAY EASTER RECESS

Two Important Bills Go Through Key Stages

Ottawa, March 24 (CP)— The Commons, clearing its decks for a 10-day Easter recess, moved two important government measures through key stages yesterday.

The House is expected to adjourn today until April 5 for its first holiday of length since it returned from Christmas recess late in January. In a rambling sitting, it:

1. Voted 122 to 45 to give second reading and later, without division, gave final reading to a bill to extend to March 31, 1949, the government's powers to bulk-purchase farm products to fill food contracts with Britain. They were negotiated at the turn of the year.

2. Completed long, hectic, occasionally bitter study of a resolution implementing a 25-percent excise tax on a wide range of goods as part of the dollar-saving program. The enabling bill got first reading. It will be up for second reading today.

3. Heard M. J. Coldwell, C. C. F. Leader, criticize a $202,000 cut in appropriations for the National Film Board, and G. K. Fraser, (PC-Peterborough West) contend it was time the Board was "cleaned up."

Study All Phases

4. Listened to T. J. Bentley (CCF-Swift Current) urge that "some form of continuing commission" study all phases of Canadian farming to seek an income tax form to replace the present "impractical" one.

The Commons was in the midst of consideration of $80,000,000 worth of supplementary estimates for the current fiscal year at night adjournment.

Cold Air Wave From Northwest To Hit Ontario

Toronto, March 24 — (CP)— Dropping temperatures were expected here tonight and throughout the lower lake region as weather men foresaw masses of cold air sweeping over the province from the far northwest.

Thermometers would drop to 10 above tonight and would not rise above 22 degrees on Thursday.

Many Married Polish Women Entering Canada as Single, Says Immigrant

Campbellton, N.B, March 24. (CP)—A tiny Polish immigrant, who herself entered Canada claiming single status although married, today said that many had done the same but had come to the Dominion by giving false information.

Her statement came as an investigation was under way into the departure of two refugee workers at the Soldiers' hospital here for Ontario.

Brown-haired Vita Beorovit admitted she had claimed single status to enter Canada although she was married to a Yugoslav army veteran.

"There were many who said they were single to come," she said.

"We were married about a year ago. I couldn't stay in Europe any longer.

"I told them I was single: I had no children. My bargain was to work a year and I shall do so. The other girls want to be near relatives but I am alone. I am happy here."

Mrs. Beorovit was one of three girls placed at the hospital here about two months ago. The other two hospital officials said, went to Ontario and Mrs. Beorovit said they were working near Kitchener.

One said: "The girls appeared to know everything as soon as they arrived. Letters from Canadian and American spots started coming in immediately. There must be a regular grapevine with Kitchener as the centre.

"If it keeps coming in I will have to get a secretary."

Mrs. Beorovit also said her husband, a 38-year-old lieutenant who fought with the Chetniks under the late General Mihailovitch, had left Belgium, March 7, for Canada. She did not say how he was travelling.

Speaking English slowly but distinctly she said she had met her husband in one of the displaced persons camps.

A. L. Fournier, manager of the Unemployment Insurance Commission here, said a report on the flight of the two girls had been forwarded to Ottawa. He aqdmitted their whereabouts in Ontario had been discovered but did not say whether efforts would be made to have them returned to Campbellton.

It was not known if girls employed in other New Brunswick centres had also left jobs without permission.

When brought from Europe they had agreed to stay at their work for one year.

'Get off the Fence' On Palestine Question Canada Tells Powers

Lake Success, March 24 (CP)—Canada today told the great powers in effect to "get off the fence" on the question of the future of Palestine.

Warning that "bitter civil war" is imminent in the strife-torn Holy Land unless the United Nations decides upon a concrete plan for bringing peace to that middle east country, Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton told the Security Council:

"The Canadian delegation is not at the present stage prepared to declare itself in favor of one course of action rather than another until they have seen some evidence that there is a meeting of minds on the part of the countries most directly concerned in what the best course of action should be."

Much of the General's lengthy statement was devoted to a review of the history of the U.N. plan for partition of Palestine, approved by the General Assembly last Nov. 29. Before the council is a recommendation of the U.N. Palestine commission that an international army be set up to carry out partition after Britain gives up her mandate May 15.

Canada Not Committed

Following unsuccessful talks by the United States, Russia, France and China seeking a solution of the problem, the United States last week suggested that instead of partition, a temporary U. N. trusteeship be formed to govern the Holy Land. Gen. McNaughton did not commit Canada either for or against the American proposal.

Noting the "brief but vigorous effort" which has been made in the United Nations since last November to give effect to the partition plan and that it had been proposed that "this effort should be suspended, at least temporarily," McNaughton added:

"The experience of the commission has demonstrated, I think, that major tasks in the United Nations involving heavy responsibility should not be entrusted to commissions consisting entirely of small powers, especially if the larger powers are not in agreement that these tasks should be carried out.

"It is to be hoped, therefore, that if new plans for Palestine are to be considered, the responsibility for them will be assumed more directly by the powers which have major interest in that area."

Interpreted as Criticism

Gen. McNaughton's statement was interpreted as criticism of the great powers' vacillation on the most controversial issue yet to face the United Nations.

Farris El Khoury of Syria spoke briefly at the start of the session hitting anew, on behalf of the Arab states, and at the partition plan in general.

United Nations action on Palestine was stalled by a last-minute decision of the United States to withhold its proposal for a special U. N. assembly.

The U. N. Security Council had been called with expectations of acting on a United States resolution which had been promised by Warren R. Austin last Friday. Without explanation, however, Austin dropped his plans to submit a proposal today. The council found itself with no specific resolution to debate.

A spokesman said last night that Warren R. Austin, chief U.S. delegate, would propose today that the United Nations Security Council call the session.

Shortly before the council met, however, the American delegation announced no resolution would be introduced today. There was no explanation for the shift in plans.

Today's council meeting was called primarily to receive and consider the expected United States proposals, which Austin announced Friday would be ready by this morning.

Disappearance of Two Swedish Crews Raises Charge of 'Piracy'

By THOMAS HARRIS

Stockholm, March 24 (Reuters)—The unexplained disappearance of the crews of two Swedish cargo vessels in the Baltic have led to accusations of "piracy" against Russia and Poland in the Swedish Press.

Seamen are becoming increasingly nervous of Polish ports which, they say, are "unsafe".

Both vessels—the Kinnekulle and the Iwan—left Stolpmuende, Poland, Feb. 18 bound for Sweden. The Kinnekulle was later found near the Danish Island of Bornholm abandoned by her crew. There were signs of an explosion in the engine room but the machinery itself was intact and the vessel seaworthy.

The Ivan has not been traced but a waterlogged lifeboat, a lifebelt and pieces of wreckage bearing her name suggest she has foundered.

Sweden's right-wing and centre press is suggesting that Russian naval units may have "captured" the two vessels and abducted their crews.

Two members of the Ivan's crew were Estonians who fled to Sweden when their country was incorporated into the Soviet Union in 1940.

On the Kinnekulle, a woman's shoes and underclothing of Polish origin found in the crew's quarters are believed here to indicate that a Polish refugee was on board.

Russia has shown increased interest recently in regaining any of her subjects who flee aboard.

So far, the Swedish Foreign Office has refused to comment on these accusations of what the People's Party paper Aftonbladet describes as "piracy in the Baltic". It has, however instructed the embassies in Moscow and Warsaw and the consulate in Gdynia to ascertain whether any Swedish seamen have been picked up by Russian or Polish vessels.

The Swedish Foreign office is also investigating reports in the Conservative newspaper Svenska Dagbladet that Stolpmuende Harbor was cordoned off and Russian guards posted on the Iwan's decks on the day she sailed. These reports are based on the testimony of the crew of other Swedish ships which were berthed at Stolpmuende at the same time.

Audience Gives L.P.P. Officials Hot Reception

Regina, March 24 —(CP)—Tim Buck, national leader of the Labor Progressive party, failed to make an appearance last night to address a public meeting at which two local party officials were jeered down by high school students and veterans.

The crowd began to gather in the meeting place at the city hall auditorium several hours before Buck was scheduled to speak. Jeers and cat-calls and a volley of missiles, including rotten eggs, deluged the speaker's platform when one of the two L.P.P. officials sought to address the audience.

W. C. Beeching, one of the officials, began his announcement "We regret to announce that because of efforts of a certain group to obstruct this meeting . . ." At this point he was drowned out by the shouts of the crowd. He tried again a moment later, saying "A lot of people came here to listen to Tim Buck and a lot of people came here to stop this meeting . . ."

When the roar broke loose again, the two L.P.P. men left the stand.

Pledges Support Of Rigid Sanitation In Restaurants

Toronto, March 24 —(CP)— N. B. Kirby, a director of the Canadian Restaurant Association, yesterday pledged association support to municipal, provincial and federal health authorities to maintain rigid sanitary regulations in restaurants. "We cannot afford to allow a few parasites to drag down the industry," he said.

JEWS TO SET UP GOVT. IN HOLY LAND ON MAY 16

Not Satisfied With U.N. Decision on Palestine

Jerusalem, March 24 — (AP)—A provisional Jewish government will be set up in the Holy Land May 16, representatives of Palestine's 600,000 Jews announced last night. Britain will give up her mandate in the Holy Land May 15.

Members of the Jewish agency and the Jewish National Council (Vaad Leumi) announced in Tel Aviv:

"The Jewish agency and Vaad Leumi have learned with regret and astonishment of the attitude adopted by the United States representatives on the Security Council concerning the United Nations' decisions on Palestine The Jewish agency and Vaad Leumi declare that:

"1. The Jewish people and Yishuv (Jewish people of Palestine homeland) will oppose any proposal designed to prevent or postpone establishment of a Jewish state.

"2. We categorically reject any plan to set up a trusteeship regime for Palestine, even for a short period of time. A trusteeship would necessarily entail denial of the Jewish right to national independence. It would leave Palestine under a foreign military regime.

"3. The failure and disintegration of the mandatory administration, continuation of which was unanimously rejected by the United Nations, necessitates early arrival in Palestine of the U. N Commission (on partition). The Jewish provisional council of government should be recognized without delay by the U. N. Commission so that authority may be transferred to it as envisaged in U. N. decisions.

"4. Upon termination of the mandatory administration — and not later than May 16 — a provisional Jewish government will commence to function in co-operation with the representatives of the U. N. then in Palestine. In the meantime we shall do our utmost to minimize the chaos created by the present government and we shall maintain so far as lies in our power the public services neglected by it.

"5. The Jewish people extend the hand of peace to the Arab people. The Jewish state will be glad to co-operate with neighboring Arab states and to enter into permanent treaty relations with them, to strengthen world peace and advance the development of all countries of the Near East."

The Jewish agency is the administrative group elected by the World Jewish Congress, and the National Council is the administrative body of the National Assembly. The Assembly is elected by Palestine Jews.

The Jews already have the nucleus of a provisional government, and in their Hagana (Jewish militia) they have a 25,000-man army which could enforce its decisions.

In London, the House of Commons last night passed a bill which calls for Britain to drop its Holy Land mandate May 15. The bill

British Artillery Put on Alert For Emergency Duty

Three Main Palestine Cities Are Virtual Battlegrounds

Jerusalem, March 24 (AP) — Arab irregulars attacked a fortress-like Jewish stronghold six miles north of Jerusalem today, and 11 Jews were known to have been slain.

British troops moved out of barracks here toward the Jewish settlement of Neve Yaccov, where army sources said about 700 Arabs are attacking. British artillery units were put on the alert for duty.

Two armored cars en route to relieve Neve Yaccov have been immobilized by Arab fire, Palestine police reported.

Neve Yacoov is the only Jewish settlement between Jerusalem and Ramallah, headquarters of Abdul Kader Husseini's Arab irregulars. It is completely occupied by Hagana, the Jewish militia. Women and children were removed weeks ago.

The settlement is surrounded by barbed wire and commanded by a two-storey concrete pillbox fortress. It has been the scene of a number of skirmishes between Hagana defenders and Arab raiders. The settlement situated on a high hill, commands the main highway from Jerusalem to the Arab strongholds of Ramallah, Nablus and Jenin.

Losing Their Fight

British security forces, thinned by gradual withdrawal of troops, appear to be losing their fight to prevent chaos in Palestine and three principal cities—Jerusalem, Haifa and Tel Aviv—are virtually battlegrounds.

Sheik Hassan Bey Salameh, the man assigned by the Arabs to conquer all-Jewish Tel Aviv, has declared he is ready to do it as soon as the British forces leave. He has headquarters in all-Arab Jaffa, neighboring Tel Aviv.

Rely on Hagana

The Jews rely largely on Hagana, a 25,000-man army.

Traffic policemen and an immigration department employee in Jerusalem were injured by gunfire during an Arab-Jewish duel. An armored car and two British constables on a foot patrol exchanged fire with Arabs.

A platoon of British troops moved into the commercial centre of the city and blocked a street to the Montefiore Jewish quarter, where an Arab truck bomb damaged some 40 homes last night.

Haifa went through another night of terror.

A British armored car blasted Jewish and Arab posts in the Tel Aviv-Jaff borderland, in an effort to break up mortar and machine gun duels there.

Mortar shells ripped into the wall around Jaffa's Hassan Bey mosque.

Claims Men Don't Trust Selves Now Buying Clothes, Women Do Selecting

By RADER WINGET

New York, March 24 — (AP)—A man still wears the pants in New York, but a woman buys them for him.

It's a post-war trend. Men don't trust themselves nowadays. They bring their wives along when they buy a suit of clothes.

An alarming thing—that's what a number of salesmen think about it.

. . Says one:

"A man comes into my store alone. He wants a suit, he looks at it, he likes it, he buys it. If he doesn't like it, he walks out. But when he brings a woman in, she starts an argument. Even when she doesn't want it, she argues.

"Before the war, 25 per cent of the men brought women in here with them when they bought clothes. Today, women do 60 per cent of the selecting. And sometimes they don't even have the man with them."

There is evidence this movement may be spreading. Louis Rothschild of Washington, executive director of the National Association of Retail Clothiers and Furnishers, cautiously indicated his organization recognized the development.

The Association recommends its members make their stores pleasing to women. "It is a problem to make a man's store masculine," he says, "but at the same time keep it attractive to women."

One store manager, who does not wish to be named for fear of reprisals from his wife, is blunt about it. Says he:

"We should keep them out. Women, that is. Women think men are better dressed when they select their suits. That's a woman's version. Men don't really look better dressed. Thank heavens, they still look like men.

"There are only three colors for men's suits — blue, brown and grey. But women even come in here and want a suit to match the color of their husband's eyes.

"Men don't have any confidence in themselves any more. But women are very, very confident in their selections of men's clothes. And their ego is beyond anything I can say to you."

SIGNING OF UN TRADE STRUCTURE 'MOMENTOUS' ACT

Trigve Lie Pays Tribute to Spirit of Compromise of Delegations

Havana, March 24 (Reuters)—Trygve Lie, secretary-general of the United Nations, described as a "momentous landmark" today's signing of the "final act" of the International Trade Organization.

In a message from Lake Success, read at the signing ceremony by David Owen, assistant secretary-general of the U.N. department of economic affairs, Lie paid tribute to the delegations "whose unflagging efforts and spirit of compromise have now resulted in what may in future come to be regarded as one of the most momentous landmarks in the history of International econimic co-operation. Mentioning the fruitless efforts of the League of Nations in this field, Lie said the achievement of Havana "stands in splendid contrast to the tragic failures of the years between the world wars.'

Though many countries were faced with immediate and overwhelming economic difficulties, they had been able to approach "long-term planning for the orderly development of international trade under normal circumstances" and had made provision for the period of transition.

Problems Interdependent

The conference had recognized the essntial interdependence of economic problems, and pointed out that a health international trade situation depended on reconstruction of the devastated areas, maintenance of full employment and economic progress in undeveloped areas.

"Though it may be some time before the charter is ratified, we are not standing still," Lie declared.

He mentioned negotiations between 23 of the greatest trading countries of a general agreement on tariffs and trade, and said the protocol for provisional application of the agreement had been signed by 10 — Australia, Belgium, Canada, Cuba, Czechoslovakia, France, Luxembourg, The Netherlands, Britain, and the United States.

Judge Anderson Explains Workings Of Juvenile Court

The objectives and advantages of a Juvenile Court in this district were outlined to members of the Kiwanis Club at their weekly luncheon at Kiwanis Centre on Tuesday by Judge J. C. Anderson in a comprehensive and concise manner. Major Ken Graham of the Salvation Army introduced the speaker and Kiwanis appreciation was expressed by A. B. Collins, K.C.

The speaker stated that Kiwanis Club and especially the one in this city was doing a grand work in the Kiwanis Centre and at Roblin Lake camp in moulding the future of the young boys and girls of this community but life is changing, he stating at the present time people are living in the atomic age and that the moral and mental age has not kept pace with the technical age. He claimed there was divided loyalty in the home and that many problems confront the youth of today that were not prevalent in years gone by. "Churches, Salvation Army, Scouts, are making their contribution to the change," said the speaker, "but there are those who want to find a further way to assist."

No Way to Deal With Boy

His Honor dealt with the question how the youth is looked after with respect to the criminal law if he is over the age of 12 years. "At present the boy must be tried under the criminal code," stated Judge Anderson "and he can be either given suspended sentence, fined or incarcerated in an institution." The speaker claimed this was no way to deal with a boy up to 18 years of age and suggested the Juvenile Court as the proper procedure. He stated 18 municipalities in the province now have Juvenile Courts and 10 have family courts. Organization of these courts come under the jurisdiction of the Federal government and with the establishment of a Juvenile Court any offence is laid under the Delinquency Act and the case can be dealt with informally.

Reports can be received from the Probation Officer, whom the speaker stated should be a highly-trained individual, evidence can be given by anyone interested in the boy's welfare and the rules of evidence are stretched as to give a full inquiry into the case before the court. There may also be appointed a Juvenile Court committee of interested persons, who can attend the court and take personal interest in the case. At the conclusion of the case the Juvenile Judge has power to place the boy in a home, send him back to his parents or give him in the care of the committee appointed. "The Judge has wide powers in the Juvenile Court," said the speaker.

Success Depends on Interest

The success of the court depends on the interest of people to see that the court functions properly, the committee appointed, the Probation Officer and the Judge. His Honor stated that the cost of such a court to this district would be approximately $6,000 yearly but this would be divided between the City of Belleville, County of Hastings and the Town of Trenton. He also explained that parents can be haled into the Juvenile Court if they allow acts of delinquency to happen and this also applies to individuals. Judge Anderson also suggested that if a Juvenile Court is established a psychiatrist be secured so that the family history of the boy or girl appearing can be traced, which would considerably help in the disposition of the case.

President Ted Schwab presided at the luncheon with Vic White as song leader and Phil Huddleston at the piano. Rev. Arthur Smith collected the fines.

'Y' Will Conduct Learn-to-Swim Class for Boys

The Y. M. C. A. will conduct a free Learn-to-Swim campaign for non-swimmers among the boys and girls of the elementary schools ten years of age and over, according to an announcement made today by Y M C A Board president John Deacon. The campaign will be conducted during the Easter vacation.

Burrill Morris of the Y M C A. athletic staff will supervise the campaign. Boys will attend instruction classes in the mornings with the girls attending in the afternoon. Through this campaign, the 'Y' hopes to reduce the number of swimming accidents which occur each summer when children are holidaying at beaches, camps and other resorts where swimming is available.

Commenting on the course today, Y M C A. general secretary Al. J. Davis remarked that the 'Y' does not suggest that a non-swimmer can become proficient in five one-half hour lessons, but success has attended the efforts of the 'Y' along similar lines elsewhere. "The knowledge of swimming fundamentals," the Y official said, "gives a boy or girl the right start, and with practice, he or she can perfect swimming ability on the right principles, at their own time."

The Y M C A. has brought the attention of parents to the campaign through a letter which each school pupil over ten years of age has been requested to take home. No boy or girl will be permitted to enroll on Monday, Mar. 29 at the Campbell Street building, who has not presented the signed permission of his parent to his school principal or teacher on the proper form provided.

Parents are urged to take advantage of this exceptional opportunity conducted by the YMCA for the benefit of their children through the co-operation of the schools.

Members of the Hi-Y Club, a Y M C A. organization of Collegiate Institute, under the supervision of Wilbur Countryman and Harold Cameron, will assist in the campaign.

Receiving second class honors or from 60-74 per cent were E. W. Fleming, of Ivanhoe, 71.2 per cent; R. D. Lyon, Corbyville, 69.4 per cent; A. J. Heagle, Harold, 69.3, and E. L. Kellar, West Huntingdon, 64.7 per cent.

Prize Spruce Tree Cut From Lot, Reward Offered

Disappearance of one spruce tree from a 100 acre woodlot may not be very noticeable but when the tree is taken from a group which have been planted with painstaking care to attain the required landscaping effect, then that is quite a different matter.

This is just the state of affairs discovered by Jamieson Bone of this city who this week visited his summer home west of the Country Club on the Trent Road, only to discover that during the winter some person had taken the trouble to chop down one of his prize spruce trees. The tree apparently had been cut by some party for use as a Christmas tree.

In any event Mr. Bone disapproves strongly of the act and is offering a reward of $25 for information leading to the identity of the person or persons responsible.

IN MEMORIAM

KELLEHER—In loving memory of a dear son, Jack Edward, (Joe) Kelleher, who was killed in Germany, March 24th., 1945.

He lies in far off Holland, his faithful battle done.
He did not live to see, his heartfelt freedom won.
But those of us who hold him dear,
In our hearts shall pray,
And keep his sacred memory at the price he had to pay.
Gone our loved one, gone to rest.
Ever remembered by mother, dad and brother Allan. M24

BARLOW—In loving memory of Martha, wife of James Barlow, who passed away, March 24th., 1945.

Three years have passed and gone,
Since one we loved so well,
Was taken from our home on earth,
With Jesus Christ to dwell.
The flowers we placed upon her grave,
May wither and decay,
But the love for her who sleeps beneath,
Shall never fade away.
Husband and family. M24

KELLEHER—In loving memory of Jack Edward Kelleher, who was killed in Germany, March 24th., 1945.

Till memory fades and life departs,

Prices Bd. Refuses To Lift Import Vegetable Ceiling

Ottawa, March 24—(CP)—The Canadian Fruit Wholesalers' Association, representing 95 per cent of Canadian fruit and vegetable importers, announced today it could no longer import cabbages and carrots from the United States at present ceiling prices.

Cost of the two vegetables, which have been exempted from the import ban placed on them last Nov. 17 under the government's dollar-saving program, has "reached a point where importations to sell within the ceiling are impossible and now will cease," the statement said.

Representations to the Finance Department's emergency import control division "brought the reply that no change will be made in the present policy and if imports under it are impossible, the public will simply have to do without them."

The statement also urged lifting of import restrictions on lettuce, celery, beets and spinach, which were selling at "abnormally low" prices in the U. S.

Commenting on the statement, Prices Board officials confirmed that the government is sticking to its present policy and said both carrots and cabbages now are in good supply.

Don't Blame Glands, Blame Overeating

Washington, March 24 — (AP) — If you weigh too much, don't look for fancy excuses, you eat too much, says Dr. Louis H. Newburgh of the University of Michigan Medical School.

All this high-sounding stuff about an overweight condition being caused by pituitary glands, the hypothalmus, the endocrine glands, brain defects or heredity — just big words, says Dr. Newburgh.

Years of extensive research, he says, have failed to find any logical cause for overweight except over-eating and under-exercise.

WOULD RAISE INCOME EXEMPTIONS

Woodstock, March 24 — (CP) — Oxford county council this morning endorsed a resolution from Grey county seeking to have income tax exemptions for single persons raised to $1,500 and those for married persons to $3,000.

Arctic Flights Are No Novelty For the R.C.A.F.

Winnipeg, March 24 (CP)—Mrs. Sam Dodds probably doesn't realize it, but when a Dakota aircraft skims to an icy landing at the polar outpost of Arctic Bay sometime today, weather permitting, to evacuate the seriously-ill woman to a Winnipeg hospital, it will be the furthest north that any R.C.A.F. plane using wheels has touched on a mercy flight.

A brief entry recording the landing will be made in the No. 11 group headquarters log of "Operation Dodds" when word of the arrival at Arctic Bay is flashed 2,000 miles south to Winnipeg. The entry merely will record the fact.

Arctic Bay, where Mrs. Dodds has been lying ill for the last four months, is located north of the magnetic pole. This means that ordinary compasses perform strange gyrations, rendering the work of the Dakota's navigator, FO. Don Evans of Winnipeg, extremely difficult.

Arctic flights are no novelty to the R.C.A.F., but officials said they can recall no other instance where an air force plane had landed so far north with wheels.

The operation started Monday, when the Dakota flew 600 miles from Winnipeg to Churchill, Man. Yesterday the second lap was completed, an additional 600 miles north to Coral Harbor on Southampton Island's southwestern tip.

From Coral Harbor to Arctic Bay is 800 miles. There 30-below temperatures now prevail, but the wind's lash is tempered somewhat by sheltering King George mountain, towering 5,000 feet above the little house where the meteorological officer's wife is sick.

Nearby is a trading post for nomad Eskimos and a mission house used when travelling missionaries visit the outpost shadowed by both magnetic and north poles.

Safe Easter for Children

Saturday is the worst day of the week for traffic accidents Ontario records show, and the Easter holidays which start when school closes this week are like a whole week of Saturdays to the children themselves, says Highways Minister G. H. Doucett.

Not only is every holiday like Saturday for these children, but Easter is a particularly bad time for traffic accidents because all of us use our cars more and more as winter relaxes its grip.

The year 1947 saw a record number of child fatalities, 132, despite the fact that there were actually fewer child injuries than in 1946. There was no improvement in the child accident picture until after the children went back to school in the fall, when the number of deaths and injuries from traffic accidents among school-age children then dropped 26 per cent below the same period of 1946.

The continuing safety-education work both in schools and among adults appears to be having some good results. Teachers in Ontario schools are to be commended for their continuing efforts to develop safe habits among children. Radio stations, newspapers and all persons who demonstrate an interest in traffic safety can feel that their efforts to promote safer driving and walking practices have not been in vain, says Mr. Doucett.

In 1947 accident records show 345 accidents occurred when children crossed streets at other than intersections; 310 children playing in the street were accident victims; 269 accidents happened to children running out from behind parked cars or other objects; 147 accidents involved children crossing highways and 141 were cases where children were crossing at intersections that had no signals.

These figures must warn every motorist: they tell him what to watch out for. When children are about, expect the unexpected. No matter how well a youngster has been taught, there are times when he is completely absorbed with his games or thoughts and forgets his safety lessons. Every motorist must take this into account and drive cautiously whenever and wherever children are present. This is especially applicable during the coming Easter holiday.

Figures are cold things. They cannot convey the story of the suffering and grief that follows when a child is killed or injured. Accidents that do not kill can still maim and cripple. Fractured skulls, brain concussions, broken backs and limbs, internal injuries are only a few of the horrible results when a motor vehicle strikes. The grief of parents and the drivers involved, the hospital and medical expenses, long absence from school, all contribute to the frightfulness of our accident facts.

Easter cannot be happy unless we are free of accidents. Will you please do everything you can to keep our roads and highways safe? the Minister asks. And the answer from all should be "Yes" in word and deed.

For Crippled Children

During this month the Ontario Society for Crippled Children has been appealing for support of the sale of Easter seals to help publicize the plight of Ontario's crippled children and raise funds for their aid.

Belleville Rotary Club is sponsoring the sale of these seals.

Last year the money raised in Ontario by this method made possible the extension of the society's services. The result was the increase of nurses on the staff from four to eight. These nurses are specially trained and help to organize clinics, discover crippled children who need treatment and arrange for transportation, hospitalization and other aids. This summer work will start on tanother camp in Eastern Ontario similar to the two now operated on Georgian Bay and near London, Ontario. About 350 crippled children will use these camps for vacation and training but there are hundreds more who cannot go because there is no room for them. These are but two forms of the work for these children provided by the Easter seal funds.

Cost of Risking Life

Tax-paying time reminds us forcefully of this fact. It costs a lot to live in this country of ours. But, on the other hand, we should remember that it costs an awful lot to risk life. Traffic accidents every year cost the people of this province millions of dollars! Think what those dollars spent for pain and grief would have meant in necessities and pleasures to the people who paid. And this financial cost of traffic accidents takes no account of the value of all the lives sacrificed needlessly — for that is beyond price. Just remember, money talks and it says we cannot afford to be careless.

Commemorative Stamps

Many inquiries from overseas have been received by Britain's Post Office about the issue dates of the three sets of commemorative postage stamps being produced this summer. All these special stamps are to be double standard size and prepared to designs approved by the Royal Fine Art Commission. The silver wedding of the King and Queen will be commemorated by two sets to be issued to the British public on April 26th. Two further sets will be released on May 10th, to commemorate the liberation of the Channel Islands. Four different stamps of varying value will mark the opening of the Olympic Games in July. They will be on sale on the day of the ceremonial opening of these international athletic contests by the King in London.

Just Keep Rolling Along

One of the remarkable things about the men in the Kremlin is their talent for silence. Mr. Truman speaks, and Mr. Attlee, and Secretary Marshall, and Mr. Bevin and Mr. Bidault; the gentlemen of the Politburo, or of the Cominform, behaving in the traditional methods of a secret society, don't say anything. Like the Mississippi, they just keep "rolling along."

Hitler was an articulate dictator; we heard him constantly in rage, in protest, in promises, invariably in lies. Who in the past year has heard a word from Stalin? Or in recent months from Molotov? Their commissars march steadily, make conquests in Romania, Hungary, Czechoslovakia; the Kremlin is silent. Mr. Truman, as President of the United States, as ruler of the world's mightiest military power, accuses the Soviet of bad faith, of threatening world peace. No answer from Mr. Stalin, or even from Molotov. Only a few words from the Moscow radio.—Ottawa Journal.

Motorists, watch out for children! Not just in towns but also out on the highways and rural roads. There are thousands of youngsters riding buses daily between their schools and their homes. Watch out for children on the streets and roads, and give them the right of way—for life.

Life expectancy has been stretched out by improved nutrition and medical care and then we spoil the whole thing with accidental, sudden and violent deaths. The accident rate is the bad figure now, says Farmer's Advocate.

The glory of ancestors sheds a light around posterity; it allows neither their good or bad qualities to remain in obscurity.—Sallust.

JUST FOLKS

THE HUMAN STORY

We eat and we drink and we laugh and we weep,
Whether the raiment be costly or cheap,
And when the night comes we drop off to sleep.

We hope and we dream and we work
through the day,
We have loved ones to care for and precious are they,
And we grieve when a dear one is taken away.

Oh little it matters—the stuff that's possessed,
Or rich man or poor man, the least or
the best,
With skill or without, there's a heart
in each breast.

Some come into fortune, some rise up to fame;
Some are never permitted much treasure to claim.
But the sorrows and joys of all hearts are the same.

Does the House of Representatives have a permanent Speaker pro tempore?

The Federal Constitution specifically provides that the Senate shall choose a President pro tempore to preside in the absence of the Vice President, but of the other branch of the national legislature it provides simply that "the House of Representatives shall choose their Speaker and other officers."

House Rule 1, Section 7 is as follows:

"He (the Speaker) shall have the right to name any member to perform the duties of the Chair, but such substitutes shall not extend beyond three legislative days; Provided, however, That in case of illness, he may make such appointment for a period not exceeding ten days, with the approval of the House at the time the same is made; and in his absence and omission to make such appointment, the House shall proceed to elect a Speaker pro tempore to act during his absence."

Soviet Ambassador Says Czech Coup Internal Affair

New York, March 24 (AP) — Alexander S. Panyushkin, Soviet Ambassador to the United States, said last night that the recent Communist coup in Czechoslovakia was an "internal affair" made in accordance with the constitution of the Czech Republic.

"It was in these changes that the will of the Czechoslovak people for freedom, independence and democracy found its reflection," the youthful envoy said.

Panyushkin, making his first major speech in the United States, spoke at a dinner given by the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship.

Another speaker, United States Senator Glen H. Taylor of Idaho, told the Russian Ambassador that a "small clique in our country" is spearheading the struggle against needed economic and social changes.

Taylor, vice-presidential candidate on Henry A. Wallace's third-party ticket, declared that the "forces of reaction" appear willing to turn over to Russia the fight for the common man.

Minister's Wife Raped, Viciously Beaten to Death

Wells, Nev., March 24. (AP)—Mrs. Richard Morning, 22, pretty wife of a Presbyterian minister, was raped and viciously bludgeoned to death with a rolling pin by an itinerant who asked for food police said yesterday.

Rev. Richard Morning, 27, found the body of his wife about midnight on his return home from nearby Montello. Her hands and legs were tied to her bed with electric cord .A towel was fastened tightly around her throat. A sheet was wrapped around her head. Medical examination showed the woman was pregnant.

The Morning's eight-months-old son was on the bed beside his mother. He was unharmed.

The man evidently went to Mrs Morning's home and asked for food. Mrs. Morning packed a lunch—found on the kitchen table—before she was raped and finally beaten to death.

Her husband had gone to Montello, 20 miles east, for Sunday night church services. He stayed over to preach again Monday night.

Montreal Cellar Reveals Ancient Aussie Journal

By W. R. WHEATLEY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Montreal, March 24 — (CP) — The advertisement outdid itself in proclaiming the wonderful properties of kerosene— "the nearest approach to gas yet discovered; cheaper than candles; no smell and no smoke."

Nobody cared a hoot about a power shortage or even knew what it is to flick a switch and immediately flood a room with light.

You could buy the magic kerosene, along with "lamps, shades, chimneys and wicks" from the Ovens Hardware Company's stores The advertisement boldly and exultantly said so. It appeared in The Ovens and Mercury Advertiser of Tuesday, May 26, 1863.

Things were a lot different 85 years ago in Australia — or anywhere else, for that matter. The paper was published in Beechworth, Victoria, every Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday.

A copy of that ancient issue recently came to light in Montreal when John C. Coleman, building engineer, found it in a mass of rubbish in a dark corner of a basement.

The paper itself was remarkably well preserved. It was of tough lasting texture, heavier than the ordinary newsprint of today. There was no age-telling yellow, only a few tears in the almost unblemished whiteness.

The ads covered a wide range — from groceries to fruit trees, from iron and brass castings to flour mills. Physicians, lawyers, blacksmiths and butchers made their bid in print for patronage. Mail coach lines advertised schedules and rates.

Horses and Corpses

There was the front-page ad of a Dr. Hallett, "proprietor of a private lying-in establishment for respectable married women." R. McLachlin, a "furnishing undertaker", told the public he had a "new hearse, suitable for one or two horses, always ready." Nothing was said of the suitability of the hearse for corpses.

The Blackwall Line told of its "packets for London direct." "To sail positively on Tuesday, June 23rd. The favorite passenger ship Rosborough Castle, 122 tons, A-1 at Lloyd's, C. Linsdale, commander. Passage money 16 pounds and upwards…"

There was local news about mining — a promising new reef; fire brigade drill; a coming plowing match for which "the start will take place by gunfire at 10 o'clock on that eventful morning."

Melbourne news, "by electric telegraph," wasn't so hot but from Sydney, also by electric telegraph, came more interesting and more reader-enticing news: "The government offers a reward of £100 ($322) for information that will lead to the apprehension and conviction of the incendiary or incendiaries who set fire to the ship Medway on Friday morning last." But no story about the ship fire.

Advertisements cluttered up the whole front page and were liberally sprinkled throughout other pages of the four-page issue, published by "Richard Warren, sole proprietor." There were seven columns to a page.

There was a touch of Canada in one of the obituaries — a two-and-a-half-column affair. It was the sad news eoh , the sad report of the death of Alexander Keefer, who was believed to have been born in Quebec in 1824. The gentleman at one time sat in the legislature "as member for Ovens."

Geographically speaking, the obituary added this bit of illuminating information about the departed Mr. Keefer: He practised law "in Toronto, Canada West."

NEXT TO MASHED POTATO

Yes, writes a New England reader, it is possible to roast beef by Miss Davis's slow method so that it will be well done. If your boss tries it she will never go back to the old method. The meat is so tender and juicy.

My guests were very complimentary. The only thing I could find wrong with it was that it seemed too well done. I like a roast very rare. In your column you said you couldn't believe meat would cook at a temperature of only 140°F.—by remember your correspondent cooked it at that temperature for from 24 to 36 hours, as Adelle Davis advises in Let's Cook it Right (Harcourt Brace). If you prefer a roast well done set your oven at around 165°F. and roast as Miss Davis directs on p. 80 of her marvelous cook book. (Mrs. P. J. R.)

A California reader echoes my approval of Let's Cook it Right but wonders why I speak disparagingly of people "who think the uncooked white of egg disagrees with them", when Miss Davis explains in the book exactly why the raw white of egg is injurious. (Mrs. P. G. A.)

If raw egg white composes a large part of the diet of an animal the animal or chick develops a typical dermatitis or pellagra-like condition and may die if the raw egg white diet is not supplemented. This is biotin deficiency biotin being vitamin or vitamin-like substance present in milk, egg yolk, spinach, cabbage, dried yeast, liver. A specific protein present in raw egg white seems to react with biotin and render it unavailable to the animal. Cooking destroys the avidin in egg white. This need not concern any one who uses raw egg white occasionally or even regularly as part of a general diet.

Cooked egg white is more readily and more completely digested than raw egg white, so that aside from the fact that it may be easier to drink raw egg white than it is to eat cooked egg white, if one is extremely prostrated or without appetite, the popular notion that raw egg is strengthening in any peculiar way is wrong. Cooked egg, cooked as the individual prefers, is preferable—provided the individual eats it.

Eggs having white or light colored shells are no better, no more nourishing, than eggs having brown or dark colored shells.

The proteins of egg, in the white as well as the yolk, are of the best quality, biologically complete, contain all of the amino-acids required for good nutrition, and so if the diet includes eggs it will be entirely adequate to maintain health even though it includes no meat at all. Eggs rank second only to milk as suitable food for a growing animal—or child. Owing to the richness of the yolk in iron, egg is an ideal adjunct to milk in the diet of the child or the diet of an invalid recuperating from illness; milk alone does not supply enough iron. Further egg yolk is an excellent source of vitamin D in the diet of the growing child or youth.

Not only fresh eggs, but dried powdered egg, cold storage eggs, water glass preserved eggs and frozen eggs, are all excellent foods or adjuncts in the everyday diet. Of course fresh eggs top the list in palatability and in vitamin strength—that is, there is more or less loss of vitamins with storage.

Western Power Commanders Say They Are Staying

Berlin, March 24 (AP)—If the Russians are trying to force the United States, Britain and France to get out of Berlin, they have a scrap on their hands.

The western power commanders say they are staying. More than that, they have put the pressure on the Russians to find out exactly what the Soviet boycott of for-power German governing machinery does mean.

Germans here interpreted yesterday's White House announcement that the United States army would continue indefinitely its occupation of the American zone as full backing for Gen. Lucius D. Clay's determination to keep United States forces in Berlin, which is in the heart of the Russian zone.

Short of war, then, there appears little the Russians can do to throw the western powers out of Berlin, despite the tirades in the Communist-controlled press.

The stakes and prestige involved in Berlin are so great none of the western big three can afford to bandon them.

They have given their word, publicly and privately, to the Germans and to the world that they will stay in Berlin, come what may.

In Berlin each of the big three have thousands of their nationals.

Would Shake Prestige

The spectacle of these thousands moving out of Berlin with their belongings because of Soviet pressure would shake western prestige from one end of Europe to the other.

It would make it virtually impossible for the big three to find sound German support in western Germany. Germans would see in the abandoning of Berlin the first move to leave all of Germany to Russia. They would act accordingly.

There is no doubt that the Soviet Union finds Allied presence in Berlin an irritating island in the Red Sea of Communist tranquility stretching from Finland to Albania.

Last week left and right-wing political parties held an anti-Communist rally within 50 yards of the Soviet sector of the city. Speaker after speaker denounced police-controlled eastern Germany.

It has become obvious that Soviet officials and Communist leaders find these situations irritating, if not intolerable.

'Happy Employees' Are Created By Proper Industrial Relations Committee Says Rotary Speaker

The importance of an Industrial Relations committee in modern manufacturing plants, which creates "happy employees" and insures fair play, was the theme of an informative classification address given the Rotary Club on Monday by Rotarian Brewer Hunt, manager of the Electronics Division of the Northern Electric Company here.

Industrial Relations, he pointed out, was the most important function of industrial management. The Northern Electric Company had set up an elaborate organization eight years ago which consisted of a staff group co-ordinating all the divisions of the company. The functions of the group had resulted in happy employees and insured fair play, but in turn, the company expected a fair day's work from employees.

The normal recourse of a complaining employee is through his immediate superior. Mr. Hunt pointed out, but with his company an employee can "channel" himself directly through to the president's office, which is a rare incident.

Tells of Work

The speaker related the work of his company's Industrial Relations Committee with regard to recent happenings here. Employees of his firm had been moved here from Montreal and had become disgruntled because of lack of accommodation. Of 223 employees brought here, over 100 have secured housing. Single employees are met at the station, escorted to hotels and made comfortable. This gives them a new viewpoint of not only the company but of Belleville as well.

"His company," the speaker said, "did not encourage employees to come to Belleville unless they can finance themselves properly. The financial position of every employee is known to members of the Industrial Relations Committee, and unless the employees can take care of himself and family and properly finance anything he may have in mind, he is not advised to come here.

Will Employ 800 Persons

It is the sincere desire of his company, Rotarian Hunt told his fellow clubmen, to not only create an Industrial Relations Committee here but also public relations. He hoped interference with other companies here would be brought to a minimum.

Speaking on production and personnel, the speaker stated that eventually his company would employ in the neighborhood of 800 persons. In the Water Street plant upwards of 400 people are now employed in light assembly work. In the new plant over 100 are now employed, the majority being office staff. The leased Water Street premises and the new plant will embrace approximately 160,000 square feet.

He outlined the many products being manufactured by his company from large radio towers to wire "as thin as a hair." "If anything is needed in radio, we make it."

The speaker was introduced by Rotarian Gilbert Scott, manager of the American Optical Ltd., Canada, while club thanks were expressed by Rotarian Fred Deacon.

Says Communist Flag Sent to Hungary

Hamilton, March 24 —(CP)— The Hamilton Spectator said today that a Communist flag has been forwarded to the Communist party of the Belapalfalvar district of Hungary, purchased through a fund which originated in Brantford. A second flag, for which subscriptions now are sought here, is expected to leave here in time for the Hungarian centennial celebrations this summer.

The paper said its informants substantiated their story with letters postmarked in Brantford and Hamilton.

A TRIBUTE

The following poem is given as an ever loving and grateful tribute to Major Ivan Harold Martin, D.S.C. (American) and all his gallant comrades who sleep with him "between the crosses row on row" on the Caen-Falaise line or anywhere "Over There".

"Like unto Thee, O Christ, the crucified,
Are they who for the Cause of Freedom died—
The Flower of Youth, the fearless and the brave,
To quelch the Power of Sin their lives they gave—
They are not dead—they live!
But at Thy side—
Like unto Thee, O Christ, the Glorified."

Dad, Mother and Sister Ruth.

Moderator Addresses St. Peter's Congregation

Wooler—On Sunday evening the congregation of St. Peters Presbyterian Church, Madoc, listened to a very inspiring sermon by the Very Rev. C. H. McDonald, Moderator of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in Canada. The minister, Rev. M. W. Heslip, had charge of the service and introduced the guest preacher. Following the service a "Fireside Hour" was held at "The Manse" where the members and friends had the pleasure of meeting the Moderator, during a social hour.

Passion Play Film Carries Easter Message

The Belleville public has been given the enviable opportunity of seeing the world famous "Passion Play" produced in Europe with dialogue in English, depicting outstanding events in the life, crucifixion and resurrection of Jesus, "who is called Christ."

This screen version of the historical drama present in so many minds at this season of the year was presented in the auditorium of the Belleville Collegiate and Vocational School, Tuesday afternoon and evening; the afternoon showing at four o'clock being for the benefit of the scholars of the B.C.I.V.S. and for the older pupils of the senior public school grades, while the evening program was for the general public.

The "Life of Christ" a veritable treasured heritage of all nations, was artistically and realistically portrayed in the production, "Golgotha," carrying to all Christian people a message of hope for the world of today, in the dramatic presentation of the Easter message of the resurrection.

The events Christians now commemorate in "Passion Week" from the exultant waving of palm branches, through the scenes in Gethsemane Garden, Peter's denial, the accusation before Pilate and his verdict, 'I find no fault in this man,' the mock trial before Herod, the mob scenes, (which could easily be repeated in the history of today) the cross on Golgotha and the storm which rent in twain the temple curtain, the new tomb, the resurrection and the re-appearance of the Lord to His disciples, followed each other in suspense-filled sequence, which should be a helpful preparation for the devout celebration of Easter by all who saw the cinema.

Point Traverse

Construction Co. To Remove Gravel From Local Harbor

Point Traverse, March 24 — The H. J. McFarland Construction Co., Picton, has been awarded the contract to remove several thousand cubic yards of gravel from the entrance of the Point Traverse harbor.

Equipment, including a drag line shovel and bulldozer, arrived here on Tuesday and work will commence on deepening the entrance at the harbor.

To what extent, or how much material will be removed from the channel itself, is not ascertained.

The washed gravel taken from the harbor will be loaded into trucks and placed on South Marysburg township roads.

Deepening of the channel will facilitate commercial fishing craft to ply from this fishing colony with greater safety.

The harbor was deepened in 1921, 1934 and 1942, but since then the channel and entrance has filled in with gravel considerably and now has a very shallow depth of water.

First Catch Taken

McIntosh Brothers, gill net fishermen, took the first catch of fish of the season from South Bay waters on Monday. Their nets produced about 400 pounds of whitefish.

This harbor is now open and other fishing craft have been launched.

Ivanhoe

Rev. C.H. MacDonald Speaks to Hastings Ministerial Assoc.

Ivanhoe, (Special.)—The Right Rev. C. H. MacDonald, moderator of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in Canada was guest speaker at a Service of Witness on Monday evening, in Foxboro United Church, under the auspices of the Central Hastings Ministerial Association. The service was in charge of Rev. J. F. Everson, of Ivanhoe, president of the Association who following the Recessional hymn "All Hail the Power of Jesus' Name" gave the Call to Worship and led the reading of the Prayer of Confession. The President expressed the thanks of the Association to the united choirs of Foxboro United and Foxboro Presbyterian congregations for their assistance, also to the soloist whose number was much appreciated, also to the moderator for his very helpful sermon on prayer, based on the daily practice of Jesus who never allowed any engagement or interest to interfere with his morning or evening devotional period. Mr. MacDonald said, 'every person needs a quiet morning hour that he may be prepared for the work of the day and he needs an evening quiet hour that he may review the work of the day, calculate his progress and thank God for His unfailing and continual help.'

Rev. C. C. Brazill, Stirling, led in the recitation of the Apostles Creed and said the Prayers. Rev. W. H. V. Walker, Stirling, for six years a college chum of the moderator very capably introduced his friend. Rev. A. L. Shorten, secretary of the Ministerial Association and minister of the Service of Witness church led in the reading of the responsive psalm, 130; extended greetings and announced the second hymn. The Moderator offered the closing prayer and announced the recessional hymn, "Lead on O King Eternal". Other hymns used were "When I survey the Wondrous Cross", and "Jesus Keep Me Near the Cross".

In the audience were ministers and friends from Cannifton, Tweed, Frankford, Madoc, Springbrook, Marmora, Stirling and Ivanhoe. At the close of the service the ladies of Foxboro served dainty refreshments to the choirs and to the friends who came from outside points.

REPORT DENIED

Paris, March 22. (CP)— The Foreign Office today denied reports appearing in the French Press that Georges Bidault and Ernest Bevin would visit the United States next month.

The Foreign Office denial followed earlier reports, attributed to official quarters, that the French Foreign Minister would be accompanied by Britain's Foreign Secretary to confer with State Secretary Marshall in April.

Consumer Among Those Helped By Price Jump

Ottawa, March 24 (CP)—Newest twist in the government's butter-price investigation is evidence that the consumer was among those helped by the price jump of recent months.

This slant was advanced before the Commons Price Committee yesterday but a butter dealer, whose claim was that higher prices favored the consumer because they made more butter available for him to buy.

This testimony—by William R. Aird of Montreal, President of Dominion Dairies, Ltd.—rounded out the list of those supposed to have benefited from the price rise. On the basis of Mr. Aird's and earlier testimony, it would include everyone who handled butter, all the way from the pasture to the table. Some skepticism over the purported all-around benefits was shown by William Irvine (C. C. F.-Cariboo). If that were the case, he said, then "we're wasting our time here."

Mr. Aird also gave the committe evidence that between last June and December price of butterfat went up the equivalent of 18.3 cents a pound, while the price of butter was rising 16.9 cents.

The dairyman — whose chief business is in fluid milk distribution—said his company generally lost money on butter, which it marketed as a convenience for its milk-route customers. But it had made a profit of 1.31 cents a pound on butter in the nine months up to the end of last year.

Mr. Aird was still on the witness stand when the committee rose last evening for the parliamentary Easter recess, and he was to be recalled when it reconvened April 5.

Scheduled to follow him were witnesses for the Silverwood Dairy Company and the Swift-Canadian Company, a meat-packing concern and a larger handler of butter.

DESERTED PUPPIES THRIVE

Pasadena, Calif., March 24 — (AP) — Six deserted puppies are thriving today with their "wooden mother."

It's a rack designed by Mrs. Peggy McGarvin of the Humane Society, who frequently had trouble finding foster mothers for pups whose canine parent died or deserted them while lunch time was still an extremely important business.

The rack holds six nippled nursing bottles at just the right angle. The present batch of setter-shepherd puppies have discovered that it delivers milk with practically natural facility.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

You Can't Solve a Problem Without Facing the Facts

There is nothing new in saying that the first step toward solving any kind of problem is to face the facts. But, old as it is, this elemental truth can hardly be stated too often, or too emphatically.

For however, well we all know it, and however readily we admit it as a general proposition, when it gets right down to a specific problem of our own most of us will duck and dodge and run around every possible corner in order to evade meeting facts face to face.

A case in point is the position taken by one of my male correspondents in regard to his wife's drinking.

"Your recent article regarding a 'Drunken Husband' was very interesting," he writes, "and the writer, being a father and husband on the other side of the fence, would like your advice on a 'Drunken Wife'.

"We have been married about 25 years, have a family of three very fine children, two girls and a boy. Up to the last three years, everything has been very satisfactory, and no one could have asked for a finer or more peaceful home. But for some unknown reason, the wife and mother has seen fit to make the sherry bottle her boon companion, and has been inebriated practically every day and night."

Things have become so bad, this husband goes on to say, that the younger daughter, still in school, is obliged to take her books to a neighbor's in the evening, since the turmoil created by her mother makes it impossible for her to do any studying at home. The noise and abuse goes on all night, preventing the rest of the family from getting the sleep they need; then, when husband and children are out of the house, the mother spends the day sleeping off her drunk and getting ready to start things all over again the next evening.

"We all love Mother very much," the husband writes, "and have tried to help her in many ways. But she is adamant, arbitrary, and thinks everyone else is a drunkard but herself."

Having drawn such a picture, in which he presents what are no doubt the very stark and grim facts of the situation, this man then proceeds to do some quite astonishing fact-dodging.

"We have attended several AA (Alcoholics Anonymous) meetings," he says, "but they are all worse than she ever was, and she should not be classed as an alcoholic."

Now it may be true that his wife has not yet deteriorated to the point of physical, mental and moral disintegration reached by some alcoholics. But everything her husband writes about her behavior stamps her unmistakably as one, and he is simply trying to fool himself when he refuses to admit and accept that fact.

"I feel that our home is breaking up," his letter concludes, "and neither a mother nor a father should ruin the pleasant relations that have existed for so many years just because they want to be drunk and make life miserable for others. What is your suggestion?"

Well, my first suggstion is that however unpalatable it may be, this husband face the truth. that his wife is an alcoholic and that an alcoholic can be cured only when he or she wants to be.

My second suggestion is that he have a personal talk with some individual member of Alcoholics Anonymous who would be in a position to give him some practical advice on how to handle his wife and help her to realization of her condition and what she can do about it. I have the name and address of such an AA member in his own general vicinity who could, I am sure, give him this kind of advice. I will be glad to send him this information if he would like to have me do so and will let me know where I can address him.

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMESON

Strive for the swelte silhouette

This is the season of the year when one must keep a weather eye on the bathroom scales. It won't do to settle down cozily, dig in until Spring and get little exercise. What if the rain is falling? You don't want to be a house plant. Put on your seven league boots and beat it out into the fresh air. A brisk walk is better than the indoor calisthenics of which many women have a horror. That is why the limousine spread is all around us. Without exercise you will lose complexion coloring. That ought to scare any woman into doing something.

Activity is a law of life. The boss of the menage will tell you that she is busy all the day long. True enough. She is working. And her mind is on her work. She needs to get out ano hoof it to refresh her mind as well as her body. Woman's place is in the home all right, but if she stays there all the time she is likely to get morbid, carry the "what's the use?" look that will not make for happiness and gaiety in the family circle.

Health is the big factor; without it good-looks will disappear. To be healthy and strong one must have exercise out of doors.

It is a sad thing when a good-looking woman loses her figure. There are millions of them. The waist thickens, breasts droop and go flabby, hips take on the outline of the spreading chestnut tree. You see swarms of them in stores devoted to clothes for "stylish stouts".

They need not have taken on those adipose panniers. A little knowledge along the lines of physical education earlier in life would have prevented all that. The very day that a woman is aware of the fact that her clothes won't zip, that last year's dresses must be let out, she should get active. Why not work to hang onto the girlish shape? Surely it is worth a little effort.

One must close one's eyes to fattening foods—cream, butter, pastries, fried foods, candy—and jack up the old backbone. Poor posture means that muscles suffer from a state of inertia and weakness. Then along come the little fat cells, increasing in numbers. The middle-aged figure develops.

Oftener than not, what is considered fat amidships is nothing more than slack muscles which,

If last year's dresses must be let out she should get active if correct posture had been maintained, would never have lost tone and resiliency.

It is the Eloquent Face that Wins

In the estimation of your good-haughty beauty has little more appeal than a flu germ. She should wear a corsage of touch-me-nots, retire to the back line of the chorus.

The feminine countenance that is most attractive is the one that is eloquent. It speaks without saying a word. Eyes sparkle with animation that bespeaks courage, self reliance. cheerfulness. Lip-ends are lifted and stay that way. The head is carried regally. You recognize that mysterious something that we call personality.

When you meet a woman of this type you want to know her better. At a single glance you realize that she is interesting, that she would be a wonderful friend. She has no good-looks disability because of her charm. Invariably this type of woman has a voice that is mellow and full of soft cadences. The secret? She has, all her life long, been a student of the art of living.

Any woman can make the grade if her face is beautifully expressive. If she has anatomical defects, if her hair isn't as luxuriant as it was in her young days, it does not matter. Nobody notices.

We have all met the woman with the refrigerated countenance. We have all run away from her as soon as the opportunity offered itself. She is critical, overbearing, suspicious, sometimes rude. These characteristics are stamped on her, not only on her face but in the stiff manner in which she carries herself. Her graven image tells you all you want to know about her. She is crabby in the family circle, a bore to her acquaintances. And she wonders why nobody ever expresses affection for her.

Some faces are as interesting to watch as a scene from an absorbing drama. Their emotions and intellectual reactions are registered in fleeting lights and shadows. Their eyes never go shifting off into a space when you are talking. Those who possess these faces are responsive. And —don't ever forget it — responsiveness is the key to charm and popularity.

If you would have an eloquent face — and who wouldn't — keep in mind one important law; the fibers must move upward, never down. The upward curve of eyebrows, eyelids and lip - ends are lines that express interest and pleasure.

Look at a selfish, petulant woman. Her weakness of character has been registered on her face so long that tissues have lost tone and dragging lines have formed.

The human face is ever in the making or the unmaking. It can even become more beautiful yith the years. What are you doing to yours?

DESIGNED for those who demand something different is the meticulously tailored classic suit in fine tweed in pastel tones. Shoulders are narrower, but padded; waistline is slim and the jacket is padded at the hips to stand away from the figure. Beautiful in a small herringbone tweed in shades of blue and pale rose.

GROWING IN popularity is the fur stole. Something different is a long, wide, quite spectacular stole of pure black fox, the skins divided by strips of red velvet. Another model, in silver fox, has strips of brilliant sapphire blue velvet.

QUEEN OF COATS for Easter will be the elegant town coat — fitted, suave and beautifully detailed. Fine tweed—in creamy beige nubbed with brown and white—is used for a handsome coat, fitted in front, with back fullness swinging from a shoulder yoke. Roll collar, dropped shoulder and heavy seams rounding the hips and flaring the skirt.

COLORFUL COBRA for shoes and bags, come Spring. The duet comes in pastels and in brilliant shades of pink, green, red, blue and the mauve gamut.

NEW LINES appear in lingerie. A slip of knit nylon tricot has net ruffles cascading at the hipline and a double net ruffle at the hemline, to give the skirt the proper full look.

BIG DOINGS for navy blue, back in all its Springtime glory, for day, for evening, for dress or casual wear. Navy crepe is used for a pretty little frock with high neck, molded bodice, and elbow-length sleeves. At the hemline of the eight-gore skirt is a petticoat ruffle of printed taffeta in green, yellow and white. Matching cummerbund of the printed silk.

THE FLOWER GARDEN look is sweeping the country, what with all the flowered hats. Tiny, close-clustered violets make a close-fitting little hood, the flowers framing the face. At the top centre is a cluster of little pink roses and buds. The hat is draped with sheer, pink-mauve veiling.

VERY USEFUL for the wardrobe that is on a budget is the interchangeable suit, such as the model that has a double-breasted jacket of navy and white checked woollen and a slim skirt of navy woollen. Grand as a suit, nice when worn separately, with other things.

GOOD MANNERS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Will you please clear up for me several questions of etiquette that are disturbing me? I am a widow, 28 years of age. Very soon I am taking a trip and will be staying in hotels in several cities. How should I sign the register? Should it be: (a) "Mrs. Richard A. Clark" or (b) "Mrs. Janet Clark" or (c) "(Mrs.) Janet Clark", or (d) Janet Clark? Because of my devotion and respect for my husband, I would very much like to keep my formal name, Mrs. Richard A. Clark, and to use it on every appropriate occasion. But I have been told that nowadays it is not correct for a widow to keep her husband's name. I had always thought that a widow kept her husband's name unless she remarried. Will you please tell me the correct form about this?

Also about wearing my rings, engagement and wedding. Should I continue to wear them on my left hand, as usual? I do enjoy dating occasionally, and I would of course, like to have it indicated in some way that I have been married. Someone has told me that it is not correct to wear the rings on my right hand. Will you please tell me what is correct about this, too?

J. C.

A widow shows perfect taste and perfect social judgment by (1) continuing to use her husband's name as she used it before his death, and (2) in continuing to wear the engagement and wedding ring he gave her, on "the" third finger of her left hand. So please, please follow your own correct feeling about these two points. . . .and don't be at all influenced by the Janie-come-latelys, who want you to drop your husband's name and use the "hick" form that follows the "Mrs." with a woman's first name. And please, please don't be persuaded not to wear your rings, or at least your wedding ring, on your left hand.

Sign a hotel register Mrs. Richard A. Clark, and continue to use this formal name on your visiting-card or Informals, in signing business telegrams, in giving your name for the sending of packages to yourself from stores, in writing your name and return address on envelopes, in giving your name for publication or for sponsorship on committees and so forth. (The signature on your letter to me is perfect form); (1) the direct signature, your informal name, Janet Smith Clark, and (2) underneath, in parentheses, your formal name (Mrs. Richard A. Clark).

Shower For Recently-Adopted Baby

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

(1) My sister and her husband have just adopted a 6-months-old baby. I would like to give a shower in her honor. Would this be in good taste, since the baby is an adopted child? (2) If I do give a shower, should I add a notation to the invitation saying that the baby is 6 months old? (3) Does the hostess at a baby shower give a gift?

(1) For you to give a shower for the adoptive mother and her adopted baby is a tenderly lovely plan. . .and indeed in good taste. (2) It would be a practical guide, for the gift-choosing, to give the baby's age . . . unless you are sure that all the guests know this. (3) Yes ,usually.

By Ruth Parsons

With meat prices what they are, it's no wonder housewives are wondering and worrying. To beat the man-size problem facing them, women on a budget turn naturally and wisely to cheaper cuts. She depends on 3 old favourites, Heinz 57 Sauce, Heinz Worcestershire Sauce, and Heinz Mustard, to add savoury taste and goodness to these cheaper meats. Sundridge Takes Marmora 11-5 In Opening Game

Unleashing a terrific five-goal third period offensive, "Bucko" MacDonald's Sundridge Beavers walloped the Marmora Millionaires champions of the Trent Valley League 11-5 in Memorial Arena here last night to take the first game of their Intermediate "B" series. The second game will be played in North Bay Saturday night.

Up to the point where the Beavers suddenly uncorked their successful bid for victory the game had been fairly even. Both teams playing hard clean hockey with the MacDonald-coached crew having a slight edge in territorial play, scored three times in the first period. Marmora broke the tie with a goal at the beginning of the second session but the visitors came back strong to fire home three markers in a row. The period score was 6-4.

The Hastings crew led by Loveless brought the count to 6-5 after seven minutes of play in the final period and the large crowd of village supporters saw visions of possible victory. Then the roof fell in. Paced by Lang and Wheeler, the Beavers roared to the offensive scoring five goals in a little over six minutes.

Sundridge could do little wrong in that last-period furious surge of goal-scoring hockey. Their plays clicked nicely and they raced in and around the Marmora defence to score pretty goals.

Wheeler, one of the Beaver stars opened the scoring in the first period taking Lang's pass to dent the twine about a minute after play had started. K. Trumble evened the count three minutes later as both teams started to open up. Play was close and hard and Lang again started the play that gave the visitors the lead a minute later. Cousins roared back to even the count but the Beavers again took the lead when Wheeler potted his second goal of the game only to have the count nullified when Cousins fired home his second marker of the period with 30 seconds to go to tie the count at three-all.

Cousins got his hat trick seven minutes after the second period started taking G. Leonard's pass to beat Hill in the Sundridge nets cleanly. Then the Beavers started to click and they opened up with a offensive that resulted in eight goals and ultimate victory. Kidd, Christie and MacDonald scored in succession in the third period to make the score 6-4. Loveless got his goal to open the third and from then on it was all Sundridge.

Wheeler, Lang, Sedore and MacDonald looked the best for the Beavers with Cousins, the Leonard brothers, Ken Trumble and Loveless stood out for the Trent Valley champions.

Ont. Govt. Plans to Replace Federal Amusement Tax With Similar Levy for Hospitals

Toronto, March 24 (CP) — The Ontario government plans to replace the present 20-per-cent federal amusement tax with a similar levy to raise money for hospital purposes. The provincial tax will go into effect as soon as the Dominion lifts its impost.

As legislation for imposition of the tax was introduced yesterday in the Ontario legislature, Provincial Treasurer Frost said revised provisions for hospital assistance if they become effective this year, will result in maintenance grants for all Ontario hospitals totalling $5,400,000 compared with $2,200,000 paid last year.

He estimated Toronto hospitals alone would receive $1,800,000 in place of $750,000 paid in 1947.

Mr. Frost said Finance Minister Abbott recently announced that the federal government intended to relinquish amusement tax.

"We have, at this moment, no intimation from the Dominion government as to when they may vacate this field. I point out, however, that it is in accordance with their announced policy and it would appear that the Dominion vacation of this field should not be too far removed."

The new legislation would not be proclaimed until such action was taken by the Dominion.

Mr. Frost emphasized that the hospital aid plan would go beyond providing for indigent patients. An effort would be made to relieve municipalities which had absorbed deficits of their local hospitals. The entire proceeds of the amusement tax would go into a fund to provide for hospital aid.

Aside from existing hospital grants, the new fund would provide a 135-per-cent increase in maintenance grants and would reduce municipal liabilities by applying a set rate to municipal hospital contributions.

Under the new schedule municipalities would be called upon to provide $3 a day for class 'A' hospitals, $2.50 a day for class 'B' and $2.25 a day for class 'C' institutions.

Mr. Frost said a provincial-municipal conference would be called this year to go into the problem of municipal taxation and sources of revenue and to seek the views of municipalities on the hospital problem.

Deaf Association Convention to Be Held in Winnipeg

Winnipeg, March 24 — (CP) — Any delegate knows that a convention will provide chatter, cameraderie — and noise.

Those attending a meeting to be held here June 29 — July 3 will be able to raise the roof, however, without disturbing their fellows. They are members of the Western Canada Association of the Deaf. Winnipeg will be host to their Silver Jubilee Convention.

Between 450 and 500 delegates, representing the United States, rural points and Canada's west and east coasts are exoected to attend. The group met in Winnipeg in 1941. In 1945 it gathered in Vancouver.

Persons blessed with normal hearing might conceive of such a meeting as being rather Spartan and stoic. But a glance at the program — so far as it has been arranged — dispels the idea.

A reception, picnic, banquet and dance have been arranged so far.

'But those in touch with the work say an interpreter will be on hand to put the utterances of speakers into "finger language" for the benefit of their deaf audiences. Some deaf speakers do their own interpreting.

The organizers of the gathering are mindful of the fact it represents a jubilee. Lieutenant - Governor R. F. McWilliams of Manitoba and Mayor Garnet Coulter of Winnipeg are among those expected to attend.

Accused Woman Says Husband Ill-Treated Her

Cochrane, Ont., March 24 — (CP)—The case of Clara Irene St. Cyr, charged with the axe-murder of her husband, Jerome, may go to the jury Thursday, it was indicated today.

As the trial opened yesterday, testimony included admission of a voluntary statement by the 32-year-old mother of six children in which she told of attacking her husband after continual ill-treatment at his hands. St. Cyr's bludgeoned body was found at their home March 4.

The court also heard 10 of 18 scheduled crown witnesses. Mrs. St. Cyr's statement charged her husband, a hardware company laborer, frequently beat her and committed indecent acts, and that he occasionally locked food in a trunk to keep her and the children from getting it.

On March 4, the statement added, St. Cyr became angry when he returned from work to find his noon meal was not ready. He went out, returned with several bottles of wine, became drunk and started to abuse his wife.

Mrs. St. Cyr claimed her husband tied her to a bed and committed an indecent act. Her eldest son freed her and she took an axe from the back porch and struck her husband.

U.S. Govt. Costs May be Increased By Three Billions

Washington, March 24—(AP)—The present state of world tension may add $3,000,000,000 to the cost of running the United States government next year.

Government analysts said today rearmament plans now being discussed could shoot the spending figure even higher — possibly $5,000,000,000 above President Truman's present $39,700,000,000 estimate.

Truman called budget director James E. Webb in yesterday to go over the situation with the chiefs of the armed forces. No official figures came out of the meeting. But it was clear that even a 10-per-cent boost in the budget would:

1. Just about wipe out the $4.800,000,000 surplus the president has estimated for the fiscal year starting July 1. That was based on holding spending at $39,700,000,000 and keeping taxes where they are now.

2. Give Truman a new argument for vetoing the $4,800,000,000 tax-cut measure scheduled to be put to him by Congress today. He could say such a reduction would put the government's finances back in the red and further increase the national debt.

3. Give business a boost just when there are signs of a levelling off or downturn.

Extras Apparent

Already several budget "extras" are apparent. More than $1,650,000,000 may be required to take care of universal military training and a temporary draft revival which Truman asked to back up the European recovery program.

E. R. P. costs already are counted in the budget, so is a $400,000,000 fund for the first-year of a U.M.T. program which Truman figured in January would later cost $2,000,000,000 a year.

But the $400,000,000 started for U. M. T. now looks small. Defence Secretary Forrestal said earlier this month that the first year's outlay would take $480,000,000 more than the budget estimate.

Expansion in men and planes now holds the spotlight. But there are reports of other projects such as a revised lend-lease to help arm potential allies at costs ranging up to $2,000,000,000.

Other extras in prospect include $160,000,000 more for foreign aid than was originally budgetted and at least $100,000,000 more for veterans' on-the-job training.

BULLETT LODGES NEAR BRAIN

Atlanta, March 24 (AP) — The prolonged nose bleeding of 16-year-old Robert Liggett mystified doctors here—until X-rays revealed a bullet lodged near his brain. Then Liggett admitted what he had been ashamed to tell before: That he had shot himself accidentally Sunday night. Doctors said no immediate efforts will be made to remove the slug.

REID ROBINSON, C.I.O. VICE PRES., HELD BY POLICE

Will Appear Before Immigration Officials on Alleged Communist Activities

Toronto, March 24 (CP)—Reid Robinson, eastern vice-president of the International Mine Mill and Smelter Workers Union (C. I.O.) was released today on $5,000 bail when an 'immigration board of inquiry adjourned hearing of a deportation order against him until 9:30 tomorrow.

The hearing was adjourned at Robinson's request after a half-hour session.

He was brought here yesterday from Timmins by Royal Canadian Mounted Police action on the direction of immigration officials to enforce the immigration act to forbid entry of alien Communists.

Robert Carlin, Canadian director on the union and C.C.F. member of the Ontario legislature for Sudbury, was present at today's session.

"We merely went through the formalities and then Robinson asked for the adjournment," said Mr. Adamson.

Members of the board, besides Mr. Adamson, are F.A. Smith of the Immigration Department, Ottawa, and C. W. Desmoreau, Toronto. Robinson is represented by Charles Dubin and John J. Robinette appears for the crown. The hearing is being held in camera.

Robinson has been in Northern Ontario since last October and his presence in this country has been the subject of questions in the House of Commons. He has been referred to by Senator Robert H. Taft, possible presidential candidate, as "one of the several U. S. communists who fled to Canada."

Senator Taft is co-author of the Taft-Hartley labor law which forbids communists to hold office in United States labor unions and continue to deal with government labor boards.

Robinson was quoted as saying he was going to stay in Canada until he was picked up by police and escorted to the border.

"They'll have to send the R. C. M. P. after me before I'll leave voluntarily," he said.

First Step in Purge

At Ottawa, it was pointed out that the action was the first step to expel American union officials with communist affiliations from Canada.

Robinson was detained under orders issued by the immigration branch of the Resources Department.

Immigration officials said that it was "reasonable to suppose" that similar action might be taken against other mine, mill and smelter workers officials suspected of communist affiliations.

They explained that Robinson's detention had been ordered under the policy laid down in the Commons on March 11 by External Affairs Minister St. Laurent who said that immigration officers had been directed to exclude communist labor officials.

Mr. St. Laurent said then that the government had reviewed the sections of the Immigration Act which would apply "to certain persons who could be described as known communists who were believed to be coming to Canada for the purpose of exercising here activities which under the Taft-Hartley law they can no longer exercise in the United States.

"The decision has been that the immigration officers are to be asked or directed to take the view that under the existing law and regulations such persons are not admissible to Canada," he said.

WILL BE BROADCAST

The Pope will give the blessing at noon (5 a.m. EST) Sunday.

Vatican short wave stations on 19.87 and 31.06 metres, and the long wave transmitter on 222 metres will carry the traditional "Nrbi et orbi" (for the city and for the world) message.

HITS NEW LOW

Los Angeles, March 24 (AP) — Purse snatching has hit a new low, hereabouts. Nine-year-old Mary Elizabeth Hunter had just been given her first dollar bill and was en route to a shopping district when a tall, husky man tore the little girl's purse from her grasp and ripped her dress before he fled.

CAPTURE ESCAPED "MAD" KILLERS

Melville Wilkie

Leo Cada

Police captured these two insane killers on Tuesday ending a reign of terror begun when they escaped from the mental hospital at Penetanguishene, Ont., several days ago. No details of the capture were available at this writing but it was believed the men had been arrested in the French-speaking village of Lafontaine. Police said they were being returned to the hospital from which they escaped.

Tourists to Britain Will be Able To Buy More Clothes and Gasoline

London, March 24 (CP)—Harold Wilson, president of the Board of Trade, disclosed today a plan to let foreign tourists spend their money for clothes in Britain without worrying about ration tickets.

Visitors also will get extra gasoline if they bring an automobile or buy a new one here to take home with them.

Both schemes become effective May 1 and will operate for an undefined experimental period as a test to see whether they will draw more tourists and whether the tourists will help Britain's export drive by exchanging and using more foreign currency here.

Voucher Books

Wilson said tourist voucher books allowing visitors to make six ration-free purchases of such articles as suits, dress fabrics or shoes if the tourist will present his foreign passport and convert enough of his own country's currency to equal £25.

"I a msatisfied," Wilson said, "that overseas visitors will in this way be able to buy reasonable quantities of the goods they want and that it will enable retail traders to make a contribution to the export drive."

The visitors still will have to pay a purchase tax, which ranges from 25 per cent on most clothing articles up to 125 per cent on highest grade fur coats.

If the six items aren't enough the tourist may use the personal export scheme under which a tailor will sell a garment free of both ration tickets and purchase tax if it is to be sent straight out of the country without passing through the buyer's hands.

A dozen clothing coupons — not quite half enough for a man's suit but enough for some dresses or a pair of shoes — will be issued to all overseas Olympic competitors, officials and their families.

1,000 Miles First Month

A tourist with a car may have enough gasoline for 1,000 miles of driving during the first month of his visit and 300 miles a month for the next two months.

There would be no special allowances for stays of longer than three months but the coupons would be valid up to six months from the date of arrival or purchase of a new car.

Welcoming Wilson's announcement of improved tourist facilities, an official of the British Travel Association said it would mean that visitors from dollar countries would be encouraged to spend their dollars in Britain rather than return home with dollars in their pockets.

Searchers Find Eight Bodies In Wrecked Plane

Woodland, Wash., March 24 — (AP)—The Washington State Patrol radioed from the scene of a crashed United States Air Force transport late last night that searchers had found eight bodies in the snow-blanketed mountains. Two others survived.

Two bodies were found by searchers at considerable distance from the shattered plane several hours after six others were located in and near the wreckage.

The six bodies and two survivors earlier had tentatively accounted for the eight men listed by the air force, but the search was continued after Maj. John B. Harding, pilot, reported 10 men were aboard the aircraft.

The last two bodies found were located by following tracks down a stream on the north slope of the mountain side where the plane struck.

The plane vanished Sunday during a torrential rain storm while approaching Portland for an instrument landing. It had left Fairfield-Suisun air base in California.

Both survivors are under treatment at Vancouver, Wash. They are Harding and Pte. John M. Belmonte.

They had crawled through the mountain snows to a logging cabin Monday, stayed there overnight and got the attention of loggers.

There was no immediate identification available for the two extra men aboard the craft.

Two Townships Vote Favorably On High School Areas

Ratepayers of Madoc, and Huntingdon townships last night voted unanimously for the establishment of a high school district in the second of the series of meetings being held in the county where the question is being discussed and ratepayers asked to vote on it.

Another meeting was held in Tweed where Elzivir and Hungerford ratepayers went solid for the proposed district school, but a sharp division of opinion was noted when Tweed ratepayers went to the "polls". A slight majority in favor of the establishment of the school district was recorded.

Reeve Harry Harrison, Thurlow, chairman of the Hastings County Educational Consultative Committee acted as chairman at both meetings. The advantages of the proposed district were outlined to the well-attended gatherings by High School Inspector S. D. Rendall, Toronto. Present at the Madoc meeting were Reeves Fred Moorecroft, Madoc township and Reeve Arthur Jones, Hungerford.

At the Tweed meeting Reeve Arthur McCarey of that village stated that the community could not afford to be without a district high school. Reeve Carmen Kleinsteuber Elzivir township and Deputy Reeve Harry Coulter, Hungerford declared themselves in favor of the scheme.

Public School Inspector R. H. Macklem, Consultative Committee Secretary was present at both meetings.

Meetings are being held today in Stirling and Deseronto and in Frankford on Thursday.

Would Consider Some Other Swap For Adriatic Port

Italy Will Likely Reject Further Offers of Trade

Rome, March 24 — (AP)—Yugoslavia backed out yesterday from an offer to trade Trieste for the Italian city of Borizia.

The Yugoslav foreign ministry voiced regret over the "apparent assumption abroad" that Yugoslavia would insist on obtaining Gorizia in exchange for Trieste.

At the same time, a ministry spokesman hinted that Yugoslavia might consider some other swap for the great Adriatic port now in free territory partially occupied by Yugoslavia.
